New York, May 25 [Special].—President Roosevelt will be licked in New York state if he runs against District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey as the Republican Presidential nominee because of the scandals uncovered by the young rackets-busting prosecutor, Dewey backers predict.

As proof of this claim Dewey supporters today presented an imposing roster of political and social friends of Mr. Roosevelt who have fallen into disgrace. In this rogue's gallery exposed by Dewey are Tammany Democratic bosses, judges, high state and city officials.

Because of this record of his pals and political stooges, Mr. Roosevelt will have little appetite for a campaign against the hard hitting prosecutor in his home state, Dewey's camp asserts.

J. J. Hines Tops List.

Topping the list is Tammany Leader James J. [Jimmy] Hines, the most influential single Democratic boss in New York City until Dewey obtained his conviction for complicity in the policy game racket. Under sentence of from four to eight years in prison, Hines is appealing the case to the court of appeals, highest judicial tribunal in the state.

Hines, a White House visitor on a number of occasions, was a Roosevelt man before the 1932 Democratic national convention at Chicago. For this timely aid he was royally rewarded. Hines became the principal dispenser of federal patronage in New York county after Mr. Roosevelt occupied the White House.

On election day Hines reciprocated. According to testimony at his two trials, Hines' underworld cronies helped bring in thumping majorities for Roosevelt.

Racketeers Election Workers.

Among the election workers were Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, gang leader and Hines' rackets partner, Richard [Dixie] Davis, Schultz's lawyer "mouthpiece" who recently completed his sentence for his part in the policy racket, the Weinberg brothers, Bo and George, Harry [The Horse] Schoenhaus and Lulu Rosencrantz, a Schultz killer. Racket money also was used for campaign expenses.

Magistrate Hulon Capshaw, bench tool of Hines in the fixing of policy cases and likewise a Roosevelt man, was ordered removed from office by the Appellate division of the Supreme court in a unanimous decision.

Another judge figuring in the Hines prosecution was Justice Ferdinand Pecora of the New York County Supreme court. Pecora, a Tammany hack all his life and one of Roosevelt's bright young men in Washington, tossed the first Hines case out of court on a technicality.

Democratic Boss Indicted.

A Tammany big-wig who was indicted by Dewey on charges of relief printing scandals is William Solomon, Democratic boss of the Harlem district. Solomon was an early supporter of Roosevelt.

An investigation of printing contracts disclosed that Edward J. O'Connell, late Democratic boss of Albany, had split a $20,000 bribe with Solomon. The O'Connell machine runs the vice and gambling business in Albany and ran it while Roosevelt was governor.

Charles A. Harnett, a state motor vehicle commissioner, while Roosevelt was in Albany was indicted on a charge of accepting $67,000 for favors to taxicab companies. He resigned and later was declared insane.

Edward S. Moran, former Democratic assemblyman, was convicted by Dewey of accepting $36,000 in bribes from two taxi companies. In 1929 as governor Roosevelt supported legislation sponsored by Moran. Moran is appealing.

A Roosevelt appointee as federal judge in the eastern district of New York is Matthew T. Abruzzo, who enjoined state officials from closing dog tracks in defiance of law. Abruzzo had been a clerk in the office of former Judge Martin T. Manton of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, who was exposed by Dewey for illegal practices and now is serving a term in a federal penitentiary.

5 Million Men in British Unions Back War Push

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 25.—Five million workers in 200 unions today told Britain they will accept any burden assigned to them in the war against Germany. Tomorrow, altho it is Sunday, hundreds of thousands in shifts of 10 and 12 hours will push at a terrific pace the production of munitions to hurl at the enemy at Britain's gates. It will be the first time since the world war that the hum of war plants has disturbed the Sabbath calm.

Labor's decision was voiced by 1,000 delegates from unions affiliated with the Trades Union Congress after Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin had explained what the government desired and Prime Minister Winston Churchill had warned the delegates in a letter that the "gravity of the situation deepens hour by hour." He asked the unions to accept the emergency legislation by which Britain has created a dictatorship.

After the delegates had decided favorably they sent a message to the armed forces assuring them that all Britain's industrial resources would be used to their full extent to provide munitions.

Four Oppose New Burdens.

Four delegates voted against accepting any new burden for labor.

Minister Bevin established a labor supply board to mobilize industrial man power under the emergency act. The board will be able to prescribe the work that firms will carry out, the hours labor is to be employed, and the price of goods.

The British war office tonight called upon boys 18 to 19 years old to fill gaps in home defense forces against the threatened Nazi invasion.

Sign for War's Duration.

Volunteers who answer the call will sign to serve in home defense battalions for the duration of the war. When they reach the age of 20, the conscription limit, they will be transferred to other units to be trained for service with the field army. The units into which they will go first are separate from the local defense forces being organized to combat parachute invaders.

Volunteers for the antiparachute force poured in from town and country. It was estimated that 400,000 had registered to give their spare time services.

Men 27 years old registered throughout the country today for conscription into the armed forces. They totaled 326,259 and brought to more than 2,000,000 the number of men mobilized since the war broke out.

How grave is the situation of the British, Belgian and part of the French armies is fully realized by the British public. Newspapers asserted the situation can still be retrieved by concerted allied effort.

The public was told to expect little news until the time has come for a decisive move in the battle raging across the channel and the ban on news about the situation is likely to continue for some days. Newspapers published, however, the text of the German communique claiming that the ring around the bulk of the British army had been closed.

INDIA ACTS TO BOOST DEFENSE; PLANES AND TANKS WILL BE ADDED

SIMLA, India, May 25.—Plans to enable India to "protect herself to the utmost extent practicable" are to be implemented immediately, a government statement said today.

The program calls for raising and equipping the military forces to India's maximum capacity, raising and training personnel for further squadrons in the Indian air force, increasing the land forces to include mechanized columns of infantry and signal, engineer, medical, and auto transport units.

The statement added that the raising of these forces will afford increased employment to Indians. In addition, India will continue to expand to a maximum its productive capacity, especially of munitions and manufactured products for consumption in India and overseas.

IRELAND CALLS VOLUNTEERS FOR HOME DEFENSE

DUBLIN, Ireland, May 25 (AP).—Premier Eamon de Valera announced tonight the formation of a new volunteer force for what was termed local security work in Ireland.

"We are within the war zone," he said in an address to his Fianna Fail party followers at a meeting in Galway City. "We must prepare to defend the liberties we have won."

He said the new volunteer corps would be apart from the regular army and would be associated with the police force "to watch over the security of the people and to watch for the first sign of attack upon us."

Tells of Terror in Boulogne as War Hits City

LONDON, May 25 (AP).—The sunny city of Boulogne on the French channel coast has become a shell-rocked, bomb-spattered trap for thousands of refugees, an eyewitness reported upon reaching here tonight.

The witness is Frederick Brinjes, a British business man, who reached England by warship after a trek from Zeebrugge along the coast to Boulogne.

He told of spending two nights at the maritime station in Boulogne where thousands of hysterical men, women, and children waited to get out of the city. Machinegun bullets rattled in the streets.

Hundreds Are Wounded.

"Many must have been killed," he said. "I know there were hundreds wounded and I saw many going mad. The streets to the station was black with people. It took me two hours to fight my way thru the crowd.

"The heavy bombing and raking fire from planes started at dusk Wednesday and continued all night," Brinjes recalled. "Not much damage was done to the station, but a number of people were cut by flying glass. Women were hysterical."

Among the spectacles was a dog fight between planes above the harbor. Two enemy planes fell into the sea in flames.

Germans Capture Guns.

By Thursday afternoon, he asserted, German troops had penetrated the town and captured guns on a hill near the Continental hotel.

"At 7 o'clock that night," he continued, "three destroyers alongside the jetty opened fire on German gun implacements on the hill. The noise was terrific. One destroyer finally was struck amidships. The remaining two destroyers put the German guns out of action.

"By 9 o'clock the Germans were coming toward the station. The British and French were fighting back, firing from under railway carriages and from behind sandbag defenses. German tanks began to appear."

Germans Spare Dutch Tulip Fields from War Ravages

BERLIN, May 25.—The Netherlands' tulip fields have been spared the ravages of war, it was announced here today. The advance of the German mechanized army followed paved roads which the defenders failed to blow up, and so did not affect the world famous blossoms.

FRANCE OUSTS 15 GENERALS IN STAFF SHAKEUP

Pick Younger Men to Lead Armies.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Maps on pages 2 and 3.)
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 25.—Gen. Maxime Weygand, new allied commander in chief, tonight removed 15 French generals whose armies failed to stop the original German breakthru on the Meuse river front. At the same time the war ministry admitted that the Germans had occupied Vimy ridge, historic battleground of Canadian and German troops in the last war.

The French communique announcing the shakeup in the high command said:

"Effective today 15 generals have been relieved of their commands, among them commanders of armies and army corps, several commanders of divisions, and directors of services of large units."

Younger Men Promoted.

Seven infantry colonels were promoted to be major generals to fill the places of those ousted. Promoted were Henri Martin, Jean Besse, Andre Durand, Charles Mast, Charles de Gaulle, Gustave Mesny, and Louis Buisson. All are younger than the men whose places they will take.

The war ministry's communique announcing the demotions was published under the heading of "Penalties."

The Germans continued to pour their most powerful tanks and other mechanized units thru their corridor driven between the central French army along the Somme and the northern allied forces in northern France and in Belgium. These northern armies now are fighting facing east, south, and west.

On the northern side of the corridor, which the French announced had been reduced from the 35 to 30 miles wide, as announced yesterday, to 20 miles today, the Germans seized both Vimy ridge and other eminences west of Arras.

Allied Retirement.

The most savage fighting raged in the vicinity of Courtrai, which is in Belgium about 15 miles northeast of Lille, ancient French fortified city. These engagements followed a British and Belgian retirement from the line of the Scheldt river to the line of the Lys river, a front against which the Germans were believed to have launched powerful attacks.

Heavy battles also were raging west and north of Cambrai; at Boulogne, where the situation was described as uncertain [Germany claims the capture of Boulogne], and at St. Omer, 30 miles west of Boulogne.

The French said that Calais, which appears to be the principal object of the German drive, had not yet been seriously threatened by the Nazis. [The Germans said their troops were fighting in the streets of Calais.] The French acknowledged, however, that the Germans probably were in possession of several ports southward from Boulogne to Abbeville, including Paris Plage and Le Touquet.

Eastern Front Quiet.

The eastern end of the line remained quiet, according to Paris reports, with local operations south of Sedan and in the upper Argonne region succeeding in throwing the Germans out of small areas they had occupied.

After 14 days of mechanized warfare, the Nazis now are bringing up infantry divisions supported by artillery and reserves. It is these forces which now are entering the battle. As yet, however, according to military experts, the bulk of the two rival forces has not collided.

Path of Destruction.

French artillery fire has made the German corridor to the sea a veritable path of destruction, French officers back from the front assert. The French claim that the Germans are having great difficulty in securing their lines of supply thru this corridor. Bombardment from French and British planes is adding to the difficulties of the German position, it was said.

The French have equipped their pursuit planes with cannon to blast away at the German armored columns. Heretofore French pursuit planes had carried only machine guns.

Bullitt Sees Daladier.

The gap between the northern and central allied armies, originally described as extending from the Somme to Arras, now is bounded by the Peronne and Bapaume sectors, it was believed.

THE BLITZKRIEG—WHY ONLY NAZIS MAKE IT CLICK

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, May 25.—A blitzkrieg is a spontaneous combustion of centuries old diplomatic maneuvering, backed by an internal subversive organizations lately known as the fifth column; the latest developments in war weapons, and supreme unity of command. A blitzkrieg, as popularly defined, cannot be accomplished if any of its three components is lacking.

Germany is the only country today possessing the essential ingredients for launching a successful blitzkrieg, or lightning assault, on a gigantic scale. The possession of this war power has been earned thru seven years of indefatigable preparation since Fuehrer Adolf Hitler came into power.

During the last two years the fuehrer has demonstrated to the world that it is not always necessary to launch a complete blitzkrieg in order to accomplish desired results. The proper use of only one of his forces, propaganda or diplomatic maneuvering, was sufficient to subdue Austria, the first victim to fall in the path of the spreading empire.

Envoys Do First Work.

The operation of this force is simple. It is begun at the top in a legitimate manner thru the formality of issuing stock instructions to accredited German foreign representatives. Their duty is to advance the cause of Naziism.

The first step is the development of surface social relations, commercial intercourse, and general good will. As progress is attained, more pressure is brought to bear. The general advance in the spread of Naziism is tremendously facilitated by centralized unity of command. Hitler is the boss.

As the official goodwill surface drive gains momentum, pressure is exerted in facilitating the attack by agents sent out from Germany with visas to take temporary jobs organizing travel bureaus, etc. This activity in the routine propaganda system is practiced over all the world, but only in countries under immediate sentence is the drive accentuated to blitzkrieg proportions.

Secret Police Take Over.

After sufficient progress has been obtained by the first and second waves of political troops, according to information from sources in Berlin, the countries marked for empire annexation are turned over to the shock troops controled by Herr Heinrich Himmler and his Gestapo [secret police] organization. It is the duty of the latter to take advantage of the success attained by the former agents by sending in key men with complete layouts of communications systems, electric plants, water sources, police, and so forth. At a specified time, armed agents enter the control points simultaneously with troops crossing the borderlines.

Everything is minutely planned, and German discipline enables the scheme to be carried out. In many cases, notably Denmark, many strongholds have been taken without firing a shot. The essence of the whole scheme is simply that any unsuspecting public is easily victimized by well organized, carefully trained forces and planned propaganda campaigns.

History's Best Army.

The military component of the blitzkrieg machine is the product of a highly industrialized nation that has concentrated for seven years upon a superior fighting equipment. The German army is the best the world has ever known from every standpoint. Hitler and his aids have utilized all German ideas and facilities and have duplicated and improved

GERMANS USING 2,300,000 MEN TO ENCIRCLE FOE

Capture Vimy Ridge; Fight in Calais.

Turn to today's Graphic section for the thrilling story of the battle of Jutland, illustrated in color.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Maps on pages 2 and 3.)
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 25.—The German army is ready to deal a death blow to the entire British expeditionary force, the entire Belgian army, and one-quarter of the best of the whole French army trapped on the Franco-Belgian border, authoritative sources in Berlin said tonight. The picture of the battlefronts as described by the high command was one of overwhelming strength for Germany.

The Nazi drive continued its swift pace today. Vimy Ridge, where the Germans battled the Canadians in the last war, was captured. German troops were reported fighting in the streets of Calais, French channel port only 22 miles from England. German forces which earlier had smashed the Scheldt river defenses rushed their way across the Lys river, Belgium's last natural defense.

Allies 'Disorganized.'

The Germans estimate that about 500,000 of France's best troops, 200,000 Englishmen, and 400,000 Belgians are in their rings of "steel and fire," completely disorganized and helpless because their signal corps has broken down and the allied high command does not know what is going on.

Practically all of France's motorized force is trapped, the Germans believe. They admit that France still has remarkable artillery, but many of France's heaviest and best guns are stationary, and cannot be moved, as is necessary for open warfare.

Huge German Force.

The German forces in Belgium and France pressing against the encircled troops represent one-third of the German army. Since many estimate that at present Germany has more than 7,000,000 men under arms, this would mean that more than 2,300,000 Germans are in Belgium and northern France.

Most military experts in Berlin are convinced that a direct attack by German land, air, and sea forces on the British Isles is imminent. The seizure by the Germans of the entire coast of Flanders, Germans believe, is only a matter of days. Heavy guns are already being moved up to the German held positions. With the channel in its narrowest part only a little more than 20 miles wide, German long range guns easily could lay a barrage in the Dover region to support a German landing.

Sink Allied Destroyer.

The first German artillery to arrive on the channel coast was light and heavy antiaircraft guns. The Germans, for the first time in history, used these guns against a sea target, sinking an allied destroyer.

The storming by German forces of a strategically important height south of Sedan again has revived rumors that the Germans might attempt to turn the Maginot line from the north. Most Germans, however, believe that the main German attack will be launched against England, with the German army in France holding its lines marked by the Somme, the Oise, the Aisne, and the channel.

In fighting the huge and turbulent battle in Flanders and the French province of Artois, the Germans are using the same tactics they employed in the decisive battles in Poland. While the Germans are drawing the iron ring around the enemy tighter and tighter, strong tank forces at the same time are breaking up the big pocket in which the enemy is trapped into a number of smaller pockets.

When the German tank division reached the channel at Abbeville, the huge pocket in which the Franco-British-Belgian forces were trapped was bordered in the north by the Scheldt river and in the south by the Somme river. Attacking from the west, the northern wing of the German forces under Gen. George von Kuechler now have seized Ghent, Belgium, and crossed the Lys river.

Courtrai Is Captured.

Driving toward the coast, Gen. Kuechler's forces are attempting to cut off the northern wing of the allied forces in the region of Bruges. Advancing farther to the south, Gen. Walther von Reichenau's army has seized Courtrai on the Scheldt river. A concentric attack by German forces is being made on the French fortresses on the Franco-Belgian border between Roubaix and Valenciennes.

The main French strong point in this region is Lille, whose forts are being shelled heavily by German artillery. While Gen. Reichenau's forces are advancing on Lille from the east, strong German forces, after seizing Boulogne and encircling Calais, have swung to the southeast and are attacking the belt of French fortifications in the Lille area from the rear.

Other German forces are narrowing the southern end of the pocket by advancing in a northwesterly direction in the region around the town of Douai. Valenciennes was captured by the Germans quite a while ago, but its capture was kept secret for strategic reasons. It was in this town that Gen. Henri Giraud, commander of the 9th French army, was taken prisoner while reconnoitering in an armored car.

Dominate Wide Area.

Advancing beyond Calais, German forces reached Gravelines, half way between Calais and Dunkirk. From Gravelines the German lines run southward to St. Omer, and via Lillers to Vimy Ridge, north of Arras. The capture of Vimy Ridge, together with the Boretto heights, conquered yesterday, enabled the Germans to dominate the entire region of Lens and Douai.

Especially fierce fighting took place at Boulogne and around the Grand canal. At the latter place Gen. von Kuechler's forces met with stubborn resistance from Belgian and British troops. At Boulogne, British marines were disembarked to defend the port.

Dive bombing Stukas attacked the English channel ports of Dieppe, Ostend, Dunkirk, and Blankenberghe to block the landing of British reënforcements.

Planes to Cut Off Retreat.

Military spokesmen added that the German air force was "capable of cutting off every possibility of retreat" from the last avenues of escape — Dunkirk, Ostend and Zeebrugge.

German airmen were said to have scored bomb hits on troops and tank concentrations, machine columns, rail lines, airports, antiaircraft positions inland and artillery positions, quays, shipyards, docks, moles, and gasoline storage tanks in Belgian and French channel ports.

The high command acknowledged only seven planes missing in yesterday's operations as against an allied total of 84—27 shot down in air fighting, 14 by antiaircraft fire and the remainder destroyed on the ground.

It was stated an "increasing" number of allied prisoners was being engulfed in Flanders and "the amount of booty cannot be estimated."

War Developments on the Western Front

10 CHICAGO REDS BESIEGED BY MOB IN ILLINOIS TOWN

Two Beaten; Auto Is Set Afire.

Pekin, Ill., May 25 [Special].—Ten communists from Chicago and Evanston were driven into the shelter of the Tazewell county courthouse late this evening and besieged for nearly two hours by a menacing crowd of some 300 persons.

Two of the communists were beaten and one of their two automobiles was set afire by the crowd.

Late tonight the 10 communists, two of them women, were being held in protective custody in the county jail under guard of 15 state highway policemen and 10 deputy sheriffs. Threats of real danger had, however, fairly well ebbed. The state police were called by Sheriff Guy Donohue earlier when the crowd's temper appeared to be rising.

How It All Started.

The trouble occurred over the efforts of the visitors to distribute communistic literature and to get signatures on petitions to place the communist party on the Illinois ballot in the November election. Warnings of what might happen were given last Saturday when four communists, on the same mission, were seized, taken to a "kangaroo" court before Magistrate Julius Janssen, and ordered to leave Pekin at once.

Today the communists returned to "test their civil rights" as they explained it. Ira H. Latimer, Chicago Civil Liberties union official, preceded them as an observer.

As the visitors stood in the courthouse square soliciting petition signatures, groups of men, many of them American Legionnaires, collected. They hooted the communists. As the crowd increased, shouts of "Mob 'em!" and "Let's get 'em!" were heard.

A Blow Is Struck.

Finally some one struck a communist, and at this the 10 raced to the courthouse and locked themselves in. They were besieged by a howling, taunting crowd for nearly two hours before police were able to escort them to the jail. On the way another communist was knocked down. A few minutes later one of the communist cars was burned.

The names which the communists gave were John Leslie, Joe Hill, Howard Parsons, Helen Higgins, Laura Bloor, Ernest Erickson, Albert Harvey, Don Cook, Alvin Randolph, and Edward Perry. Cook indicated he was a Northwestern university student.

BRITONS BATTLE AIR RAIDERS OFF COAST OF KENT

LONDON, May 26 [Sunday] (AP).—German warplanes were believed to have dropped bombs off the southeast coast of England early this morning, but no damage was reported. In East Kent residents hurried into shelters and basements during an air raid alarm which lasted an hour and 45 minutes.

British fighter planes were seen flying out to sea. Searchlights then picked out German planes flying off the coast and anti-aircraft guns blazed away at them for several minutes.

The port of Dover, in Kent, is only 22 miles across the English channel from Calais, where heavy fighting is in progress.

Today's raid followed bombings yesterday along 200 miles of England's east coast, extending from Yorkshire to Essex. Eleven civilians were injured.

INVADERS FROM 3 NATIONS IN U. S. NOW! DIES WARNS

Boring from Within for Stalin, Hitler, Duce.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Dictators Josef Stalin, Adolf Hitler, and Benito Mussolini have already invaded the United States with their "fifth columns," Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, declared tonight.

In a denunciation of Trojan horse tactics by dictators, the fiery Texan said the United States is not in danger of invasion by foreign armies and can never be invaded so long as the nation is adequately prepared and united in allegiance to the constitution.

Warns of Enemies Within.

While the nation is preparing under the defense expansion program to resist enemies from without, it should arm against enemies from within, he said. Dies cited evidence gathered by his committee to show how the dictators' fifth columns are boring from within in this country.

"Thru a propaganda outlet of 600 communist publications in the United States, and thru his 'Trojan horse' organizations, Stalin has carried on an incessant attack upon our democratic institutions and the principles upon which they rest," Dies charged.

"The youth are told not to fight, the people are told that the government should support them, and a general attitude of discontent is encouraged," he said. "This is done to weaken morale and to undermine capacity for self-defense.

Organize for Sabotage.

"Meantime units of communists are being formed in basic industries for purposes of espionage, sabotage, and the promotion of strife.

"The evidence before our committee, including the audit of the bank accounts of the communist party and subsidiary organizations, establish an annual income from all sources of approximately $10,000,000.

"Stalin's 'fifth column' in America is, therefore, highly financed and strongly entrenched in the basic industries such as transportation, communications, utilities, shipping, etc."

100,000 Belong to Bund.

To support his charge of Nazi fifth column activities in this country, Dies cited the German-American bund. He said:

"Its constitution states that one of its purposes is: 'To be and remain worthy of our Germanic blood, our German motherland, our German brothers and sisters, and to cultivate our German language, customs, and ideals, and to be upstandingly proud of these principles.'

"The German-American bund has 100,000 members in the United States. It has 100 units situated in 47 districts. Affiliated with the bund is the German-American Business league, located in 12 states and composed of German-American merchants who pay $3 a year to be registered in a special book which the business league puts out.

"The bund coöperates with the Christian Front, Christian Mobilizers, Christian Crusaders, and with the Italian-Fascist organizations in the United States. The head of the German-American bund stated to our committee that its purpose was to establish a separate political party."

Fascists Train Youth.

Of Italian activities in this country, Dies said:

"Fascist Italy has used the same 'Trojan horse' tactics in this country. The committee received evidence that there are Fascist organizations in America; that these organizations are seeking to train and indoctrinate American boys and girls with Fascist idealogies, and that some of these children have been sent to Italy for training; that they have raised funds to aid the Fascist régime in Rome; that they have coöperated with the German-American bund."

In conclusion, Dies said there is no occasion for hysterical alarm or to resort to repressive or undemocratic methods of handling the situation.

"If we are to be preserved as a democracy, we must match the brains, the ingenuity, and patriotism of men who believe in democracy against its newest and most sinister foe," he said. "We must revitalize democracy to meet the challenge of the agents and pagan religion of Hitler, Stalin, and Mussolini.

SENATORS VOTE TO FINGERPRINT, REGISTER ALIENS

Approve Measure Aimed at Fifth Column.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—A bill to require the fingerprinting and registration of the approximately 4,000,000 aliens in the United States and to outlaw fifth column activities in the defense forces was unanimously approved by a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee today.

The bill provides that all aliens must register at postoffices within four months and be fingerprinted. Refusal or neglect to do so would be grounds for deportation.

An alien is defined in the measure as any person who has not yet received final citizenship papers. Intent to become a citizen would not exempt an alien.

Defeated Last Session.

The house, at the 1939 session, refused to approve this provision. It passed and sent to the senate the main portion of the bill which would make it unlawful for any person to influence the loyalty of members of the armed services or to publish or distribute books, pamphlets, papers, articles, letters, or other writing which advise disobedience of laws or regulations covering their activity.

Violators, under the measure, would be subject to a maximum fine of $10,000, imprisonment for 10 years, or both.

Hits Fifth Columnists.

The bill describes as a crime the action of any person who advocates by word of mouth, or in writing, or by transmission by radio the "necessity, desirability, or propriety of overthrowing or destroying the government of the United States.

The measure also prohibits the publication, circulation, distribution, and public display of any book, paper, document, or other printed matter advocating the overthrow of the government.

MOVE TO CANCEL LICENSES

Atlanta, Ga., May 25 (AP).—In an unprecedented move aimed at "fifth columnists," Gov. E. D. Rivers today directed that the business, occupational, and professional licenses of all Georgia aliens be canceled on June 1.

In giving oral instructions to Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head to revoke the licenses, the governor made no mention of any exceptions, but after a conference with Head it was announced that aliens who have applied for citizenship by June 1 will be exempted.

Believe Hundreds Affected.

Georgia does not have as large an alien population as many northern states, but unofficial guesses were that several hundred will lose licenses.

The licenses affected are the usual state licenses required of most business and professional men and some types of workmen. In the past the fact that a license applicant was an alien had no bearing, per se, on his application.

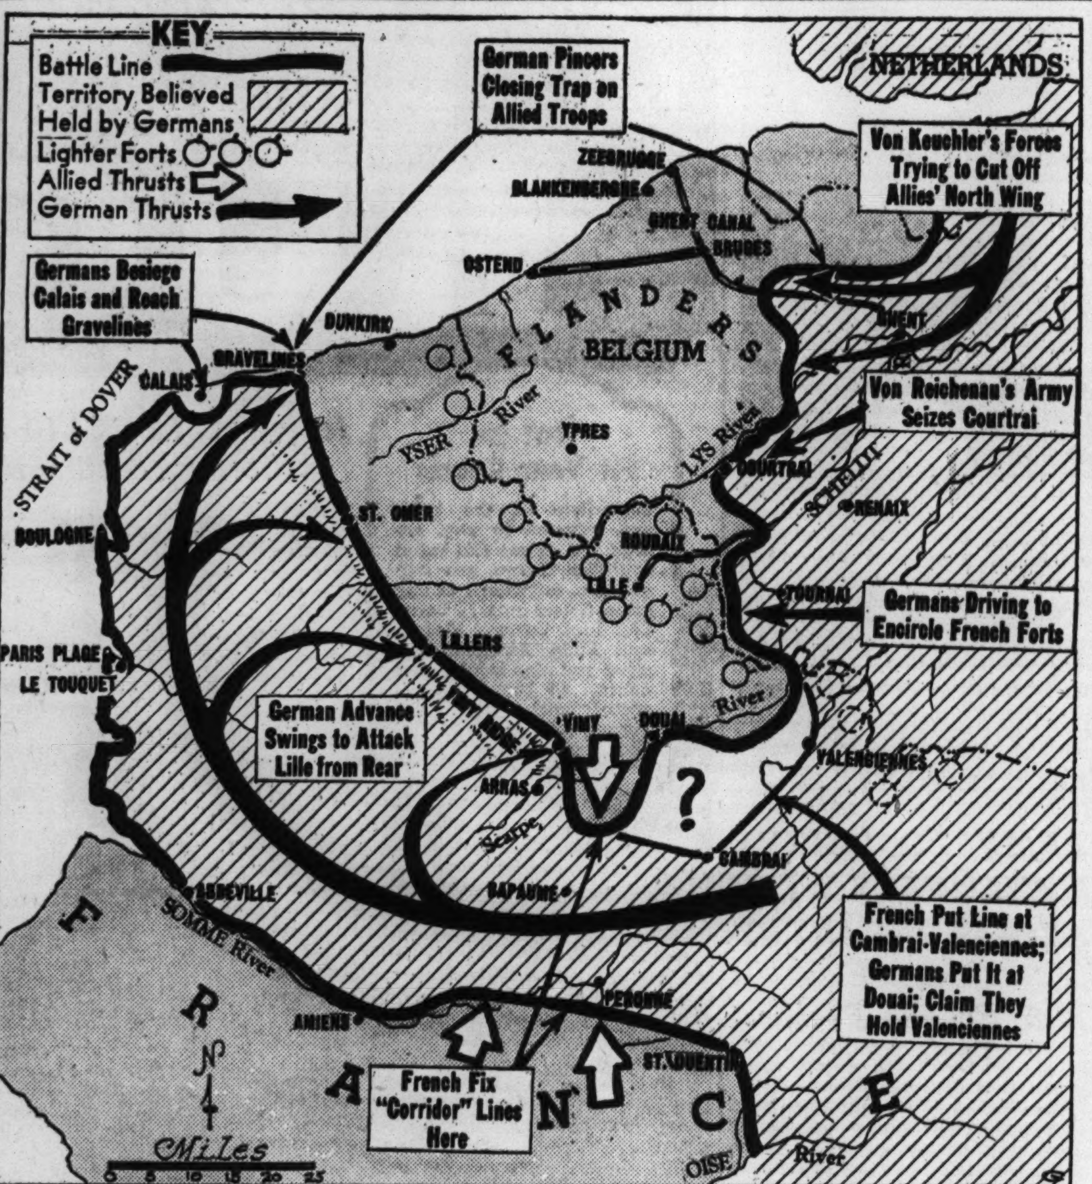
In rallying state forces against possible saboteurs and spies, Gov. Rivers has made frequent use of the term "fifth columnists" to denote all subversive elements within the state, and he did so again today in discussing his order with reporters.

Bolsters Previous Moves.

The governor said he was relying largely on the "broad powers" given the revenue commissioner under the licensing laws to make his instructions effective.

This step is the most sweeping of several taken by Rivers this week in a campaign against subversive elements. Included was a proclamation requesting that all aliens register with police units and be fingerprinted.

German Armies Closing Trap on Allied Troops



Dispatches from Berlin last night said that German forces which had poured thru the corridor between Cambrai and Peronne were not only besieging Calais and consolidating gains along the coast of the English channel, but also were turning to the southeast to pinch tighter the ring of steel around 1,100,000 British, French, and Belgian troops in the Flanders pocket. This ring, according to the Germans, is also closing in from the east where other Hitler forces drove across the Lys river near Ghent and moved forward farther south in the Valenciennes region.

German flyers made their first serious raid on the English coast yesterday, dropping explosives from Yorkshire to East Anglia and Essex. Eleven civilians were injured. The attack was believed to have been aimed at steel factories.

RUTH DE YOUNG KOHLER TO WRITE TRIBUNE COLUMN

On W-G-N, Too; Her Topic Women in War, Peace.

Ruth DeYoung Kohler, former woman's editor of THE TRIBUNE, will begin a series of W-G-N radio broadcasts and newspaper columns, "We the Women," on June 6.

The initial program on June 6 will be broadcast for half an hour. Each subsequent Thursday the program will be broadcast from 2:15 to 2:30 p. m. The column, also entitled "We the Women," will appear in the women's section of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE each Friday morning following the broadcast.

Offers News Digest.

In both the broadcasts and the articles Mrs. Kohler—in private life Mrs. Herbert V. Kohler of Kohler, Wis.—will digest women's news and give its background in the shifting panorama of world events. Women in the war, woman's stake in the 1940 presidential campaign, women in education, business, science, and the professions will come in for discussion and comment, as will the largest industry in the United States—housekeeping.

Invitations to the opening broadcast, to be held in the main studio of W-G-N, were mailed yesterday to 1,000 representative women of the midwest. The distinguished audience will include women prominent in varied fields, social, club, political, and industrial, as well as women whose interests are primarily domestic.

Covers All Fields.

The views of women of today, as they face today's vital issues, also will be discussed by Mrs. Kohler. Whatever pertains to or affects women, whether it be the words of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, empress with a strange empire and no throne, or the newest skating gymnastics of Sonja Henie, the current fad for the shawls which Queen Victoria wore or the exhortations of Carrie Chapman Catt, will come in for comment, serious and trivial alike.

Writer and Speaker

Ruth De Young Kohler, who will start a series of radio broadcasts over W-G-N and newspaper columns in The Tribune June 6. Both will be entitled "We, the Women."

Mrs. Kohler, able and fluent speaker, is well known in women's affairs. She is the wife of the president of the Kohler company and daughter of the late Frederic R. DeYoung, justice of the Supreme court of Illinois. She was graduated from Smith college in 1928, with special honors in history and a Phi Beta Kappa key. While at Smith she headed the judicial branch of student government.

She joined THE TRIBUNE editorial staff in 1929 after a year's travel in Europe, and remained on the staff until her marriage in June, 1937. As woman's editor from 1935 to 1937, she organized the Woman congress, a nonpartisan forum on current affairs which presented annually an impartial survey of leading issues of the day by national and international authorities.

The congress was attended by 5,000 women, representative of every state in the Union. In 1937 more than 35,000 requested tickets. Response came from as far away as Sydney, Australia. As a result of this forum a similar congress was held in Helsingfors, Finland, in 1938.

On Federation Board.

After her retirement from THE TRIBUNE staff, Mrs. Kohler traveled extensively abroad, making a comprehensive study of conditions in Great Britain, the Scandinavian countries, and central Europe. She has continued her interest in women's affairs despite the demands of a young son, and is on the board of directors of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs.

The W-G-N Concert orchestra, under the direction of Henry Weber, will open and close Mrs. Kohler's program on the air. Guests at the opening program, however, will remain for a second half hour program, which will include a brilliant array of W-G-N musical talent. At its conclusion the guests will have an opportunity to meet in person many of the stars they hear weekly over the radio.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, May 25 (AP).—The city council passed an ordinance last night requiring all aliens to register within 30 days. Councilmen said the move was a precaution against possible fifth column activities. The ordinance would require aliens to tell how they entered the country, in what organizations they held membership, why they have not become citizens, and to give brief personal histories.

ARVEY EXPECTED TO GET POST OF JUDGE ADVOCATE

Springfield, Ill., May 25 [Special].—Officers of the Illinois National Guard, interviewed here today, said they are convinced that Capt. Jacob M. Arvey of Chicago is to succeed Lieut. Col. Weymouth Kirkland, recently resigned, as judge advocate of the 33d division.

Capt. Arvey is assistant judge advocate of the division, and it is reported that recently he has been making inquiries concerning records of the judge advocate's department, indicating that he is preparing to take command of the office. It is probable that he will be promoted to the rank of major or lieutenant colonel.

Capt. Arvey is a member of the Chicago city council, in which he represents the 24th ward. He is vice chairman of the Cook county Democratic central committee. During the 1936 and 1938 party primary battles he maintained his personal friendship with Gov. Henry Horner, altho their organizations were at odds.

AMERICAN NAVY BANS DESTROYER SALE TO BRITAIN

U. S. Fleet Not for Sale, Officials Declare.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—The navy department, asked today about reports that the British had made unofficial overtures concerning the purchase of destroyers of the United States fleet, declared that "the American fleet is not for sale."

Naval officials refused to state whether or not approaches had been made by the British government with a view to filling the gaps in its destroyer fleet caused by war losses. In any event, the answer would be a firm negative, they said.

It was noted that special legislation would have to be passed by congress to permit such sales.

Congress Opposes Sales.

That congressional sentiment is overwhelmingly against sales of our military or naval equipment was demonstrated last Wednesday when the senate foreign relations committee, by a vote of 12 to 1, tabled a resolution by Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], authorizing President Roosevelt to sell planes now possessed by the army and navy to the allied powers of Europe. Pepper alone supported his resolution.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] and Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.] both argued against the Pepper proposal, indicating that administration leaders still fear political dynamite in the "measures short of war" advocated by the President.

While official statistics are lacking, the British are believed to have lost from 12 to 15 destroyers in the war. They have officially admitted the loss of five. The latest navy department report gives the British 109 underage destroyers and 73 over age, a total of 182.

United States Has 221 Destroyers.

The same report gives the United States 59 under age and 162 over age destroyers, a total of 221. Thirty-eight destroyers are under construction, making a grand total of 259 in prospect for our destroyer fleet.

The British destroyer fleet was augmented by six vessels recently when the government took over six destroyers it had been building for Brazil. It also acquired eight Dutch destroyers with the conquering of the Netherlands and previously had added three Polish destroyers to its force. The reported approaches to the United States indicated that British losses in the destroyer division have been more severe than officially admitted.

Destroyers are described as the skirmishers of the fleet. Dashing ahead of their own battleships, they endeavor to cause as much damage with their torpedoes as possible to the enemy battleships. Since destroyers cost $5,000,000 in comparison with the $70,000,000 cost of a battleship, the loss of several is considered worthwhile if they can put an enemy battleship out of commission.

AVOID FOREIGN DOMINATION, AMERICAS TOLD

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 25 (AP).—Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, declared today that the American republics "do not want to be dominated by European or Asiatic happenings."

"The American republics should jointly guard their national security and territorial integrity, to prevent in America the exercise in any form of dominating influences foreign to the destiny of any of our peoples," he told a convention of Pan-American traveling salesmen.

"We were colonies of Europe, but today we do not want to be dominated by European or Asiatic happenings. We in Brazil should not intervene in European questions because we are determined not to consent to intervention in any form, direct or indirect, by European or Asiatic peoples in our political destiny.

"We Americans and we Brazilians are neutral not because we are afraid to take an attitude, but because we have the supreme courage to condemn war even tho the world's most powerful people are involved in it."

Spring Brings Vienna a Big Surprise—More Food

Here's Germans' Powerful Dive Bomber

ARMY HAS GREAT FAITH IN SECRET PLANE DETECTOR

Gives 15 Min. Warning of Attack, Says Chief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, chief of the army war planes division, told a senate committee that the No. 1 secret of the army is a plane detector, capable of giving warning 15 to 20 minutes in advance of an impending air attack, it was disclosed today.

The general told the senate army appropriations subcommittee, publication of the committee records disclosed, that the army has a plane detector "apparently far in advance of any similar equipment available to any of the belligerents."

Advantage of Device Explained.

Gen. Strong said a warning 15 to 20 minutes in advance of attack not only would be of great aid to anti-aircraft units, but also would permit the launching of interceptor planes to meet the attackers.

THE TRIBUNE, more than a year ago, revealed the existence of such a mystery weapon—an even more closely guarded secret than the army bomb sight. At that time it was considered by experts that the detector employed infrared rays, or possibly sparks from spark plugs to detect approaching enemy planes. Present detectors are nothing more than sound locators—huge horns to catch the sound of approaching planes, the sound being electrically amplified.

Marshall Hints at Weapon.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staf, hinted at the existence of the new detectors last April when he was called upon by the subcommittee to explain an appropriation request for 39 million dollars. Marshall said a portion of the sum was to go for detectors of a complex design recently developed.

"One of the complications of defense against aircraft has been in the matter of early detection of planes flying over water toward the land in time to permit pursuit planes or interceptor planes to take off and reach the altitude of the bomber in time to drive it away or destroy it," he said.

"Off the coast of Scotland and England, as I understand it, boats with detection devices are located for the purpose of giving warning of the approach of hostile airplanes. Such a system is very difficult to manage accurately. Our particular device will permit us to place our stations along the shore line."

DEWEY DEMANDS PRESIDENT CALL BUSINESS TRUCE

New York, May 25 (AP).—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republian presidential aspirant, demanded today that President Roosevelt end at once "the seven years' war against business" and thus take "the first and most important step in our program of national defense."

"It must not be a mere breathing spell, with the implied threat of a renewed war," Dewey said in a press conference. "It should be a sincere recognition that the government and its people are henceforth in partnership in a great undertaking."

"The country cannot wait until next January for unity," Dewey continued. "The whole safety of the nation is involved. Our chief executive should waste no time playing politics while letting our national defense program wait."

Dewey left tonight for Dallas, Tex., where he will discuss national defense needs at a public rally Monday.

ARMY TO REVIVE MANEUVERS WITH AERIAL INFANTRY

War Recalls Previous Tests of It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Under its new expansion program, the army plans to revive experiments with parachute troops, air infantry, and transportation of supplies by planes, it was learned today.

This is a result of the army high command's attention being directed at Germany's introduction thru parachute troops, of a third dimension into flanking operations.

The army experimented with parachute troops more than 10 years ago. In 1929 the feasibility of dropping machine gun squads from the air by parachute was demonstrated at Brooks field, near San Antonio, Tex. Practically nothing was done with the idea here, altho it was taken up abroad, notably by Germany and Russia.

Aerial Troop Transports.

The United States turned its attention to transporting infantry by plane as a speedier means of moving troops by air. This was done by Germany in the bloodless putsches in Austria and Czechoslovakia.

The United States also experimented with delivery of supplies by plane to stranded troops. In 1938 food, hay, grain, and wood were dropped from the air by parachute on an isolated detachment during maneuvers in the vicinity of Balmorhea, Tex.

The army high command believes that parachute troops offer little for defense of this country. However, it is acknowledged that because of its vast geographical reaches the United States offers a fertile field for the employment of parachute attack.

Distribution of Forces.

As to defense against such attack, the army chiefs believe that the distribution of National Guard forces in every village and hamlet, as well as the distribution of the regular army in larger centers, is a protection against prewar surprises.

In a declared state of war this task would be turned over to organized police, fire, and home guard units, which would include rifle, shotgun, and other small arms sportsmen.

EXPECT DIAMOND INDUSTRY SHIFT TO U. S. CUTTERS

Gems Acquire New Value in War Chaos.

What will become of the world's diamond cutting industry if chaos continues for a long period in Europe? This question was being considered yesterday by American diamond dealers, whose import business averages 50 million dollars a year.

Diamond mining would remain centered in South Africa, no matter who wins the European war, importers and dealers said, but they saw a possibility that a large part of the cutting industry might be shifted to the United States.

They noted, also, that diamonds have attained a new investment value in a war conscious world where continued value of a country's money is dubious and inflation is a constant fear.

Cutting Center in Antwerp.

Prior to the war approximately 60 per cent of the world's diamonds were cut and prepared for market in Antwerp. Thirty per cent, mostly smaller stones, were cut in Germany, and the balance in Amsterdam. The Antwerp and Amsterdam markets have been paralyzed by the Hitler blitzkrieg.

Frederick M. Gottlieb, a Chicago diamond broker, said there are now only 400 qualified diamond cutters in the United States. The number has remained small, he explained, because American labor could not compete with low paid cutters of Europe. In Antwerp, he said, the 12,000 cutters averaged $5 weekly on piece work; in Amsterdam 5,000 workers were paid $10 weekly on the same basis. American cutters receive from $40 to $75 a week on straight salaries.

Gottlieb expressed the hope that a diamond cutting industry might be developed in the United States, where a large percentage of the world's diamonds are used.

5 Years to Train Cutter.

"It might be a costly experiment at first," he said, "because it takes at least five years to train a cutter. If successful, however, such a move would mean employment for 15,000 to 20,000 men. A similar plan was worked out in Amsterdam."

Philip Abrams, vice president of Son & Prins, 55 East Washington street, echoed the view that the United States might become the diamond cutting center of the world.

In New York dealers predicted that as the war proceeds more and more diamonds will be cut in the United States. L. H. Sterne of Sterne Brothers, New York City firm, held the United States self-sufficient in diamond finishing. This includes cleaving, sawing, cutting, and polishing. Altho few in number, the American workmen are said to be unexcelled for judgment, patience, and perfection of work.

Chance for Brazil Stones.

In the industrial diamond field importers saw a chance to strengthen trade relations with Brazil. The carbonado or black diamond of the Brazilian field is used widely in industry. If present diamond contracts are abrogated by war conditions, it was said, the United States could trade directly with Brazil for industrial diamonds. This would make possible the sale of more United States goods in the Brazilian market.

No fear of an immediate diamond shortage, either gem grade or industrial, was seen by diamond men. They said large stocks had been accumulated by the United States before war conditions curtailed shipments.

In New York it was reported that millions of pounds of diamonds have been taken to London and Paris from Amsterdam and Antwerp. Most of these stones have been carried in wallets and small parcels.

Increased speculative and investment demand, plus war risk insurance and the industrial war boom, have boosted prices. Importers and dealers said that gem grade stones under one-half carat have leaped in price from 125 to 175 per cent since September. In the last two weeks prices in the entire diamond field have risen 12½ to 25 per cent.

Mines Controled by British.

British interests have maintained a strangle hold on the diamond business thru the De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd., a holding company, and the Diamond Trading company, both with headquarters in London. The diamonds have been mined by the De Beers company and sifted onto the market at whatever rate desired by the trading concern.

The De Beers company has the rich mines of South Africa—Kimberley, Namaqualand, and the Transvaal—where 75 to 95 per cent of the diamond supply is obtained. Contractual arrangements gave the London company control of the Belgian Congo field, which provides 10 to 15 per cent of the world's diamonds, and the Brazil mines, where 1 to 2 per cent are found.

Deadly to Shipping

BERLIN, May 25 [Special].—Military observers here believe that the new German torpedo speedboats which were reported to have sunk several allied steamships in English channel ports this week will play an important rôle if Hitler's forces invade England. The small size of these boats, their high speed and their ability to turn sharply make them difficult targets. The boats carry two full sized torpedoes on each side of the deck and one antiaircraft gun. There also is equipment to carry mines, if necessary. The vessels are able to skim over mine fields without exploding the mines. The boats, made of light wood and metal, are 93 feet long and powered with Diesel or gasoline motors. Each is capable of carrying 200 soldiers across the English channel in half an hour under the protection of other naval craft, according to naval authorities. Their normal crew is 17 officers and men.

OFFER DIPLOMATS VATICAN HAVEN IF WAR SPREADS

VATICAN CITY, May 25.—(AP).—Cardinal Luigi Maglione, papal secretary of state, today offered quarters in Vatican City to displomats accredited to the Holy See who thought their countries might become involved in war with Italy. The diplomats ordinarily live outside Vatican City, in Rome or its environs. In a letter Cardinal Maglione asked these diplomats to advise him whether they would return to their native lands or accept the proferred residence here.

Only the chiefs of diplomatic missions and the secretary of each would be permitted to stay in the Vatican, the letter said.

Washington, D. C., May 25 (AP).—The state department declined today either to confirm or to deny a report that a staff member of the American embassy in London had been arrested in Scotland Yard's drive on "fifth column" suspects.

A dispatch from London, bringing word of the report, quoted embassy officials as saying "we can make no comment whatever."

In response to questions as his press conference, Secretary of State Hull declared there was nothing he could say about the report. He declined to predict whether information would be made available later.

ITALIANS RAISE CRY FOR CORSICA; AWAIT WAR CALL

Strike Toward West Seen as First Move.

ROME, May 25 (AP).—In spoken and printed word and picture, the name of Corsica, French Mediterranean island, flashed before Italian eyes tonight against a background of exciting rumor.

Italy's preparations for war gained in momentum, but how or when Fascism would act remained a matter of guesswork.

The fact that westbound Italian shipping, including sailing of the great flagship Rex, had halted until at least June 6, made that date a focus of speculation.

See Move to West.

Foreign observers professed to see in the Corsica outburst a sign that Italy, if she goes to war at all, would move first in the western Mediterranean.

The French have held Corsica since 1768, and Napoleon came to France from there. But the island, 114 miles long and separated only by the narrow strait of Bonifacio from Italian Sardinia, is Italian by history, geography, and tongue.

A manifesto, issued in Rome by Petru Giovacchini, leader of the Corsican Italian groups, called upon Corsicans to "arise—the moment of redemption is near." Giovacchini, a half-Italian fugitive from the island, has been agitating for Corsica's return to Italy.

A map of Corsica, printed in bright red ink, was spread across the front page of the newspaper Tevere.

Posters screaming "Viva Italian Corsica" were plastered on the walls of Rome.

There were rumors, among others, that Italians in Malta, Britain's Mediterranean naval base, might send a delegation here to ask Premier Mussolini for "protection" against the "persecution" which the Italian press insists Maltese now endure.

Minister of Agriculture Cassinai told an irrigation convention in Bologna that Italians are "impatiently awaiting" Mussolini's command to "break the prison which is holding them" in the Mediterranean.

Army on War Footing.

Universities of Naples, Bologna, and Catania sent messages to Il Duce telling him their students had their eyes on him for the first sign "to mark the way to glory for the imperial eagle, which is about to spread its wings."

So many Italian reservists have been called up individually that foreign observers believe the armed forces already are on a war footing, with general mobilization perhaps unnecessary.

The government, however, is armed with facilities to mobilize even civilians, including women and children, for offices and workshops, and only Mussolini's word is needed to start the whole nation on the march.

Italian Objectives?

(Story in adjoining column.)

With Italy continuing to prepare for war, the leader of Corsican Italian groups yesterday called upon residents of the French-held island of Corsica to "arise," and there were rumors that Italians in Malta (British) might appeal to Premier Mussolini for "protection."

MINONK WOMAN DIES AT 66.

Minonk, Ill., May 25 [Special].—Mrs. A. L. Jury, 66 years old, died at her home here early today. She is survived by Mr. Jury, four sons, Milton, of Sparland, Lee and George of Minonk, and Clarence of Jacksonville, Fla., 13 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Boils Gasoline Instead of Water; Blast Kills Two

Bay Shore, N. Y., May 25 (AP).—Mrs. Henry Link, 29 years old, hurried into the galley of her cabin cruiser to prepare coffee today. Awaiting breakfast, sat her 76 year old grandfather, John A. Johnson. The coffee pot exploded, fatally burning them both. Police said Mrs. Link had mistaken gasoline for water in preparing the brew.

AMERICAN ARMY RAPIDLY GETTING LATEST WEAPONS

Arms Far Better than at Start of War in 1914.

(The Tribune continues a survey of the actual and potential strengths of the United States military establishments.)

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—The United States army rapidly is arming itself with the latest type of weapons in order to build itself into a hard hitting, compact defensive force.

The assignment of weapons among the various branches of the service has been carefully studied and is considered to be equal to that of other leading armies.

The army high command acknowledges it is short in modern weapons, but is working to repair this deficiency. The army's position in the numbers and types of weapons on hand, leaders assert, is far better than it was at the outbreak of the world war.

Infantry Weapons Listed.

The following table gives the characteristics of infantry weapons:

Pistol	.45	1,600	2.4	....
Hand grenade....	...	50	......	....

The army has 38,000 semiautomatic rifles and 800,000 of the 1903 Springfields. It also has 1,200,000 world war Enfields in its warehouses. The army has only 200 modern mortars of various calibers on hand, but has several hundred of the world war types. It expects to procure 4,500 new mortars under the expansion program.

War Strength Tank Units.

Tanks are organized into separate infantry units of their own. War strength tank units have the following numbers:

Unit—	No. tanks.	No. officers.	No. enlisted men.	Total troops.
Regiment	162	121	1,870	1,991
Company	17	6	123	129
Battalion	54	31	522	553

The army has 28 modern tanks on hand and expects to get more than 800 under the current expansion program. It also has 350 serviceable tanks not of the latest design.

Mechanized Cavalry Brigade.

The army has one brigade of mechanized cavalry and two corps reconnaisance battalions. This is almost the equal of one mechanized division. At the outbreak of the world war, the German army had six mechanized divisions. It is believed the Nazis now have from 20 to 25 such divisions.

For mechanized cavalry units the army has 485 scout cars and 114 combat cars. It hopes to secure 1,346 scout cars and 208 combat cars on completion of the present program. These mount light and heavy machine guns of which the army has several thousand old models and but 83 new. It is aiming to secure a total of 962.

Field Artillery Weapons.

The characteristics of the field artillery weapons are shown in the following table:

Cal. in mms. Type.	Range in yards.	Wt. of travel, lbs.	Wt. shell lbs.
75 Howitzer [pack]....	9,500	1,470	15
75 Gun, Model M2......	13,600	3,650	15
105 Howitzer	12,140	5,750	33
155 Howitzer	12,400	8,960	95
155 Gun	26,000	30,700	95
240 Howitzer	16,400	58,600	345
8 in. Howitzer	18,700	29,600	200

The army has about 2,000 war time 75 mm. guns, but only 141 have been modernized. It hopes to modernize 1,438 guns and 319 howitzers. The army has only a handful of larger caliber field guns. Plans call for 120 new 105 mm. guns, 96 155 mm. guns, and 120 eight inch guns.

Coast Artillery Guns.

In coast artillery the army employs a wide variety of weapons from 3 inch guns that fire a 15 pound shell several miles to 16 inch guns that shoot an armour piercing shell weighing over a ton for almost 30 miles.

The three principal kinds of fixed harbor defense artillery are long range heavy guns of 12, 14, or 16 inch caliber; the guns of 6, 8, and 10 inch caliber and high firing 12 inch mortars and rapid fire 3 to 6 inch guns. The army also has railway mounts of larger caliber for coast defense.

Most of these guns are old, altho serviceable. New models have been built and are to be acquired. The army is beginning by ordering 24 eight inch railway mounts.

For coastal antiaircraft batteries the army has the 3 inch antiaircraft gun. Already 448 of these are on hand of an order of 500. Recently the army has developed a gun of higher caliber for this purpose, the 90 mm. antiaircraft gun. Only the model is on hand, but the army plans to secure 317.

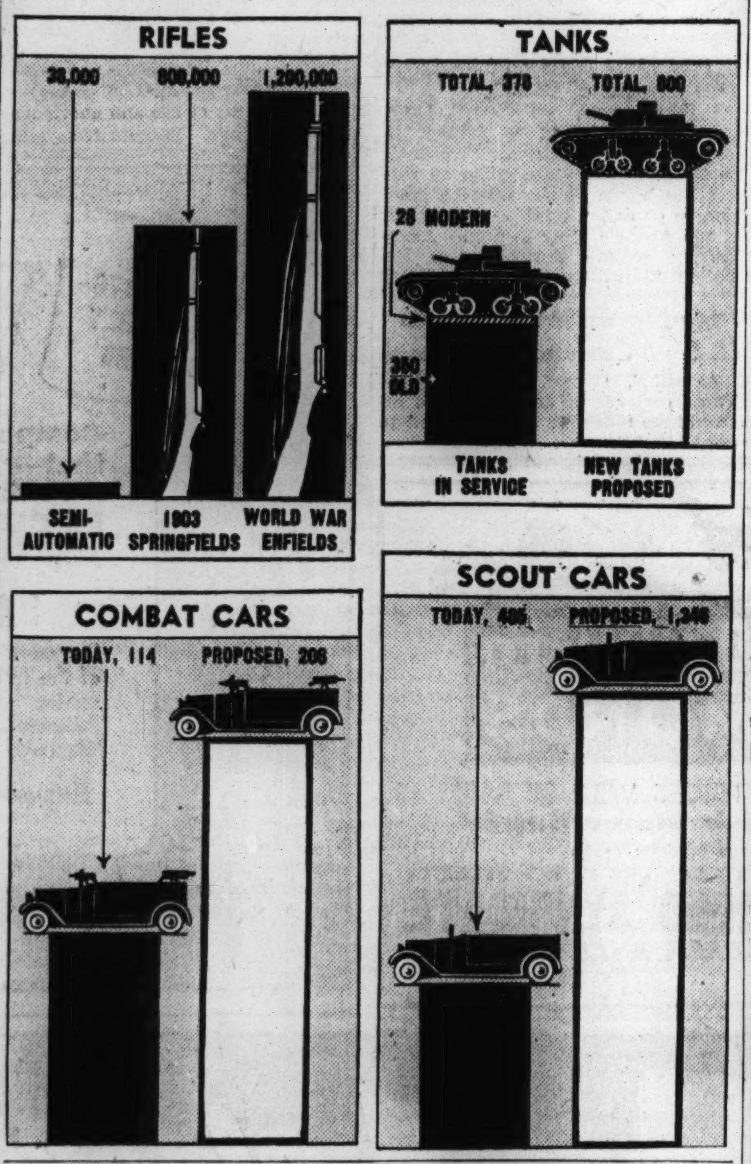
Other antiaircraft guns, are the 37 mm. weapon of which the army has 15 and plans to have 1,423 and the .50 caliber machine gun of which there are 1,014 and plans for a total of 1,683.

The army has and is obtaining supplies of all descriptions from ammunition to shoes. At present there are scarcely enough shoes for the regular army and no stores for reserves. While supplies on hand are not enough for war tomorrow, the army is proud that it has and is carrying out an organized program.

[This is the sixth of a series on America's defensive strength. The seventh and last, on the nation's air strength, will appear soon.]

How Army Stands in Equipment

The upper left graph classifies the 2,038,000 rifles that the United States army now has. Each of the other graphs compares the present supply of an instrument of mechanized warfare with the number expected to be provided by the current expansion program.



THE BLITZKRIEG—WHY NAZIS ALONE MAKE IT SUCCEED

upon advancements brought out by other countries. The caterpillar tread on tanks, for instance, is American, but it has been improved by Germany to permit greater speed and maneuverability.

In the attack, the only thing new is the coördination of the airplane with the ground troops. Speed of maneuverability is the essence of the problem. The surprise of rapid attack and the effect on morale of air bombers, assisted by the growth of insidious propaganda, prove a substantial invader. This combination, as pointed out by military observers, caused the French to retreat across the Meuse rver so fast that ordinary traffic bridges were left intact.

Planes Replace Artillery.

In the actual combat of the blitzkrieg, the air service replaces the artillery in the tactical solution of the problem involved. Exactly as in the world war, the side bringing the most artillery into play wins the battle. The Germans bring more airplanes into action, therefore they advance.

The attack is launched by reconnaissance planes sweeping the front. They report location of enemy troops and reserves behind the front lines. Massed bombers are immediately sent out. Wave after wave of heavy bombs are dropped upon enemy strong points. At the psychological moment, at the height of the bomb onslaught, tanks are launched forward. If the fire gets too hot for a tank advance, they dash for cover and signal for more bomber support.

The first bitter lesson to be learned by the allies, is that antitank guns developed in the last few years are obsolete. These guns were built with tanks of 1918 in mind, but the tank has made strides since then.

This lesson must be brought home: All of America's 50 caliber antitank guns are worthless.

Big Test Still Coming.

The battle on the western front has not proceeded far enough to determine the height of success the blitzkrieg is capable of achieving. Any military minded person knows that ground gained by fast mobile units is wasted effort unless it can be fortified and held. This theory was conclusively demonstrated by the spectacular raids of the Confederate cavalry general, J. E. B. Stuart, in the civil war in America.

Whether or not the efficiency of German communication and transportation systems is on a par with their front line attack remains to be seen. It depends on the morale of the allied troops. Basic supplies and man power, in the final analysis, have decided all other wars.

The third but deeply essential factor to the blitzkrieg's success is unity of command in all phases. Hitler is the supreme power and the founder of the blitzkrieg.

Three remarks accredited to Hitler, according to Berlin sources that have so far proved correct, may be cited to verify the powers vested in the unity of command.

One Decision Final.

In Munich Herr Hitler coolly informed Neville Chamberlain, then British prime minister, that it made no difference to him what the English government decided to do about Czecho-Slovakia. "I have decided," Hitler said.

In April at a meeting of his aides in the chancellery he asked his chief of staff if the enemy's front line of first defense could be broken. The general replied, "Yes; but at very heavy cost." Hitler replied, so the report goes, that he did not ask for an elaboration on his question.

Later in the same third week in April, at a meeting of industrial leaders, he gave orders to double the capacity of war output. A leader replied that it could be done only for two months with the supply of raw materials then in hand. Again Hitler declared that he asked for no elaboration of his orders.

A factor that is said to play an important rôle in the Hitler war schemes is, weather forecasts. All meteorologic knowledge possessed by scientific Germany is utilized to the fullest.

PRESIDENT PLANS DEFENSE COUNCIL ON CO-ORDINATION

Industrial Leaders Will Be Among Members.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—President Roosevelt today disclosed plans for creating a national defense emergency coördination council — composed of government officials and industrial leaders — which is to be charged with the task of coördinating defense expansion with national economy.

Thru White House Secretary Stephen T. Early, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed he is contemplating creation of a unit similar to the council of national defense of the world war. This board, which was charged with mustering the nation's resources, consisted of six cabinet officers and seven civilian experts.

Personnel Not Decided.

Secretary Early said the personnel and the exact date for the organization of the new unit has not been decided upon. It is the President's plan to have the group dovetail the defense expansion program with transportation, communications, industry, finance, agriculture, labor, and consumer needs.

For this reason it was expected that the official personnel of the new organization will include the secretaries of war, navy, commerce, agriculture, interior, and labor, and possibly the heads of several agencies such as the Interstate Commerce commission, the Federal Communications commission, and the Civil Aeronautics authority.

During the world war the outside experts who served on the national defense council were Bernard Baruch, financier; Samuel Gompers, labor leader; Julius Rosenwald, industrialist; Daniel Willard, railroad executive; Dr. Franklin M. Martin, medical authority; Howard E. Coffin, engineer, and Hollis Godfrey, engineer.

Speed Legislative Program.

In the meantime house leaders planned to speed the 3 billion 297 million dollar defense program thru congress so that it will be on the President's desk for signature by the end of the week.

The leaders plan to employ a legislative short cut to bring the bill to the White House. They will ask house concurrence of a proposal to do away with a senate-house conference on the bill and ask immediate passage after brief hearings by the house appropriations committee.

The house already had passed the army and navy appropriations bills when Mr. Roosevelt proposed to increase the defense outlay by 1 billion 182 million dollars in his special message to congress. The additions were made in the senate.

Would Eliminate Conference.

Under ordinary procedure the bills would go to a senate-house conference committee and the house would be called upon to vote on the committee's recommendations. Leaders today agreed to dispense with committee consideration, confident the house will give unanimous approval to such a move, and carry the defense program directly to the floor of the house.

Secretary Early acknowledged that in some respects the coördinating group Mr. Roosevelt has in mind will follow the general lines of the war-time council in its efforts to insure that American social and economic structures will not be dislocated by pressure of the tremendous defense program.

However, he emphasized that the group is to be constituted to aid and not to supercede existing government agencies.

"The President's plan will be flexible and at all times very elastic," Early said.

"For example, his present intention is to call into the government experts in transportation, communications, industry, finance, agriculture, labor, and consumers so that all groups that go to make up the pattern of American life will be represented.

Plans Brake on Prices.

"The President is particularly anxious to avoid any upsetting of American life—in other words not to let prices soar, to give producers a reasonable profit, and to prevent consumers from having to pay unreasonably high prices for food, housing, and other necessities of life.

"He is seeking to prevent so far as possible the highs and lows that prevailed during the world war from occurring again.

"Thru these gentlemen whom he expects to invite into the government will come coördination of American life as a whole."

A group of 25 government officials, army and navy officers and civilians at a meeting in the Willard hotel today surveyed methods of speeding up the air expansion program.

Gen. Malin Craig, retired, former army chief of staff, was appointed chairman of a committee to confer with army, navy, air corps and other governmental departments on ways to support the President's defense program. Other members named included: Gen. Frank R. McCoy, retired; Col. William J. Donovan, New York, lawyer, and Lewis Douglas, former director of the budget.

Superblast Leaves Goats Grazing

When Inventor Lester P. Barlow exploded his "superexplosive" at Aberdeen, Md., yesterday goats tethered 200 to 1,000 feet away apparently were undisturbed. This picture was taken at a distance of 2,400 feet with a 60 inch camera.

Aberdeen, Md., May 25 (AP).—Inventor Lester P. Barlow's liquid oxygen-carbon "superexplosive" apparently failed as an instrument of death in a test on live goats at Aberdeen proving grounds today.

A 1,000 pound charge of the explosive, which Barlow claims radiates lethal "vacuum waves" over a wide radius, failed to kill a single one of a herd of 98 goats tethered at distances ranging from 200 to 1,000 feet from the point where the bomb was set off.

After Barlow's demonstration, a charge of slightly more than 1,000 pounds of T. N. T. was tested under exactly the same conditions and with almost the same results. No goat was injured by the T. N. T. blast. Both explosives cracked blast meters 500 feet away. Barlow said this proved they have about the same power.

BIG FLAWS BARED IN U. S. ARMY BY BLITZKRIEG TEST

General Tells Findings of 3 Week Maneuvers.

Camp Beauregard, La., May 25 (AP).—Many serious flaws in American military operations and strategy were disclosed today by Maj. Gen. H. J. Brees in his appraisal of the army maneuvers just ended here.

One of the most important conclusions by the commanding general of the 8th corps area and chief control officer of the war games, in which 70,000 regulars participated, was that lack of support by heavy weapons, including artillery, was "painfully evident."

A Warning About Trucks.

"Our infantry must learn that trucks are not fighting vehicles and that they cannot fight in trucks," he reported. "Travel in trucks is going to be suicidal when truck columns come under observation and within range of artillery fire."

Gen. Brees' opinions were given at a critique after speeches by Lieut. Gen. Stanley D. Embick, commanding general of the 3d army; Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, commander of the blue forces, and Maj. Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the red forces.

The three weeks' maneuvers, largest in peacetime in this country, closed yesterday with America's first blitzkrieg, which rolled back the numerically superior blue army in confusion and left its theoretical capital, Alexandria, exposed to the invading red army.

Brees' Major Conclusions.

Gen. Breese concluded that:

Greater use must be made of air observation; the army should never neglect its facilities for supplying men and trucks in the field; mechanization of the fighting forces has stepped up the need for increased attention to supplies; the number of antiaircraft units should be increased; road reconnaissance by motor columns was noticeably poor; motor columns barged ahead regardless of security, road conditions, or terrain; intelligence officers should be trained to analyze problems more objectively, and many reconnaissance agencies attempt to cover too much territory.

Before returning to home stations officers will continue to study problems and lessons of the maneuvers until next week.

Need Tanks, Says Senator.

Meanwhile Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.], who spent a week in the field with the troops, said on departing today that lack of army manpower and tanks were "very grave difficulties."

"All the tanks we have," Senator Lodge asserted, "amount to just one finger of these fanlike German tank attacks.

"The production of airplanes is very important, but the construction of tanks is just as important right now."

Listing specific things he said were important to the national defense, Senator Lodge declared the first of these was military policy.

"At the moment, we do not know what we are going to protect in case of war," he declared. "We don't know whether we are going to protect the whole of the western hemisphere or as far south as the mouth of the Amazon river in South America, or confine protection to the United States and its possessions."

PERUVIAN QUAKE DEATH LIST TOPS 300; 2,000 HURT

LIMA, Peru, May 25 (AP).—Revised estimates tonight on yesterday's earthquake placed the dead at more than 300 and the injured at least 2,000.

Besides Lima, its seaport of Callao, and the nearby resort, Chorillos, suffered heavy loss of life and enormous property damage. Reports from outlying provinces showed the effects were nation-wide, but the Lima area appeared by far the hardest hit.

Thousands of persons were made homeless.

Greece Calls Specialists and 1934 Class to Colors

ATHENS, Greece, May 25 (AP).—The Greek government announced tonight that specialists and military classes of 1934 have been called up as a precautionary measure. It did not specify the number of men affected.

SWEDEN READY FOR WAR; WHOLE NATION IS ARMED

Completes 10 Yr. Defense Program in Four.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 25 (AP).—Mighty nations are using "all possible means to gain their ends" and Sweden must be prepared to resist any attempt to violate her liberty, Defense Minister P. E. Skold declared tonight.

P. E. Skold.

The minister addressed a huge open air meeting to promote raising of a 500,000,000 kronor [about $12,000,000] defense loan.

Sweden's strength is limited, and she must move cautiously, but at the same time, he said, "we must constantly be prepared to see violence rise up in front of us and try to force us to leave our road of liberty and independence.

Ready for Sacrifice.

"Then there is no escape. Then it is a question of Sweden's life and then we must not hesitate. Liberty is our banner. It can only wave over a free Sweden belonging to Swedes."

Crown Prince Adolf Gustaf closed the meeting with a speech deploring war but declaring Swedes were ready to "sacrifice everything to remain free."

An air defense show by Sweden's f st growing air force, which includes many recent purchases of American built planes, preceded the speeches.

Speed Defense Program.

Spurred by the fate of her neighbors, Sweden has completed a contemplated 10 year defensive program in less than 4 years.

Capt. Ejnar Fors Bergstrom, writer on military affairs now serving as press officer to foreign newspaper men, said new planes, ships, guns, and automatic arms constantly were swelling the country's military resources. He emphasized that the infantry rapidly is becoming mechanized, that coastal artillery has been reinforced, and that the air force is growing far more rapidly that was foreseen in 1936, when provision was made for only 260 warplanes.

"Swedish soldiers are stationed at all important points," he said. "The navy is completely manned, the air force is in a state of perfect readiness, and the antiaircraft defenses have proved efficiently vigilant.

Life Reorganized.

"Behind the front, the war industry is working at full speed and our economic life has been reorganized thoroly in view of a possible complete blockade.

"The Swedish people today are a people in arms, but Sweden is prepared for defense and defense only."

Weeping Jurors Convict Two Brothers of Arson

Ottawa, Ill., May 25 [Special].—Three women jurors wept in Judge Frank H. Hayes' Circuit court today when their verdict was read convicting Martin Mutter, 40 years old, and his brother Max, 37, operators of a meat market, on a charge of arson. Martin Mutter's wife, Bessie, jointly indicted with her husband, was acquitted. The charges followed a fire which destroyed their place of business here on May 8, 1939, causing damage of $60,000. The conviction carries a penalty of from one to 20 years in prison. The Mutter brothers operated a butcher shop in Washington street, just off Dearborn, in Chicago, a few years ago.

Two Versions of Allied Air War

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

AACHEN, Germany [at the border near the front], May 25 (AP).—During six days with the German army in the war zone I have witnessed probably the greatest massing of troops in history, carried out—to the expressed amazement of the Germans—with almost no interference from the enemy air force, as far as foreign correspondents could see.

Every German officer will tell you that the Nazi army's fast progress was made possible only by perfect coöperation of the air force. I wondered where the similar coöperation by the allied air force was, but I found no answer.

[The British air ministry yesterday said 1,500 German planes had been destroyed in the two weeks since the invasion of the Low Countries and reported continued assaults on the enemy communications and troops.

[Lochner, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Berlin, toured the front with two other American newspaper men.]

Asks: Why No Allied Planes?

Our six days in the operations zone left great questions. Why, thruout this time, did we never see an allied plane during the daytime? Why were single bombers that we heard but never saw in the early hours of Friday, and an air raid on Aachen last Wednesday morning, the only evidences to us of the existence of the allied airplane fleet?

During my stay on the front I traveled about 1,200 miles and went up and down more than 100 main roads. All were jammed. Imagine the confusion among horses alone, not to speak of men, which one bomber attack on such a road would have caused! We kept straining our eyes for allied planes and saw none.

Staff officers told us that German scouting planes located every enemy contingent. These scouters, the officers said, knew who was who in each approaching column. They also knew the location of bridges which had to be crossed and where roads were without the shelter of trees.

Officers Also Ask: Why?

With this knowledge the German air force appeared so supreme that attack on the massed roads by the allies seemed inadvisable. But we wondered why no effort was made to drop bombs on strategic bridges or military highways.

Not only I as a disinterested bystander was puzzled, but German officers implied they could not understand it.

Gen. Georg von Kuechler, commander in chief of the German army in the Antwerp sector, and Gen. Walther von Reichenau, commanding the army pushing toward the French ports opposite England, were amazed at the absence of air activity.

Saw No Allied Scout Planes.

Allied air activity also seemed missing at the battle front, altho I can give only my personal impression. As we watched the struggle for possession of the Scheldt canal near Tournai from the heights of Renaix, we clearly saw German scouting planes. We saw no allied scouters.

German officers professed to be puzzled by a seeming lack of coöperation between the allied air force and the allied armies and by what they called aimless dropping of bombs at night on western German cities.

LONDON, May 25 (AP).—Royal air force bombings of German transport columns, troop concentrations, rail junctions, and bridges in large scale operations over the war zone were described tonight by the air ministry.

Twelve German planes were shot down in a patrol of the battle areas, and German communications lines were disorganized over a wide area, the communique said. It added that many fires were started.

"In the course of these operations three of our aircraft were lost," declared the ministry. "Bomber aircraft of the royal air force have continued to give vigorous support to the Belgian, French, and British armies over the fighting fronts."

Motorized Units Attacked.

German motorized units were attacked on coastal roads near Boulogne by bombers "in almost continuous offensive patrols," the ministry said. Salvos of high explosive bombs burst on a German convoy of about forty vehicles, it added, and later the same German column was reported attacked by "a still stronger force." About 150 bombs reportedly "scored numerous hits."

In another attack on German antiaircraft batteries and a canal bridge "nearly 300 bombs were dropped" and guns were silenced by a direct hit.

Earlier another bombing of oil storage tanks in German-held Rotterdam, the Netherlands, was announced.

"Coastal command aircraft today again raided the oil storage tanks now in German hands at Rotterdam," asserted the ministry. "Several bombs were dropped on the tanks which were set on fire. The pilot of one of the last aircraft to take part in the raid reported that a row of oil tanks was burning fiercely when he arrived.

Searchlight Out of Action.

"'We dropped our bombs and as we flew off we saw that we had started two more fires,' he said. One German searchlight was put out of action by a rear gunner who saw his tracer bullets score a direct hit. The light went out immediately.

"Another coastal command aircraft spotted a German motor torpedo boat off the Dutch coast and shadowed it for 10 minutes. The pilot got into position for attack, then dived and let go one bomb from 400 feet. He scored a direct hit.

No Sign of Germans.

"Altho he came down to the surface of the sea after making the attack, he saw no sign of the enemy. Coastal command aircraft have bombed and machine gunned these motor torpedo boats on every possible occasion."

Earlier, the air ministry declared that British planes destroyed or seriously damaged 40 German bombers and fighter planes over the French and Belgian battlefronts yesterday, while losing 10.

It asserted that 31 German planes were seen to "burst into flames or crash on landing" and that nine more were put out of action, bringing enemy losses at the hands of the British to 120 planes in the last three days.

"Enemy aircraft of seven different types were destroyed," the ministry said. "Our fighters fought successfully against Heinkel 111s, Dornier 17s, Junkers 87 and Junkers 88 bombers, Messerschmitt 109 and 110 fighters, the army coöperation Henschel 126s, and even a Condor."

Congress in Costa Rica O.K.'s River Canal Project

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, May 25.—The Costa Rican congress today approved the San Juan river canalization project. This river would form an important link in a proposed canal connecting the Pacific and Atlantic oceans across Costa Rica and Nicaragua. The river links Lake Nicaragua with the Atlantic and forms the eastern boundary of the two republics. Under a treaty with Nicaragua, ratified in 1916, the United States acquired certain rights with respect to such a canal so far as it concerns Nicaragua.

HITLER'S SECRET WEAPON TO WIN WAR, SAY NAZIS

Will Surprise Foe After Victory in Flanders.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 25.—Authorized German sources today said that "a new weapon, so powerful and extraordinary that it will bring about a speedy victory and prove decisive in this war, will be used by the German forces as soon as the battle in Flanders is ended."

The Germans declared it was the knowledge of the power of this secret weapon that convinced Fuehrer Hitler that Germany could go to war and win.

DNB, official German news agency, said that besides the new weapons already tried "there still are more to come" that "even the Maginot line" could not resist.

Nature of Weapon Concealed.

The nature of the spectacular weapon is carefully concealed. Some skeptics expressed the belief that it merely represents a tremendous propaganda campaign to induce the English and French to lay down their arms. But the Germans denied this emphatically. They said it was not a new type of airplane or parachute, or device to land troops from the air, nor was it a flame thrower, glider, tank, or new gas.

Its introduction will be more spectacular than that of Germany's wartime 42 centimeter howitzer and more effective than tanks or gas because "these weapons of the world war were not of decisive importance, while the new weapon will be," these sources said.

Talk of Sound Waves.

Some Germans talked about the weapon being based on the principle of sound waves, which seems as mysterious as the much talked of death rays that are supposed to be able to paralyze enemy guns.

No reply was forthcoming when Germans were asked if the new mystery device was more deadly than the weapons used heretofore.

NAB GERMAN IN MONTREAL RAID ON 5TH COLUMN

MONTREAL, Que., May 25 (AP).—In the second of their overnight raids against Fascist and "fifth column" elements, police today arrested one man and seized fresh quantities of Swastika emblems, pennants, pamphlets, maps and photographs.

The raids were executed by the Royal Canadian mounted police and detachments of Montreal and provincial police. The name of their prisoner was not disclosed, but it was said he was a German who came to Canada in 1928.

Most of the raiding was on the homes of alleged district organizers of the National Unity party, Canadian Fascist organization, whose headquarters were searched by police Thursday night.

CHINESE CLAIM 55,000 JAPANESE SLAIN IN BATTLE

CHUNGKING, China, May 25 (AP).—The official national military council, reviewing the recent Japanese offensive in Honan and Hupeh provinces, estimated 55,000 Japanese had been killed between April 30 and May 16.

The council declared that the Japanese, inspired by Wang Ching-Wei, head of the Japanese-dominated "central Chinese government" at Nanking, threw 200,000 troops, supported by aircraft, tanks and armored cars, into the Honan-Hupeh fighting.

A large scale Japanese bombing raid caused 500 deaths at Sianfu, Shensi province, on May 19, delayed advices reported today. Three hundred persons were killed in one shelter, which received a direct hit.

DO NOT TROUBLE BRITAIN, GANDHI ADVISES INDIANS

BOMBAY, India, May 25. (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, today advised his followers to refrain from "creating trouble" at this critical time and declared the British are "well able to cope with any difficulty that may face them."

"British people stand in no need of sympathy from a subject people, for they can command all they want from the latter," Gandhi said in a newspaper article. "India was dragged into the war by the mere wish of the British cabinet."

India is a dependency, Gandhi said, and Britain will drain the dependency dry as she has done in the past.

Egypt's King Sends His Family to Country Estate

CAIRO, Egypt, May 25 (AP).—King Farouk I. sent to his country estate today his queen, Farida, and their two daughters, Ferial, 2 years old, and Fawzia, born last April 7. Premier Aly Pasha, meantime, issued a statement that Egypt's position in the international situation is "dangerous, just as that of any country is dangerous," since modern methods of transport had reduced distances.

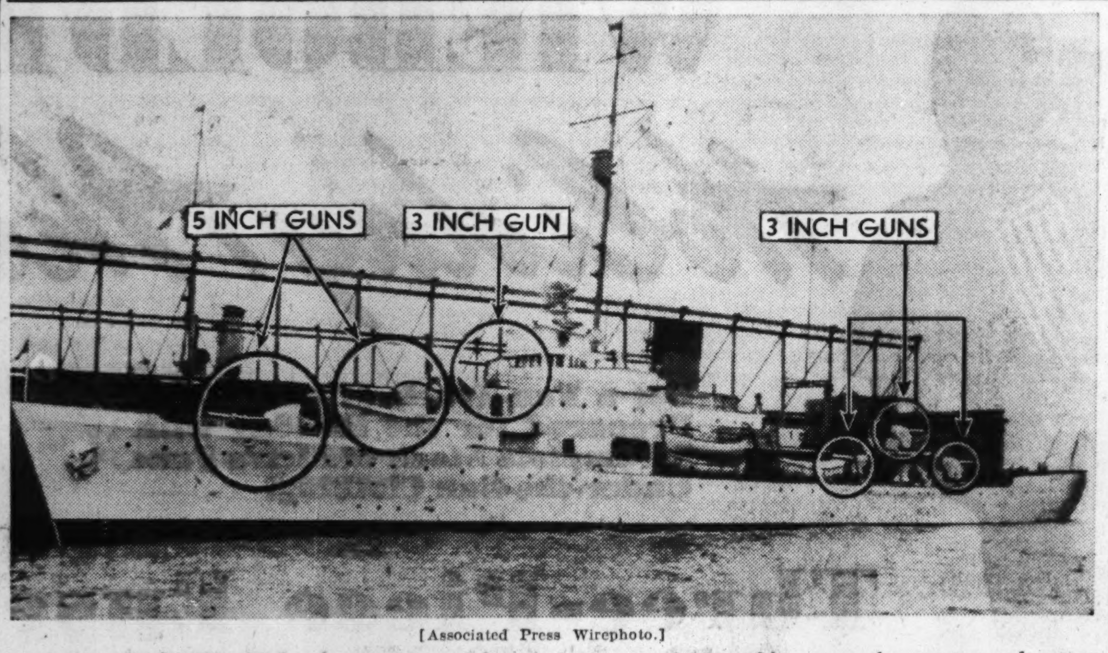
Cutter Armed with Twelve Additional Guns



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Armed with 12 additional guns, an antiaircraft battery, and 25 machine guns, the coast guard cutter George W. Campbell was ready at New York last night to sail for Greenland today. Not all of the armament is visible in the picture.

TENTH OF BRITISH ARMY TRAPPED IN NAZI POCKET

200,000 Represent Pick of Force in France.

One tenth of the total mobilized British forces—200,000 men—are facing extinction in Germany's troop trap which was reported closing yesterday on the allied forces in Flanders.

The 200,000 represent the pick of the British Expeditionary force of 250,000 sent to France months ago, trained there, and ordered into Belgium on May 19. The figures are the most accurate available from sources in London, Berlin and Washington, D. C. The Germans say that also in the trap are 400,000 Belgians and 500,000 Frenchmen.

Had 230,000 Year Ago.

Last fall, before Hitler's series of blitzkriegs, the British regular army numbered 230,000 exclusive of troops stationed in India and other overseas garrisons. In the Territorial army, corresponding to the National Guard in the United States, there were an additional 285,000 men.

These two forces gave England 515,000 men under arms, with 144,000 in the army reserve made up of men who had served in the regular army. There were numerous enlistments before general conscription law was passed last September.

Some classes were called immediately and in April there was a new order which called an additional 850,000 men to the colors. Official sources estimated at that time that by June, Britain would have 2,000,000 men under arms. This figure was reached yesterday.

Can Muster 9 Millions.

In April also, it was estimated there were half a million Canadians, Australians and Indian troops "standing to." The empire is considered to have a potential fighting force of nine millions.

When the British Expeditionary force was sent to France last September, it was headed by Viscount Gort, but was placed under French command. In five weeks in September and October 185,000 were sent to France and others went in later.

Supplies for Consul

New York, May 25 (AP). — The heavily armed United States coast guard cutter George W. Campbell, originally scheduled to sail for Greenland today, is expected to leave tomorrow with supplies for the new American consulate at Godthaab, capital of Greenland.

The vessel carries eleven 3 inch guns, six 5 inch guns, an anti-aircraft battery, twenty-five machine guns, and a scouting plane, representing additional armament recently ordered on all cutters of the Campbell type. The Campbell ordinarily carries only two 3 inch guns and three 5 inch guns.

Today's scheduled sailing was delayed to permit the vessel to take on additional supplies, coast guard officials said. The cutter will enter iceberg patrol duty after calling at Godthaab.

BRITAIN TAKES NEW STEPS TO CONSERVE PAPER

LONDON, May 25 (AP).—The British government took these new steps today to conserve the supply of paper:

Forbade issuance of new periodicals.

Ordered newspapers to stop using broadsheets on which street vendors display the headlines in large "boxcar" type.

Restricted use of wrapping paper as packing material.

Prohibited manufacture of such paper goods as napkins, tablecloths, plates, and confetti.

The order, however, does not apply to production for export.

SHOPS OF PARIS DRESSMAKERS TO BE KEPT OPEN

PARIS, May 25 (AP).—Paris dressmakers decided today to keep their doors open as usual despite the heavy fighting in northern France.

Lucien Lelong, president of the Dressmakers' Syndical chamber, said the group had voted to remain in the capital as long as the government gave no order to the contrary.

The decision, which involves all the leading houses, was based, Lelong said, on the need to keep the workers employed and the "very encouraging" number of orders recently received from abroad.

NAZI AND FRENCH AIRMEN BATTLE FOR RULE OF SKY

German Bombs Rain on Landing Fields.

BY H. TAYLOR HENRY.

WITH THE ADVANCED FRENCH AIR ARMY SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN FRANCE, May 25 (AP) [Delayed in transit].—German bombing squadrons in massed formations of 30 and 40 planes rained bombs on French airports in north central France today in an effort to halt the French pilots' desperate campaign to cut down Germany's admitted numerical superiority in warplanes.

The heaviest raids, in which hundreds of bombs were dropped, came during the early morning and just before and after noon.

They were directed at the airports supporting the land armies locked in the battle for supremacy in northern France.

Pilots of the squadrons based on these fields almost literally are doing the work of three men [22 words were censored here]. After each battle they return to their bases, reload and are off again immediately.

French air officers said today the initial Nazi advantage in the air was being cut down, but they added that even the experience and daring of the French pilots has not been able to keep the Germans from raiding into the heart of France.

Fighters Sweep Into Air.

While we talked on the well-camouflaged field, fast fighter patrols swept into the air to meet another bombing raid on a neighboring field.

The heavy blasts of bombs followed one another in rapid succession until the German bombers were beaten off by the French planes, which dived with machine guns and cannon firing.

Thruout the northern air army zone officers told of heavy German bombardments, but said there was only material damage.

CHICAGO'S RED CROSS TOPS $200,000 MARK; $1,000,000 IS ITS GOAL

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross has passed the $200,000 mark toward its million dollar goal in the national Red Cross war relief fund campaign, James B. Forgan, chairman, announced yesterday. The national drive seeks to raise 10 million dollars.

Eighteen thousand dollars from the Commonwealth Edison company was the largest donation received by the Chicago chapter yesterday. The contribution was corporate and did not include solicitation among executives and employés.

The women's special gift division, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, raised more than 12 per cent of the amount contributed during the first week of the campaign in Chicago, Mr. Forgan reported.

POLICE CHIEF'S AID ON LEAVE.

Belvidere, Ill., May 25 [Special].—Albert Johnson, former Boone county sheriff, today was named a member of the police force after Assistant Chief Lloyd Wood was granted a year's leave of absence because of illness. Frank Hendee was named acting assistant chief.

TENSION EASED; HOLLAND MOVES BACK TO NORMAL

Trade Resumed; Crowds Fill Streets.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, May 25 (AP).—Holland is rapidly recovering from the tension of war and today was as nearly normal, perhaps, as any country in Europe.

Two weeks ago yesterday, when the Nazi invasion began, destruction rained from the skies and thousands of soldiers swept over the flat countryside. For five days the Dutch army fought, while the populace shuddered and jumped nervously as the wail of air raid sirens frequently broke on the air.

Crowds Fill Streets.

Today, except in a few places like Rotterdam, where the full force of the war struck, people were going about their business as usual. The streets were filled with the customary crowds—people strolling, chatting, sunning themselves as they sipped drinks on the terraces of cafés. Theaters and bars are open.

There are many reminders of war, but one is impressed by the relaxation of the tension that had been felt in varying degrees for many months before Germany struck.

Cities Still Blacked Out.

The blackout still is in effect in all cities. The Germans have pushed the clocks ahead an hour and 40 minutes, however, to conform with Berlin summer time, and this means daylight until 10:30 p. m.

Numerous German soldiers are seen on the streets and in restaurants, but Dutch soldiers, permitted to go about freely, are more in evidence.

Nazi Army Is Supreme.

The German military command is the supreme authority in Holland. Local governments, however, are permitted to function in collaboration with the Germans.

The Dutch penal law is still in force except in special cases punishable by German law, such as violence against German soldiers, which is punishable by death. All citizens are required to turn in firearms.

GRENFELL GETS $500 AWARD FOR LABRADOR WORK

Sir Wilfred Grenfell, for 49 years the guiding genius of Labrador, yesterday was given an award for distinguished service to humanity by the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen.

Sir Wilfred Grenfell.

The award, which carries with it a cash gift of $500, was made at the annual tulip breakfast of the conference, composed of clubs from Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana. About 1,700 women attended.

Sir Wilfred, a kindly English doctor, now 75, spoke modestly of his work in Labrador, where, along 1,500 miles of bleak coastland, he has organized hospitals, schools and missions. "Any one who had my opportunities," he said quietly, "would be, I think, eager to vie with me for the opportunities I am getting and have been getting."

Reason for the award, as read aloud by Mrs. Charles S. Clark, chairman, and the 1,700 women, is: "In appreciation of the faith, valor, ability and limitless spiritual inspiration of a great and truly Christian man, a healer of men, an humble and heroic spirit, one who kindled the soul of Labrador, one who followed the Christ-ideal as a true musician renders great music."

HUNDREDS HELD AS RUMANIA HITS AT FIFTH COLUMN

Bucharest Theater, Cafe Crowds Questioned.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 25.—Hundreds of persons have been held while Bucharest authorities checked up on them in a surprise drive to forestall any fifth column activity here.

The authorities decided to move to prevent any possible attack from inside Rumania by picking up everybody who could not explain his activities. The suspects are released if they prove they have been engaged in proper business. Those who had proper documents were not molested.

50 Held at One Station.

All cafés and other public places have been visited, it was announced today. Police blocked exits while they questioned the persons inside. Streets were blocked off while everybody was examined.

The number of arrests made is a secret. Most of the prisoners taken to police stations were released soon afterwards, but by no means all. Fifty were seen at one station today.

Every Rumanian is required by law to carry an official card showing in distinct lettering who he is and where he lives. Foreigners must carry their passports.

A number of foreigners who had been seen frequently in Bucharest have left, but it is impossible to learn whether any of them was forced to go. There have been few expulsions under laws recently enacted concerning aliens, but most of the persons who knew they would not be permitted to remain left without waiting for orders.

Not all of those who remain are entirely welcome to the Rumanians, but there are ways of evading the law, such as having an official position at a legation.

Open Drive to Stop Ru mors.

To put new teeth into the campaign for checking propaganda and other subversive activity, the minister of interior, Michael Ghelmegeanu, ordered officials thruout the country to take drastic action to check rumors, whispering campaigns, and "stories of panic."

"You are to carry out the law without mercy and without delay" was the order sent in a circular to police officials.

The police prefect of Bucharest, Gen. Rodrig Modreanu, took a hand two days ago in the move to stop a flood of rumors by ordering the arrest of several persons he had heard were spreading sensational reports. Under the Rumanian law, "the production, reproduction or diffusion by any means of false rumors, imaginary or falsified documents" is punishable by from two to four months' imprisonment and heavy fines. Slander against the state is also an offense.

It was announced that steps will be taken to stop the wild rumors that are flying about Bucharest hotels and cafés.

GERMAN MEDAL ROUSES VETERAN TO SEEK ACTION

Daniel Lawrence Hardy, 1236 Carmen avenue, a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who was wounded in the world war, said yesterday that he will ask the V. F. W. to take action with regard to naturalized American citizens who receive decorations from foreign dictators. He also wired Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the federal bureau of investigation, demanding that American citizens refuse to accept such medals.

Hardy said his action was inspired by newspaper stories Friday regarding the receipt of a medal from Adolf Hitler by Mrs. Martha Triebel of Flossmoor.

Frank E. Polley, state adjutant of the V. F. W., said he knew of no action which was under consideration by the veterans' organization, but that "there is no doubt as to what the V. F. W.'s attitude would be."

STILES MOVES HIS SYCAMORE OFFICE TO CITY

A. K. Stiles, who recently retired as chairman of the Republican state central committee, announced yesterday that he had transferred his business activities from his home town, Sycamore, in De Kalb county, to Chicago. In partnership with John Shahen, who was his right hand as office executive and publicity director for the committee, he has entered the public relations business at 221 North La Salle street. During the World war, Stiles handled navy publicity and for the last 11 years he has been a major in the regular army reserve and has been assigned to public relations duty.

Maurice Donegan Slated for U. S. Attorney in Iowa

Washington, D. C., May 25 (AP).—Senator Clyde L. Herring [D. Ia.], today said he had recommended to President Roosevelt the appointment of Maurice F. Donegan of Davenport as United States attorney for the southern district of Iowa. Donegan is a former justice of the state Supreme court. If appointed, Donegan will succeed John K. Valentine of Centerville, who resigned to become a Democratic candidate for governor.

HOPE OF VICTORY RISES IN BERLIN, WRITER ASSERTS

Hears Sky Is Limit for Peace Terms.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MILAN, Italy, May 25.—I have just passed thru Germany after having been caught in Amsterdam by the sudden German occupation of Holland.

While in Berlin I observed that hopes for a total victory were growing. Speculation as to what kind of peace Germany intended to impose on France and England disappeared entirely from the press and from conversations.

I made inquiries, but got very little satisfaction. Those who dared to discuss the subject of whether Adolf Hitler would be reasonable in regard to the peace terms were not encouraging.

Eupen Annexation Cited.

"The sky is the limit if Germany wins, you can bet on that," I was told by one source supposedly well informed.

Formal annexation of Eupen and Malmedy from Belgium was accepted by many as giving an example of what Hitler intends to do regarding Alsace and Lorraine. Even on that, however, there was disagreement because there are those who still believe the war is directed mainly against England and are hoping for a separate French peace, which has been an objective of the war and of German displomatic efforts since the war began. These persons believe, of course, that if this could be done Germany would be content to obtain the spoils from the British empire.

Compensation Is Demanded.

Most German officials avoided the question of peace terms, saying that Hitler alone knew what these terms might be. Those who dared to discuss the question declared that victorious Germany must be compensated for its great sacrifices in men, money and hardships.

Britain, in the opinion of many, still is in good enough economic and financial position to pay heavy reparations.

MEXICO HUNTS GANG THAT TRIED TO KILL TROTSKY

Find Two Autos; Fate of Aid in Doubt.

MEXICO CITY, May 25 (AP).—Search for 20 gunmen who attempted early yesterday to slay Leon Trotsky, exiled former Russian war commissar, resulted today in recovery of two automobiles taken from the Russian's residence. The cars were found 10 miles west of Mexico City.

Police found no further clew to the whereabouts of Sheldon Harte, 25 years old, a Trotsky secretary and bodyguard. Harte was kidnaped by the gang. His father, Jesse Harte of New York, is reported on his way here by plane.

The investigation disclosed that the assassins were disguised in police uniforms.

As police under orders of President Lazaro Cardenas attempted to pick up the trail of the gang, conservative politicians declared the attack was proof that a Nazi-communist fifth column is at work in Mexico.

Some federal deputies said they feared the attack on Trotsky might have been the prelude to a "reign of terror." A communist leader called it "a plot of reactionary domestic and foreign interests to discredit Mexico." his bedroom, has charged that "Josef

Trotsky, who escaped by feigning death, altho only scratched by shattered glass and flying splinters in the midst of machine gun crossfire into his bedroom, had charged that "Josef Stalin was directly responsible."

DRIVERS GATHER TO HEAR TERMS FOR STRIKE END

Arbitration Demanded by Dealers' Group.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Virtually all the 4,500 members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union gathered last night in the Coliseum to consider proposed terms under which they might end the strike that has tied up the Chicago area's milk supply for a full week.

Several hours after the union men assembled their officers were still conferring with the employing dealers in the hope of getting terms that the big gathering would approve. Some of the conferees were skeptical of the outcome and were certain the talk would last far into the morning.

Concede 54 Hour Week.

In general, the dealers were said to be insistent that the union agree to arbitration of a new pay scale, to begin June 5, with any final settlement to be retroactive to May 1. They were said to be willing to concede a 54 hour week [drivers said they now work 65 to 70 hours].

The latest endeavor for peace was fostered by N. J. Cladakis, federal milk market administrator; Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, and Joseph D. Keenan of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Cladakis appealed to both sides in behalf of the milk producing farmers and the consuming public.

This trio acted as messengers and aids to the union officers and the dealers and strove to get them closer to agreement on terms. Late in the evening the union representatives were demanding at least three days pay for the strike week, and a delay to June 10 for the proposed arbitration. Both sides seemed to be willing to have the old wage scale of $48 a week prevail until the arbitration date.

Flow Cut to 25 Per cent.

Dealers said that if the strike were ended early today, full supplies of milk could reach customers in Chicago and the Cook county suburbs within 24 hours at most. During the strike the flow has been cut to only about 25 per cent of normal. Under ordinary conditions the area affected consumes 4,000,000 pounds of fluid milk daily, a pound being roughly a pint.

Differences between the men and the dealers came to a crisis when the old wage contract expired April 30. That scale called for a base wage of $48 and a small commission. The dealers ordered a $30 base and a new commission basis that would, they said, give the driver a total of $40 week.

The union struck May 1. Thru State's Attorney Courtney's intervention it was ended May 3. The union membership, however, delayed action on arbitration approval, and the dealers on May 18 announced again the cut was in force. The men struck again, claiming the dealer action in reality was a lockout.

Since that time efforts by Courtney and Mayor Kelly for a settlement were unsuccessful. Keenan and Cladakis then stepped in as peacemakers Friday evening.

HODES APPEALS WRIT APPROVING PAPER BOTTLES

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday filed in Illinois Appellate court a petition asking that the court set aside an injunction in which Circuit Judge William V. Brothers on Tuesday forbade the city from interfering with the sale of milk in paper cartons by the Dean Milk company.

The injunction never went into effect, because on Wednesday Hodes obtained a stay in which the Appellate court ruled it must hold a full hearing on the matter before sale of milk in the cartons is permitted.

In his new petition, seeking to have the injunction knocked out entirely, Hodes said a similar injunction suit brought by a Dean subsidiary, Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., has been pending in Federal court for several years.

METHODIST BODY ASKS AMERICA TO STAY OUT OF WAR

Asheville, N. C., May 25 (AP).—The southeastern jurisdictional conference of the Methodist church asked the United States today to stay out of war.

A report adopted by the conference, representing nine state conferences, said:

"We must not yield to the fallacy that the United States must go into the war if it is to serve in establishing a new peace basis. We can serve best by staying out.

"Only those who have escaped the blood lust of actual fighting can see the world situation steadily and see it whole."

Echo of Gangster Threats Again Disturbs Milk Union

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Convoys brought 10 tank trucks, 2 of them pulling trailer tanks, safely into the city last night—just like in the days of prohibition.

And over on the west side 200 armed men, half of them city policemen, saw those tank trucks safely delivered to their consignee and emptied of their contents—milk.

And downtown, where dairy officials and union representatives had been wrestling all day and night with the great problem of a basis for the settlement of the strike of more than 6,200 men, the history of the Meadowmoor Dairy company, owner of the convoyed trucks, was being recalled.

A Switch in Rackets.

The end of prohibition put the bootleggers into the milk business. Milkmen agreed that when Capone mobsters first cast covetous glances in 1932 on the milk wagon drivers' union with its $1,000,000 in the treasury, misfortune began for the drivers.

The organization of the Meadowmoor company, which began selling milk to stores for resale to the public at 9 cents a quart, and the activities of Murray Humphreys and his fellow Capone gangsters in milk circles were simultaneous. Eventually the Meadowmoor company, which has its plant at 1334 South Peoria street, forced the price for store sales to 8½ cents per quart, while unionized home delivery milk cost 13 cents per quart.

That differential of 4½ cents per quart sent thousands of housewives to carrying their milk home from the food stores—and the number of milk delivery routes dwindled from 7,000 to 4,500. The Meadowmoor employed nonunion help, it was explained; the union drivers averaged $52 per week.

Basic Cause of Trouble.

The cause of the present strike, or lockout as some call it, is that the companies employing union help asked the drivers to take a cut of somewhere between $14 and $18 per week, and asked their inside workers to take a similar cut. All concerned agreed that the reason was just this: That the cost of home delivery must be reduced or more and more of the business will go to the food stores, a large percentage of which are supplied by the Meadowmoor company.

The union officials are admittedly facing a problem: Should they, if they can, "organize" the Meadowmoor company which they blame for the economic disturbance of the industry? Should they enter into a contract with this company which, in times past they linked with Capone and Humphreys?

Peace Moves Recalled.

It was reported that Attorney William Parrillo, who has figured in west side politics and served as an assistant United States attorney, had broached the subject of possible unionization of the Meadowmoor company's employés. He acted as its attorney, unionists said, and it was reported the other large dairies were encouraging the union to make peace with Meadowmoor.

It was recalled that Steve Sumner, who was replaced as secretary-treasurer of the union a few months ago after 40 years of service, had twice testified about the Humphreys hostility to the union milk drivers.

"Steve, in your time it was brass knuckles," Sumner said Humphreys and other gangsters told in 1932. "Now it's machine guns and bombs."

Tells of $100,000 Offer.

"They offered me $100,000 to get out and let them take over the union," Sumner testified in 1934 before Judge Philip Finnegan. "I told him the dealers would never stand for him in the union and he replied: 'A few sticks of dynamite will take care of that.'"

Last year Sumner testified in the United States courthouse before Bolon B. Turner, member of the United States Tax Board of Appeals.

"It was Humphreys who picked up the $50,000 I left on the seat of the automobile for Bob Fitchie's ranson," Sumner said. "With him were George [Red] Barker and William [Three Finger] White." [Fitchie was president of the Milk Drivers union at the time of the kidnaping.]

Humphreys did not deny getting the money. The government, which sought to collect $37,000 tax on the ransom money from Humphreys, has not yet decided his appeal, which was heard in February, 1939.

Early Deals Told.

"Humphreys and his fellow gangsters visited me at the union headquarters and said I didn't know how to make money out of the union," Sumner, who is now in his nineties, testified. "When he found he couldn't do business with me, and I had fortified the union headquarers, he told me he was starting in the milk business and wanted me to let him operate for six weeks with nonunion drivers until he could get organized.

"He said prohibition was soon going to end and he had to find some business to take care of his beer runners.

"He said he intended to force the larger companies to buy his new milk company out," the veteran union leader said on another occasion.

Plant Bombed at Opening.

The opening of the Meadowmoor plant was accompanied by a bombing of its premises on May 19, 1932. The next day it was announced the company planned to sell milk at 9 cents a quart—the regular price of all other distributors then was 11 cents.

Police and federal officials questioned Humphreys about the Meadowmoor company and questioned its officials about Humphreys. Privately, Humphreys would admit being in the milk business, but he wasn't telling anything about anything to anybody. He was being groomed to succeed Capone when Capone went to federal prison, and Humphreys didn't want any one to know about his own income.

In 1934 Humphreys went to federal prison for not paying taxes on his income of $60,000 in 1932. When he came out, 18 months later, he was rated as Public Enemy No. 1, but later this title was to be transferred to Frank [the Enforcer] Nitti, who, state and federal officials said, was and is, in reality, Humphreys' boss.

Out Now, He Says.

A few weeks ago Humphreys said he was out of the milk business. But the union officials and drivers are not yet certain he told the truth, they said.

And so, last night at 11 o'clock, as the caravan of milk trucks pulled up to the Peoria street plant, the boys over at the Coliseum and the negotiators in the Stevens hotel spoke of Humphreys. Humphreys, they said, had brought the milk industry into a chaotic condition, reminiscent of what gangsters did to the country in the days before repeal.

PRESBYTERIANS TO INVESTIGATE PASTOR PENSIONS

Rochester, N. Y., May 25 (AP).—The 152d assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. voted today to conduct a full investigation of the church's 13 year old $41,000,000 pension found for retired pastors.

Action followed a recommendation by the standing committee on pensions that a special committee be appointed "to examine the entire problem."

The pension system was set up in 1927. It provided for pensions to all pastors who had reached the age of 65 and had been in service 35 years. The 1939 assembly amended the plan to require retirement before granting a pension.

BAPTIST PARLEY OPPOSES KEEPING ENVOY IN VATICAN

Roosevelt Requested to Reconsider Appointment.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 25 [Special].—The Northern Baptist convention, representing 7,400 churches, in session here today, urged President Roosevelt to reconsider the appointment of Myron C. Taylor, former head of the United States Steel corporation, as his personal representative at the Vatican.

The action taken by the Baptist convention was in line with that taken by Lutheran synods and other church groups, which cited the fact that the United States has had no formal relations with the Vatican for many decades, and emphasized the American tradition of separation of church and state.

The resolution reaffirmed the Baptist church's position of "unalterable opposition to any change in the American and Baptist view of separation of the church and state," altho in the form in which it finally was adopted it was milder in tone than that originally introduced. This had contained the demand that President Roosevelt effect "the termination of the appointment [of Taylor] at the earliest possible moment." The resolution as adopted urged the President to reconsider Taylor's appointment.

"The President's action in appointing a personal representative to the Vatican to further the cause of peace," the resolution adopted stated, "has raised widespread question as to whether this would constitute a stepping stone to a more permanent diplomatic relationship."

The resolution said peace of the world was "the burning issue of today" and the growing sense of unity among churches was a vital factor in furtherance of peace, but that the Taylor appointment "endangered this sense of unity. . . ."

"We, the resolution added, "restate our conviction that no privileges should be given to one religious body that are not accorded to all [and] we declare our irrevocable opposition to establishment of diplomatic relations with any religious body whatsoever."

Delegates Are Unanimous.

Not one of the 3,000 delegates at the convention voted against the resolution.

One resolution urged the government to "accord all conscientious objectors the same status as that accorded to members of the Society of Friends and other religious groups."

Another resolution put the convention on record as being strongly opposed to any intervention abroad.

As originally drafted, it contained the categorical statement that ". . . it is our firm conviction that the sentiment of the country is overwhelmingly opposed to sending American troops to foreign soil."

Eager to Stay Out of War.

After this passage was stricken, the resolution was toned down and passed in the following form:

"We express to the President of the United States and the members of his cabinet our appreciation of their efforts to keep this nation out of war, and that we register the stern opposition of this convention to any intervention by the armed forces of the United States in Europe or Asia."

This same measure also contained an expression of sympathy for "the democracies of the old world, great and small, in their ordeal, in which they are making sacrifices for values vital to Christians."

TOLEDOAN KILLED IN DETROIT CRASH.

Detroit, Mich., May 25 (AP).—William C. Camper, 57 years old, of Toledo, O., was killed today in the collision of two automobiles northwest of here. Raymond Hackney, 41, Toledo, driver of the automobile, and Daniel Geygan, 43, of near Detroit, were injured.

CITY'S MILKMEN TELL THEIR SIDE OF WAGE DISPUTE

Drain on Route Driver's Purse Described.

The Dealers' Stand

Milk dealers in the Chicago area contend that milk wagon drivers must take a wage cut if the unionized portion of their industry is to survive against competition.

They assert most of their business is done in stores and that home delivery of milk is on the wane. To hold what is left of the doorstep business, they say, costs must be cut, so the difference between home delivery and store delivery prices may be equalized. [Present store price is 8½ cents a quart; home price, 13 cents.]

The dealers' proposition originally was that the men must take a base pay of $30 and a new commission arrangement which [dealers said] would make driver income $40 a week.

BY MARCIA WINN.

This is the story of the salesmen-drivers, generally known as the milkmen. They told their story last night as they milled about the crowded Coliseum waiting for proposed terms to end their strike. Many said they would like to tell it to every housewife waiting at the top of a flight of stairs.

"You ought to come out and see conditions and see how we fellows work," said one, a melancholy-eyed man of about 41. "See us get up at 3 in the morning and get home at 5 in the afternoon. See us out when it's six above zero——"

"The day of the blizzard the milk got there," interrupted a stubby little man. "I delivered milk until 12 o'clock that night——"

And Those Stairs!

"Who is it that climbs the stairs every morning," demanded a third, a benign man with snowy hair, "and does all the selling and gets all the new business? It's us."

"If we were guaranteed $35 a week, and were sure we'd get it, net, we'd go to work tomorrow," spoke up a gray haired man, a college graduate who has been carrying milk eight years [23 per cent of the men are college graduates]. "But the way things are, if they gave us $30, we'd really make $17——"

"What of the family that moves away and leaves a milk bill?" interrupted a tall, sallow man in brown, edging his way in. "Do you know who foots that? We do."

"We pay all dead accounts," another said.

About That Sales Tax.

"And the sales tax," spoke up a chorus of voices. "Ninety per cent of the women don't pay—the milkman pays the tax. Suppose you have a customer who takes a quart of milk a day. That's 91 cents a week. But she won't pay that tax. We do."

"We don't mind a 54 hour week ——" began one.

"We don't mind a 60 hour week," another corrected him. "Right now we have a 72 or 88 hour week. A driver can't make it in less, with 400 customers to one man. Then, when you get thru with your route, you've got to go home and do book work. That's an average of three or four nights a month, six hours a night."

"Don't forget the premiums," cried another.

If a housewife's milk is stolen from her door, the milkman pays not the company, they said. If a housewife says 'But I can get milk at the store for 8½ cents,' and the driver meets—or almost meets—the difference between that and his company's price of 13 cents, he pays the difference, "to keep his route up." If she asks him to buy a 25 cent ticket to her charity bazar and he does—good will is necessary—that comes out of his pocket. Good will costs him at least $50 a year.

He Pays the Shortage.

If she doesn't return her bottle, the milkman pays the company a penny for the shortage. One milkman said he had a $56 shortage last month for bottles and sales tax.

The milkmen say their average salary is $47 a week. Their oommissions average $3 a month. To get a commission, they have to sell at least 191 quarts of milk a day.

Out of their $47, they say, comes—after shortages, deficits, and breakage has been deducted—$6 a month union dues, $6 a month for their unemployed benefits [they are taking care of 2,200 drivers who are out of work], social security tax, and uniforms, where required.

"If we average $35 a week we're lucky," one driver said. "Yet a pie wagon driver gets $51, working five days a week, eight hours a day."

The average driver, they said, is 37 years old, married, has three children, fallen arches and trouble with his back. He pays about $40 a month rent. If he accepts the company's pay cut, 7,000 Chicago families will be moving for cheaper living quarters—if they can find them.

Scouts Camp Out

"Gee, if this rain keeps up, I won't be able to sleep in the tent tonight. My mother says I might catch cold." This statement caused a young tenderfoot at the Austin district Boy Scout camporee in Columbus park yesterday to be buried promptly under a score of blankets and three husky Scouts.

The incident was only one of many which proved that the 1,000 Scouts camped in the park were determined to lead the hardy life for three days. The wind blew down their tents and scattered their camp fires. The rain soaked food and sleeping cots.

The rally, however, which is an annual event sponsored by the Austin Scout Leaders' club in conjunction with Columbus Park post, No. 688, of the American Legion and the park district, will not break camp until this afternoon.

The boys from 26 troops, Cub packs and Sea Scout ships pitched their tents Friday evening. They have cooked their own food, chopped wood, made up their cots, taken part in field events and contests, and worked for merit badges. This morning they will attend church services on the grounds. After scouting demonstrations for the public, they will receive awards for their three days' activities.

CAMPBELL HELD SURE TO BE NEW U. S. JUDGE HERE

Capital Says Both Illinois Senators Back Him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Appointment of United States Attorney William J. Campbell to the federal District court bench in Chicago was reported virtually assured today after President Roosevelt's signature had been affixed to a new law providing for an additional Chicago judgeship.

William J. Campbell.

Campbell, who has served as United States attorney since November, 1938, is understood to have the approval of both Illinois senators, Scott W. Lucas and James M. Slattery. His name, according to reports in Washington, will be formally submitted to the President, and thence to the senate for confirmation in the near future.

Most in History.

Creation of another judgeship will give the northern district of Illinois seven district judges, the most it has ever had. However, the bill provides that the next vacancy will not be filled, which will automatically reduce the bench to its present size. An extra judge, it was explained, was deemed necessary because of the increased number of pending cases growing out of several major grand jury investigations.

If Campbell gets the appointment it will be the climax to one of the most rapid political ascendancies in the history of Illinois. Before he became federal prosecutor he had served three years as state director of the National Youth administration, his only other public office. At 37 he would be the youngest judge on the District bench.

A comparatively unknown figure when he became United States attorney, Campbell lost no time in making his presence felt in the United States courthouse at Chicago. He reorganized his staff of assistants and moved them to different quarters where it was impossible for loiterers and would-be fixers to approach them.

Lights began to burn until late at night in the new offices as the corps of government lawyers put in hours of overtime. Several grand juries were called into session simultaneously.

Within a few months, M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher, was indicted for income tax evasion aggregating $9,000,000, the largest amount ever claimed by the government from an individual. The handbook racket was at least partially crippled, something police had been unable to do with search warrants and axes, when the new prosecutor forced the telephone and telegraph companies to discontinue service to gamblers.

Gambling Quiz Follows.

Then followed a long inquiry into the incomes of gamblers. This resulted in a series of indictments naming the chief figures in the gambling syndicate and many of their associates. Campbell also directed the prosecution of two former assistant government attorneys who were convicted of taking bribes to fix bootlegging cases.

Altogether, Campbell has been a practicing attorney in Chicago for about 16 years.

He was a co-founder with Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of the Catholic Youth organization.

Two Brothers Convicted of Arson by Ottawa Jury

Ottawa, Ill., May 25 (AP).—Martin Mutter, 40 years old, and his brother, Max, 37, were convicted of arson by a Circuit court jury today. Mrs. Bessie Mutter, Martin's wife, was acquitted. The New-Way market, owned by the Mutters, was destroyed by fire on May 8, 1939, and Mrs. Mutter brought suit in an attempt to collect $28,000 insurance. A motion for a new trial on the arson charge will be argued June 28.

THE OLD MEN WHO MAKE WARS.

The college president emeritus, retired to his armchair, may be for going to war in Europe. If his armchair is in a library somewhere along the eastern seaboard, he will be. There is evidence of that in the alarms which arise from the Atlantic intellectual belt, where sympathies run eastward over the sea.

The retired college president is joined by the man who succeeded him and by many of the faculty, whose age if not their other immunities will keep them out of the draft. They are joined by scholars who have a protective shell of antiquity, by ladies of letters, by women of the leisure class who can get newspaper space, and by stout gentlemen who sit in their clubs.

Some of these partisans for fighting abroad may not have analyzed their own emotions. They may not have put the question to themselves in terms of flesh and blood. They probably regard war as an emotional and mental state in which one may satisfy the inner person, may assume a moral obligation and meet it without leaving the armchair. They seek the gratification of feeling that the right thing to do has been done.

Influence is given a point of view urged by these men and women because many of them in public opinion represent the scholarly, the intellectual, and the trustworthy elements of American life. Their names are prominent in many of the country's activities, they are assumed to be persons of good judgment, their reputations are made in fields of important achievement, and they can approach the nation as if they were speaking for its highest ideals and its wisest policies.

This is a great responsibility to be assumed by men and women who are not thinking things thru as they may persuade themselves they are, but who are yielding to a shock which profoundly affects them. Even if they should be for most purposes of life patriotic Americans, they are, when their traditions are threatened, influenced by divided loyalties.

The world, which seems to be coming down about them in their advanced years, is one they were accustomed to regard as enduring. They have felt themselves a part of it and the fear that it might fall along with everything they have thought valuable is distracting. That is true of multitudes of Americans who nevertheless are able to look at these grave problems with less consideration for themselves and more consideration for others.

There is too much vicariousness in the decisions and opinions of men who will not fight the war they want fought. It isn't the man in the armchair who will take up this burden. Young men who would be torn to pieces in the war do not share all these enthusiasms for another overseas expedition, nor do the men who were overseas the last time.

The men of military age will go when sent and there is no reason to think that if it becomes their duty they will show any less spirit than their predecessors in American armies. They, however, know what a decision may bring to them personally. They are much more sober minded than the academic chair warmers who are giving way to overheated emotions. When congress makes a decision declaring war these young men must go. But congress should have more consideration for the human element involved than the old men who are so warlike.

Do these old men and their women auxiliaries and all the other bellicose noncombatants know what they are proposing to send into battle? If they do not, let them read what the army corps chiefs told the senate subcommittee on military appropriations. Summarized, it was:

"The United States air corps lacks even one completely modern equipped plane. . . . A mobile force of not more than 75,000 men could be placed in the field. . . . A serious shortage of ammunition exists. . . . Appalling deficiencies, ranging from 50 to 90 per cent, in mechanized equipment, antiaircraft guns, seacoast artillery, antitank guns, and automatic rifles. . . . The armed force is so poorly equipped that it actually is short of uniforms and blankets."

The young men who will fight the war pay attention to such statements as the foregoing. They will constitute the expeditionary force which must meet whatever the excited emotions of the ancients bring upon the country. The elders should remember, if their excitement will allow them a moment for reflection, that old men may make wars but young men fight them.

THE HUNTING MAN GOES TO WAR.

A British periodical noted with bitter amusement only a few weeks before the blitzkrieg struck that some of the guards regiments were still inquiring of applicants for commissions whether they hunted. Hunting in England is, of course, fox hunting.

This was not snobbery. It was tradition, an extreme example of the tradition based on logic that persists long after the logic vanishes. In the Peninsular war Wellington had a magnificent scouting corps composed of British officers on their fleet hunters, who surveyed the country with supreme contempt for the plugs ridden by the French regular cavalry. Thus, the guards hunt.

While scouting planes have replaced hunters, the sporting field still imparts a variety of valuable military qualities that the army cannot duplicate on the drill field. The hundreds of thousands of game hunters and marksmen in this country are an asset of the greatest potential value to our army.

A regiment of deer hunters, it is true, could not stand up to a company of regular infantry. But the deer hunter can find his way thru the woods. He has what military men call a sense of ground. Officers who hunt [deer, not foxes] are not likely to be found leading lost battalions.

Marksmanship is, of course, not a substitute for military training, but a supplement to it. Our marksmen can teach recruits to shoot. They can be formed into reserves on the home front to deal with parachute attacks. The likelihood that our countryside will be subjected to any such attacks is extremely remote, but an organization to meet that remote contingency is worth having.

IMMIGRATION CONTROL.

President Roosevelt proposes to transfer the bureau of immigration from the labor department to the department of justice. The regulation of immigration was entrusted to the secretary of labor at a time when the problems of immigration were thought of chiefly in terms of the supply and demand for labor in this country. Since the last war the flow of immigrants to this country has been greatly reduced and the emphasis today is less upon immigration as an economic problem than upon enforcement of the restriction laws, the deportation of the unfit and the criminal, and counter-espionage. These are matters with which the department of justice, with its prosecutors and its investigating staff, should be able to deal more effectively than can the labor department.

While the suggestion, therefore, has much to recommend it in theory, it is doubtful if as much good will flow from its adoption as might at first be expected. Until the fifth column is driven from all the administrative departments in Washington, including the department of justice, a mere shift of a bureau from one department to another is not likely to accomplish much toward safeguarding this country.

OUR INDUSTRIAL CITADEL IS THE MIDDLE WEST.

For the first time in a century and a quarter the United States is considering seriously the danger of an invasion of the American continent. We are preparing to repulse any such invasion. The first principle of our preparations should be to avoid giving the invader any more hostages than already exist thru the location of vital units of our aviation and munitions industry near the sea.

Our liability in this direction is already far too great. For the most part the factories where American planes and engines are constructed are on or near tidewater. Boeing is at Seattle and Douglas at Los Angeles. Other important plants are at Baltimore, on Long Island, and in Connecticut. A few are in the interior at such points as Buffalo and Indianapolis, but in the main our airplane industry is exactly where an enemy would want it—within easy striking distance of an invading force from overseas.

The same strategic imbecility has permitted many of our principal factories for the production of other war materials to be located in the most vulnerable sites. It is essential, of course, that yards for the construction of larger ships lie on salt water, and understandable, altho it is not essential, that we should make our naval cannon near Washington. But the location of almost all the plants producing small arms in Connecticut and Massachusetts, and of a vast array of plants producing heavier arms, explosives, and military equipment within easy bombing range of the coast is an unnecessary temptation of fortune.

Our rearmament is primarily a problem of industrial expansion. That expansion must take place in the great central citadel of the country. There, in the event that our navy ever fails to prevent an enemy getting a foothold on our shores, the aviation and munitions industries will be behind our army, continuously strengthening it instead of lying in the front line to complicate and cripple our defense.

To translate this problem from the general to the specific, congress has before it and will pass in the present armament legislation a bill appropriating and authorizing a total of $12,000,000 for a basic engine research laboratory to be operated by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Our existing air research laboratories, which furnish the ideas which keep the nation's aviation industry up to date, are foolishly located near tidewater, one near Hampton Roads, Va., and the other near San Francisco. The same mistake, it has been indicated, will not be made with the engine laboratory.

The requisites of the site for the projected laboratory are a location in the interior of the country which has ready access to airplane motor manufacturing plants, to precision tool plants, to schools teaching physics and other technical subjects, and to transportation lines. Chicago fits all these requirements perfectly. [Airplane motor plants are not quite so heavily concentrated at tidewater as the plane plants themselves.]

Chicago should have the laboratory, not only because of the advantages which a local site already offers but also because its location here would furnish a nucleus for the general concentration of the aviation industry in the middle west—a concentration that is essential to sound national defense.

The advantages of a Chicago site are already being urged upon the N. A. C. A. by the Chicago Association of Commerce. This city has good reason to expect a favorable verdict if greater political influence is not brought to bear on behalf of some other locality.

The plea of Chicago's industrial leaders must be backed by its political representatives. This is a job for Mayor Kelly, who has already promised his active support, and for our Illinois senators and the representatives in congress from the Chicago area.

With the exception of the congressmen from the 10th and 11th districts, all of them are Democrats. They are all New Deal Democrats. Their New Dealism has been so much taken for granted in the past that the Roosevelt administration has felt able largely to ignore the needs of the community they represent. They have heavy claims that have gone unsatisfied because they have been too servile to present them courageously.

They should present their bill for services rendered at this time. It is long overdue. As the industrial center of the middle west Chicago is the logical site for the laboratory. Politically the city has been too long neglected. If it is neglected on this occasion its citizens will know on whom to blame.

AN APPEAL TO "REMEMBER OUR OWN UNITED STATES"

BY EDWARD PRICE BELL.

Perhaps the most poetic spirit who ever sat in the chief executive's chair in Washington was Woodrow Wilson. His feeling, imagination, and prose were poetic. His style never fell to a low plane. His associates in the executive offices observed his proneness to turn from his desk and gaze toward the Potomac. He had a poet's sense of the unoccupied spaces stretching to the river, out into Virginia, and on to the heavens themselves.

"These spaces," he said, "help me to forget Washington and to remember the United States."

The capital's "swarms" blurred the President's vision. These "swarms" perpetually were "asking for things." Mr. Wilson wanted to black them out now and again in order to see the country, "the people who ask for nothing except that their politicians give them a public service shot thru with principle and honor." One of the President's characteristic sayings was, "I need touch with the people as Hercules needed the touch of mother earth."

Especially today America's public men well may sit watchful and reflective in wide windows giving upon wider spaces. Their importunate immediacy is that part of the world which has only a secondary demand upon American concern, the foreign world. Its exigencies are the vision blurring "swarms" of the moment. Their powerful tendency is to blind American politicians to the interests of America. To black them out now and again is imperative if one is to see and to remember the United States.

This is not too easy in these days. It was far easier for George Washington and his compatriots, for they were of the people, rank-and-filers in sympathy, in hardship, in bitter fact. Simple, primitive, all-comradely were the times of the fathers. America possessed them. Foreign civilizations they studied and knew, but American civilization was the thing they desired to make glorious for itself and by way of helpful international example. They were not only patriots but patriots of surpassing wisdom.

Simplicity, primitiveness, all-comradeliness are gone. Complexity is our lot. We breathe sophistication. We live in a din. Newspapers, magazines, books, the movies, the radio blare at us with every tick of the clock. Even in our spinning automobiles the world howls at us. And in spite of it all what do we hear? Do we hear the authentic voice of the United States? Have the people any real articulation in the whole of the roar? Do they actually switch anything on or anything off?

Foreign cultures, foreign preoccupations shackle many of our citizens, politicians, scholars, financiers, fashionable folk. These Americans never truly have broken the colonial obsession. Their psychology antedates the revolutionary war, even the Mayflower. They never have seen in severe objectivity the highly individual lineaments of Uncle Sam. They do not know he is free. They see him tied to foreign nations. They have no clear cut view of the orbit which is his own.

Our auxiliary minded politicians attach us to certain foreign nations which they call "democracies," but which some critics call "pluto-oligarchies" [Dr. Irwin Edman of Columbia is among these critics]. If the foreign nations get into trouble the trouble is ours also. We must help. Our eastern frontier is on the Rhine, our western in the far Pacific. Continental United States, plus Hawaii, Guam, the Panama Zone, Puerto Rico, and the rest, is not enough. Neither is all the western hemisphere. Virtually wherever land or sea rolls there we are. Does it not seem a strange way in which to remember the United States?

Of our citizens culturally in captivity to some of our foreign neighbors a fair example is Mr. Simeon Strunsky. His book recently off the press, "The Living Tradition," declares that America is bound forever to England and France. Why England? Because of Shakespeare, John Bunyan, and Magna Charta. Why France? Because of the Marquis de Lafayette. If England or France, no matter whose the fault, lands in a war we, too, are in. Outsiders thru all preliminaries, we are insiders when the fun breaks.

Exaggeration? Well, here are Mr. Strunsky's own words: "America did not enter war [the world war] under the siren spell of British propaganda, or to safeguard our bankers' loans to the allies, or even on account of the Lusitania. . . . The United States cast in its fortunes with the allies primarily because of William Shakespeare and John Bunyan and Magna Charta and Gen. Lafayette. . . . America yielded to the spell of kinship not of the blood but of the common language and a common heritage of ideals and memories. . . . We thus are fated to be embroiled in every world war from whatever cause arising."

If this be true why even try to remember the United States?

But is Mr. Strunsky's interesting transcendentalism in the least convincing? Did the matchless Stratford and London dramatist, or the Baptist allegorist, or the Runnymede instrument, or the gallant Frenchman who fought the English on American soil, or all of them combined, really put four million Americans into uniform and bear two millions of them into France to roll up the left wing of the German army and finish the war victoriously for the allies?

Woodrow Wilson was President then. He must have known a lot about what took America into the world war. For nearly three bloody and agonizing years we were as a rock for staying out. If Shakespeare and Bunyan and Magna Charta and Lafayette were urging us to go in they urged in vain. Apparently Mr. Wilson knew nothing of such urgings. When he spoke fatefully to the congress he said Germany was making war upon us. He called it "ruthless, monstrous, murderous, unparalleled war." Not a word about Mr. Strunsky's etherealities.

John Lyly, a contemporary of William Shakespeare's, wrote into his prose romance, "Euphues," this paragraph: "He that seeketh ye depth of knowledge is as it were in a Laborinth, in which the farther he goeth the farther he is from the end: or like the bird in the limebush which the more she striveth to get out ye faster she sticketh in." Our colonial ancillaries are in Lyly's "Laborinth." They wander in a maze of dependent imagination. Long past "swarms" blind them. Never having seen, they, of course, cannot remember, the United States.

Our supreme political need is to obliterate the sense of dominion status. Our national destiny is definite and single. We "are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states." Isolated we are not, nor can be. In all matters of peaceful international reciprocity we are rightly for the fullest fellowship. But our complete freedom of function and of evolution must not be restricted. We want no part in war, no profit from war. The arms embargo should be back where enlightenment, humanity, and honor put it. Judiciality, not partiality, with reference to all foreign quarrels should be our watchword. Only so can we serve properly not only ourselves but common human progress. We can remember best mankind at large by remembering first the United States.

SHEDDING BLOOD IN A GOOD CAUSE.

THERE is scarcely a period in history when man has failed to recognize the importance of blood. For centuries it was believed that one's character, makeup, tendencies, disposition, etc. were all dependent upon the quality of his circulation. Savages, including the American Indian, would occasionally consume the heart of a courageous enemy in an effort to bolster their own prowess. We may recall the reference which Ovid makes to the fact that Egyptian priests transfused old and decrepit men for purposes of rejuvenation. In the fable of Jason and the Golden Fleece the rehabilitation of the hero was accomplished in this manner.

With the work of William Harvey early in the 17th century there came the knowledge that the liquid medium pumped by the heart was a means of carrying nourishment to the tissues. But no practical or successful application was made of the theory that the substance could be borrowed from one patient and bestowed upon another. Most of the trials resulted in failure because a link in the process was lacking. Later, an attempt was made to join a vessel of the donor to that of the recipient and metal connections were provided for the purpose.

Still, the essential factor eluded all these investigators until Karl Landsteiner [1901] published his discovery that certain elements were present in the blood of some individuals that would precipitate the corpuscles of another. He supplied the information on which is based what are now called "groups." At first there were only three—A, B, and C. Then it was learned that there were some persons who could receive any kind or contribute their vital fluid to any one with perfect safety. Subsequently, Jansky of Prague described four types—denoted as one, two, three, and four.

From these studies the whole question resolved itself into a simple matter. It was necessary only to test the serum of the one who required a transfusion and to find a "giver" of the same variety. If they matched, all was well.

But the problem of clotting still remained a dominant handicap which had to be overcome. Paraffin coated tubes were employed as well as receptacles lined with this product. Then came the suggestion that by adding sodium citrate the liquid could be prevented from coagulating. This chemical is placed in the collecting flask and the material can then be kept for quite some time and used at will.

Today every hospital is equipped to carry out this life saving service. The laboratory can check quickly the type desired—and from the time the order is dispatched until the patient has received the new "life" not more than 30 minutes need elapse. The procedure is in such widespread use today and is so valuable in supporting the flagging spark of vitality that it is considered indispensable. In some institutions "banks"—where hundreds of pints of blood are stored—are expediting the matter.

What will happen to the one who furnishes a pint or more? Nothing, if he is well and does not overdo for the next few hours. Rest is desirable, at least for two or three hours following the withdrawal. Sometimes professionals will allow themselves to be bled too frequently, with ensuing anemia.

In these days it is expected that every hospital will be ready to carry out this régime. Great care must be taken in classification. If that which is administered is incompatible, the patient will exhibit a severe reaction—including vomiting, diarrhea, swelling of the hands and face, and collapse. Fatal outcomes have been reported. Naturally, the donor must be checked for the presence of any possible infection such as malaria or syphilis.

THE INEBRIATE'S FALL.

N. T. writes: If an intoxicated person falls is the injury supposed to be more or less serious than if sober?

REPLY.

Tumbles and falls during intoxication are less likely to be harmful. The victim goes down like a pudding—all in a heap. Muscles are more relaxed and hence less resistant.

THROBBING IN TEMPLES.

C. J. writes: What is the cause of violent throbbing in the arteries that cross the temples?

REPLY.

These structures beat in exact rhythm with the heart. If the vessels are distorted and prominent the symptom will be more noticeable. The blood pressure should be checked.

NURSES' TRAINING.

L. D. writes: Is a two year college course required before taking up nurses' training?

REPLY.

Desirable but not demanded by many schools. The regulations of most states pertaining to the training of nurses requires graduation from a four year high school course.

SUN GAZING.

H. T. writes: I have heard that staring at the sun is good for weak eyes. Is this true?

REPLY.

About as pernicious a custom as can well be imagined unless you wish to destroy eyesight. Blindness is reported among Hindu fakirs who follow this practice. Furthermore, I would rather gaze at the daughter than the son—even tho he resembles Apollo.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Parliament passed the habeas corpus act, a landmark in constitutional history. The Magna Charta in 1215 and the Petition of Right in 1628 had made the writ of habeas corpus a right of all citizens, but in many cases the privilege was ineffective, principally in cases in which the prisoner owed his confinement to displeasure of the king or his councilors, and few persons had the courage to seek their right to a hearing under such circumstances. By passing the act parliament established a guarantee that could not be violated. The same guarantee was written into the constitution of the United States in 1787.

NOT A UTOPIA TO THEM.

Chicago, Ill., May 23.—I have read the following article in a Swedish newspaper:

"Russian Prisoners Do Not Wish to Return: About 6,000 Russian prisoners were taken during the war and are now placed in different camps thruout Finland. It was stipulated in the peace treaty that an exchange of prisoners should take place as soon as possible, but the formalities are not yet finished. It is believed that there are comparatively few Finnish prisoners in Russia.

"It is reported from Helsinki that the prisoner problem is rather complicated because the prisoners will not under any circumstances return to Russia. During several press interviews the prisoners declared that if their names were printed their relatives would be shot, and the same fate would await them if they returned.

"Naturally Russia is demanding their delivery, so these prisoners are confronted with the fearful situation of being free to return to their country to a certain determined fate."

Please print this article for the benefit of the many misguided in this country who still feel that an Utopia exists in Russia. S. A. JACQUES.

TAX FOR PARKING LOTS.

Chicago, May 23.—Of the making of rackets there is no end. The latest is prohibiting any more parking lots in the loop—so as to give the present ones a sweet monopoly. Equal rights for none; special privileges for all—that is, of course, all the right people.

Parking lots in the loop are a nuisance, a hazard, and a hindrance to transit plans. The decent way to discourage them, is to tax them—tax all of them alike—heavily enough to keep down the nuisance. With all the tax burdens they can think up nowadays to lay upon ordinary business men who imperil nobody, doesn't it ever occur, even to a politician, to tax the real nuisance?

HARRIS K. RANDALL.

IN THE PRESIDENT'S HANDS.

Chicago, May 22.—Congressmen and senators are declaiming oratorically that they will never vote to send a single American boy to fight on foreign soil.

When did any congressman or senator ever vote to send our fighting men abroad?

In April, 1917, the congress of the United States voted that a state of war existed between this country and Germany. From there on the conduct of the war was in the hands of the President.

Is there a lesson in this?

FRED W. BLAISDELL.

HE LEANS TO ROOSEVELT.

Monmouth, Ill., May 20.—Please take my advice and stop your unfair attacks in your nasty cartoons against our greatest American leader since Lincoln—Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He is worth his weight in gold, and will carry even Maine in November. ARTHUR POWELL.

CAPITALIZING MISERY.

Chicago, May 21.—The Third Termites are fattening with glee at the turn of events in Europe. It was vicious enough when the administration capitalized human misery here in America for vote buying purposes, but when that same administration now seeks to capitalize the awful horror abroad to retain power it is time that Americans rally to the one party in American history that has protected minorities and safeguarded our liberties—the Republican party.

When an administration can't solve domestic problems with the billions it had to spend, how in God's name can it solve foreign problems?

When America becomes a one man government I'll give up my sacred heritage of citizenship. PHILIP R. DAVIS,
First Department Judge Advocate,
American Legion of Illinois.

EMPTY LOTS IN THE LOOP.

Chicago, May 22.—All those vacant lots in the loop, due to the dismantling of buildings, should be turned into little parks with trees and flowers growing on them and nice, comfortable benches placed here and there for the tired loop workers who are not so fortunately situated as to be able to reach Grant park at their lunch hour.

Since these vacant lots are the result of the inability of owners to pay the high taxes, the city should demand that they be turned over temporarily to the use of the people instead of being made into parking lots. Later on, when conditions make it profitable for the owners to build again, the lots would automatically revert to them. F. T. PAULSON.

WARNS FLAT RENTERS.

Chicago, May 20.—Renters of two flat buildings should be warned that they are not protected by any city ordinances which are intended to provide some protection to apartment dwellers, and that they are subject to all manner of indignities from the owner-janitor and his family, especially when they occupy the other flat in the building, and there is no escape if signed to the form of lease pushed by the Real Estate board and sanctioned by the city health department.

LEO FORSTER.

HIS FIRST LETTER A BOOST.

Chicago, May 22.—This is my first letter to the Voice of the People. It is over 51 years since I left my home in Florida to come to Chicago. Your editorial, "The Third Term in Its True Light," should be read by every American citizen. I thank you for your courage, and hope you will give us more similar articles. We are also very glad to tell you that we enjoy Arthur Sears Henning's radio comments from Washington each Sunday evening. E. A. FIELD SR., M. E.

HAS THE VOTER A BRAIN?

Chicago, May 20.—Roosevelt's asking for 50,000 planes is on a par with the rest of his ideas: pure bunk. An excuse to waste a lot more money.

Why does not the American voter use his alleged brain before swallowing whole the guff turned out by the President?

Or hasn't the American voter got a brain? WM. MILLER.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

CHAIN LETTERS.

Chicago, Ill., May 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If I start a chain letter or pass it on, do I violate any United States law if this chain letter asks to send money—say 5 cents to $1—to somebody else, saying "Do not break this chain and you will receive a certain amount"—say $1 to $100?

2. Could that be classed as "defrauding by mail"?

3. Same as 1 and 2 if the chain letter asks to send merchandise [golf balls] instead of money?

4. Do some states prohibit chain letters?

5. Are there any laws in Illinois in regard to chain letters? A. N.

1. In the recent case of Kent vs. Chicago, 301 Ill. App. 312, the court, in condemning schemes of this type, said: "In Public Clearing House vs. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, at page 514, 24 S. Ct. 789, 48 L. Ed. 1092, a plan not unlike this is well described as a plan for securing money from a constantly increasing large number for the benefit of a constantly increasing smaller number, with an absolute certainty that when the enterprise should reach its end for any reason, a large number will lose every dollar they had put into it, and in the meantime the smaller number will realize such amounts as may have resulted from the growth of the larger number, but no one can predict what that growth will be. We hold the plan as designed and carried out is contrary to the statute and illegal."

FURNITURE SALE.

Chicago, May 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—What procedure should I take in this case? June 16, 1938, I sold furniture, $35, and rug, $50, amounting to $85, to a friend, payments $1 or more a week. Since that time I have received only $24 and nothing since March 11, 1940.

I found out recently this party took out a loan from a finance company on his furniture [1], including mine as his collateral. He is now in arrears regarding this loan. Last week he put his furniture, including my furniture and rug, in a storage house. He is now living in furnished rooms and is not working at present.

2. What shall I do to get back my rug? M. S.

1. We would say that the furniture is not yours after you have sold it. We assume that you did not protect yourself by a conditional sale form or by a recorded chattel mortgage.

2. On the facts stated you have no more rights against the rug than against other assets of your debtor. Your only remedy is to bring court proceedings to collect the purchase price.

DOWNSPOUTS.

Chicago, May 15 [Friend of the People].—See if something can be done to make owner put up downspout on building next door. Sidewalk is all covered with ice for about 15 to 20 feet. My wife and I got a very bad fall on account of it.

P. B.

In compliance with your request, an investigation was made of the premises on Paulina street concerning which complaint was made. A notice was served on the owner of the building as follows: "Properly repair or replace defective roof gutter downspouts on north side of building."

A reinspection made on April 17 showed that the owner had complied with our order. By direction of the City of Chicago.

DIVORCE WITNESSES.

Chicago, May 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—I would like some information regarding the number of witnesses required by law in Illinois for a divorce. The parties have been separated 32 months. C. W.

The statute says "witnesses." This has been interpreted as meaning more than one. The question whether two would be enough would depend on the nature of their testimony.

POLICY KING TRIO TO PAY $500,000 IN U. S. TAX CASE

One Will Plead Guilty, Pact Provides.

Washington, D. C., May 25 [Special].—The government has accepted the first settlement in one of its pending income tax cases against Chicago gambling bosses, it was learned here today.

It is the case involving criminal charges of tax evasion and a $2,067,026 civil claim for back taxes against the south side's Negro policy kings, the three Jones brothers. The compromise, a closely guarded secret of the internal revenue bureau, is not due to be announced officially for several more weeks.

The brothers are known, however, to have agreed to pay approximately $500,000 cash to write off the entire civil claim which dates back to 1931.

Details of Agreement.

The criminal charges, according to a treasury official, will be disposed of in the following manner:

One brother, Edward P. Jones, will plead guilty when the case is called for a hearing next month, accepting the sentence that the District court imposes. The government then will ask that the charges against the other brothers be dismissed. They are McKissack McHenry Jones and George P. Jones. All three live at 4724 Michigan avenue.

The agreement provides for no recommendation for leniency by the justice department in connection with the guilty plea of Edward Jones. He faces maximum punishment of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Indicted Last March.

A federal grand jury indicted the Joneses for income tax evasion last March 5. Similar indictments were returned by the same jury against William R. Johnson, reputed head of the gambling syndicate; William R. Skidmore, allegedly his political go-between, and other top figures in the Johnson-Skidmore-Nitti-Capone combine.

But while the other men indicted apparently were digging in for a long fight to escape conviction that might send them to the penitentiary the policy operators hoisted a flag of truce without further ado and hurried to Washington asking for terms.

They had little choice, it seems, for within a few days after the returning of the indictment they found themselves virtually destitute. Liens for back taxes were plastered on their property and agents had seized $1,500,000 in cash and securities in their safe deposit boxes and bank accounts.

Brothers Former Waiters.

For years, federal officials are now pointing out gleefully, the brothers have been immune from any action by the local law enforcing agencies. They are former dining car waiters who have grown increasingly wealthy thru gambling operations which separated the poverty stricken members of their race from pennies, nickels, and other small coins.

Policy is a lottery game in which winners are determined by drawing numbered balls from a drum. Bets are small, ranging from a penny to 25 cents, but more than half the wagers remain in the operators' pockets. More than 60,000 persons have been known to place wagers at a single wheel in a day, with the profits for the period amounting to between $10,000 and $15,000.

The quick settlement of the case is described here as a triumph for District Attorney William J. Campbell and Elmer L. Irey's treasury intelligence unit, headed in Chicago by A. P. Madden. Agents working under Madden prepared the case, while Campbell's staff presented it to the grand jury.

TWO EX-UNION 'AIDS ACCUSED OF SHAKEDOWN

William Engelman, 34 years old, 6318 Berenice avenue, and George Mormon, 31, of 906 North Avers avenue, former organizers for a shipping clerks' union, were questioned by police yesterday in connection with an alleged petty shakedown.

According to Sergt. George Barnes of the labor detail, the two men tried to get $5 each from Jacob Weil, 48, of 1629 Clinton street, owner of a paper company at 1633 Clinton.

Weil said they had organized his shipping clerks two years ago, and that during the last six months they had been demanding money from him. He said he has given them $50. Mormon and Engelman denied forcing Weil to give them money, but admitted borrowing some from him, Sergt. Barnes said.

U. P. OFFICIAL, FOUND BEATEN IN HOTEL ROOM, DIES

Buffalo, N. Y., May 25 (AP).—Frank D. Cooper, 62 years old, Union Pacific railroad chief transportation agent, died in a hospital here early today. He lived at 679 Western avenue, in Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Detective Chief Arthur D. Britt said Cooper was found lying across the bed in his room in the Hotel LaFayette last night, with severe bruises on his face and head.

Police are seeking a man seen accompanying Cooper to his room. Britt said a dark cap, resembling that worn by Cooper's companion, whom hotel employés described as "poorly dressed," was found in the room.

A bellhop told police that Cooper said the man was going to the room to carry out Cooper's baggage when he checked out. A short time later, a telephone call asking "immediate help" was received from Cooper's room, Britt added.

SCALISE FAILS TO RAISE BAIL; STAYS IN JAIL

New York, May 25 [Special]. — George Scalise, one of organized labor's most powerful leaders until the law caught up with him, remained in Tombs prison today, apparently unable to raise $35,000 bail fixed on a grand larceny charge.

Scalise, the former panderer who muscled his way to the presidency of the Building Service Employés international, is accused of looting the union's treasury of $60,000. Previously, he had been indicted for extorting $97,000 from New York hotels and cleaning agencies. Following the latter revelation he was ousted as the union's president.

John Kadel, Scalise's attorney, appeared in General Sessions court today and pleaded with Judge James G. Wallace to lower the $35,000 bail. The judge said he would hand down his decision Monday.

SUES SHANAHAN WIDOW OVER ATTORNEY FEES

A suit for $2,500 was filed by Attorney James G. Sheridan in Superior court yesterday against Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan, widow of David E. Shanahan, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives. Sheridan was counsel for Mrs. Shanahan during litigation over the validity of Shanahan's death bed marriage to her. The Illinois Supreme court recently upheld the marriage and also, in effect, Shanahan's will, in which he left most of an $850,000 estate to his widow. Attorney Sheridan said he was paid $5,000 of the $7,500 agreed upon as his fee.

TEAMSTER UNION RACKETEERS MAP FEDERAL APPEAL

26 Guilty of Extortion in New York City.

New York, May 25 [Special].—Defense attorneys today mapped plans to appeal the convictions of local No. 807, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers [A. F. of L.], and 26 of its racketeering members, who were found guilty late yesterday of using terroristic methods on out of town truckmen and violating the antitrust laws. The union's strong arm tactics is estimated to have added $1,000,000 a year to the cost of trucking foods and other commodities into this city, evidence at the trial showed.

All the union defendants were convicted under two indictments returned in 1938. They are to be sentenced on June 7. The union is liable to a maximum fine of $45,000, while the individual defendants face jail terms running up to forty-one years and fines of $45,000.

Holdouts Are Assaulted.

Testimony given in the federal court trial built up a background of labor terrorism, showing how the local and its members extorted money from out of town shippers, tho in many cases they did nothing to earn it. Shippers who refused to pay tribute were intimidated and threatened. In numerous episodes where threats did not get the desired result the shippers were assaulted.

Judge Murray Hulbert, who presided at the trial, upheld the contention of the prosecution that no question of improving working conditions existed. The defense case had been built around the argument that the union in using forceful methods had been making a legitimate fight to maintain living and working conditions that had been won over a period of years.

Prosecutor Charges Racket.

John T. Cahill, United States attorney, charged the union men were merely racketeers. The "game," as Cahill described it, was played along these lines:

Roving groups of union men would accost out of town trucks as they arrived at the city's boundaries and warn the drivers they would not be allowed to load or unload without the help of a member of the union local. Pleas that there was no need for such help were ignored.

The first local union man to stop a particular out of town company's truck became, without invitation, that company's "No. 1 man." If he found that additional members of the local should be hired, he chose them — the employer had little or nothing to say about their selection. One witness testified he tried to discharge his "No. 1" man but could not. Another "No. 1 man" accepted $100 to "quit."

No Services Rendered.

Threats, intimidation, and violence were used by the union men to justify their demands. As a result, owners or drivers of large trucks were forced to shell out a day's pay, $8.41 to $9.42, for each trip, depending on the size of the truck. These fees were extorted regardless of whether the local union man did any work. Often, it was charged during the trial, the fee had to be paid for the mere privilege of making a delivery within New York City limits.

The 26 convicted men were the last of 76 named in two indictments returned on May 31, 1938. The first indictment alleged violation of the Sherman antitrust act, while the second contained four counts of racketeering. The second indictment was the first of its kind to be prosecuted successfully under the federal antiracketeering act enacted in 1934.

Fifty Escape Trial.

At the outset of the trial, Cahill obtained a severance as to 35 defendants and a dismissal as to five others, including William Devery, president of the local.

In the course of the trial eight more men were freed on prosecution motions, another was cleared on defense motion, and another became ill.

Among those found guilty are William Campbell and Austin Furey, delegates of the local, who were described as managers of the racket.

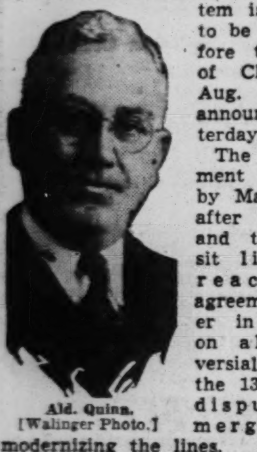
TRANSIT MERGER FRANCHISE VOTE SOUGHT BY AUG. 1

Traction Tangle Settled by Conferees.

A franchise ordinance for the operation of a unified traction system is expected to be placed before the voters of Chicago by Aug. 1, it was announced yesterday.



Ald. Quinn.

The announcement was made by Mayor Kelly after the city and the transit lines had reached an agreement earlier in the day on all controversial points in the 13 year old dispute over merging and modernizing the lines.

Kelly said the city council traction subcommittee, headed by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], will begin preparing the franchise ordinance tomorrow. State law requires approval by the voters of any terminable franchise—one that runs indefinitely and can be terminated at the will of the municipality. This is the type of franchise now agreed upon.

Mayor Hails Agreement.

The mayor hailed the agreement as a climactic step toward Chicago's goal of an up to date, unified transportation system. He said there are many technical details yet to be settled. He plans to assist the subcommittee in drawing the ordinance.

"I believe all controversial issues have been threshed out," the mayor said. "When the franchise has been written in legal language it must be submitted to the city council, the federal court and the transit companies' securities holders for approval.

"Secretary of the Interior Ickes also has insisted that the ordinance be acceptable to the Public Works administration. I don't know why that should be, except that the PWA supplied funds for the subway construction.

"The modernization program for the lines depends on obtaining loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, so that federal agency also will have to be consulted."

Voters to Pass on Plan.

After all these conditions have been fulfilled, the ordinance will be presented to the voters in a referendum.

The main provisions which will be incorporated in the ordinance are:

1. The franchise will be given to a new company—the Chicago Transit company—which will operate all street car, bus, and elevated lines and will take over the $46,000,000 city owned subway, now being built. Universal transfer privileges will be instituted as soon as the new company is created.

2. Chicago's transportation system will be overhauled and expanded at a cost of $102,000,000 in the next eight years, $60,000,000 to be spent in the first three years and $42,000,000 in the next five. To partly finance this the street car lines will use $30,000,000 they have on hand. Another $25,000,000 is in prospect in a loan from the RFC and $20,000,000 more will be sought from this agency. These three funds total $75,000,000 and it is expected that after a few years the earnings of the new company will be sufficient to yield the additional $27,000,000.

3. The lines will maintain the present rates of fare until Jan. 1, 1942, with the right to ask for an 8 cent street car fare after that date. The petition for an increase will be presented to a local transit commission, a three man body to be appointed by Mayor Kelly with the consent of the city council.

City Compensation Set.

4. Compensation to the city for the use of the streets and subway will be paid by the company at the rate of 1½ per cent of gross revenue until Jan. 1, 1943, and at 3 per cent after that date. [It is estimated the 3 per cent will yield the city about $2,000,000 a year.] The first 1 per cent will be turned over before bond interest payments and the payment of the remainder will be contingent on earnings.

5. The cost of equipment for the new subway, such as tracks, turnstiles, plumbing, and accessories—estimated at $10,000,000—will be shared equally by the city and the company. Rolling stock will be bought by the company.

6. The company will establish a pension system for employés, a temporary plan to be used for two years until a permanent one can be prepared.

City to Aid in Repaving.

7. The company will pay $5,000 of the $16,000 a mile cost of repaving 225 miles of street car rights of way to be torn up for bus substitutions. The city will be responsible for the remaining $11,000 a mile.

It was this last point which held up the agreement until yesterday. On Friday the companies' franchise negotiators, headed by Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to the federal court, agreed on the universal transfer and waiver of the sinking fund deposit provisions.

They met again yesterday morning and then informed Ald. Quinn they had agreed on the division of the cost of repaving.

JOYCE MATTHEWS GOMEZ.

New York, May 25 (AP).—Col. Gonzalo Gomez acknowledged today that his marriage a fortnight ago to the 19 year old movie starlet, Joyce Matthews, was on the rocks, and that he was a "tired man" who would leave this country Monday.

The 41 year old son of the former Venezuelan dictator married Miss Matthews May 9 in White Plains, N. Y., after six days of courtship and three of trying to obtain a marriage license. Asked if they had separated, he said: "Yes, it is all true, but we are still very good friends."

He discounted reports that his wife was flying to Reno today to seek a divorce. "I don't know where she is right now," he said.

FAST STREAMLINE TRAIN SERVICE TO FLORIDA ASSURED

3 Lines to Unite in Runs Next December 1.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Chicago will have 29½ hour streamlined train service to Miami, Fla., starting about Dec. 1. Formal announcement of the improved service was made yesterday at Atlanta, Ga., by Scott M. Loftin, co-receiver of the Florida East Coast railway.

Scott M. Loftin.

Executives of the Chicago roads that will have a part in running the new trains, altho unofficially confirming the announcement, said they could make no statements until their boards of directors had passed on certain details. These included ordering new trains.

Three Roads to Join in Plan.

Three Chicago roads will share in the operation of the fast Florida service which will clip about 2 hours and 10 minutes from the time of the fastest winter season train and 5 hours and 15 minutes from the three next fastest. These fast trains run only during the winter season and the rest of the year the fastest time is just under 40 hours.

The three Chicago roads which will share in the new service are the Chicago and Eeastern Illinois, Illinois Central, and Pennsylvania. There will be daily departure of the streamlined trains, all of which will be of the de luxe all coach type for economy in travel costs. On one day departure will be via C. & E. I., on the second via Illinois Central, and on the third via Pennsylvania, and so on in chain manner.

New Train to Be Used.

The Florida East Coast line late last year bought the stainless steel coach train, the Henry M. Flagler, of the same type as those used with so much success between New York City and Miami all thru last season. Practically new, this train is to be used over the Dixieland route between Chicago and Miami, thru Atlanta via the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. It consists of seven cars, including diner and club car, and accommodates 254 persons. The motive power is furnished by a 4,000 horsepower Diesel-electric locomotive. The Pennsylvania and the Illinois Central will provide their own trains.

Present plans provide for departure from Chicago at about 3:30 p. m. central time and arrivial at Miami at 10 p. m. [E. S. T.] the following night. The late departure time was planned to allow streamlined train connection at Chicago from points as far as 400 miles from this city, thereby extending the usefulness of the new service.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois route will be: C. & E. I. to Evansville, Ind.; Louisville & Nashville to Nashville; Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis to Atlanta; Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast Line to Waycross, Ga.; Atlantic Coast Line to Jacksonville, Fla., and Florida East Coast to Miami.

Illinois Central Routing.

Illinois Central: Illinois Central to Birmingham, Ala.; Central of Georgia to Albany, Ga.; Atlantic Coast Line to Jacksonville, and Florida East Coast to Miami.

Pennsylvania: Pensylvania to Louisville; Louisville & Nashville to Montgomery, Ala.; Atlantic Coast Line to Jacksonville, and Florida East Coast to Miami.

Announcement of the new service followed agitation for it by THE TRIBUNE, several southern papers, including the Atlanta Journal, and civic officials of Miami, including Mayor Sewell. In connection with its campaign for better Chicago train service, THE TRIBUNE last January sent a reporter to Miami to compare the regular Chicago trains with the streamliners running between New York City and Miami in 25 hours. Railroad executives at that time declare that faster service was feasible.

MAYOR OBJECTS TO SPONSOR RULE IN NEW WPA BILL

In a long distance telephone conversation with Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] yesterday, Mayor Kelly made a protest against a provision in the pending WPA appropriation bill which provides the sponsor of a WPA project must defray 25 per cent of its cost.

Pepper is chairman of the senate subcommittee on appropriations. Mayor Kelly said he, Mayor La Guardia of New York and the mayors of several other cities would go to Washington Tuesday or Wednesday to take their objections before the committee.

The 25 per cent provision has been in effect for a year. Up to now Chicago has been able to use state relief funds to make up the difference between available city funds and the amount demanded by WPA on city sponsored projects. "Now we're at the end of our rope," said Mayor Kelly, "and every other large community is in the same position."

Mayor Kelly will ask a reduction in the percentage demanded of sponsors. The pending bill calls for an appropriation of $945,000,000.

FIRST TRACTION UNITY PROGRAM OFFERED IN 1911

City's Transit Problem Dates Back to 1858.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The history of Chicago's traction problem goes back to 1858, when the first horse car service was begun in the city. Approximately 35 companies were merged and reorganized between then and 1911, when the city council's transportation committee proposed a plan to unify the surface and elevated lines. The program called for coördinated operation of all local transportation routes.

The 29 years since 1911 is a record of delays, countless disputes between the city and the traction companies, and even among various city and company groups on the terms of unification. From time to time, however, faltering steps were taken.

The four street car companies in the city in 1914 instituted a plan for coördinated operation of their lines, seven years after a limited transfer arrangement had been reached under the 1907 street railway franchises.

Evolve from 1858 Company.

The four companies evolved from the original horse car service. They remained separate financially, however, and will be finally dissolved and made part of one transit company under the pending unification plan.

Meanwhile the elevated lines, built largely in the '90s, still were owned by four separate companies. It was not until 1924 that they joined together in one system. Plans for building subways, first conceived early in the 1900s, came and went without action. Bus routes were established, and the present Chicago Motor Coach company took over their operation in 1923.

Plans for combining the street car, elevated, and bus lines were proposed on all sides dozens of times. The plans fell thru just as often.

Altho a fully coördinated transit system thus was lacking, Chicago's transportation service grew rapidly, along with the city, until the 1920s. From 1907 to 1920 investors put 95 million dollars in cash into the surface lines for new equipment and extensions. During about the same period the elevated lines raised and spent about 50 million dollars.

Ordinances Come Home to Roost.

About 1920, however, the old 1907 traction ordinances started coming home to roost. They had been issued to street car lines as 20 year permits. By 1920 the surface lines were unable to raise any money because of the uncertainty resulting from prospective expiration of the franchises in 1927.

All the surface lines' bonds, totaling 150 million dollars, fell due in 1927. With no franchise to operate, however, the car lines could not borrow money to pay off their old bonds. The bond default forced the surface lines into court receivership, altho their earnings were at the highest level in history. Service suffered because money could not be raised for equipment.

The receivership came in December, 1926, in a technical court case, and with it came the relatively recent phase of Chicago's "traction problem."

The city, while continuing to permit the surface lines to operate, wanted to draft a new ordinance providing unification of all transit facilities, including buses and projected subways.

Voters Approve Ordinance.

Work toward this end was commenced and resulted in the 1930 traction ordinance, calling for an elaborate program of 200 million dollars in improvements in the next ten years, along with two subways, one in State street and one in Dearborn street.

This ordinance was approved by a big majority at a referendum vote on July 1, 1930. But the depression which followed killed the ordinance, because the traction lines could not raise the money to put thru the required improvements. The ordinance finally was allowed to lapse in 1934, and plans were begun anew.

In the meantime the elevated lines had been forced into receivership by low earnings in 1932, leaving both the surface and rapid transit systems in the hands of the federal court and both faced with the problem of reorganization.

The surface lines in 1935 had their own reorganization plan ready and proposed to get out of court, get a franchise from the city, acquire the bus company, and then merge with a reorganized elevated system.

Merger Plan Scrapped.

This method had to be scrapped in June, 1936, however, when Mayor Kelly insisted that any reorganization plan must include all lines before a franchise could be granted.

Thereupon the surface lines made new plans, this time in conjunction with the elevated lines. To help bring the securities groups of the two systems into agreement, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in December, 1937, appointed Walter A. Shaw, a transit expert, as the court's traction adviser. Shaw submitted a merger plan in September, 1938, and with some modifications the securities groups finally agreed on this as the basis for reorganization in April, 1939.

Meanwhile, in December, 1938, Chicago had begun a 46 million dollar eight mile subway, and any merger plan had to call for operation by the merged company of the subway, as well as bus routes, under the city's demands.

Court Names Negotiators.

On May 1, 1939, Judge Wilkerson appointed three negotiators to obtain a unified franchise from the city. Optimism ran high. The companies at last had dissolved their own dispute and all that was needed to make their merger plan effective was a franchise.

But franchise negotiations with the city bogged down and were delayed on many points. The groups wrangled for three months over a valuation of the properties—on which they were 100 million dollars apart—only to decide in the end that it was meaningless to set a valuation, because this would be up to a local transit commission anyway.

Similarly, rates of fare were disputed for six months, with the decision reached last March that after Jan. 1, 1942, any rules on fares will be up to the transit commission.

Dispute Drags Along.

And so dragged the dispute on other points—how much the city should be paid for use of streets and whether the payment should be before or after payments to transit investors; what pensions should be paid to employés; who should pay the 10 million dollars required to equip the city-owned subway, and who should pay for paving street car rights of way.

The Public Works administration, which made a grant of 18 million dollars toward the subway, had set July 1, 1939, as the deadline for a franchise agreement. This was extended five times to May 1, when the PWA refused to grant a further extension.

The threat of a cancelation of the subway grant forced the city in the last three weeks to redouble its efforts to reach a franchise accord.

The summarized record since May 1, 1939, gives an indication of the process of franchise negotiations for the last 13 years—and 16 years before that.

250 Meetings Held.

This record shows:

A total of 250 meetings of city and transit lines groups, either jointly or separately.

Expenditures for traction plans of more than $500,000, bringing the total expenditure for plans discarded or pending to 7 million dollars in 13 years and more than 10 million dollars since 1907. [Windup payments for attorneys' fees will add millions of dollars to this total, observers estimate.]

Seventeen court hearings have been held and more than 1,000 pages added to the printed court record, bringing the 13 year old court record to more than 17,000 pages in 20 volumes.

On three different occasions the city or the lines, or both, announced that further attempts at agreement were useless, because the other side was too unreasonable. Each time they were reconciled. After one of the periodic breakdowns Judge Wilkerson in December added four new members to the lines' three man board of negotiations.

Bankers Enter Controversy.

This brought the heads of Chicago's two largest banks into the middle of the traction controversy. They are Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, and Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

The other five negotiators are the original three—Guy A. Richardson, Col. A. A. Sprague, and Shaw, and Sidney L. Castle and M. H. MacLean. All except Shaw are connected with the companies as receivers, trustees, or members of securities committees.

Last March Judge Wilkerson, who had had jurisdiction over the traction question for 13 years, transferred the problem to Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe. It will be up to Judge Igoe to approve the pending franchise agreement and have it submitted to securities holders.

Supporters of Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for Republican presidential nomination, asserted yesterday he could carry New York state over President Roosevelt. They cited several political and social friends of the President who have been exposed by the prosecutor. Among them were Justice Ferdinand Pecora (left), who threw out of court the first trial of James J. Hines; Magistrate Hulon Capshaw (center), ordered removed from office, and Hines (right), Tammany leader under sentence of four to eight years for complicity in policy racket.

DRIVE LAUNCHED TO RID CHICAGO OF RAT PLAGUE

A campaign to rid Chicago of rats was launched yesterday by Ald. John S. Boyle [16th], chairman of a city council subcommittee assigned to investigate proposals for rat eradication.

"Our committee is studying several proposals which have been presented to the council at various times," Boyle said. "Something must be done to clear up this terrible plague.

He referred to government statistics which estimate that rats cost the city about $7,000,000 a year in damage. That would represent a total of more than $14,000,000 loss since February, 1938, when the last WPA rat eradication project was shut down.

Since that time the city has made repeated efforts to obtain more assistance from WPA but has been turned down.

The first meeting of the subcommittee, which includes Ald. Earl B. Dickerson [2d] and Ald. Benjamin A. Grant [3d] will be held Tuesday morning. Representatives of exterminating companies, the board of health and the city street and alley bureau will be heard.

QUIZ PARKING LOT OWNER AGAIN ON MYSTERY ATTACK

Ben D. Kissel, a loop parking lot owner, who was shot and wounded May 17, was questioned again yesterday in the Columbus Memorial hospital by Capt. Frank Reynolds and Leslie Curtis, assistant state's attorney. Kissel was shot by one of two men as he was entering his apartment at 502 Briar place.

Kissel said no attempt was made to rob him or his wife, Doris, who was wearing valuable jewelry. He said he did not wish to accuse any one of complicity in the assault and knew of no motive. He told the investigators that he withdrew from an association of loop parking owners two months ago because he did not like its methods.

A city council subcommittee, headed by Ald. James J. McDermott, will start an inquiry tomorrow in the whole loop parking situation. Property owners and operators of parking lots and garages will appear before the committee.

ICKES IS BLAMED FOR REVOLT OF OREGON VOTERS

Defeat of Power Scheme Staggers Backers.

Portland, Ore., May 25 [Special].—The New Deal's public ownership movement has taken a terrific beating at the polls in the Pacific northwest, and its backers are dumbfounded.

Portland, a city of 300,000 lying 42 miles west of Bonneville dam, the New Deal's 100 million dollar power plant on the Columbia river, went to the polls last week and rejected retail distribution of Bonneville power thru a public ownership setup by more than 2 to 1. Five of every seven voters supported private ownership.

Victory in But One Area.

Six other Oregon communities also voted for distribution by private companies. Public ownership won in but one tiny area.

These were the results of a New Deal drive to provide markets for Bonneville's immense output, and they were so disconcerting that Paul J. Raver, administrator of the Bonneville project, rushed to Washington, D. C., to confer with his superior, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, and presumably to tell him what happened and why.

What explanation Raver, who is a former Northwestern university professor and former chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, will offer is unknown, but other public ownership proponents here have an explanation of their own. They blame Secretary Ickes himself.

Two Primary Causes.

They attribute their defeat to two primary causes, both, they charge, brought on by Ickes. They are:

1. Ickes' extravagant claims of immediate rate reductions, which aroused jublic skepticism.

2. Fear in Portland that public ownership would cause a public debt of $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

Bonneville, as provided by act of Congress, is reserving 50 per cent of its power for public ownership agencies, called Public Utility districts. But in Oregon only a few such agencies, all of them small exist to buy the power. It was the formation of Public Utility districts that was voted upon and rejected last week.

Earlier Policies Compared.

The group which blames Ickes for Bonneville's plight points to the policies of the late J. D. Ross when he was administrator. Ross consistently cautioned his subordinates to make no extragavant claims that sharp rate reductions would come with district or municipal ownership. He emphasized that rates could not be uniform; that cost of distribution, debt retirement, interest, and other necessary charges would vary in different cities. He distinguished "objectives" rates from "present" rates.

When Ross died, the public ownership group asserts, Ickes "moved in" on Bonneville, and a friendly congress passed such legislation as he requested to make his power absolute.

Propaganda Bureau Busy.

Ickes, says the group, promptly instituted new policies. The Bonneville "information division," a propaganda bureau of 24 persons receiving a total annual salary of more than $40,000, promised low rates for one and all. An extremely low experimental rate in effect for a few weeks in the town of Forest Grove, Ore., was cited as an example of what could be done in Portland.

A rate in Tacoma, Wash., a city whose plant has been in operation for many years and is nearly paid for, also was used an an illustration.

These were samples of hundreds of misleading representations, says the group which blames Ickes, and the people were skeptical.

Debt Factor Explained.

Concerning Portland's fear of a huge public debt, the group explains:

That the late Administrator Ross was strongly opposed to public condemnation of privately owned power properties, and believed that before a public utility district should start condemnation proceedings it should exhaust every effort to deal by negotiation and purchase.

That in this attitude Ross was bitterly opposed by radical factions in the public ownership group, these factions favoring condemnation suits "right now."

The Administrator's Argument.

That Ross warned that such suits would be costly to both seller and purchaser thru attorney fees, court costs, and delays, and that such costs would be avoided thru purchase by negotiation at a fair price.

That when Ickes took command he announced that condemnation suits would no longer be discouraged, and that this greatly encouraged the radicals, who at once brought a suit in Cowlitz county, Washington, to condemn the properties of the Washington Gas and Electric company.

That the trial lasted three months, with the Public Utility district arguing that the properties were worth $3,850,000; the company arguing that they were worth $7,500,000, and the jury fixing the price at $5,922,556, which, it is said, was about $1,000,000 more than the company had been about to accept before the suit was brought.

Result Influences Portland.

That the price as fixed by the jury was so much higher than the condemners expected that they have never proceeded to buy the property, and that the shock reverberated to Portland and its voters.

In Portland officials of the private company pointed out that on the basis of the Cowlitz verdict a jury in Portland would not fix the company's value at $32,000,000, as the Public Utility district claimed, but at from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

Then came election day.

Its verdict was the second hard blow Bonneville has suffered in recent months. Eugene, Ore., has a city owned light and power company. It needs more power. Bonneville power lines run to the city's border.

But Eugene recently decided not to buy Bonneville power, but instead to build a $550,000 steam plant and generate its own power. Eugene figured that it could do this more cheaply than to buy it from Bonneville.

Congress limits the amount of power which Bonneville can sell to heavy industrial consumers, having assumed that the public ownership units would be quickly and enthusiastically formed. Contracts already let to industrial consumers are virtually at the legal limit. The few municipal contracts in existence call for only trivial amount of power. Acquisition of no big customers like Portland is in sight, or even in distant prospect.

So public ownership leaders in Oregon are discouraged, and apparently have no plans for the future. Administrator Raver is in Washington to get orders from Secretary Ickes; the managers of the private companies are pointing to the election results, and critics of the New Deal are pointing out that the Bonneville project cost the nation's taxpayers 100 million dollars.

4 YOUNG PERSONS, 3 OF EVANSTON, KILLED IN CRASH

Cars Collide in Michigan; Seven Injured.

Four young persons, three of them residents of Evanston, were killed yesterday in an automobile collision at U. S. 31 and Route 426 north of Glenn, Mich., 20 miles west of Allegan. Seven others, one of them an Evanstonian, were injured.

The dead were Miss Betty Stokes, 23 years old, 2306 Harrison street, Evanston, driver of one car; John Richard Flaningam, 17, of 2817 Hartzell street, Evanston; John Soderberg, 17, of 2152 McDaniel avenue, Evanston, and Harry Ochampaugh, 16, of Hopkins, Mich.

List of Injured.

The injured are Frederick Stokes, 18, a brother of Miss Stokes, and Ruth Jensen, Stewart Akom, Ruth Elaine Teed, Beverly Hamilton, Clarence Babcock, and Joe Bartz, all seniors at Allegan High school. All but Stokes are believed seriously hurt.

The Evanston party was enroute to the Stokes summer home near Northport. The Allegan youths, all riding in one of a two car party, were en route to a park near Allegan after the high school senior banquet.

Sheriff Fred Miller of Allegan county said one of the two Allegan cars already had crossed the main road, on which the Evanston party was traveling, and that the second car, driven by Ochampaugh, apparently pulled in the path of the Illinois car without stopping for route 31, a thru highway.

Going at High Speed, Says Sheriff.

The Illinois car, Sheriff Miller said, seemingly was traveling at a high speed. He said that after hitting the Allegan car, which ran into an abutment and then into a tree, the car driven by Miss Stokes tore down an electric light pole before coming to a stop. The sheriff said the accident scene is two miles north of Glenn, and an equal distance south of Ganges.

Young Flaningam's father, G. H. Flaningam, is a teacher at New Trier Township High school. Sidney M. Soderberg, father of John, is a department manager for Wilson & Co., packers. Frederick C. Stokes, father of Betty and Frederick, is associated with Marshall Field & Co.'s Evanston store. John Soderberg and the other two boys were juniors in the Evanston Township High school. Miss Stokes was a secretary.

Two Killed in Collision.

Joseph D. McCauley, 48 years old, 7439 South May street, and Joseph P. Elwood, 50, of 7648 South Morgan street, were killed late yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding skidded and crashed into the front end of a street car at 2364 South Ashland avenue. Peter Doornbos, 28, of 646 West 64th street, was riding with McCauley and Elwood and was seriously injured. Several passengers on the street car were shaken and cut by shattered glass.

Frank Jones, 37, of Chicago, a driver for the Burlington Trailways, died in a Moline hospital yesterday of injuries incurred when his bus and a truck collided near Geneseo Friday night. Three passengers were injured.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 331 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 254 were killed in Chicago, where 8,490 were injured during the same period.

NEWEST SAFETY 'STRATOLINER' IS PUT THRU PACES

4 Motored Ships Go Into Service Next Month.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 25.—A new Boeing stratoliner—first of a new class of transport airplanes that are about to go into regular service on the country's commercial airways—demonstrated its capabilities today in a preinaugural flight from Chicago to this city's plateau-top flying field. The trip was made with a group of newspaper men aboard. Capts. D. W. Tomlinson and John Cowling, veteran Transcontinental and Western Air pilots, were at the controls.

The plane is to go into regular service next month, with three identical ships on T. W. A.'s coast to coast route and over the company's Chicago-New York shuttle service. When these ships begin flying, they will be the first four-motored airliners to be used within the United States. They are expected to usher in a new era in air transport comfort, speed, and, above all, safety.

Added Safety Explained.

While commercial air lines have established an all-time record for safety by flying more than a full year without a fatality, using twin motored planes such as the Douglas DC 2 S or DC 3 airliners, the safety factor will be increased considerably in the four motored airplane. The reason is easy to understand. In a twin motored plane, a failure in one engine means a 50 per cent loss of power. In a four engined ship, an engine failure means only a 25 per cent loss of power.

The stratoliner showed its new level of performance at the moment of take-off. In a DC 3, the technique is to get the ship flying, then hold it close to the ground until the wheels are pulled up into the engine nacelles and the air speed climbs above 110 miles an hour.

Uses One-Fifth of Runway.

This type of take-off means a long, low trajectory. Achieving the speed is essential because none of the twin engined planes can be flown safely on the one engine on less than 110 mile an hour speed. The stratoliner, with its four 1,100 horse power Cyclones roaring, was pulled off the east-west runway of the Chicago airport in less than 1,000 feet. The runway is 5,000 feet long. By the time it passed over Cicero avenue, it was 1,000 feet in the air and still climbing fast. None of the DC 2 S or DC 3 twin motored planes ever is more than 100 feet off the ground at that point in their flights.

The stratoliner was cruised at 6,000 feet by Capt. Tomlinson for nearly an hour because of a layer of clouds at that height. The airspeed meter read 160 miles an hour cruising. When corrected for height, this means that the 45,000 pound airplane was bowling along at 180 miles an hour.

Comfort at Great Heights.

When he found a clear patch of sky, he climbed quickly to 11,300 feet.

The "altitude conditioning" system in the ship held the air pressure inside to a comfortable equivalent of the pressure normally found at 8,000 feet.

Weather conditions forced the pilots to descend to 3,000 feet over Akron, O., about an hour out of Pittsburgh. The remainder of the flight was made at that height. The entire 421 mile flight was completed in 2 hours 33 minutes—an average speed of 160 miles an hour.

The ship seats 33 passengers by day and 25 in luxuriously large berths at night.

NAVY LAUNCHES NEW DESTROYER; SPEED 36 KNOTS

Boston, Mass., May 25 (AP).—The navy launched a new 1,630 ton, $5,500,000 destroyer, the U. S. Gwin, today at the Boston navy yard, where four other destroyers are being built.

The Gwin, whose keel was laid early in 1939, will mount five 5-inch guns and, in addition, will carry lighter armament and 10 torpedo tubes. She is designed to develop a speed of 36 knots.

Her sponsor at the christening exercises was Mrs. Bessie T. Lippincott of Cincinnati, O., acting in place of her mother, Mrs. William M. Williams, a relative of Lieutenant Commander William Gwin, civil war naval hero, for whom the destroyer is named. Mrs. Williams' illness prevented her from attending. Gwin was mortally wounded Dec. 27, 1862, while commanding a naval division at Haines Bluff.

ARK DISAPPEARS AND SO DOES ITS FAMILY OF NINE

Officials Are All at Sea Because It Is.

ANACORTES, Wash., May 25 (AP).—Paul Satko's oddly-designed, trouble-beset Ark, built to carry his family to a better life in Alaska, chugged toward parts unknown tonight.

Left in the lurch were a Chamber of Commerce farewell committee and a Seattle Juvenile court's restraining order. But whether the 49 year old jobless machinist's six minor children were aboard with Mrs. Satko and their eldest daughter, Hazel, 18, was undetermined.

Alterations Ordered.

Judge William G. Long forbade Satko to continue the voyage with the younger children until the vessel had been altered to assure its seaworthiness and sanitation.

Paul Luvera, of the chamber committee planning a bon voyage festival, said that all he knew was that the family, at about 3 a. m., vacated an apartment the chamber had rented for it and the Ark set out about thirty minutes later. He added that the improvements ordered by the court had not been completed. Judge Long was not available at Seattle for comment.

Fishermen told Luvera, from questions Satko asked yesterday, that they believed he would put in first at Nanaimo, B. C., on Vancouver Island, en route north.

Luvera said it had been ascertained that Satko cleared customs for Ketchikan, Alaska, on Thursday; bought 100 gallons of gasoline yesterday for the 1926 automobile engine powering the Ark, and had 130 gallons given him here and at La Conner, Wash. A small quantity of groceries and $62.55 also were donated.

Canadian and United States customs officers said there was nothing to prevent the twentieth century Noah from entering Canadian ports en route.

The Family Follows.

It took three years and $2,000 for Satko to build the 40 foot Ark—starting it in Richmond, Va., and hauling it overland for completion at Tacoma. He sailed from there April 21, was stranded by a mud bar and Judge Long's court hearing at Seattle, then brought the odd appearing craft here with the aid of his eldest daughter.

Mrs. Satko, 39, followed by bus with Edward, 17; Joe, 15; Grace, 11; David, 9; William, 7, and Betty, 4. Another child, a baby boy, died while they were at Tacoma.

Satko has two sons by a previous marriage at Richmond.

His aim, he said, was to make a leisurely voyage to Alaska to seek a homestead because he "doesn't believe in relief." He planned to go as far as Cook Inlet, 1,500 miles from Tacoma, if necessary.

MacNIDER ASKS PRESIDENT WHO KEEPS PLEDGES

Tacoma, Wash, May 25 (AP).—Hanford MacNider, Iowa's favorite son candidate for President, today charged President Roosevelt with a lack of preparedness, and said the country "cannot have a national defense that means anything until we have a foreign policy understandable to all the world."

In making the keynote speech for the Washington state Republican convention, MacNider called for the election "of a man we can trust, on a platform we know will be kept."

MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion, is a one-time assistant secretary of war and was for a time minister to Canada.

While Hitler was building his war machine, MacNider declared, the President "was breaking down our best national defense here at home—our national unity, our industries, our national credit, our stamina and courage; the incentive which had built the greatest fighting nation on earth."

He called upon the President to explain "what he thought he was doing when he was making provocative speeches and shaking his fist at strong, well armed powers abroad."

Break Ground for First Twenty Units in Privately Financed Home Project

SYNDICATE BUYS 131 ACRES NEAR TRUMBULL PARK

Hope to Build 650 Single Family Dwellings.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Ground was broken yesterday for the first 20 homes in what is predicted will be Chicago's largest privately financed residential project in many years. This is Calumet Gardens, a 131 acre development in the South Chicago area, located a few blocks north of the federal housing project—Trumbull Park Homes. It is said to be the largest individual tract left inside the city limits zoned for residences.

James J. Haines. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

It is "L" shaped; bounded on the north by East 95th street, on the west by Van Vlissingen road, on the south by East 102d street, and on the east by Hoxie avenue. The land has been replatted, from 1,000 lots of 30 feet frontage each into 650 home sites of 42 feet.

Tenant Ouster Gives Impetus.

The recent announcement by the Chicago Housing authority that families whose incomes are more than five times the rent must move from the three federal housing projects, gave impetus to the development of Calumet Gardens, according to its backers. About 50 families in the Trumbull Park Homes will be forced to find new living quarters. About 600 families will have to move from the other two CHA housing projects.

In the belief that well built single family homes could be privately financed and sold to these ousted CHA tenants at a cost not much more than the monthly rent they have been paying, Calumet Gardens Homes, Inc., was formed.

Find Widespread Interest.

The corporation, headed by James J. Haines, purchased its tract from the Calumet Trust. It was formerly owned by the Van Sweringen brothers, railroad operators.

"Altho it was the situation of the Trumbull Park tenants which prompted us to start this development," Haines said, "we soon found that interest was widespread among others who live in that part of the city.

"This was particularly noticeable in large industrial plants such as the Carnegie-Illinois Steel, Wisconsin Steel, Inland Steel, and Commonwealth-Edison companies. Our first owners include men from each of these plants.

Come from CHA Project.

"We scheduled a meeting to discuss some of the details of our project and, without any fanfare, over 120 people attended. Eighty signed cards expressing an interest in buying homes in Calumet Gardens. We are securing credit information on these prospective buyers and have completed arrangements whereby 12 of the first 20 homes already have been sold to approved purchasers.

"Four of these initial buyers come from Trumbull Park Homes: Oscar E. Dahl, Howard R. Kind, Dwight Collins, and Thomas H. King. Other purchasers whose homes are now being built are Edmund Gray, Harry A. Stokes, James W. Harrington, Charles Welch, Edward H. Winkelman, Chester J. Fialkowski, Alex J. Droski, and Lawrence J. Kowalski.

Cost Is $33 a Month.

"Each of the homes being built in Calumet Gardens will be sold for $4,800 under an arrangement whereby the purchaser will pay $500 down and $33 per month. This monthly payment will include mortgage principal, interest, taxes, and insurance.

"Former tenants of Trumbull Park Homes paid a monthly rental of approximately $28 before their income to rent ratio increased beyond the CHA maximum ruling."

Calumet Gardens commissioned L. I. Janik, architect, to prepare plans for four styles of solid brick homes. They each will have four or five rooms and bath on the first floor, with provision for two future bedrooms and bath on the second floor.

Floor Plans Vary.

Varying floor plans will make it possible for home buyers to have either a large living room, dining room, one bedroom, kitchen and bath on the first floor, or a smaller living room, dining room, two bedrooms, kitchen and bath.

Dovenmuehle, Inc., mortgage bankers, have arranged construction financing for all homes in the development with 25 year loans, at 4½ per cent interest, insured under Title Two of the FHA.

Mrs. Iris Dahl, president of the Trumbull Park Women's club; Lester W. Porter, formerly president of the Chicago Real Estate board, and L. M. Nicolson, both partners of Hodge, Nicolson & Porter, and associated with the Calumet Trust, have accepted positions on a committee which is to have complete jurisdiction over the architectural development of Calumet Gardens. Neither homes nor commercial building can be erected without the approval of this committee.

Two Blocks for Business.

Plans call for a business center along two blocks of 100th street, which cuts thru the development. One square block will be reserved for a public school and a two acre children's playground is to be provided.

The privately built Calumet Gardens will be more than six times the area of the government constructed Trumbull Park Homes, three blocks to the south, but it will have only 188 more living units. The CHA project has 462 families in flats on a 21 acre tract. There will be 650 single family homes on the 131 acre Calumet Gardens.

And these 650 home owners will pay taxes on their property. The Trumbull Park Homes pays a small service charge for use of city conveniences—but no taxes.

Types of Homes in South Chicago Residential Development

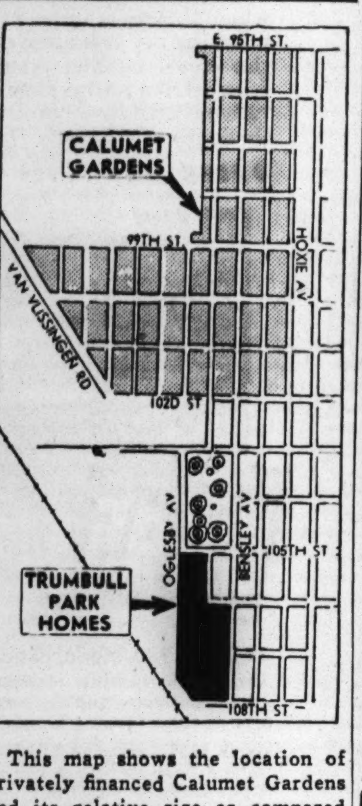
Four of the first 20 homes in Calumet Gardens are on the west side of Oglesby avenue, between 101st and 102d streets. They show the four architectural types approved for the big privately financed development. All have solid brick walls. Each contains four rooms, with space on the second floor for two rooms and additional bath. L. I. Janik is architect and Frank Havlick is general contractor. They are being sold for $4,800, with a $500 down payment and monthly FHA payments of $33. All homes have been financed by Dovenmuehle, Inc. Completion is scheduled for Aug. 5.

Location of Projects



This map shows the location of privately financed Calumet Gardens and its relative size as compared with the federal housing project—Trumbull Park Homes—three blocks to the south. Calumet Gardens will cover 131 acres and contains 650 sites for individual homes. The Chicago Housing authority's project has 462 living units on a 21 acre tract.

Small Home Parade in Evergreen Park

These 28 Cape Cod type homes occupy two blocks of frontage on the south side of West 89th street, extending from Rockwell street to California avenue, Evergreen Park. They are a part of 98 homes in various stages of construction built by J. E. Merrion & Co. in the Merrionette Village development. All of the 98 are sold. There is no speculative building in this project. The above 28 homes have the same floor plan, but have enough variety in roof and wall colors and in exterior design to avoid monotony. They have four rooms and cost $2,550 each, plus $400 for the 40 by 132 foot lot, or a total of $2,950. R. E. Major is architect.

PUBLISH NEW 1939-'42 BOOK OF VALUATIONS

The Chicago Real Estate Index company yesterday published the "1939-'42 Book of Valuations of the Central Business Districts of Chicago." The price is $25. According to S. M. Boardman, head of the Chicago Read Estate Index company, 77 West Washington street, the new volume is more complete in detail than publications of other quadrennial assessments, as it contains the assessor's full valuations, as well as the 37 per cent assessed valuations of land and improvements separately.

There are 82 maps, comprising the districts covered in the south, north and west towns of Chicago.

"The Cook county assessor has furnished us with the 'assessment valuation procedure' for the 1939-'42 quadrennial, with the rules and tables used, which we have reproduced in this book," Boardman said.

The volume also contains a map with a brief history of Chicago's first subway.

Letters

Boston, Mass., May 22. — The old maxim "it's an ill wind that blows nobody good" has not and does not seem to work in Baltimore and Boston. Both these cities whose downtown commercial office and business centers, like Chicago, once commanded good rents, stable returns, and strong land values, are going thru what I call "New Dealitis" and what to do with them is a problem which all owners are facing.

I have suggested to many that they follow the Chicago plan of doing away with old eyesores and replace with open air parking spaces, thus bringing into the downtown area many thousands who, because of lack of parking space, go elsewhere.

Both Baltimore and Boston are far behind in automobile conveniences. I can see that Chicago, tho it has wrecked many an old landmark, has started what I think is a new downtown demand for rentable space thru creating facilities for auto parking.

J. Elliot has leased the 400 by 200 feet at the southeast corner of Howard street, Lincoln and Cicero avenues, Niles Center, for 15 years beginning June 1, from F. A. Wallace, with an option to buy for $35,000 within four years.

THREE COLOR MAP IS GUIDE TO NEW HOMES

31 Building Developments Are Located.

Elsewhere in today's TRIBUNE is a full page road map "guide to new homes," in three colors. Thirty-one of the leading residential developments in Chicago and suburbs are shown on the map, and in each instance a reproduction of a typical house, with price range, is given. Details on how to reach each development also are included.

The page guide is drawn to scale of the Chicago Tribune's 1940 Chicagoland map, with red arrows pointing to the green areas [locations of the various home developments].

Hundreds of Homes Shown.

In these 31 "home building shows" designated on the map are hundreds of homes in varied styles and period designs by the leading architects of Chicago. The price range is from $3,990 in a far south side project to $30,000 in a Wilmette residential development.

In all of the 31 projects there will be found homes open for inspection.

The Chicago Building congress, indorser of the "Guide to New Homes," has this to say regarding it: "This map is presented as an accurate picture enabling you to plan and carry out a comprehensive home-seeking tour to pick the communities and homes most likely to appeal to you.

Stresses Low Prices.

"This map aids especially you who are anxious to take advantage of the extremely low prices for home sites which prevail today—prices seem certain to go higher—and of the new low cost financing, the lowest in a generation."

The map will prove of much assistance to the prospective home owner in touring residential sections, the organization said.

RAKLIOS PLANS A NEW CHAIN OF RESTAURANTS

John Raklios, who at one time operated a large chain of popular priced restaurants in the loop, plans a new chain of eating places. He has leased from Mary K. Otis space at 330 South Clark street and will open a restaurant there on May 29. Gus C. Manos, who negotiated the lease, said yesterday that Raklios and his son John Jr. are negotiating for several sites in various parts of the city for new units. Manos will represent the Raklios firm in acquiring locations.

REALTY BOARD OUTING TO BE HELD IN JUNE

The Chicago Real Estate board will hold its annual spring outing at the Edgewood Valley Country club, on Spring road, about three miles south of La Grange, on June 12. Plans for the outing were made last week at a luncheon of the outing committee, of which Hugh Michels is chairman. The program will include motion pictures of members, golf and other games, a variety of prizes, and refreshments. Attendance will be limited to members of the board.

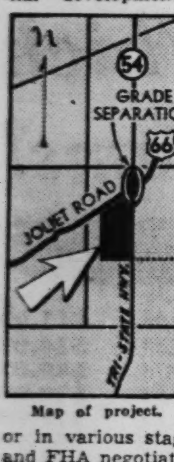
Eighty Acres Added to Tri-State Village Residential Development

SIXTEEN HOMES ALREADY SOLD IN NEW PROJECT

Winding Roads a Feature of Subdivision.

Tri-State Village, the new residential development of the Central Housing organization, at the southwest corner of Tri-State highway [state route No. 54] and the Joliet road [U. S. route No. 66], is to be enlarged, according to W. G. Buenik. The first unit of 30 acres now has 16 homes either finished or in various stages of construction and FHA negotiation.



Map of project.

An additional 80 acres adjoining the first section on the south and fronting on the Tri-State highway, are to be laid out with winding roads and opened shortly, it was said.

Two Homes Completed.

The first section of 30 acres was platted into 100 lots with frontages of from 60 to 75 feet, and from 120 to 150 feet deep. Two homes are completed and occupied. Two more are nearing completion. Two are under construction. Five are awaiting approval of FHA and five more have been signed for, but have not yet been submitted to the FHA.

There is no speculative building, it was said. All homes are being built to order and are being financed under title 1, class 3, FHA, which has a maximum construction cost of $2,500, and permits a down payment as low as $150, the balance to be paid within 15 years.

All Have Four Rooms.

All of the insured mortgages are being negotiated thru the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation, and the Bell Savings and Loan association.

The houses all have four rooms, and in many instances there is an unfinished second floor which can be made into bedrooms by the owner when needed.

The Central Housing organization has a model house on its property which was completed several weeks ago and is open to the public for inspection.

SMALL THEATER IS BEING BUILT IN SHORE SUBURB

side, with a dining hall, lounge, and kitchens at the back. The building will face a sunken patio which will be flood lighted and used for dancing and refreshment.

John McMahill, Chicago actor and playwright, is director of the Michiana Shores theater colony adjoining his own summer home. He plans six weeks of schooling and five weeks of theater productions, with the lesser parts filled by students. The theater is scheduled to open July 15.

SELLS STORES AND FLATS.

The store and flat building at the northwest corner of Fullerton and Southport avenues was sold by Fullerton-Southport Apartments, Inc., to Valentine Deering. The E. & S Loewenstein company was broker.

Du Page County Residence

Charles W. Marshall owns this four room house at the northeast corner of Sunrise avenue and Meadow court in Tri-State Village, the Central Housing organization's development at Tri-State highway and Joliet road, in Du Page county. The upper story is unfinished and can be completed by the owner when needed. The house cost $2,500, the lot $395, and the FHA charges $130, or a total of $3,025. The owner did his own painting and decorating. It was financed with a 15 year FHA insured mortgage on which the monthly payments are $19.13. The down payment was $150. The selling price included plumbing, electrical work and fixtures, laundry tubs, hot water heater, but not the well and septic tank, which were extra. The house has no basement.

CHICAGO ARCHITECTS AWARDED HONORS AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

Two Chicago architects were awarded fellowships as "outstanding members" of the American Institute of Architects at its annual convention at Louisville, Ky. Ten architects of other American cities were given similar honors. One Chicago architect was awarded an Edward Langley scholarship for 1940.

The two fellowships were received by Philip B. Maher, 157 East Erie street, and Miles L. Colean, now in Washington, D. C. Colean, formerly assistant to FHA Administrator Stewart McDonald, and director of the large scale housing division of the FHA, is now doing housing research work for the 20th century fund, Washington. He is a member of the Chicago architectural firm of Cowles & Colean. Maher has designed many important Chicago buildings, especially along North Michigan avenue.

Charles H. Dornbusch, 1354 East 49th street, was one of nine American and Canadian recipients of the Langley scholarship. He is an associate professor of architecture at Armour Institute of Technology. He has been associated with Loebl & Schlossman, architects, for the last four years.

At the annual election of the A. I. A. John R. Fugard of Chicago was reëlected treasurer. Other officers reelected were Edward Bergstrom of Los Angeles, president; Walter R. McCormack, Cambridge, Mass., vice president, and Charles T. Ingham, secretary. Peter Brust of Milwaukee was elected regional director for Illinois and Wisconsin.

Corporation Pays $91,500 for West Side Apartments

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company yesterday sold the 39 apartment building at 4814-20 West Monroe street, to the 4814 Monroe Building corporation for a reported $91,500. Of this $9,150 was cash and the balance a purchase money mortgage for $82,350. A. J. Donovan of Baird & Warner, was broker for the seller, and H. Beron and H. Brunhild of the Dearborn Realty and Mortgage company, represented the buyer.

11 APARMENT BUILDINGS ARE SOLD FOR $260,000

Eleven apartment buildings, containing 80 suites, were reported sold by Glatt & Price for approximately $260,000. Three of the largest properties were sold for the State Mutual Life Assurance company of Worcester, Mass. The 21 flats at the northwest corner of Greenwood avenue and 52d street were bought by 52d and Greenwood corporation for $78,500. HOME BUILDING SHOWS INCREASE THRUOUT NATION

Chicago Climbs to Fifth in List of Cities.

New residential construction in the United States was 37 per cent higher during April than a year ago, and 22 per cent above the March, 1940, level. This is more than a seasonal increase, according to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

New nonresidential construction during April did not show as large an increase over last year as residential, the gain being 12.4 per cent. The total of all classes of building, however, registered a gain of 23.4 per cent.

Four Month Total Declines.

During the first four months of 1940 permits were issued for buildings valued at $619,619,000, the report shows. This is a decline of 1 per cent as compared with the corresponding period of 1939.

Residential building, however, increased 12 per cent over the first four months of last year. Permits for homes for the first four months of 1940 totaled $360,682,000.

Chicago in Fifth Place.

Chicago climbed to fifth place in the list of American cities in construction of all types for the first four months. It had permits valued at $12,776,000. For the corresponding period last year, it had $11,092,000 and was seventh on the list.

New York led all cities for the first four months this year with $101,097,000. Los Angeles was second, with $25,137,000; Washington, D. C., third, with $20,047,000, and Detroit fourth, with $19,992,000.

Houston, which was sixth last year, slid to ninth place in the list of cities.

Rush and Oak St. Corner Purchased for $105,000

The southeast corner of Rush and Oak streets, 103 by 157, improved with a service station, was sold yesterday by Harold D. Weinacker to Eli Gieger for $105,000, according to revenue stamps on the deed.

Research House

This six room house is being erected at the University of Illinois by the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers for a co-operative research into steam and hot water heating by the university's engineering experiment station. Problems of actual operation will be studied in a long term program. The house may be used for summer home cooling studies. It will be of brick veneer, insulated construction. John E. Sweet is architect.

Leases Uptown Property for New Service Station

Irving Heytow has leased from the Motor Club Service corporation the vacant property at 4831 Broadway for six years. He will build a service station, according to Albert H. Levy, his attorney.

Chicago Area New Building Tops Average

Building operations in the Chicago metropolitan area for the first four months of 1940 showed a greater increase than the average for the larger part of the country, according to T. O. Morgan, Chicago manager of Dodge Reports. Substantial dollar volumes in the residential and nonresidential work and materials contracts place construction activities in this region one and two months ahead of last year's pace.

The residential and nonresidential building contract valuation for the first four months of this year was $34,630,000. Last year for the same period it was $24,532,000. This is an increase of $10,098,000, or 41 per cent.

Residential construction led all classifications. Contracts awarded during the first four months of 1940 totaled $17,799,000. During the same months last year the total was $15,258,000.

The basis for the Chicago area summary by Dodge is actual contract awards for work and materials. They are regarded, Morgan said, as a more accurate indicator of business conditions than building permits.

MICHIGAN BEATS INDIANA FOR BIG 9½ TITLE

TIGERS END SOX STREAK, 10-4; PIRATES WHIP CUBS, 12-7

THE TAPE LOOKS CLOSE, BUT SOMETIMES IT'S FAR AWAY!

Myron Piker of Northwestern, defending 100 yard dash champion, keeps his crown as he breaks the tape in :09.7 in the finals of the Western conference outdoor track meet in Dyche stadium yesterday. Piker lowered his 1939 mark of :09.9 in winning the event. Alan Smith of Michigan was second, George Franck of Minnesota third, and John Davenport of Chicago fourth. Other competitors were; Ralph Hammond, Ohio State; Wolcott Beatty, Chicago; Roy Cochran, Indiana, and John Turner, Illinois. Michigan won the meet with 51½ points to take its fourth straight outdoor crown. Indiana was second in the team totals, and Wisconsin third. Minnesota barely beat out Illinois for fourth honors, with Purdue a good sixth.

SOX MAKE FOUR ERRORS; TIGERS HAMMER 17 HITS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Seventeen hit pitching and a four error defense yesterday halted the White Sox winning streak at five straight. The Tigers, so encouraged, sloshed in the rain to an easy 10 to 4 victory, the first in their last four engagements with the Sox. The game was called on account of rain and darkness with one out in the Tigers' ninth.

Jack Knott, the fellow who held the Detroiters to two hits on May 11, vanished after four innings, during which time he yielded seven hits and three runs, including Rudy York's fourth homer of the year. Thereafter Pete Appleton and Clint Brown, who specialize in relief pitching, were pushed around for 10 hits and seven runs.

Tied with Senators for 4th.

The Sox hung on to fourth place, won Friday, but had to share the honor with the Washington Senators who beat Philadelphia.

The Tigers got busy for the first run of the game after Knott, who was to suffer his first defeat of the season, had retired the first five batsmen. Hank Greenberg and York had grounded out in the second inning before Bruce Campbell, Pinky Higgins and Birdie Tebbetts knocked successive singles, Campbell scoring. That was just a start for Campbell, who came thru with four more consecutive hits.

The Sox tied the score in the third. Knott walked and stopped at second on Bob Kennedy's single to center. Joe Kuhel attempted to sacrifice and forced Kennedy, Knott reaching third. Mike Kreevich's long fly scored Knott, then Kuhel was thrown out on an attempted theft of second.

York Hits a Long One.

York didn't wait long to dissolve the 1 to 1 tie. He banged his homer over the centerfield end of the left scoreboard in the fourth. Campbell again came thru with a single to center. Higgins shot a double play ball at Kennedy, whose throw to Eric McNair forced Campbell, but in trying to complete the double killing Eric threw into the dugout and Higgins was waved to second. Tebbetts again delivered with a single, scoring Higgins. Trout bunted a foul popup to Mike Tresh.

Unfortunate base running kept the Sox from accomplishment in the fourth. Taft Wright opened with a single off Trout's glove but immediately was tossed out at second when the hit and run play went awry. Appling walked, but Larry Rosenthal flied to Greenberg. McNair doubled, Appling stopping at third, and Tresh was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Julius Solters batted for Knott and grounded out to Charley Gehringer.

Tigers Get Some More.

Appleton took over the pitching at the start of the fifth. Dick Bartell opened with a single, but McCosky, trying to sacrifice, fouled to Tresh. Bartell got to second, anyhow, on a wild pitch. Gehringer singled to right, scoring Bartell and took sec-

Yale Downs Princeton in Their 176th Game

New Haven, Conn., May 25 [Special].—Yale treated three Princeton pitchers roughly today to register 12 hits and score an 11 to 1 victory in the 176th game played between the oldest diamond rivals, in the longest constant intercollegiate baseball series recorded, dating from 1868.

LOWLY PIRATES ROUT FRENCH IN FIRST INNING

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 25.—The tailend Pirates took down their "Welcome Stranger" sign today, much to the discomfiture of the Cubs. Instead of being genial hosts, as they are for six other league members, the boys were a rough, tough bunch of swashbucklers as they slipped a 12 to 7 beating to the Chicagoans to mark finis to a five game losing streak. It was the Pirates' seventh triumph of the season, four of which have been grudgingly contributed by Gabby Hartnett's intermittent gallants.

The Pirates didn't fool around while winning this one. They just about sewed it up in the first inning when they pelted no less a personage than Larry [Lefty] French, the Cubs' heavy winner, who now owns three defeats. French departed quickly, prodded by Arky Vaughan's homer with two mates on the bases. After that there were various pitchers such as Ken Raffensberger, Vance Page, and Jake Mooty, all of whom looked alike to the enemy and whose hapless efforts weren't helped any by the defensive faults of mates who either erred or converted bounders into base hits.

They Waited Too Long.

Altho the Cubs finished with a fair representation in the hit column, they can't be credited with doing anything of importance until after the parade had passed. In six innings they got to Joe Bowman for only four hits and one run. By this time the Pirate right hander figured there was no longer any necessity for caution. By the time the seventh opened he was ahead, 11 to 1, so wasn't disturbed when Hank Leiber notched a three run homer.

The high point of the entertainment, which was staged before only 2,806 guests, wasn't reached until about the half way mark. Despite French's hasty retreat, the affair had a respectable aspect until the fifth. Billy Nicholson dropped a fly ball in that inning and the shock was enough to peel two runs from Page's delivery. In the sixth, however, Page didn't need any fielding blunders to lead him astray. Hits, some of which Billy Rogell should have handled, knocked him out of the picture for a five run rally, two of the five scoring while Mooty was attempting a rescue act. From this point to the finish Bowman was at ease.

Larry Gets a Shock.

The warm reception that reduced French's effort to one-third of an inning got under way with Gustine beating out a hit to Mattick in deep short. Handley slapped a single into center. It didn't take long to carry the rest of the bad news to French. Vaughan slashed his first homer of the year into the right field stand and followed Gustine and Handley across the plate. Elliott was thrown out but Van Robays singled to left. French stayed long enough to pitch a ball and strike to Fletcher and then retired to make room for Raffensberger. Fletcher grounded into a double play.

The Cubs weren't exactly batting

Michigan's Warren Breidenbach, defending 440 yard champion, keeps his title in battle with his teammate, Jack Leutritz. Wilbur McCown of Illinois was third and Jack Sulzman of Ohio State fourth. Allen Shackleton of Purdue completed the field. Breidenbach was over his winning time of last year when he won in :47.7, finishing yesterday in :48.2.

Michigan, Notre Dame Sign for 1942-'43 Football Series

Resumption of football relations between the Universities of Notre Dame and Michigan after a lapse of 33 years was assured yesterday as Elmer Layden, coach and athletic director of the Irish, and Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at Michigan, signed the contracts for a home and home series beginning in 1942. Completion of arrangements for the series, made at the meeting of the faculty committee of the Western conference in Evanston, was forecast in the Wake of the News of THE TRIBUNE several weeks ago.

The Wolverines will play at Notre Dame on Nov. 14, 1942, and the Irish will return the call on Oct. 9, 1943. The first game was scheduled at Notre Dame because 1942 is the university's centennial year.

It Started in 1887.

The two teams first met on the gridiron at Notre Dame in the spring of 1887. The Wolverines won, 8 to 0, in the first football game ever played by the Irish. In 1888 the rivals met twice, Michigan winning, 26 to 6 and 10 to 4. In 1900 the Wolverines won, 7 to 0, and repeated in 1902, by 23 to 0. Michigan maintained its superiority when relations were resumed in 1908, winning, 12 to 6, but the Irish won in the final meeting of the two the following year, 11 to 3.

A game was scheduled in 1910 but it was canceled after a dispute over eligibility of players. There have been no meetings since.

In an attempt to eliminate recurring problems in scheduling games, the faculty committee yesterday released a series of rulings for 1943 and 1944 which permit each conference university to play nine games, of which six must be conference contests. Moreover, and this was greeted with enthusiasm by Iowa, Purdue, and Indiana, each Big 9½ team must have at least two home conference games.

Thus the committee finally has heeded the complaints of Indiana and Purdue, and to a lesser degree that of Iowa, that they were being unjustly penalized by universities with larger stadiums. For several seasons Indiana and Purdue frequently have had only one home conference game and never more than two. In addition, these universities have had difficulty getting five games, one of them generally being forced to take four.

Iowa Seeks a Change.

Iowa had some advantage because of home and home series with Wisconsin and Minnesota, but in Friday's meeting of football coaches and directors the Hawkeyes protested that they wished to break the routine of contests with these universities and with Indiana and Purdue.

The text of the committee's statement follows:

"Whereas, in the making of conference football schedules for 1943 and 1944, certain difficulties have been encountered, particularly in the arrangement of satisfactory home games for certain member institutions due to commitments by tradition and otherwise on the part of the other members,

"Be it resolved:

"1. That for those two seasons, namely 1943 and 1944, the operation of regulation IV., section 1b, limiting the number of varsity football games in any one year to eight is hereby temporarily and experimentally suspended.

Raise Limit to Nine Games.

"2. That for those two seasons the directors and coaches be permitted to schedule nine varsity foot-

13,000 Watch Dolly Val Win Crete Feature

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Dolly Val, a 5 year old mare owned by James Emery of Chicago, came sloshing up the rain swept home stretch at Lincoln Fields yesterday with Jockey Jimmy McCoy driving hard to keep her nose ahead of the fast charging Kings Blue. Dolly Val stayed up there just long enough to get across the line—and that was the finish of the $5,000 Crete handicap, feature event of the opening day program of Chicago's racing season.

The Woolford Farm's Technician took third place, two lengths behind Kings Blue. After acting badly at the post, the Calumet farm's Easy Mon, which had been backed into the position of 3 to 2 favorite, finished fifth, never having been able to reach a contending position. His stablemate, Beau James, was eighth in the field of nine which went to the post in this six furlong dash.

13,000 See Program.

A crowd of 13,000 came out to see the first races of the local season. After leaving Chicago's downtown district in sunshine and mild temperatures, they encountered stormy weather. Rain began to fall as the last of the special trains approached the track and it continued thruout the afternoon, driving the railbirds to the shelter of the stands.

Dolly Val had been racing fairly well at Churchill Downs after winning the $10,000 Tropical Park handicap during the winter season. In that event she numbered among her victims Many Stings, winner of the $50,000 Widener Cup race. During her Kentucky campaign she had scored two second places behind Easy Mon and Shot Put.

Dolly Val at 7 to 1.

Despite these signs of running ability, Dolly Val got to the post 7 to 1 while the crowd was concentrating on the Calumet entry and on Kings Blue, which was made second choice at 9 to 2. Technician was quoted at 8 to 1.

After some delay at the post due to Easy Mon's restlessness, the field got away in good alignment. Beau James broke first, but Kings Blue moved up on the inside to take command. On the swing into the stretch, Kings Blue drifted out fairly wide. Dolly Val came on swiftly with Technician close behind her and these two fought it out head and head down the home stretch. In the last furlong, Kings Blue moved again. He conquered Technician and went after Dolly Val, but couldn't quite get up. The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:15 3-5. In the mutuels she paid $16, $6.20 and $5.

Nightland Wins Ivanhoe Purse.

Five 3 year olds went to the post in the Ivanhoe purse, a seven furlong dash which occupied the secondary position on the program. Nightland, the 5 to 2 second choice, came home five lengths ahead of his nearest rival, while Inscolad was nosing Equifox out of second place.

Equifox and Designer cut out most of the early pace, with Nightland and Bay Carse close up, while Inscolad was running last. On the turn Designer gave up. Then Nightland went to the front and drew out easily in the stretch. Meanwhile Inscolad came up under a hard drive to catch Equifox just as they crossed the finish line. The winner returned $7.20, $4, and $3.

WISCONSIN IS 3D IN ANNUAL TRACK CARNIVAL

Team Standings

Michigan	51	Purdue	22
Indiana	35½	Northwestern	18¼
Wisconsin	26¼	Ohio State	15
Minnesota	25	Chicago	7¼
Illinois	24½	Iowa	0

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Michigan won its fourth consecutive Western conference track championship yesterday in Dyche stadium and thus tied its own record for continuous supremacy established in the first four years of this 40 year old competition. To this team record the mighty Wolverines, altho without their captain, Ralph Schwarzkopf, defending two mile champion, added four individual titles.

Michigan scored 51 points to Indiana's 35½ points. The comparatively easy victory, however, was made possible by misfortune that followed Roy Cochran, Indiana's premier athlete. Michigan would have won, but after Cochran withdrew from the 220 yard dash and the low hurdles, because of a leg injury, the Hoosier defeat was certain. Cochran won the low hurdles in 1939.

Hawkeyes Are Shut Out.

Wisconsin took third place with 26¼ points and these included individual titles in the high hurdles, half mile and pole vault. Minnesota surprised all by pulling into fourth place ahead of Illinois with 25 points. Purdue, Northwestern, Ohio State, and Chicago followed in that order. Iowa failed to score.

Except for the conference record in the discus throw, which was established in Friday's preliminaries by Archie Harris of Indiana, the games were devoid of record breaking performances. Harris, incidentally, won individual scoring honors by capturing the shot put title. In Friday's trials Harris was in second place, but yesterday he went to the fore with a winning toss of 51 feet 5½ inches.

Plenty of Excitement.

The meet did not lack the customary quota of closely fought races and not the least of these was Ed Holderman's victory in the two mile, Minnesota's brilliant relay victory over Michigan's record holding team, and the finishes of the sprints in which the championships were divided between Myron Piker of Northwestern and Alan Smith of Michigan.

Holderman stood off the closing challenge of Wayne Tolliver of Indiana and won in the surprisingly good time of 9:17.1, considering the brisk cold wind that swept the course. Irven Liljegren of Minnesota made his bid for victory just before the final lap, but he faded in the stretch and lost third place to Edgar Hedges of Indiana.

Holderman finished second to Indiana's Campbell Kane in the mile run, opening event of the meet, and scored 9 points, more than a third of the Boilermakers' total.

Gophers Surprise Wolverines.

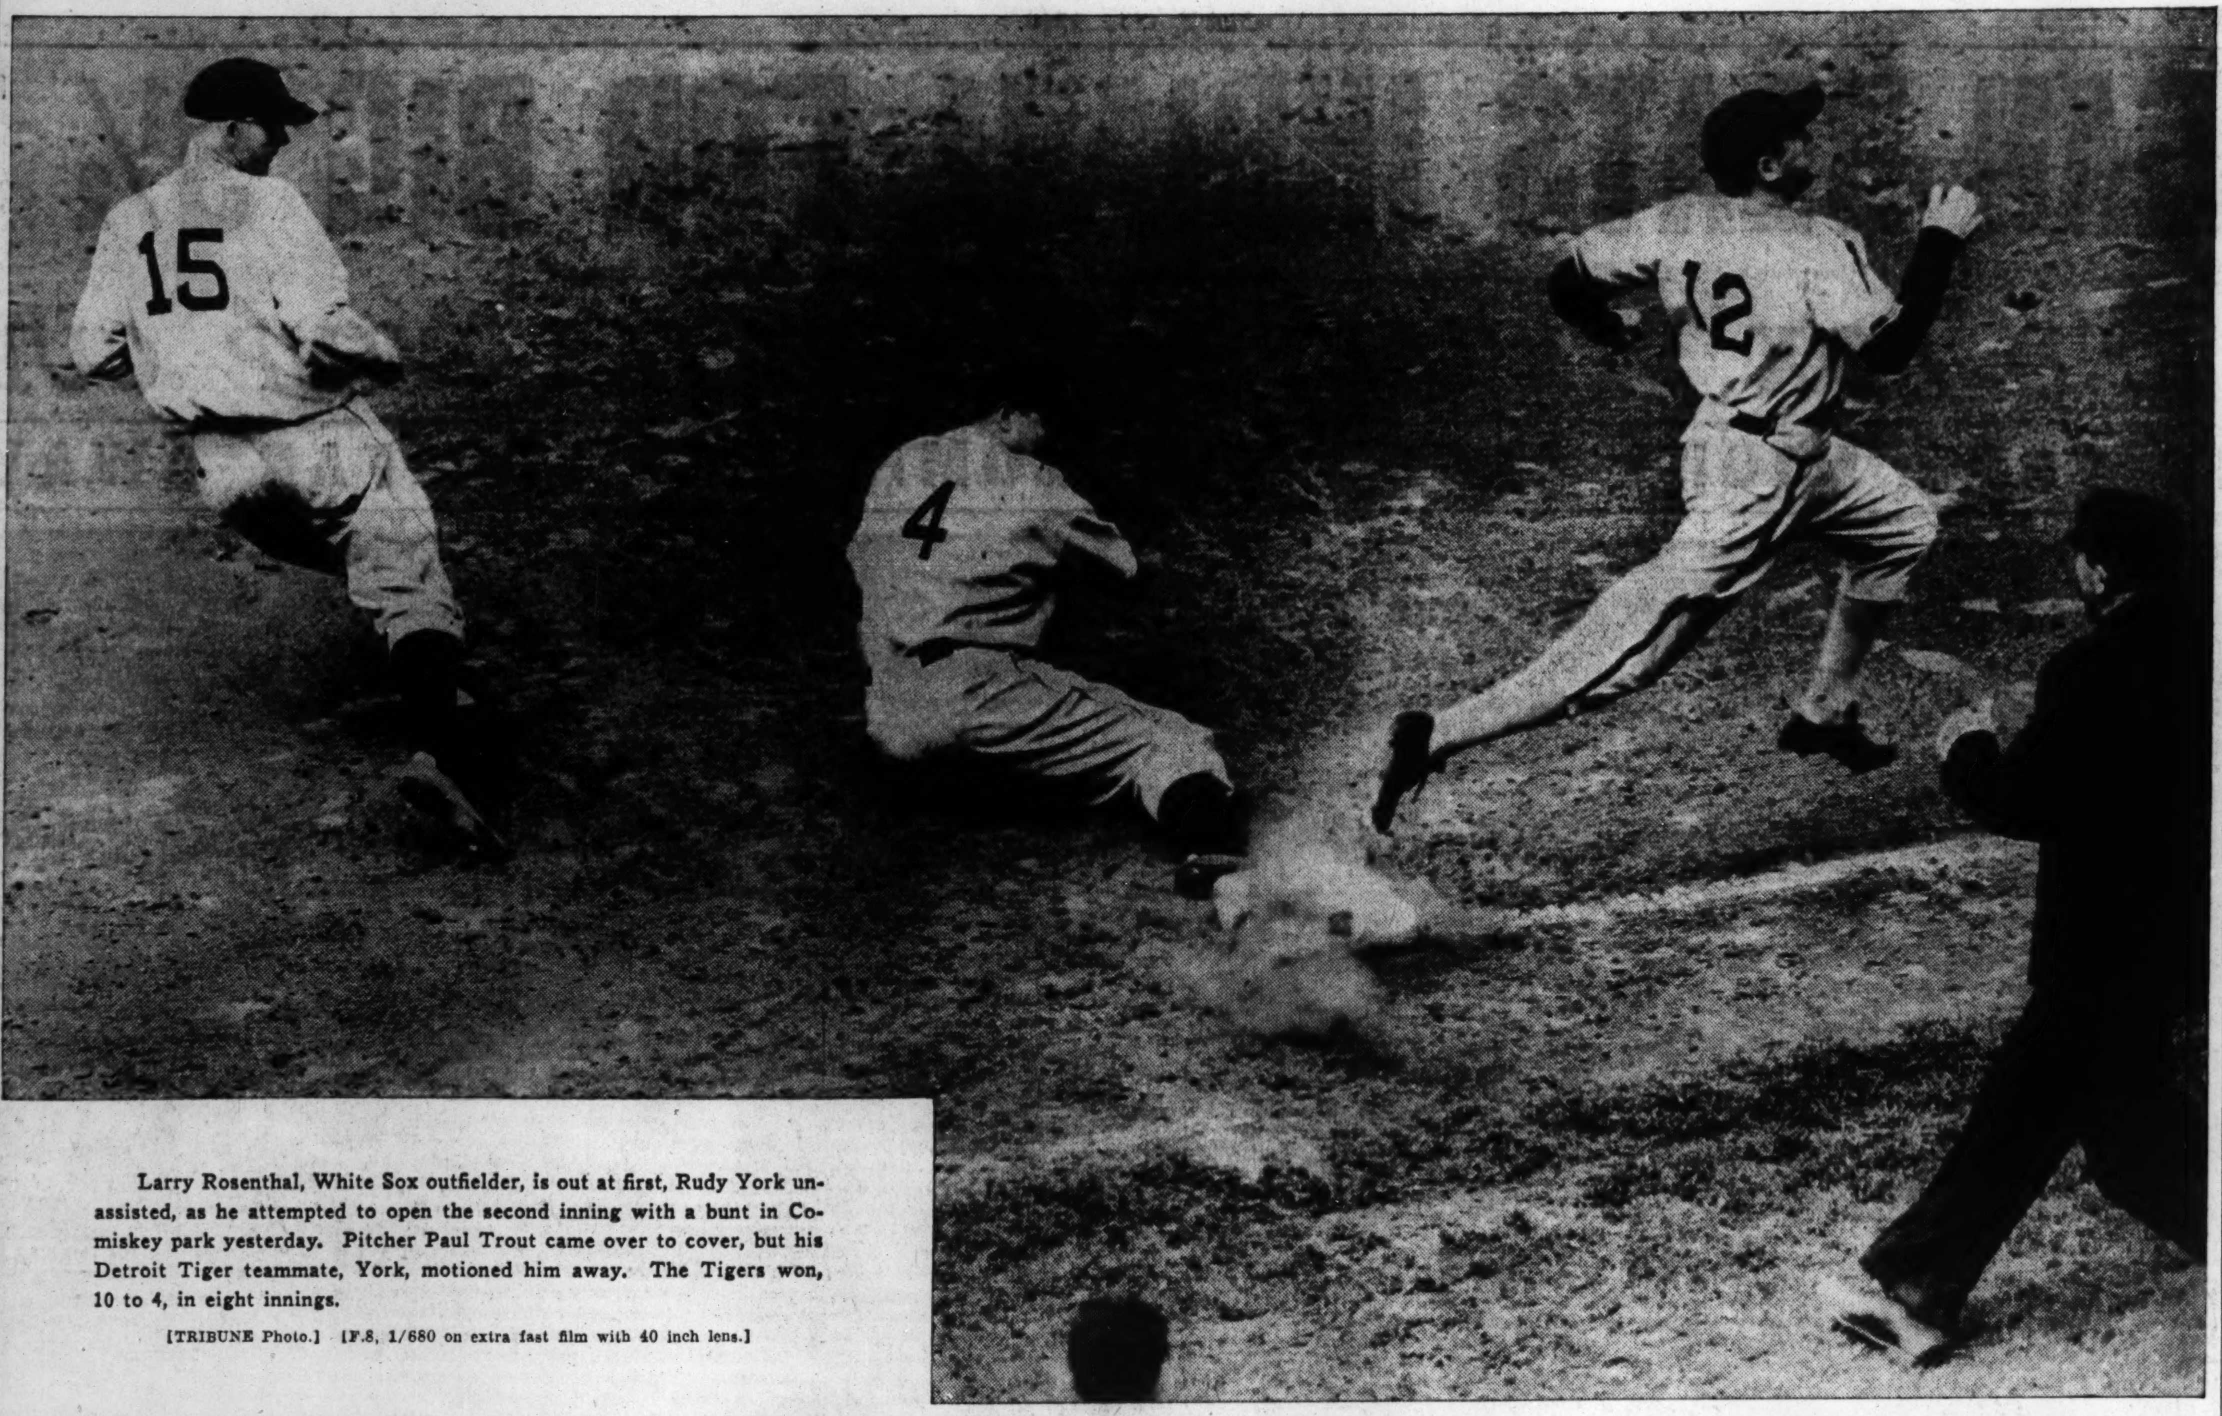
A WHITE SOX ARRIVES TOO LATE AND IS OUT



Larry Rosenthal, White Sox outfielder, is out at first, Rudy York unassisted, as he attempted to open the second inning with a bunt in Comiskey park yesterday. Pitcher Paul Trout came over to cover, but his Detroit Tiger teammate, York, motioned him away. The Tigers won, 10 to 4, in eight innings.

REDS, CARDINALS SPLIT; WALTERS WINS 7TH IN ROW

Champions' Ace Yields 4 Hits in Opener.

Cincinnati, O., May 25 (AP).—A single, double, and home run in machine gun style before a man was out in the first inning enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to break Cincinnati's hold on them today. The hits—by Eddie Lake, Stu Martin, and Enos Slaughter, successively—gave the Cards enough runs for their first victory of the year over the Reds in the second game of a double header after they had dropped the opener to Bucky Walters. It was Walters' seventh victory without defeat. The first game score was 7 to 2, and the second, 5 to 1.

The first game belonged to Walters almost from start to finish. Except for Joe Orengo's three hits, two of them doubles, and Terry Moore's single, the St. Louis sluggers got nowhere. Frank McCormick made his fifth homer of the year in the second inning of the first game.

Gene Thompson, seeking his sixth victory in the second game, instead took his third defeat as a result of the opening barrage. He held on fairly well until relieved by Milburn Shoffner in the sixth, but the damage was done. Bill McGee, one of the few Cardinal pitchers to go the route, this year, was the winner. Score:

Mills and Coals Try to Resume Games Today

The Mills and Spencer Coals semipro baseball teams, idle the last two out of three weeks because of wet grounds, will try to resume competition against the Birmingham, Ala Black Barons and the Peru, Ill nines this afternoon. The Mills and Coals won both games in the season's opener two weeks ago.

The Mills will play Birmingham in a double header in Mills stadium, 4700 West Lake street and the Coals meet Peru in two games in Spencer field, 4200 North Central avenue.

Birmingham, member of the Negro American league, is one of the oldest clubs in competition. The team's lineup includes several players who have had experience with clubs in the Negro American and National league circuit. The Mills' starting pitcher for the first game will be Howard Berg. Berg is a former member of the University of Illinois baseball team. Al Lecomte will work the second contest for the Mills. Lecomte has spent several seasons with minor league clubs.

The Coals' pitcher for the first game against Peru will be Slim De Lion. De Lion, tall right hander, scored his first victory for the Coals in the season's opener. The Peru nine is one of the teams to hold a series edge over the Coals. The Coals second game pitcher will be Bill [Lefty] Stevens. The Coals' lineup will include Joe Cannizzo, Bill Grandbois, Joe Desirardo, and Hal Mossman.

2 RIVALS SHARE LITTLE 19 GOLF TITLE WITH 159

Bloomington, Ill., May 25 [Special].—Perry Smith of De Kalb Teachers and John Brokaw of Illinois State Normal shared the individual golf championship of the Little Nineteen conference after the completion of today's 36 holes. Their total for 36 holes of play was 159 strokes. Pietkovitch of Macomb Teachers was third with 163, Long of Charleston Teachers fourth with 167, and Stombaugh of Normal fifth with 169.

The team championship was won by Normal with a total of 682. Other team scores were: De Kalb Teachers, 698; Macomb Teachers, 710; Elmhurst, 711, and Charleston Teachers, 737. Members of the championship team and their totals were: Brokaw, 159; Stombaugh, 169; Harvey, 171, and Chiddix, 183.

The faculty golf championship was won by Wix Garner of Macomb Teachers with 157 for 36 holes.

terrors in the fourth but nevertheless put together their first run. Passes to Gleeson and Leiber with none out gave them the opening. Nicholson fouled to Handley for the first out. Russell singled thru short and Gleeson dashed home. Todd forced Russell and Mattick flied to DiMaggio.

Three Strikeouts, One Run.

Three Pirates were fanned by Raffensberger in the home fourth, but the abundance of strikes didn't prevent them from reëstablishing their three run lead. Lefty walked Fletcher but DiMaggio, the strikeout expert, proved his versatility by singling. Raffensberger then fanned Davis and Bowman but Gustine belted a single to left to score Fletcher. Handley fanned for the third out.

It didn't take trouble long to catch up with Page when he took over in the fifth. Vaughan opened with a fly to left and Nicholson dropped the ball for a two base error. Elliott bounced a hit off Page's glove and, after VanRobays had grounded to Russell, Fletcher was purposely passed. P. Waner batted for DiMaggio and rolled out to Herman as Vaughan scored. Davis was purposely passed and Bowman beat out a hit to Rogell, Elliott scoring. Page threw out Gustine to close the inning.

Stanley Starts a Rally.

The Pirate sixth was such a pleasant affair [not for the Cubs] that six men batted and four scored before an out was recorded. Handley doubled, Vaughan walked, and Elliott beat out a bunt to Rogell, filling the bases. VanRobays bounced a single over Rogell's head, Handley and Vaughan scoring. Fletcher punched a single past Herman and Elliott counted. Mooty replaced Page and the newcomer's first effort was a throw to catch Fletcher off first. It went wild so VanRobays scored and Fletcher went to second. P. Waner walked, Davis sacrificed, and Bowman flied to Leiber to score Fletcher with the fifth run.

The three Cub runs in the seventh didn't begin to take shape until after two were out. Hack batted for Herman and singled to right. Gleeson's grounder apparently hit Hack as he was on his way to second but Umpire Bill Klem thought otherwise. Gleeson got a double out of it, Hack stopping at third. Leiber then hit his fifth homer. Vaughan scored in the Pirates' half on his own triple and an infield out.

The Cubs had some fun in the ninth but it only meant a little fattening for undernourished batting averages. Hack, Gleeson, Nicholson, Russell and Collins singled for three runs.

CUBS END ROAD TRIP TODAY; LEE FACES PIRATES

Hack Returns to Action; Gets Two Hits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 25.—Bill Lee will pitch the series final against the Pirates tomorrow, after which the Cubs will come home for two weeks. Mace Brown, who has accounted for three of the Pirates' victories to date, will be Lee's opponent.

Bob Collins, the Cubs' third string catcher who resides here, was pleasantly surprised before the game. A delegation of friends summoned him to the plate and presented a wrist watch.

Until today, Larry French had done an excellent job of keeping his once famous home run ball concealed. Arky Vaughan's homer in the opening inning was the first of its kind off the Cub southpaw this season.

Stan Hack was in action for the first time since he was beaned by a foul ball eight days ago. The Cub third baseman batted for Billy Herman in the seventh and singled, after which he returned to his third base job, Billy Rogell moving to second. Hack also singled in the ninth. He probably will start at third tomorrow.

Lyons Faces Rowe in Final Game Today

Ted Lyons will make his sixth Sunday start of the season today when he goes against the Tigers in the final of the series in Comiskey park. Ted has won two and lost two. Schoolboy Rowe, who has won two and lost none, will make his first 1940 start against the Sox.

The Sox will leave for St. Louis tonight, the first stop on a six city jaunt. Their departure will be from the Dearborn street station at 11:55 o'clock, railroad time.

It was 50 degrees in Comiskey park at game time. Tough on the customers, but the players didn't seem to mind. Detroit has gone arctic, too, this year.

The Tigers will go to Cleveland tonight. Tomorrow night they will help the Indians launch their 1940 series of lamplit encounters.

Carrasquel Is Sent by Senators to Jersey City

Washington, D. C., May 25 (AP).—Alejandro Carrasquel, the only Venezuelan in the big leagues, was released today to Jersey City of the International league by the Washington Senators. Carrasquel came to Washington last year and was a good prospect in his first games, but wilted during the middle of the season. Used chiefly in relief rôles this year, he was ineffective. Washington can recall him when needed.

SIX MINOR RULE CHANGES NOTED BY PRO LEAGUE

Two College Regulations Are Adopted.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The rules committee of the National Football league, committed to the preservation of the present playing code, limited itself to six changes this year, adopted two of the 13 made by the National Collegiate association and rejected four. The seven other college changes were part of the professional rules last year.

In announcing the committee's action yesterday, Chairman George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears, explained the primary purposes of the changes were to equalize penalties, clarify the rules and promote more rigid enforcement. None of the changes was radical.

One Important Change.

The most important change has to do with the enforcement of the penalty for personal fouls [clipping, slugging, kneeing, crowding, etc.] committed during running plays. In the future all such fouls will be penalized from the spot where the ball is declared dead, unless the foul is committed by the offensive team behind the spot where the runner has been brought down or run out of bounds. In this case the penalty will be enforced from the spot of the foul.

One other exception is provided for. When the foul is by the defensive team behind the offensive team's goal line and the ball has been declared dead behind the goal line, the penalty will be assessed from the goal line.

Previously personal fouls were penalized from the spot of the foul. This was deemed unfair and too severe, often amounting to 40 or 50 yards. Thru the new rule, the pros hope to preserve an equality among penalties and to speed up the game by eliminating the delay occasioned by frequent conferences between officials and captains while the captain decides whether he shall accept the penalty or take the gain. Under the new rule the offensive team will never refuse the penalty.

Clear Up Another Rule.

The committee sought to keep the game open and interesting by changing the rule which called for only half the distance to the goal line for all defensive penalties inside the defensive team's 10 yard line. In the future this also will apply to the offensive team and no penalty at any time will be permitted to move the ball nearer to a team's goal than half the remaining distance.

In the case of pass interference by the defensive team behind the goal line, the ball will be placed on the 1 yard line.

Under the old rule it was possible, under some circumstances, to set the offensive team back to its 1 yard line. Bottling up a team in this matter was deemed as great a handicap as penalizing the defensive team to its 1 yard line.

The plight of defensive teams facing the long range passers of the National league also was given official recognition. The committee ruled that in the event of pass interference by the offensive team behind the goal line, the defending team should have an option. It may accept the touchback, previously automatic, or force the offensive team to take a 15 yard penalty and loss of a down from the spot preceding down.

How It Would Work.

For example: If Cecil Isbell or Arnie Herber were to throw one of his famous 60 yard passes from his own 40 yard line into the end zone and a teammate interferred with a defender behind the goal line, the defense would have the choice of taking the ball on its 20 yard line or gambling on getting a better break by setting Green Bay back to its own 25 yard line with the loss of a down.

The penalty for clipping was reduced from 25 to 15 yards. The committee felt 25 yards was far from being excessive for this foul, the most dangerous in football, but its research has revealed that more rigid enforcement results when penalties are less severe.

Limitations on time out by the offensive team during the last two minutes of the second half were extended to apply to both teams and both halves. A team will be allowed a fourth time out without penalty in the last two minutes of either half for an injured player, provided the player is removed from the game. All subsequent substitutions or time outs by either team in the last two minutes of a half will be penalized five yards.

Cut Down on Penalty.

The penalty for an illegal forward pass not from scrimmage has been reduced from 15 to five yards to equalize this penalty with one for an illegal forward pass thrown beyond the line of scrimmage, which is loss of a down and five yards. A lateral pass that goes forward on a run back of a punt, fumble, or kickoff was regarded by the committee as being no greater offense than one that went forward at the end of a forward pass, altho in the former case the penalty was three times as severe.

The committee rejected the new collegiate rules on cleats, passes striking ineligible players, kicking a free ball, and putting the ball in play in 25 seconds. The last three were regarded as leaving too much to the judgment of officials. The pros accepted the collegiate rules calling for a flexible marker at the intersection of the goal and sidelines and making the umpire primarily responsible for ineligible men going down under passes.

Seeks to Pair Leo Rodak and Jackie Wilson

Promoter Irving Schoenwald is negotiating for a 10 round return bout between Leo Rodak, only boxer to win three Golden Gloves championships, and Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh in Marigold Gardens June 3. The match would be their fifth meeting, the first three contests ending in draw decisions and Rodak winning a verdict in 15 rounds in the fourth. These matches were held during the 1937-'38 season.

After the proposed encore Rodak will meet Bobby Britton in Miami Beach, Fla., June 17. Britton is matched to face Jerome Comforto in a 10 round encounter in New Orleans tomorrow. Eddie Lander, west side junior lightweight, opposes Bobby Ruffin of Bridgeport, Conn., in an additional match of 10 rounds heading the card.

Four matches of eight rounds will comprise tomorrow's program in Marigold Gardens. Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight, is paired with Ralph Cuajardo; Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha heavyweight, with Lou Campbell; Johnny Pleasant, 1939 Chicago Golden Gloves 135 pound titleholder, with Phil Latona, and Willie Muldune, Cleveland heavyweight, with Henry Wacker. Seward, whom Manager Jack Hurley expects to make his mark in the game, will be searching for his 22d victory in 26 professional adventures. Sixteen of these conquests were knockouts. Of the others two ended in deadlock decisions and two were setbacks.

Fred Grubmier, heavyweight wrestler, will encounter Juan Humberto in White City tomorrow. Bert Rubi is matched to meet Pete Schu. George McKinzie will clash with Seeli Samara, Stanley Novak with Jerry Meeker, and Al Williams with Rudy Kay.

George Morelia, Detroit lightweight, who recently upset Willie Joyce, has accepted a 10 round rematch with Joyce in the Coliseum June 5. Two other 10 round events involve Johnny Paycheck and Altus Allen, and Nick Castiglione and Yucatan Kid. Promoter Alex Veck is seeking an opponent for Antione Christofforidis, claimant of the European middleweight title, in a fourth 10 rounder. George Kontopolis, Chicago junior welterweight, will appear in a four round opener against a suitable foe.

Talk of arranging an engagement between Tony Zale and Milt Aron in Chicago this summer has been revived following Ceferino Garcia's elimination by Ken Overlin in New York Friday. Aron is in Philadelphia where he will seek revenge tomorrow for a previous defeat at the hands of Frankie Cavanna. . . . Don Siegel, 1939 college All-Star football player, will compete in a supporting match on the Joe Louis-Arturo Godoy heavyweight championship program in New York June 20. Siegel also meets Marion Mosley in a six rounder on the Billy Conn-Gus Lesnevich card in Detroit June 5.

Public Invited to Attend.

All of these 32 prize pupils are urged to appear at Columbus park about 15 minutes before 3 o'clock. The public is invited to attend. The graduating exercises will last about an hour.

The final class consists of eight men, eight women, eight boys of 16 years of age or under, and eight girls of the same age. They were chosen the most apt swingers on their work in the four regular classes of the school. They were selected by the members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association, who for eight years have donated their services to this method of spreading the gospel of golf's A B C's.

These professionals will serve also as the final jury in today's finals. They will take the finalists in four divisions—boys, girls, men, and women. The pupil in each division adjudged to have shown the most progress in learning the fundamentals of the game during the four lessons will receive from THE TRIBUNE a golf bag and a set of clubs, and from the Chicago District Golf association a season ticket to the third Chicago Open tournament, to be held at the Tam o' Shanter Country club on July 19, 20, and 21. The other 28 finalists will be given a dozen golf balls by THE TRIBUNE and a ticket to the final day of the Chicago Open by the C. D. G. A.

25 Centers to Hold Trials Tomorrow for National Open

Byron Nelson.

Big league golf makes its 1940 debut in the Chicago district tomorrow, when the local qualifying rounds for the 44th national open tournament are held at 36 holes over the No. 1 and No. 4 courses of the Olympia Fields Country club. Simultaneously, similar rounds will be held in 24 other centers thruout the country.

A total of 1,136 players will be involved in these 25 sectional battles for places in the main event, which will be decided on June 6, 7, and 8 over the rolling hills of the Canterbury Country club, near Cleveland, O. This is the sixth highest total in the history of the United States Golf association, the top of 1,402 having been reached in 1937.

Field of 170 Expected.

Out of these sectional struggles will come the bulk of the field of approximately 170 professionals and amateurs who will attempt to take away from Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., the championship he won in a double play-off in Philadelphia last June.

The Chicago section leads the country in number of entries for tomorrow's trials, a total of 150 players—102 professionals and 48 amateurs—having signed on for the trials. The local section has been awarded 17 berths at which to shoot in the main event. New York has the same quota, and Cleveland, the site of the tournament, has been given 15. Last year Chicago was allotted 12 places.

Thirty-one players will have tomorrow off, being exempt from the sectional trials as men who finished among the first 30 and ties in last year's tournament proper. The foreign detail this year consists of Martin Pose and Enrique Bertolino, professionals from Argentina, and big Jim Ferrier, the Australian amateur who has won the open as well as the amateur titles of his native country.

Nine Chicagoans Exempt.

Of the 31 men who finished in the chosen bracket in Philadelphia last year, the largest number from any one city is the nine who will represent Chicago in the big show in Cleveland. These include, in the order in which they finished, Johnny Bulla, unattached; Ralph Guldahl, unattached; Dick Metz of Oak Park; Harry Cooper of Northmoor; Horton Smith of Oak Park; Wilford Wehrle of Tam o' Shanter, only amateur in the group; Tommy Armour of Medinah; Johnny Revolta of Evanston and Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake.

Other players who won't have to work tomorrow, because of their 1939 performances, are Nelson; Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Denny Shute of Huntington, W. Va.; Marvin [Bud] Ward of Spokane, Wash., national amateur champion; Sam Snead of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa.; Ky Laffoon of Miami, Okla.; Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass.; Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y.; Ed Dudley of Philadelphia; Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa.; Sam Byrd of Philadelphia; Olin Dutra of Los Angeles; Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C.; Jimmy Hines of Lakeville, N. Y.; John Rogers of Denver; Jimmy Demaret of Houston; Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.; E. J. Harrison of Little Rock, Ark.; Matt Kowal of Philadelphia; Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J.; Edward Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., and Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa.

Hagen Must Seek Place.

Among those who must fight for places tomorrow are Walter Hagen, champion of 1914 and 1919; Gene Sarazen, winner in 1922 and 1932; Jimmy Thomson, runner-up in 1935, and Lawson Little, former British and American amateur title holder.

Heading the Chicago field of seekers after places will be Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park. Lloyd is the young man who came to our town this spring as assistant to Metz, bringing with him as recommendation the smashing 64 with which he started off his play in the Masters' tournament. Little and Ferrier also will qualify here.

Last year's Chicago trials, held at Medinah, found young Wehrle and Harry Adams, of the home club, leading the field with scores of 147. Twelve places were allotted to Chicago last year, exclusive of six others won by players exempt by reason of their play in the 1938 meet in Denver.

Wood Gets 66 for Record 130 inMetropolitan

Bloomfield, N. J., May 25 (AP).—Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., shattered all listed records for 36 holes in a major golf tournament today when he fired a second round of 66, four under par for the Forest Hill Field club, on top of his amazing opening round of 64 yesterday in the Metropolitan open.

His 36 hole total of 130 was the lowest ever recorded in a tournament of national or sectional importance over a full length course. Byron Nelson, National Open champion, scored two 65s in the Phoenix Open last winter, but the nearest approach to Wood's mark in a major tournament was the 132 scored by Henry Cotton in the 1934 British open.

On the heels of Wood, but five strokes behind today, was Ben Hogan, youthful Texan who plays out of White Plains, N. Y. Hogan was the only other player to break par on the second round, getting a 69 for a halfway total of 135.

Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., amateur, held third place as the field was paired up for the final 36 holes tomorrow. Scores of the leaders:

TEXAS WOMAN WINS SOUTHERN GOLF TOURNEY

Fort Worth, Tex., May 25 (AP).—Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, the Texas champion, substituted a great heart for a lagging golf game in the darkest spots of a dramatic golf match today, rallying to defeat Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., for the women's southern title.

Three down and 11 to play, only thru some miraculous recovery shots, the attractive young mother of two infant daughters started firing at the pins. She cut the margin to two holes at the 27th and chipped in from 50 feet to win the 28th. Mrs. Goldthwaite won the title with that shot. It set her game on fire. She squared the match at the 30th, went one up on the next hole, and then remained in front.

Mrs. Page scored 41—36—77 for the morning round; Mrs. Goldthwaite 41—37—78.

BROOKLYN BUYS JIMMY WASDELL FROM SENATORS

Washington, D. C., May 25 (AP).—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, announced today the sale of Jimmy Wasdell, infielder-outfielder, to the Brooklyn Dodgers. Griffith said Brooklyn planned to use Wasdell in the outfield. Refusing to disclose the sale price, Griffith said he would use the money to purchase a pitcher for the Senators.

Wasdell opened the season as Washington's first baseman, but was replaced by Zeke Bonura when he failed

SAGITTA, MERENIC WINNING SLOOPS IN FIRST RACES

Sagitta and Merenie were the winning sloops yesterday in the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's first series race of the 1940 yachting season, sailed by the club's two fleets off Wilmette harbor. The Wimette yachtsmen sailed 12 Star boats and seven Arrow class boats around the club's triangular course.

An average speed of better than six miles per hour was maintained by Skipper Art Bradbury in the winning Star yacht, Sagitta. The time was 1 hour 2 minutes and 39 seconds, including time in tacking. Sagitta had a lead of more than three minutes over the runnerup, Skipit, sailed by Ed Galloway. W. A. Magie sailed his Arrow class sloop, Merenie, to victory around the same course in 1:39:17, leading six other sloops of the class.

Nine B class Frostbite dinghies of the Columbia Yacht club fleet sailed a series of five races yesterday in Grant Park harbor. Ralph Bennett and Herb Lewis, sailing their boat Pee Wee, won the series with a total of 41½ points. Bill Parks and Pete Paginnis, in Guppy, were second with 40¼ points.

Michigan Wins Big 9½ Track Championship

ence track came in the mile relay. Michigan, of course, did not need the additional point, but the Wolverines were keenly disappointed when Warren Breidenbach, quarter mile champion, failed to overhaul Minnesota's George Franck.

The Gopher anchor man already had competed in both sprints. Minnesota's relay team was Bob Johnson, George Irvine, William Garrity, and Franck. Garrity collapsed after running the third lap and was carried to the dressing room.

The sprint races were closely waged. Piker, defending champion in the 100 yards, won from Michigan's Smith in a blanket finish that also included Franck, John Davenport, Chicago, and Cochran, who followed in that order. Scarcely a yard separated the quintet and Piker's time was 9 7-10 seconds. It was here that Cochran pulled a muscle and his one point was all he scored for the Hoosiers.

Hoosier Strategy Fails.

In the longer sprint, Piker led Smith by half a stride at 175 yards. The boys were in adjoining lanes. Then Smith gradually pulled up and his margin of victory in the fine time of 21 seconds was as narrow as Piker's had been in the "hundred." Franck again was third.

Cochran's injury climaxed a guessing contest by which Indiana had hoped to out-maneuver Michigan. The Wolverines admittedly had superior team strength, but Indiana decided if Cochran, who won the 440 yard indoor title from Michigan's Breidenbach and certainly should have finished no worse than second outdoors, could win more points in the sprints without the strain of the 440, the result might be a team victory.

As the race was run Breidenbach might have lost to Cochran in the quarter mile, for the time was only 48 2-10 seconds, a full second slower than Breidenbach's mark against Pittsburgh last Saturday. But the Indiana coaches also thought such an effort might hurt Cochran's chances in the low hurdles.

Leutritz Takes Second.

Jack Leutritz took second place in the quarter mile after Jack Sulzman of Ohio State faltered in the stretch. Sulzman was on Breidenbach's heels until the last 30 yards when Leutritz and Wilbur McCown of Illinois passed him. Bob Johnson of Minnesota was fifth.

Only three of the five defending champions won yesterday. Of these Ed Buxton of Wisconsin, who whipped Kane of Indiana in the half mile, turned in a fine performance. Buxton won in 1:52.5, only three-tenths of a second off the three year old conference record of Charley Beetham of Ohio. Kane had the handicap of his previous mile race.

Piker and Breidenbach were the other successful champions. In addition to Cochran, Roger Poorman, a team mate, lost his javelin championship. This had been expected because of Poorman's arm injury.

Three Badgers Win.

Ed Smith, high hurdles, Bill Williams, pole vault, and Buxton were Wisconsin's champions.

Stan Kelley of Michigan acquired Cochran's low hurdle title, and Don Canham, also of the Wolverines, was high jump champion. Wells Hodgson won the broad jump for Minnesota and Howard Ell of Ohio State succeeded to the javelin title vacated by Poorman.

N. U. Defeats Ohio, 6 to 5; 3 Tied for Lead

Northwestern ended its Western conference season yesterday with a ninth inning victory that left it and two rivals locked for the lead. By whipping Ohio State, 6 to 5, on a three run rally in the last inning after two were out, the Wildcats assured themselves of a tie with Illinois. Each has completed its season with nine victories and three defeats.

Minnesota, however, stayed in the race by beating Michigan, 5 to 4, for its sixth victory in eight games. The Gophers can win undisputed possession of the title by defeating Iowa in Iowa City on Friday and Saturday. One defeat for Minnesota will give Northwestern and Illinois a share of the championship.

With the Wildcats trailing, 5 to 3, as they came to bat in the ninth, Fred Shinkevich opened with a double to center. After Alex Lustig flied out, Bill De Correvont, who had hit a homer in the fifth, fanned. George Benson, pinch hitting for Arnold, was safe on R. Witterstaetter's error and Pitcher Fred Rosch walked to fill the bases. Red Hahnenstein was sent in to run for Rosch and Mark Kilmer replaced Eugene Dornbrook on the mound for the Buckeyes. Erwin Madsen beat out an infield hit to score Shinkevich. Then Dick Erdlitz hit a high bounder past second, Benson and Hahnenstein scoring the tying and winning runs.

The Buckeyes scored all of their runs in the sixth inning on four hits, one of them a double by Witterstaetter, to take a 5 to 1 lead.

Northwestern cut down Ohio's lead by scoring two runs in the eighth when Ash Arnold and Madsen walked to start the inning. They scored on George McKinnon's double.

Michigan and Notre Dame in Gridiron Series ball games, at least six of which shall be with member institutions.

"3. That the directors and coaches be instructed in the making of the schedule for those seasons to assure each member institution at least two home conference games.

"4. That in no case shall any football game be scheduled for any date prior to the last Saturday in September."

N. U., Wisconsin Coöperate.

In order to make the 1943 schedule workable, Wisconsin and Northwestern agreed to play seven conference games each. This was done conditionally on assumption that similar concessions necessary to arrange the 1944 schedule be made by other universities. Northwestern meets seven conference universities and Notre Dame and has an open date on Oct. 2, 1943. Michigan and Ohio State then agreed to play seven games in 1944 and the schedules for the two years were released. Wisconsin has nine 1943 games, seven with conference teams and games with Marquette and Notre Dame.

Indiana at present has Wisconsin and Purdue for 1943 home games, but meets Northwestern, Michigan, Iowa, and Ohio State away from home. Purdue's home games for 1943 are Illinois and Iowa. The Boilermakers also play Ohio State, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Indiana.

"Big Games" Close Season.

It should be noted in the 1943 schedule that the season ends the Saturday before Thanksgiving [the usual date] with so-called natural rivalry games. These are Indiana-Purdue, Michigan-Ohio State, Wisconsin-Minnesota, and Illinois now meets Northwestern, while Iowa is making its annual game with Nebraska its windup. According to some observers, this points to inclusion of Nebraska in the conference if the Big 9½ decides to accept a tenth football member.

Nebraska also plays Indiana and Minnesota. Notre Dame plays Illinois and Wisconsin as well as Northwestern. The University of Pittsburgh plays at Illinois on Oct. 16 and at Ohio State on Nov. 6, 1943.

More important, Jimmy Hagan, Pitt's director of athletics, yesterday arranged with Michigan's director, Fielding Yost, for a game in Ann Arbor Oct. 11, 1941. This game replaced the Michigan-Chicago game canceled when the Maroons dropped football last December.

Pittsburgh now has four conference games for 1941. They are Ohio State, Minnesota, Purdue, and Michigan. The Panthers open the Ohio State series this fall in Columbus.

Discuss Rose Bowl Game.

The faculty committee, because of the schedule consideration, discussed only briefly the proposition to arrange for participation in the annual Rose Bowl by sending the Big 9½ champion to meet the champion of the Pacific coast conference. It was reported that Michigan, the university which was largely instrumental in defeating the plan when it was last brought up, now is in favor of it.

Members of the faculty committee of the Western conference are Dean George A. Works, Chicago; Frank Richart, Illinois; William Moenkhaus, Indiana, chairman of the committee; Karl Leib, Iowa; Ralph W. Aigler, Michigan; Henry Rottschaefer, Minnesota; O. F. Long, Northwestern; Thomas E. French, Ohio State; Dr. William Lorenz, Wisconsin, and G. A. Young, Purdue.

The 1943 football schedule:

SEPT. 25—Indiana at Northwestern Michigan State at Michigan, Marquette at Wisconsin.

OCT. 2—Purdue at Illinois, Indiana at Michigan, Wisconsin at Iowa, Nebraska at Minnesota, Missouri at Ohio State.

OCT. 9—Illinois at Wisconsin, Indiana at Nebraska, Iowa at Northwestern, Purdue at Ohio State, Notre Dame at Michigan.

TRIBUNE REGATTA CARD HAS MANY WATER THRILLS

Schoolboy Races to Head Program June 9.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The second annual Chicago Interscholastic regatta in which ten crews will compete on June 9 on the Lincoln park lagoon, will be garnished by a variety of events that officials believe composes the most attractive water sports program in years.

While the eight races between the lads from five city high schools is the regatta's feature, other events will bring together the most talented oar men in Chicagoland. There will be races in single and four oared shells, a variety of canoe events, and several exhibitions of tilting. The latter endeavor is really boxing or fencing on water. The rival gladiators poke at each other with 12-foot bamboo poles at the end of which is a big rubber ball. They stand on a platform in the canoe, which is paddled by a teammate. The tilter sending his opponent into the water twice will be declared the winner.

Regatta Is Free.

The regatta, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Lincoln Park Boat club in coöperation with the Chicago park district, will be free to the public. The lagoon is located at the foot of Webster avenue. All finishes will be in front of the clubhouse. One of the vantage points from which to watch the action is the Fullerton avenue bridge, which spans the lagoon. A good view of the proceedings also is available on the east and west banks of the lagoon and in the immediate vicinity of the clubhouse. The program will start at 2 o'clock and the tentative program calls for 21 events which will be crowded into two hours of action. The shells will start from Diversey beach and row to the clubhouse, over a half mile course.

The boys from Lane Tech, who won both the senior and junior championships last year on the Chicago river, hope to win another leg on the 22 inch Tribune trophy, which must be won three times for permanent possession. All except two members of the 1939 senior crew from Lane Tech are gone, but the juniors of last year have proved able successors in tests thus far this spring.

Gold Pins to Winners.

In addition to the trophies, gold pins will be awarded to the winners in each division and silver pins to the second place crews. Sea Scouts, racing in three different cutter types, will be seeking team trophies. Winners of the single and four oared shell championships will be presented trophies. This competition will be between Lincoln Park Boat club members and outstanding oarsmen from nearby cities. There will be medal awards to winners in the single blade canoe, double blade canoe and tilting competitions.

Each of the crews is working out three times a week. The rivalry not only is keen among the participants, but also among the coaches, all of whom are members of the Lincoln Park Boat club. Rowing is an avocation with the men who coach the schoolboys and satisfaction in developing the youngsters is their only reward.

LOSE AT CULVER

Culver, Ind., May 25 [Special].—Culver's more experienced crews defeated youngsters from Chicago high schools in two races this afternoon over the mile route in a driving rain. The Culver seniors defeated the lads from Lane Tech by three lengths in the good time of 5:35. The Chicagoans led at the end of the first quarter, but were slowly overtaken and lost by three lengths.

Culver's juniors had the same margin over the boys from Lake View. The time was 5:52. The rivals were even until the winners pulled away at the three-quarter mile mark.

PENN DEFEATS WISCONSIN AND MARIETTA CREWS

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 25 (AP).—Penn defeated the Wisconsin and Marietta varsity eights in the principal college race of the Allegheny regatta today. Wisconsin placed second and Marietta third in the mile and five-sixteenths event.

The feature race of the program, in which Joe Burk, world champion single sculler, and his up-and-coming rival, Joe Angyal of Brooklyn, N. Y., were matched, failed to materialize, thus disappointing thousands of fans who crowded the Allegheny river banks to see Pittsburgh's first big time rowing in 30 years.

THIRD DEGREE, OUTSIDER, WINS METROPOLITAN

New York, May 25 [Special].—Third Degree, an outsider, won the Metropolitan handicap for Mrs. Payne Whitney at Belmont today, giving the prominent turf woman her second major victory within seven days. Last Saturday it was Corydon in the Withers, and today it was Third Degree in the 47th running of the Metropolitan.

A crowd of 19,147, which wagered $1,074,113 during the day, saw the Questionnaire colt come on at the head of the stretch and dash past Eight Thirty and War Dog, triumphing by four lengths. The winner, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, returned $19.10, $8.40, and $5.10. The race grossed $14,200, of which $10,400 went to Third Degree's owner.

Can't Wait Is Second.

Second was Myron Zelznick's Can't Wait. War Dog and Eight Thirty crossed the line together, but the camera established that Eight Thirty, 3 to 5 in the betting and one of the strongest Metropolitan handicap favorites in years, was fourth. He tried courageously to make all the pace and hold it, despite his top weight of 128 pounds.

Third Degree's time was 1:35 2-5 for the mile—over a strip that was not at its best—within 2-5 of a second of the track record. Trailing the leaders came Belay, The Chief, Sun Egret, Aethelwold, and Great Union. A total of $181,954 was bet on the Metropolitan. Can't Wait returned $17.30 for place and $8 for show. War Dog paid $6 for third.

Eight Thirty Takes Lead.

The start was good and even with Eight Thirty coming out of the stalls with a rush to assume the lead. War Dog was right after the leader. The two went down the backstretch neck and neck. At the far turn they were going along as one horse. Meantime Can't Wait and Third Degree were well off the pace. As the swing was made for the head of the stretch Eight Thirty made his final effort. He took a slight lead, but War Dog always was close.

Third Degree began to gain in full earnest, behind Can't Wait. The two came thru the stretch full of power and both swept by Eight Thirty and War Dog. Third Degree drew off from Can't Wait, even as Can't Wait drew off from War Dog and Eight Thirty.

Bucheur Wins Steeplechase.

A race that attracted many of the hunt club folk was the steeplechase, the Piping Rock. Mrs. Marion du Pont Scott's Bucheur, a winner last week, came back with a victory over the two mile route, four lengths ahead. Bucheur returned $5.60 for $2. Second was Ad Lib, eight lengths ahead of Saluda.

High Breeze, a 1 to 2 favorite, made it three in a row when he captured the 64th running of the Juvenile stakes, secondary feature. Basil James brought High Breeze home first in :57. Omission was second and Airmaster was third.

Cornell Beats Penn, 4-3, to Win Eastern Title

Ithaca, N. Y., May 25 (AP).—Cornell defeated Pennsylvania, 4 to 3, in the 10th inning today to win its first Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball league championship with ten victories against one defeat.

Anglers Toss Muskie Lures in Wisconsin

BY BOB BECKER.

Underwater plugs, live suckers, flashing spoons, pork rinds, old-fashioned whirling blade spoons, bucktails and scores of other large lures are flying thru the air in northern Wisconsin. A fisherman has only to take one look at these big baits to know that the muskie enthusiasts have swung into action. No other fresh water game fish in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Ontario waters will take such big baits and lures as the muskie. The season on this game fish in Wisconsin opened yesterday.

Another popular fishing spot is the valley of the Wolf river. The Wolf is the scene of the annual spring run of white bass, the handsome little striped fish that moves out of Lake Winnebago every year to make a spawning run up the rivers near by. The bass travel in big schools and, while on the move, they often will take live minnows.

Weigh Little Over Pound.

Of course, there is no comparison between hooking the much publicized muskalunge and the small white bass, for the latter doesn't grow big. Most of the white or silver bass we have caught usually weighed around a pound and a quarter or a pound and a half. But these fish certainly do bite fast at times, so they give the fisherman considerable action.

The white bass started their run a little late this year, so they ought to continue hitting well thru Memorial day. There are a number of places where one may catch them from the city of Oshkosh up the river valley. During the height of the run the river banks at Oshkosh are lined with fishermen, most of them using cane poles. Some of the boys wait until evening to fish by the light of gasoline lamps We have seen the river above Oshkosh dotted with these lighted boats on warm nights in late May.

Winneconne Popular Spot.

Winneconne is another popular fishing place for the white bass squads. The fishermen buy a big supply of minnows, rent a boat and then cruise up and down the river right at the town of Winneconne. For years hundreds of Illinois white bass fishermen have gone to the little town of Fremont to get a mess of fish. Above Fremont are Gills Landing and Weyauwega, two other popular fishing places where boats may be rented and minnows purchased. The river is narrow near these towns, so narrow that some fishermen leave their boats, stand on a sandy bank at a bend in the stream, and cast minnow baits to catch bass.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Even Roll, $7.00 straight, $5.00 place, $3.60 show; Reigh Countess, $9.40 place, $5.40 show; Asael, $4.60 show.

EVEN ROLL, taken in hand after being rushed into command, bore out badly on the stretch turn, was beyond the middle of the track while sustaining good speed thereafter and, strongly urged the final eighth, probably had little left. REIGH COUNTESS, a prominent factor from the start, saved ground on the turn, came out for the drive, and closed well under mild pressure. ASAEL D. was under vigorous riding from the start, began to weaken after reaching the last three-sixteenths, and swerved near the end. SHASTA SUE finished fast. DANDY FOX, taken back early, was unable to threatend. PORT SPIN was badly outrun. HI STY began very slowly.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Went to post at 2:53. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won ridden out, place driving. Time, :23 2-5, :47 4-5, 1:15 4-5.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Tropical Gal, $31.80 straight, $11.60 place, $8.00 show; Flying Bonnet, $5.80 place, $3.60 show; Rosetta, $4.60 show.

TROPICAL GAL, away fast and having fine speed, opened up a commanding lead before reaching the turn, was steadied along to the stretch and weakened the last three-sixteenths but held FLYING BONNET safe. Latter, also racing with good speed from the start, swerved out on the stretch turn, was strongly urged the last quarter and, holding on with determination, was getting to the winner. ROSETTA, away well but unable to keep up, remained far back to the stretch where she raced wide while closing fast. NINE TEN dropped back suddenly when swerving in the stretch but was racing well at the end O PLAY lost much ground early. STEEP was held safe.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. Claiming prices, $1,500. Trainer, E. Wyatt. Went to post at 3:26. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, :23 4-5, :48 2-5, 1:15 1-5.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Torch Gleam, $8.00 straight, $5.20 place, $4.00 show; Honey Seat, $6.80 place, $5.00 show; Valdina, $5.40 show.

TORCH GLEAM, raced very wide and reserved off the pace, responded when called upon after reaching the final three-sixteenths and got up in the last 50 yards. HONEY SEAT gradually increased her advantage while making the early pace under restraint, was under energetic riding after reaching the stretch, and held on well. VALDINA, probably best, and in hand for a half mile, was lightly roused entering the stretch, was taken up repeatedly in the last eighth, his rider being unable to see because of mud in his eyes, and otherwise might have been the winner. PANTHER CREEK was unable to threaten. THREADNEEDLE ran an even race. INVITING was outrun.

FOURTH RACE—Purse $1,000. Six furlongs. Claiming. 3 year olds and up. Owner, Mrs. M. Rieser. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 4:00. Start good for all but Trysak. Won driving, place same. Time, 1:16.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Arched, $10.40 straight, $4.80 place, $3.40 show; Bronze Bugle, $6.00 place, $4.20 show; Predicate, $4.00 show.

ARCHED followed the pace under mild restraint, was under strong urging after reaching the last three sixteenths, weakened in the late stages, but had enough left to wear down the leader and faltered slightly when his rider was momentarily unbalanced as stirrup snapped at the finish line. BRONZE BUGLE took command quickly, crossed to the inside before reaching the turn and kept restrained to the last eighth, held on well to the final 70 yards, where he weakened badly. PREDICATE, fractious at the post, but also away well, was under stout pressure the last quarter and held on in resolute fashion. HAZEL LEE was under hustling tactics from the start, saved ground on the turn, and finished courageously, yet was held safe. TRYSAK, rank at the post, started poorly. POLLY'S ROGUE also delayed the start.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Three year olds. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 4-5, :47 4-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:29. Two dollar mutuels paid: Nightland, $7:20 straight, $4.00 place, $3.00 show; Inscolad, $4.40 place, $3.20 show; Equifox, $4.00 show. Winner trained by K. Ramsey. Went to post at 4:31. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily, place driving.

NIGHTLAND, displaying exceptional ability in the going and raced very wide to the turn, crossed to the inside after taking command, came out slightly before increasing his advantage in the stretch and, taken under good restraint in the last eighth, won with much in reserve. INSCOLAD, away slowly and lacking early speed, held on well and headed EQUIFOX at the end. The latter had speed from the start, was nicely rated, and held on fairly well.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Crete handicap. Three years old and up. Purse $5,000. Net value to winner, $4,410; second, $1,000, third, $500; fourth, $250.

Time, :24 1-5, :49, 1:15 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dolly Val, $16.00 straight, $6.20 place, $5.00 show; Kings Blue, $5.60 place, $5.00 show; Technician, $6.00 show. Winner trained by D. Vititoe. Went to post at 5:04. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

DOLLY VAL, at home in the going and racing with good speed from the start, was forced wide on the stretch turn, responded to light urging to reach the lead in the stretch, then held on stubbornly to withstand KINGS BLUE'S challenge. The latter moved up on the inside in the first five sixteenths, drifted out badly on the stretch turn, was slow to recover after straightening up and finished well on the outside, barely missed getting up. TECHNICIAN entered serious contention with a rush on the inside on the stretch turn, was under pressure after a half mile and held on well to the last sixteenth.

DISTILLATION, well up from the start and reserved early, improved her position rapidly when ready, drew clear after downing REBUTTAL, and lasted. BRILLIANT LIGHT, well back for five furlongs, improved his position swiftly and finished strongest of all. REBUTTAL rushed to the front after five-eighths, established a clear lead under strong handling and weakened steadily after relinquishing the lead.

EXPECT 135,000 IN INDIANAPOLIS FOR AUTO RACE

28th 500 Mile Grind Will Be Held Thursday.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 25.—The van of America's largest sport army is pouring into the Hoosier capital. It is the spearhead of an estimated 135,000 to attend the 28th annual 500 mile automobile race at the speedway here on Memorial day.

In the van are men with a technical or commercial association with cars, fuels, tires, parts, or gadgets. The majority, however, filling hotels and crowding popular restaurants, are just rail fans, here for the preliminary qualification spins which will close on Tuesday.

Crowd Is Distinctive.

The main body of Memorial day mobilization is motorized and will arrive in private automobiles early on the morning of the race, many fans leaving their homes near sunrise to get into the speedway before the 10 o'clock [central standard time] starter's bomb. It's a crowd with distinctive characteristics other than its size.

It's not a ritzy affair altho the tickets could hardly be called cheap—$2.75 for general admission with no seat. The seats range from $1 to $10, in addition to the general admission charge. Meeting this tariff are perhaps 100,000 folks in ordinary circumstances, farmer families, villagers, and city dwellers from a radius of 175 miles.

Park in Infield.

They move into the 488 acre speedway enclosure over the congested highway approaches. Most of them park in the infield surrounded by the two and a half mile oval track and a few minutes after the excitement of the start, begin eating from their picnic baskets.

Five hours is too long for anyone to concentrate upon a sporting event. The cars roar and whine around the oval in a whirl that becomes monotonous. A spectator can't tell who is leading without looking at the score board where laps are recorded for each of the contestants.

Attention is attracted, however, when the official yellow flag is flown. This signal means there is an accident somewhere on the track. Only a few saw it. All want to hear about it. After several minutes, there is a loudspeaker announcement. Usually, it's a car which has hit a retaining wall. Usually, there are no fatal results.

In the preliminaries this year, on May 4, George Bailey of Detroit was killed, the 35th fatality of this annual sporting event. Half of this total died in the main race. Last year, Floyd Roberts of California, the 1938 winner, was a holiday victim.

Rain Prevents Trials.

So when the 33 brightly painted little automobiles are lined up in a column of threes for the Memorial day start, the crowd senses the uncertainity ahead for the drivers with their gaily colored crash helmets and overalls. It's an uncertainty responsible in a large measure for a patronage larger than that given any other sporting event in America.

Rain washed out qualification trials today. Thirty-three cars can start the event, but only 18 have qualified. Rain and cold weather prevented many pilots from even making practice spins this week.

A downpour which started shortly before noon kept the course closed until 7 p. m. [Chicago daylight time.] Paul Russo of Kenosha, Wis., had his mount ready for the 10 mile test, but the deadline came just as he pulled up to the starting line.

29.4% OF FOREIGN DOLLAR BONDS ARE DEFAULTED

American Holdings 3⅓ Billions.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—An analysis of the status of United States holdings of foreign dollar bonds, issued today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, showed that 29.4 per cent of such holdings were in default at the close of 1939.

The analysis, prepared by Dr. Paul D. Dickens of the bureau's finance division, showed that foreign bonds held by citizens of the United States had a par value of 3 billion 335 million dollars on Dec. 31, 1939, compared with 3 billion 598 millions a year earlier.

The market value of these bonds was 2 billion 159 million dollars last Dec. 31, a decline of 307 millions for 1939. The market value averaged $647 per $1,000 bond. The principal factor in the market decline was the war.

European Average Low.

European issues dropped from an average of $529 per $1,000 bond to $374. German issues fell from an average of $300 to $157. Canadian issues dropped from $1,038 to $977. All issues of foreign dollar bonds had an average market value of 64.7 per cent of their face value. Issues in default averaged only 16.5 per cent of their par value and those not in default averaged 84.8 per cent.

The drawing indicates the proportion of foreign dollar bonds, held in the United States, that is in default.

The analysis was particularly timely because of agitation in some quarters for extension of credits and loans to foreign countries, either for prosecution of the war or for development—as would be applicable in Latin American countries. Under existing laws loans and credits are prohibited to belligerents [under the neutrality act] or to countries defaulting on their world war debts [under the Johnson act of 1934].

Debts Not Included.

The investments analyzed in the department of commerce report today do not include [1] the war debts of more than 13 billion dollars owed by foreign governments to the United States government, [2] the so-called "direct" investments of about 7 billion dollars at the close of 1939, representing the interest of American companies in foreign business enterprises, and [3] the relatively small amount of miscellaneous foreign securities usually reported in total portfolio investments.

The analysis covers governmental and corporate bonds issued by foreigners and held in the United States. It includes a few foreign currency issues, which constitute less than ½ of 1 per cent of the total, and also covers funding bonds distributed to American investors in lieu of interest payments.

Status of Some Issues.

The following table shows the status of some foreign dollar bonds, giving the par value outstanding, and the ratio of defaults to investments:

Of the total of 3 billion, 335 millions outstanding, par value, 1 billion, 610 millions were the obligations of national governments, 920 millions were issued by municipal or provincial governments, 457 millions were corporate issues, government guaranteed, and 348 millions were private.

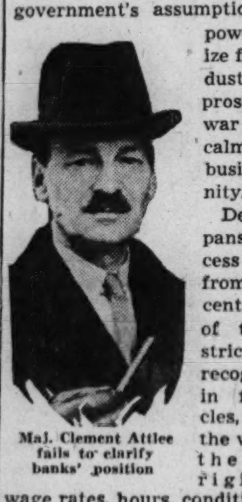
London Awaits Effects of New Dictator Rule

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Maj. Clement Attlee fails to clarify banks' position

LONDON, May 25.—The British government's assumption of drastic powers to mobilize finance and industry for the prosecution of the war was accepted calmly by the business community.

Despite the expansion of the excess profits tax from 60 to 100 per cent, the brunt of the new restrictions, it was recognized today in financial circles, will fall on the workers, with the government rigidly fixing wage rates, hours, conditions, and distribution of labor. Already the munitions and aircraft factories have been put on a seven day week basis. Plans to boost the war production provide for the expansion of shifts to keep the plants working 24 hours daily.

Government Issues Rise.

The first securities market reaction toward the new emergency powers act was a sharp marking up of British government obligations and other gilt edged investments. The Financial Times' index of government issues on Thursday, for example, jumped 1.8 points to 109.2.

Outside of the investment markets, however, the new act had little effect. Industrial securities were quiet tho several, contrary to expectations, showed up better in early dealings. Financial writers assert that the increase in the excess profits tax will make little difference to dividends in wartime since payments already were limited by law to equal to the best of the last three prewar years.

The main effect of the increase, therefore, is to reduce in the state controled businesses the accumulation of profits that would be available for distribution after the war. Market operators consoled themselves also with the argument that the more the government acquires from the profits tax the less it will need from other taxes in helping to finance the war.

How Far Will They Go?

More cautious observers, however, prefer to await further indication of the government's real intentions before attempting to analyze the tremendous changes in Britain's industrial life implicit in the wording of the new act. At the minimum, a writer on the Manchester Guardian said, the government might use its new powers merely to remove certain obstacles to the coöperation of industry and labor in speeding up the arms supply. At the maximum, the powers might be used to suspend private enterprise in production, trade, and finance.

One obstacle to production which the government, armed with the new dictatorial powers, is expected to tackle immediately is the bottleneck strangling the provision of credit for war work. Many firms have reported difficulty in obtaining capital for installation of plants needed to carry out the contracts awarded by the ministry of supply or the air ministry.

Refuse Long Term Credit.

Banks have refused to grant loans for long term purposes outside their scope, and supply departments, reportedly stinted by the treasury, have been almost equally reluctant to underwrite the needed credits.

Maj. Clement Attlee, lord privy seal and deputy leader of the house of commons, in introducing the new act last Wednesday, did not make clear whether control of banks would be established immediately or how far it would operate. He said once that control "may" and later that it "will" be set up under government order.

As a consequence, financial writers are still speculating whether the government will merely seek to induce banks to relax their restrictions on loans or whether it intends to dictate the entire monetary policy of the Bank of England.

INSURANCE FIRM SECURITY TRADES NEAR 7 BILLIONS

New York, May 25 [Special].—Security transactions last year by the country's leading insurance companies amounted to $6,894,257,636, according to the new 1940 edition of Poor's Purchases and Sales of Securities. In 1938, the volume was $6,933,783,357.

The tabulation shows that the 10 largest insurance company buyers of securities invested $2,522,556,004 in 1939, compared with $2,365,280,412 in 1938. Last year, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States took the lead from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company

Chicago Steel Mill Rate to Reach 80% This Week

Chicago district steel mills will begin this week's operations at more than 80 per cent of capacity, compared with 73 per cent last week, according to a survey yesterday by the Dow-Jones financial news agency. This would carry the rate to the highest level since last February, when it was 81.8 per cent. A month ago operations were at 52.6 per cent of capacity. Pittsburgh mills are expected to start the week at 78.5 per cent of capacity, or 6½ points above last Monday's rate.

Liquor Taxes Exceed Billion Dollars in 1939

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Public revenues from alcoholic beverages totaled more than 1 billion dollars in 1939, bringing the total return to federal, state and local governments since repeal of prohibition in 1933 to more than 5 billion dollars.

These figures on liquor taxes were released today by the Distilled Spirits Institute, Inc., in its annual report for 1939. The government's "take" on alcoholic beverage sales amounted to $1,010,384,672 in 1939.

Alcohol Taxes by Years.

This compares with the following figures for other years since repeal in 1933:

1933..$	29,704,194	1937..	1,021,135,100
1934..	593,566,164	1938..$	947,277,086
1935..	734,937,878	1939..	1,010,384,672
1936..	932,145,167	Total.	$5,269,150,261

The 1939 total was derived from the following sources: Federal internal revenue and import duties, $635,786,935; state alcoholic beverage control revenue and sales taxes, $311,761,838; local alcoholic beverage control revenue, $32,835,900, and miscellaneous business and property taxes [estimated], $30,000,000.

In Illinois last year liquor revenues totaled $25,127,496, of which $10,739,433 consisted of liquor control commission license fees and excise taxes after administration costs. Another $6,422,000 was derived from the 3 per cent sales tax, and local collections totaled $7,966,063.

Six States Top 20 Millions.

Liquor distribution in Illinois is subject to federal, state, county, and municipal control. All of these revenues go into the general funds of the governments except the state sales tax, which is allocated to the occupational tax fund.

State and local liquor revenues surpassed 20 million dollars in five states besides Illinois. The others were New York, $44,709,007; Pennsylvania, $36,153,934; Ohio, $33,185,914; Michigan, $24,648,058, and California, $21,997,220.

State and local revenues increased $26,810,909 over those for 1938 and federal liquor revenues rose $36,296,677.

PLEDGE INDUSTRY TO DEFENSE BUT RAISE A QUESTION

The committee on national defense of the Illinois Manufacturers association yesterday pledged the industrial resources of 11,000 companies to the government in the interests of national defense, but at the same time raised the questions as to federal policies affecting industry.

The committee warned of what it termed a serious shortage of highly skilled labor in some lines and also expressed doubt that America, working 40 hours a week, could meet the requirements of a war emergency.

"To what extent will industry, in its effort to facilitate rearming, be handicapped by retarding governmental bureaus, such as the labor board and the wage-hour administration?" the committee asked.

A Reminder: Income Tax Instalment Is Due June 15

A reminder to pay quarterly federal income taxes on June 15 or face a penalty for delay was made yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce in issuing its June tax calendar. The May instalment on the Illinois retailers' occupational [sales] tax is due on the same date. In Illinois areas outside of Cook county, personal property taxes and first instalments on real estate taxes are due on June 1.

Postal Revenues in April 6 Per Cent Above Year Ago

Washington, D. C., May 25 [Special].—Postmaster General James A. Farley announced today that postal revenues in April amounted to $65,169,287, a gain of $4,500,000, or 6 per cent over April, 1939. April revenues represented the second highest "normal month" in postal history, Farley said. Revenues for the first 10 months of the fiscal year amounted to $643,531,915, a gain of more than $20,000,000.

GROUP BUYS HOTEL TWICE IN SAME DAY —JUST TO PLAY SAFE

Memphis, Tenn., May 25 (AP).—A bondholders' committee bought a hotel twice today—on central daylight time, and then on standard time—just to make doubly sure against legal loopholes. A court decree several weeks ago ordered the hotel sold May 25, "at high noon" to satisfy certain obligations.

Memphis adopted daylight savings time for the summer, tho on standard time the main part of the year.

COST JUDGMENTS AGAINST COUNTY ARE SOLD BY CITY

Judgments held by the city against the county for costs of county and state judicial actions carried out in the Municipal court were sold yesterday by City Controler Robert B. Upham for $3,136,914, their face value, plus accrued interest of $30,080 since March 16. Joint purchasers were A. S. Huyck & Co. and Morris Mather & Co.

The city council voted to approve the sale of the judgments on May 8 in the face of questions why the city was passing up nearly $250,000 in accrued interest since the judgments were entered. Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the finance committee, claimed that outsiders would be in a better position to collect from the county than would the city.

Upham said the cash obtained yesterday will be placed in the city's corporate fund and will be used to pay off part of the $10,000,000 in outstanding debts against the fund.

NLRB CHANGES ITS SYSTEM OF FIELD HEARINGS

Washington, D. C., May 25 [Special].—The National Labor Relations board announced today that the majority of field hearings on labor representation issues henceforth will be conducted by a regional field officer instead of by a staff trial examiner. The change is believed designed to meet criticism that trial examiners were too largely influenced by board attitudes.

The chief trial examiner, who formerly chose the presiding officer at representation hearings, now in most cases will choose the regional attorney or another member of the local regional office staff. In exceptional cases a member of the trial examiner's staff may be appointed, it was said.

No change will be made in the manner of selecting members of the trial examiners in unfair labor practice cases, the statement said.

CONSUMER GROUP PROTESTS COAL RATES BY BARGE

Chicago coal dealers learned yesterday that the consumers council division of the bituminous coal division at Washington, D. C., has protested against proposed prices for coal shipped to markets by river barge.

James C. Hoskins, president of the Hoskins Coal and Dock corporation, said the division's protest supported his contention that the government's contemplated minimum prices nullify present savings in transportation costs by barge.

A hearing on the protest will be held tomorrow by the division of the department of interior charged with enforcing the national bituminous coal act.

German Steel Output Climbs to New Record

Geared to war tempo in outfitting the huge Nazi fighting machine, steel production in Germany last year attained an all-time record of 24,500,000 tons, establishing the country in second place in world output, it was disclosed yesterday in a survey of the industry. The United States remained first with 46,750,000 tons.

To obtain the necessary exchange to pay for imports of raw materials, moreover, exports of steel products from Germany increased markedly in the early months of 1939. The average monthly exports in 1938 amounted to 232,000 tons, and in the first six months last year they increased to 250,000 despite the inclusion of Austrian and Sudeten districts in the German customs territory.

Important new additions in Germany are reported being brought to completion in what has been termed the most powerful iron and steel producing and transforming plant in Europe. Germany, moreover, controls the steel capacity of Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and Luxemburg.

German steel production, however, is confronted by two important problems—decline in imports of iron ore and the possible failure of the attempt to increase utilization of domestic low grade ores.

Uses Low Grade Ore.

Under the four year plan to make German industries independent of foreign imports, the government decided in 1937 that the domestic low grade ore must be extensively used and that new steel plants should be erected in the center of Germany on the Salzgitter ore deposits and on those of Baden and Bavaria away from the congested Ruhr district.

The noted Herman Goering works were the result, financed by the government because no private enterprise would risk such large investments in an undertaking of this type. The Braunschweig plant is laid out for 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons ingot capacity in four divisions, the first of which was reported nearly completed at the start of 1940, the second under construction, and the remainder planned. The Linz plant in Austria was reported being built for 1,000,000 tons capacity with the possibility of being extended in the future.

Result Is Doubtful.

Certain prominent engineers of the German iron and steel industry have said that it is impossible to produce pig iron and steel economically, if at all, from the Salzgitter siliceous high sulphur ores. Consequently, the result of this program is doubtful.

In addition to the Herman Goering works, privately owned enterprises,

AUTO INDUSTRY TO GET BIG ROLE IN REARMAMENT

Could Be Converted Into Plane Plants.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

When America's huge rearmament program gets under way one of its strongest supports will be the big plants of the automobile industry—an industry that in one year [1929] produced more than 5½ million passenger automobiles and trucks.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr. announces acquisition of propeller company.

Nearly all the major plants are located far inland from the seaboards—most of them west of the Allegheny mountains. The largest concentration of automobile manufacturing plants is in the Detroit area, with many large ones, however, in other Michigan cities, including Pontiac, Lansing, and Flint. The Chicago district has two big plants—Studebaker at South Bend and Nash at Kenosha.

Have "Educational Orders."

The large plants of the General Motors divisions, the Chrysler corporation divisions, Packard, and others are already working on army "educational orders" as well as filling specific orders.

All the automobile companies are equipped to care for the land mechanized divisions of the national defense, but by the nature of their work and organization, it was said, could be converted into airplane building plants. The plants and the mass production experience are present, it was said, but there would have to be purchase and installation of tooling before plane building could be started.

General Motors already is gaining experience in airplane activities thru the building of certain parts and thru the making of its high powered liquid cooled Allison engine at Indianapolis.

Enters Propeller Field.

And yesterday, Alfred M. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board, announced that on June 1 the company would enter the airplane propeller business thru the acquisition of assets of Engineering Products, Inc., Dayton, O. The new division will be known as the Aero-Products division of General Motors.

Sloan said the purchase was made "to strengthen further the production facilities of the nation, contributing to the mass production of airplanes for defense as well as for commercial purposes."

General Motors is well equipped to build the heavier attack instruments, such as the 70 ton tanks, in such plants as that of the Electro-Motive corporation at La Grange, just out of Chicago. The La Grange plant is producing Diesel-electric powered railroad locomotives of the most powerful type, building its own Diesel engines. All the automobile plants could be quickly adapted to the mass production of shells.

Chrysler Busy on Trucks.

Chrysler has been building vast quantities of trucks for military needs and its plants are adaptable to defense needs.

Ford's big Rouge plant near Detroit is one of the large integrated manufacturing operations in the world, producing the steel that goes into the cars and converting other raw materials into products that go directly into automobiles. This plant is said to be adapted to artillery construction. Ford's Eagle boat building facilities have never been abandoned and the company is ready to turn out these submarine combatants.

Packard is known to have been working on navy orders for many months, particularly on high speed engines such as are required by high speed torpedo boats.

In addition to the major automobile plants, there are numerous plants that specialize in the building of trucks and bodies, such as Diamond T in Chicago, the truck division of International Harvester and many others.

Flexibility Is Reported.

It is generally believed in the industry that the various plants could turn over a substantial part of their facilities to defense needs and at the same time continue big production on passenger automobiles for sale to the public. Even in 1917 and 1918, when the plants were filling army orders, the industry was able to produce 1,745,792 and 943,436 passenger cars, respectively. When the war was ended the industry snapped into the production of 1,651,625 cars in 1919.

Reports Shell Order Taught Real 'Lesson'

An "extremely important lesson" has been learned from a war department educational order for shell forgings just completed, Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the civilian controled Chicago ordnance district, announced yesterday.

At the same time Col. Armstrong announced that contracts have been signed for four additional educational orders totaling $703,000 for the Chicago district.

Design Change Speeds Output.

The completed order involved twenty thousand 75-millimeter steel shell forgings, which weigh about 18 pounds each and require precision work. The forgings were made in Chicago by the American Forge division of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company.

Discussing the "lesson," Col. Armstrong said that the company and the ordnance office discovered, in the course of doing the work on the order, that a change in design of the forging would greatly facilitate and speed up production.

The change, he said, illustrated the benefits of adapting ordnance requirements to industrial practices.

"As a result of the order," Col. Armstrong said, "the ordnance department and the company learned extremely important lessons which improved the situation with respect to shell forgings to such an extent that on 'M' [mobilization] day, in event of war, production of ammunition will be speeded up tremendously.

Aimed to Iron Out Kinks.

The purpose of the educational orders, the officer said, is not to lay up additional stocks of war supplies, but to iron out production kinks in factories to get them trained and ready to produce rapidly if an emergency arises. For that reason, he said, the quantities of a particular product obtained from an educational order is not important.

The contract prices include costs of all machine tools and other equipment used to manufacture the ordered goods. The equipment becomes the property of the government.

Col. Armstrong declared that industry has coöperated to the utmost in the educational program, even in cases where companies stand to profit little or not at all from the orders.

New Orders Disclosed.

The newest orders, on which work is ready to begin, were as follows:

To Elgin National Watch company, Elgin, Ill., $479,000 for mechanical time fuses used in anti-aircraft shells [preliminary announcement made earlier].

To Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company, Minneapolis, $141,000 for machining 155-millimeter shells.

To Hurley Machine division of Electric Household Utilities corporation, Chicago, $42,000 for boosters for fuses which are used to explode projectiles.

To Tuthill Pump company, Chicago, $41,000 for gunner's quadrants.

LOWER CAR FIRE AND THEFT RATES BEGIN TOMORROW

Revised rates for automobile insurance in Illinois, which will reduce the cost of fire and theft policies but will increase collision insurance premiums in some areas, will go into effect tomorrow.

H. A. Miller, special deputy of the state department of insurance, said yesterday that in metropolitan Chicago rates for fire, theft, and comprehensive insurance will be about 19 per cent less than in the past, with collision rates unchanged. Fire and theft rates for outlying Chicago districts and for the suburbs will be reduced by smaller amounts, and adjustments also will be made in other areas thruout the state.

Earlier Ernest Palmer, director of the department, estimated that the changes will result in a net reduction of $500,000 a year for automobile owners in the state.

INDUSTRY'S WAR HORIZON CLEARS IN NEW EVENTS

Rearm Plans Spur Many Lines.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The significance to American industry of some of the potent forces let loose by the war began to emerge in clearer outline last week, disclosing that some lines of business are being definitely stimulated and a few just as definitely curtailed.

A determined move to rearm the nation, calling for spending of billions and for voluntary or forced surrender of privately owned patented rights and designs for at least one industry and possibly others, appeared to have blazed an upward trail for manufacturers of aircraft, tools, ships, and other war goods.

Seek Standardized Aircraft.

In a move to combine the best qualities of all fighting planes in a few models that can be produced quickly in any plane factory, the government began taking over patents and designs so military aircraft can be standardized.

A cabinet official said the standardization principle may be applied

t. other products essential to national defense.

The rearming program and increased allied purchases gave a boost to pay rolls in factory centers, in that way influencing the purchasing power of labor, but other powerful forces affecting consumer demand pulled in the opposite direction. Price declines in the speculative markets reduced the spending incentive of part of the population, and lower prices for farm products caused farmers to cut purchases. Luxury goods particularly felt the effect of a shrinking demand.

War Curtails Cotton Market.

German warfare in northern France shut off one of America's best cotton customers, and loss of the Italian market, in case Mussolini orders his country to war, threatened further curtailment of cotton sales. Observers said the spread of German domination may create the most serious export problem the American farmer has faced since the civil war.

Still uncertain, but causing official worry in Washington, was the possible effect a final German victory would have on the free industrial system in the United States and on traditional practices in world trade. Bankers wondered what the United States would do with its gold, holdings of which crossed the 19 billion dollar mark last week, if Germany and its nongold barter system should prevail in Europe.

Meantime, in a further shaping of policy in the light of the war, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced he will oppose any fur-

Moderate Rally Reduces Week's Price Losses.

New York, May 25 (AP).—War gloom lifted a trifle in the stock market today. Without any especial news to account for it, leading issues stepped out of a generally disappointing week with a fair sized rally.

Steels, aircrafts, and coppers came to the fore for gains running to 3 or more points after a sluggish first hour. Dealings picked up a bit at the last. Top gains were reduced in most cases at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net advance of .3 of a point at 38.1 but for the week showed a net loss of 2.3 points. It was the fourth consecutive week's decline. Today the barometer was .4 of a point above its two year low established Tuesday. The 1940 high was 52.2.

Week's Turnover Smaller.

Transfers for the two hours amounted to 554,330 shares, compared with 1,663,270 last Saturday when prices were toppling. The week's volume of some 10,000,000 shares contrasted with about 17,000,000 the week before.

Germany's announcement of progress on all fronts, the somewhat acrid note sounded by British officials, and the Nazi air bombing of England tended to depress some traders, but the financial sector still hoped the allies were a long way from defeat.

Steels were particularly favored by indications mill operations next week would mount briskly. Both the metals and aircrafts were stimulated by the outlook for heavy domestic rearmament spending.

Motors Finish Strong.

Motors lagged most of the time, but finished with small gains. Rails were ahead small amounts, as were rubbers and utilities.

Stocks swung with the war bulletins thruout the week, the news, on the whole, being interpreted as bearish. Prices stiffened selectively Monday, but crashed Tuesday to the lowest levels since June, 1938, as fears of a German enforced peace touched off heavy liquidation. Transfers on this day of nearly 4,000,000 shares were the largest since Sept. 12, last. Selling dried up and the best comeback of the week was staged Wednesday. The list slipped mildly Thursday and Friday with dwindling activity as doubts over the outcome abroad again revived.

CHICAGO PRICES MIXED.

Prices of securities traded on the Chicago Stock exchange closed irregular yesterday, 37 issues recording gains, 23 closing lower, and 23 ending unchanged. Volume for the week totaled 273,000 shares compared with 446,000 the preceding week and 140,000 in the corresponding 1939 week.

Among the volume leaders yesterday, Commonwealth Edison sagged ⅛ point, J. R. Thompson closed unchanged, Gardner-Denver lost 1⅜ points, and Aviation corporation was down ⅛ point.

WHEAT CLIMBS ON REPORTS OF FRENCH GAINS

Winnipeg Market Runs Up 4 Cents a Bushel.

Chicago wheat prices advanced yesterday on news of French successes on the European battle front. At one time the market was 2 cents a bushel higher. The close was at net gains of 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents. Winnipeg wheat rose more than 4 cents.

Other grains also advanced. Soy beans for July delivery finished unchanged with sellers offering the future at 78½ cents, the minimum price at which trading can be done under exchange regulations.

Relief Supplies May Be Needed.

A belief is rapidly gaining ground in the grain trade that tremendous relief work may be necessary in many European countries before long, similar to the program undertaken in civilian Belgium in 1914. Because of the ravages of war, damage to crops by adverse weather conditions and other causes, it is believed that a desperate shortage of foodstuffs may develop in Europe soon. All of the continental European countries engaged in the war or dominated by Germany are large importers of grain and feedstuffs of all kinds under normal conditions.

Crop reports from the American winter and spring wheat areas showed little change and are attracting little attention. Commission houses, however, mentioned the need of rain in parts of the provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Wheat Supply Estimated.

The agriculture department reported that the American wheat supply in the 1940-'41 season would total approximately 963,000,000 bushels on the basis of present indications. This includes an estimated 1940 crop of 675,000,000 bushels and a July 1 carryover of 288,000,000 bushels of old grain.

There were indications, the report said, that domestic consumption in the 1940-'41 season would total about 665,000,000 bushels and shipments to American possessions about 3,000,000 bushels. Thus, about 295,000,000 bushels would be available for export and reserves.

The world carryover on July 1 was forecast at 1,433,000,000 bushels compared with 1,189,000,000 bushels a year ago.

The Buenos Aires grain market was closed yesterday for a national holiday.

UNITED STATES BOOSTS LEAD IN WORLD AUTO USE

First Proportional Rise Since 1916.

Washington, D. C., May 25 [Special].—For the first time since 1916 the United States last year increased its lead among world-wide motor car registrations, the department of commerce indicated in its annual report for auto registrations of all nations.

The report made clear that whereas the United States total always has been the predominant figure in world totals, until 1939 the proportion of increase was being slowly cut down as other nations became more motor conscious and increased production in their own plants.

Autos Number 45,422,411.

The world total for 1939, including Spitzbergen's two and Bermuda's 68 vehicles, was put at 45,422,411 automobiles. Of these, the United States and territories had 31,104,118, or 68.5 per cent, thus reversing the trend in which America's total had slumped from 83 per cent in 1916 to 68.3 per cent a year ago. In 1939 the world figure rose by 1,602,482, or 3.5 per cent, over 1938 to a new high in vehicle use, the report said.

The chart indicates United States supremacy in use of autos.

Ranking second in the world auto census, the United Kingdom had 2,429,580 vehicles. France was third with 2,398,500; Germany, fourth, 1,959,200, and Canada, fifth, 1,420,924. Russia placed sixth with 801,000; Italy seventh, 498,500, and the Union of South Africa, eighth, 370,641.

14 Million Cars Abroad.

Vehicles outside the United States totaled 14,318,293, equal to 46 per cent of the American registration. The foreign total rose 440,680 automobiles, or 3.2 per cent, over the preceding year.

American built cars and trucks accounted for 5,225,000, or 36.5 per cent, of vehicles registered abroad, said the report. The decline from 38 per cent of the foreign total of 1938 was explained as resulting from gains made by low horse power European vehicles with small gasoline consumption.

Use elsewhere of 174,534 Diesel vehicles, mostly trucks and buses, far surpassed the United States total of 5,000, the report showed.

SHOW TAXPAYER MEETS LARGE LOCAL PAY ROLL

Washington, D. C., May 25 (AP).—How big a pay roll does the local taxpayer meet? The census bureau learned that in January it amounted to about $88,000,000 for employés of 2,580 states, cities, counties, towns, and townships.

That was only part of it, however. The bureau received replies from 3,390 local governments to a questionnaire circulated in its quarterly survey of local government employment and pay rolls. That number had a total of approximately 1,100,000 employés, but only 2,580 reported how much their employés received.

The governments coöperating in the survey constituted only a small proportion of all governments in the United States, said the bureau.

GERMAN STEEL OUTPUT CLIMBS TO NEW RECORD

Produces 24.5 Million Tons in Year.

particularly the Vereinigte Stahlwerke, have been reported to have started additions.

With all the new improvements, steel men have estimated that the present annual capacity of steel production for Germany, including Austrian works, is between 26,000,000 and 27,000,000 tons and that in a short time may be increased to 30,000,000 tons.

Germany, however, has depended to a large extent on imports since she lost the iron ore deposits of Alsace Lorraine in 1918. For example, in 1938, when the Germans produced nearly 23,000,000 tons of steel, the tonnage of domestic ore extracted amounted to 11,145,000, including 2,645,000 of Austrian ore. Imports that year totaled 21,928,000 metric tons and exports to 5,000,000 tons.

Sources of Ore Imports.

Of the 22 million tons imported, 9 million tons came from Sweden, 5 million tons from France, 1,000,000 from Algeria, Tunis, and French Morocco, 1,700,000 from Luxemburg, 1,100,000 from Norway, 1,100,000 from Newfoundland, 1,800,000 from Spain and Spanish Morocco, and the other 1,300,000 from other sources.

The war naturally eliminated imports from France, Northern French Africa, Newfoundland, and Spain, and the Scandinavian invasion interrupted the flow from Norway and Sweden. The conquest of Luxemburg, which in 1938 produced 5,059,443 gross tons of iron ore, will offset some of these losses, however.

The fight for Narvik and the British patrol of the Norwegian coast, as well as the mining of the Skaggerak, apparently have shut off the winter ore route previously available to the Germans.

When the ice breaks in the Gulf of Bothnia the Germans assert they will not be seriously impeded by the closing of the winter route because the summer route from Lulea, Sweden, then will be opened. They explain they can transport ore down the gulf into the Baltic sea and thence to Germany.

Two Courses Open.

To meet the loss of imports Germany must press its utilization of more domestic ore to success or find new outside sources of supply, experts have asserted, if the accelerated rate is to be maintained.

Russia, they explained, seems to be the most logical source from which the Nazis can hope to make up deficiencies. Russian ore mines yielded about 28,000,000 tons in 1938, but only a small part was available for export. Russia needs the ore she produces in the efforts to develop her own iron and steel industry, it was said.

No country in Europe possesses such vast reserves of high grade iron ores and coking coals as the United States. These two principal raw materials of the steel industry are for the most part long distances apart, but American genius has overcome this handicap by creating the most efficient means of transportation by rail and water known in the world.

HOG VALUES SINK DURING WEEK OF SEVERE DECLINES

Corn Ratio Near Record Low for Season.

A severe decline last week swept hog prices to the third lowest May levels in more than thirty years. Barring the depression years of 1932 and 1933, prices were lowest for May since 1908. The six day average at $5.55 a hundred pounds was only 84 per cent of the average a year ago and 64 per cent of the price two years ago.

The new declines added to the dilemma of hog raisers, who during recent weeks have been unable to get back production costs from stock they marketed. The corn-hog price ratio last week was one of the most unfavorable on record from late May. It took only about 8 bushels of corn to equal the per hundredweight average price of hogs on the Chicago market. In the corresponding week of 1939 12.6 bushels were needed. Two years ago farmers sold 15 bushels of corn to equal the hog price.

Ship Light Weight Hogs.

The unsatisfactory corn-hog price ratio, as well as the fact that farmers find it difficult to buy corn in many regions, is cutting the tonnage of pork, live stock men at the stockyards said yesterday. More light hogs were in the receipts the last few days, many of them unfinished. The week's average weight at Chicago, at 247 pounds, was lightest for May since 1937, the year when corn was scarce and high, following the 1936 drouth.

Sharp declines of the grain markets on the Board of Trade have brought little relief to hog raisers. Farmers report they cannot buy corn in volume in their immediate vicinity except at prices substantially above the level paid by local elevators or well above the government loan price.

Most Corn Is Sealed.

Most of the corn left in most hog raising regions is sealed on government loans and would not be taken out of seal for selling except at prices well above 60 cents a bushel. Most of the corn not sealed is either being fed by the owners or held in cribs for higher prices.

Last week's price declines ranged from 50 to 85 cents. Lights below 170 pounds, which increased in volume, led the break. Most hogs weighing 200 to 350 pounds and over fell 50 to 60 cents. "Lard hogs" were under more pressure than the medium weight stock.

Most other classes of live stock averaged lower, but declines were not as severe as in hogs. The steer average at $9.75 showed a reduction of only 5 cents. Final rates for steers were weak to 25 cents lower than the close of the week previous. Yearlings were steady to 15 cents lower. Cows finished on a par with a week earlier, while heifers were steady to 25 cents lower. Calves slumped 50 cents.

A larger proportion of shorn lambs in the receipts pulled the six day lamb average down 40 cents, to $9.30. Most classes of sheep and lambs, however, closed about steady with a week ago.

APRIL SHIPMENT OF AUTO TIRES RISES SHARPLY

New York, May 25 (AP).—April shipments of automobile tires for replacement purposes jumped to 2,823,293 units, largest for that month since 1932 and 27 per cent ahead of 2,217,627 in March, the Rubber Manufacturers' association said today. In April, 1939, replacement shipments totaled 2,795,293 units.

Automobile factory demands for original equipment increased to 2,095,220 units in April, a rise of 2.2 per cent from March and 33.4 per cent more than a year ago.

Export shipments rose to 91,249 units in April from 77,797 in March, but showed virtually no change from April, 1939.

Total shipments stood at 5,009,762 units, against 4,345,674 in March and 4,457,735 last year. April production was 5,105,953, compared with 5,007,042 in March and 4,310,424 in April, 1939.

Government Surveys Fields for Artificial Rubber Making

The war department and the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce were reported yesterday to have made an exploratory survey of the commercial possibilities of rapidly expanding production of artificial rubber if natural sources of rubber are disturbed by the war. The commerce bureau asserted that synthetic production could be increased quickly.

Dr. Gustav Egloff says plenty of artificial rubber can be made.

Among the different types of synthetic or artificial rubbers now manufactured are Goodrich's Koroseal, Dow Chemical company's Thiokol, and du Pont's Neoprene. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is constructing a plant at Baton Rouge, La., in which to manufacture Buna, the synthetic rubber made under German patents.

Made from Waste Gases.

Synthetic rubbers of the Buna type are made from waste gases produced in the refining of crude oil. About 7 billion pounds of butane gases are produced annually in this country from the gasoline cracking process and 9 billion more from natural gas and oil wells, it is estimated.

Buna-N is obtained from butadiene and acryl-nitrile [petroleum by-products]. This synthetic rubber is used especially for mechanical rubber goods and is said to be superior to natural rubber in resistance to heat, abrasion, and swelling in grease, oil, or gasoline.

Buna-S produced from butadiene and styrene [also derived from petroleum] and is reported to be especially suited for the manufacture of tires. Buna type tires have about 30 per cent more wearing quality and strength than natural rubber tires, according to Dr. Gustav Egloff, Chicago petroleum research chemist.

Egloff Reports on Situation.

Dr. Egloff, in a recent address before the American Institute of Chemists, said:

"In the world war now going on difficulty will be experienced in obtaining natural rubber for our own needs. It is reported that the United States has but a three months' supply of natural rubber. Some suggestion has been made to plant rubber trees in a South American country such as Brazil.

"It would require at least ten years to obtain rubber in this way. The United States, however, has potentially available enormous quantities of hydrocarbons and other substances which can be converted into synthetic rubbers.

"In 1939 about 1,100,000,000 pounds of natural rubber were used in this country. Over 200 billion pounds of synthetic rubber could be produced from ethylene by a cracking process, from benzene, and from butadiene obtained from butane."

Appropriation Is Asked.

President Roosevelt has asked from congress an appropriation of $1,000,000 to start the growing of natural rubber in South America. The crude rubber plantations were centered in the Amazon river valley of Brazil late in the 19th century, but Netherlands Indies, British Malaya, and Ceylon supplanted the South American producers.

The output of crude rubber in South America is only a small percentage of the world production.

STAPLE MARKETS END TURBULENT WEEK WITH RISE

Cottonseed Oil Futures Up 3 to 7 Points.

Prices of major commodities recorded moderate gains yesterday after a week of turbulent trading that saw many staples descend to the lowest price levels of the year. Prices turned upward in late trading Friday and continued to gain yesterday.

Bleachable cottonseed oil futures gained 3 to 7 points as traders anticipated government support of lard prices thru surplus purchases. For over a year cottonseed oil, which previously had cost about a cent a pound less than lard, has been selling around a cent a pound higher than lard. As a consequence it has lost several valuable markets to the pork product.

Copper Market Strong.

Zinc futures closed unchanged to 5 points higher as the cash market price for zinc continued firm at the new high level of the year, established Friday.

Copper in the cash market sold at about the same levels as at the close of last week. Copper futures advanced 13 to 19 points.

Sugar futures leaned forward again yesterday after a week that saw raw sugar prices descend to the lowest levels since July, 1938, and the world contracts slide to a new seasonal low. Domestic futures finished 6 to 7 points higher.

Rubber and Hides Advance.

World sugar futures were at 3 to 4½ points higher.

Crude rubber futures recorded net gains of 35 to 45 points as buying absorbed hedging and scattered selling. Rawhide futures jumped 27 to 37 points on sales of 4,760,000 pounds. Cotton futures closed irregular, 4 points higher to 5 points lower.

Santos coffee futures climbed 3 to 4 points while the Rio future was up 1 point.

Yesterday's prices:

IOWA SUSPENDS ILLINOIS WHISKY MAKER 15 DAYS

Charges Negligence in Use of State Seals.

Des Moines, Ia., May 25 (AP).—Acting swiftly in the third liquor seals upheaval in Iowa liquor control history, the state liquor commission today slapped a 15 day $50,000 suspension on the Century Distilling company, with distilleries in Peoria, Ill.

Liquor Chairman M. L. Curtis said the 173 state liquor stores will not sell Century products, which led the field in April, between June 1 and June 15, inclusive. Officials said the suspension would mean about $50,000 in business volume.

Convict Liquor Carrier.

Commission action followed a plea of guilty yesterday in Burlington, Ia., by Lytton M. Younker of Des Moines, to a charge of illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor. State agents who arrested Younker said he had 14 cases of whisky in his car and 20 liquor seals in his pocket.

The seals are sent by the commission to the distilleries, usually along with liquor orders. Curtis said the serial numbers on the seals found in Younker's possession were part of a consignment sent to the Century company in Peoria, Ill., May 7, and receipted for May 9 by the distillery.

"We think the company has been guilty of gross carelessness and negligence in permitting these seals to be turned loose," Curtis said.

Two Previous Incidents.

Twice before seals appeared in unauthorized channels. Back in 1935 a commissioner resigned after he had given some seals to a friend purportedly for use on a private stock of liquor.

Several months after that seals estimated in the thousands began to appear in bootleg circles. The leak was plugged after two spectacular trials and the seals problem remained quiescent until the current incident.

DIESEL POWER.

The engine patented by the late Dr. Rudolph Diesel of Germany in 1892 has made rapid penetration into industry and transportation in recent years as a source of both mobile and stationary power. Offering higher efficiency and lower operating cost than steam and gasoline engines, the diesel has won increasing acceptance.

Lighter, faster, and more versatile diesel engines developed in recent years have widened the application of this type of power. Sales of diesels in 1939 rose to a new peak as shown in the following table in which sales are measured in horse power:

DIESEL SALES.

	H. P.		H. P.
1934	758,000	1937	2,000,000
1935	1,200,000	1938	1,600,000
1936	1,830,000	1939	2,144,000

The diesel engine burns cheap fuel oil which costs about one-half of gasoline. The Diesel differs from the gasoline engine in that the fuel is exploded by the intense heat of highly compressed air instead of by an electric spark. The fuel is sprayed into the combustion chamber at great pressure thru an injector, which is more costly than the carburetor and spark plugs which it eliminates.

The advantage of the Diesel engine is that it converts into power as much as 38 per cent of the potential fuel energy, compared with a maximum thermal efficiency for gasoline engines of 28 per cent and for steam turbines of 27 per cent.

One of the widest uses of the Diesel has been in farm and industrial tractors. About 40 per cent of the diesel engines sold on a basis of horse power are installed in tractors.

Diesels are employed as an important source of electric energy in stationary power plants for small factories, hotels, and summer resorts.

The oldest application of the Diesel engine has been in submarines, patrol boats, yachts, tugs, and other marine craft. Reduced fire hazard, compactness, and economy are considerations which have intrenched diesels in shipbuilding.

Development of lighter and faster diesels has led to their adaptation in buses and trucks, with bus installations growing rapidly. Diesels also are coming into increasing use in powering switching locomotives, passenger and freight trains.

Possibility of adaptation of lighter diesels to automobiles and airplanes and more intensive use in trucks, buses, and on railroads indicates that there is still a large undeveloped market for the Diesel engine.

[A list of leading manufacturers of Diesel engines and reports on individual companies will be furnished investors upon request.]

POSTPONE WISCONSIN OFFER. Officials of Wood county, Wis., announced that sale of $100,000 highway bonds, originally scheduled for May 29, has been deferred until June 5.

INDUSTRY'S WAR HORIZON CLEARS IN WEEK'S EVENTS

Defense Program Spurs Heavy Goods Lines.

ther acreage reduction in major crops.

The New York Stock exchange rejected suggestions that the market be closed temporarily or that extraordinary restrictions on security trading be imposed.

While the position of the war goods producers was showing some clarification, the steel industry was leading such industrial advances as were made during the week. Steel mills boosted production for the fourth straight week to 73 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since January. Hours of part time employés were lengthened, with the prospect that additional men will be hired if output continues to expand.

Export sales of steel expanded, and steel men even talked of a possible shortage of the metal if the war lasts long and the United States pushes its arms program steadily.

Residential Building Rises.

Residential construction quickened, latest figures on electric power output indicated an upward trend, and bank clearings expanded.

Automobile production, while easing to 96,810 units, against 99,030 in the preceding week, made a better than seasonal showing.

Setbacks were reported in volume of heavy engineering construction, cotton textile output, railroad freight loadings, commercial loans by New York and Chicago banks, public offerings of new securities and retail trade.

According to Dun & Bradstreet, consumer buying of durable and higher priced types of merchandise declined, especially in the larger eastern cities.

Fighters Flying Atlantic.

New financing volume fell to the lowest level for any week in the last six months. Disruption of the market by the war caused postponement of several offerings.

The Anglo-French purchasing board, which also is acting for Belgium now, reported that it had ordered $100,000,000 worth of aircraft and equipment in the last 10 days. Fighting planes are being flown across the Atlantic from Canada by British and French pilots to hasten reinforcement of the air forces against Germany.

As a result of the war business, Boeing Airplane company announced it will double the capacity of its Seattle plant.

Production Index Rises.

Influenced largely by the increase in steel production, the Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity climbed last week to 98.7 per cent of the 1929-'30 average. The index, with component groups based on latest available figures, compared as follows [1929-'30 levels equal 100]:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Composite index	98.7	98.0	83.3

BONDS ADVANCE IN QUIET TRADE; FOREIGNS MIXED

New York, May 25 (AP).—Bonds swung more definitely to recovery today in a quiet session. Better support for many groups was attributed to traders' selective buying, based on the theory the list had been "oversold" in the recent war fright liquidation.

The best of the corporate issues, closing 1 to around 3½ points higher, included Boston and Maine 5s at 49, Chicago Railways 5s at 44, International Telephone 5s at 29½, Delaware and Hudson refunding 4s at 41, Walworth 4s at 57, and Studebaker 6s at 87.

Weakness persisted in loans of New South Wales and Italy, which dropped back 1 to around 4 points. Up fractions to around 3 were Belgium 6s, Australia 4½s, Copenhagen 5s, and Norway 6s. South American issues gained moderately.

Advances predominated in United States government obligations.

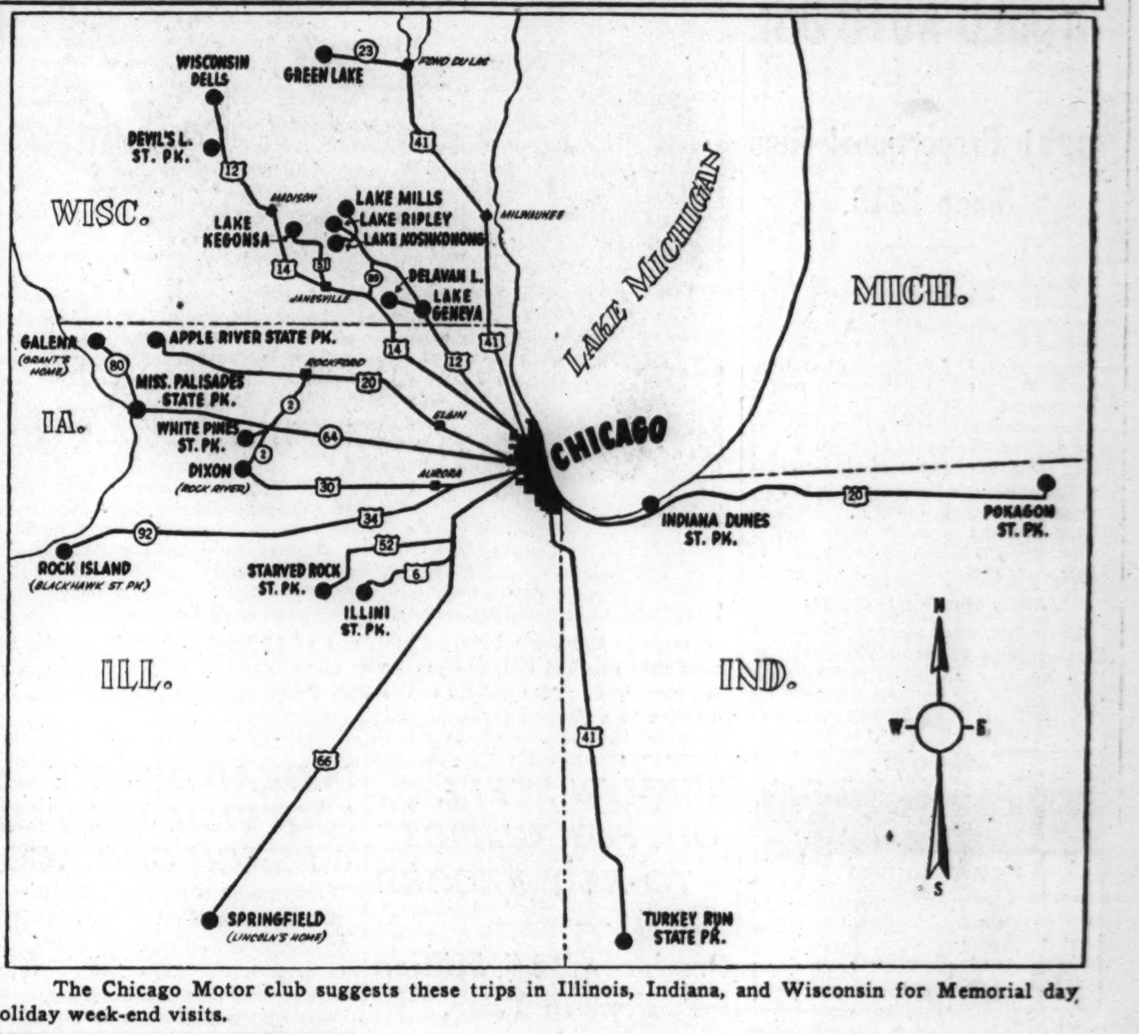
MOTORS—TRAFFIC—HIGHWAYS

Memorial Day Week-End Trips Mapped



The Chicago Motor club suggests these trips in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin for Memorial day holiday week-end visits.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

DANGEROUS SITUATION.

Chicago, May 20.—On country roads there are often signs which warn that an obstructed view is ahead and that drivers should slow down. In Chicago and other cities there are thousands of street corners with obstructed views.

Every one has seen drivers go full speed over crossing streets. The only reason they are safe is that another driver of their type does not happen to be coming down the other street at full speed.

Every careful driver slows down when there is an obstructed view at corners due to sidewalk hugging apartment houses or factories. Most drivers avoid this menace by knowing their own neighborhood and by using the main highways for long drives. JOSEPH GRILLI.

SUGGESTS PARKING CHANGES.

Chicago, May 20.—I read with great interest the letter of J. E. C. printed in this column recently. I am also a salesman who would find it convenient to discover an easily accessible parking place in the loop where there would be no charge.

I suggest that pressure be brought to bear on the persons who can alter parking regulations in the loop area; namely, to incorporate the following changes: Wacker drive thruout its entire length to be a one hour parking zone; permit parking on the south side of Wacker drive. The lower level also to be put on a one hour parking limit. Permit one hour parking on the east side of Michigan boulevard all the way from Jackson street to the bridge.

This would benefit salesmen considerably, and I believe that all the persons affected should drop a note to you and in this manner one could determine the actual number of persons interested in this problem.

The one hour parking zone which is in effect on Washington boulevard from Clinton street west is an excellent example of efficient handling of a large volume of parking.

LAWRENCE ISAACSON.

AN INQUIRY.

Chicago, May 16.—Why, O why! can't the police enforce the "Keep to the right except when passing" rule along the outer drive? R. J. KEHM.

WOOD ALCOHOL WILL BE BURNED IN 500 MILE RACE

Indianapolis, Ind., May 25 [Special].—Preliminary information indicates that 12 or 14 of the 33 cars to start the annual 500 mile automobile race here on Memorial day will be burning fuel mixtures containing wood alcohol with gasoline or benzol. The cost is from 40 cents to $1 a gallon.

The advantage of the alcohol is its cooling effect, aiding the supercharger in packing a larger charge into the combustion chamber. Mileage is low, the tanks on the alky burners ranging from 50 to 60 gallons compared with the 30 and 35 gallon tanks on the gasoline consumers.

Ethyl [grain] alcohol, sometimes advocated as a farm relief measure to subsidize agriculture at the expense of the motorists, was introduced to this race track two years ago, but none was seen at the garages during this year's preliminaries.

Its cooling effect is 26 per cent less than wood alcohol's. The grain alcohol has a further disadvantage in that it attacks magnesium in carburetors or manifolds.

Sherman. The booklet is especially clear and is recommended for reading by adults as well as youngsters. Adherence to the advice offered by Sherman would go a long way in reducing the nation's accident toll. The writer gives the reason for following the suggestions he offers and he tells the new driver how he can become a skilled driver and at the same time a safe driver.

NORTH SIDE TO HONOR SOLDIER DEAD

CHIEF OF ARMY AREA TO AWARD CADET COLORS

Feature of R. O. T. C. Review June 4.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area, has accepted the invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to present colors to Chicago R. O. T. C. units which place first and second in federal inspections to be completed tomorrow. The presentation in Tribune Square June 4, will climax the annual Cadet day parade on Michigan avenue, and will immediately precede the unveiling of the Nathan Hale statue which is to stand between The Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, also will speak briefly.

Lieut. Gen. Ford.

The program will be heard on W-G-N from 1:15 to 1:45 o'clock.

The American flags are given annually by THE TRIBUNE to encourage the Chicago R. O. T. C. to greater achievement in citizenship, leadership, courtesy, neatness, and discipline. Last year's first and second place winners were Tilden and Crane Technical High schools, respectively.

Two Units in Ceremony.

The parade up Michigan avenue is scheduled to begin at 11:45 o'clock at Balbo avenue, and 26 school units will disperse at Randolph street. The two winning schools, numbering about 500 cadets, will march on to Tribune Square, where the ceremonies are to begin at 1:15 o'clock.

After the flag presentation Dr. William Warren Sweet, professor of American church history at the University of Chicago, will give the address dedicating the statue of Nathan Hale, which will be unveiled by cadet commanders of the two school military groups.

The statue is a duplicate of the well known one at Yale university, from which Capt. Hale was graduated in 1773, three years before he was hanged by the British troops as a spy.

Choices Not Yet Made.

Which two schools will take part in this patriotic ceremony will not be known until several days before the parade. Maj. Norman M. Nelsen, who is conducting the inspections, said that after the final inspections tomorrow his report must be drawn up, sealed, and approved by war department officials in Washington before it is released thru the 6th corps area headquarters here.

Maj. Nelsen expressed astonishment at the excellent performance of the units he has already inspected. "The enthusiasm and proficiency evident in the schools I have seen is largely due to coöperation offered by the school authorities," he said.

He pointed out that R. O. T. C. regulations call for three hours weekly of training for each cadet, but that in Chicago schools at least five is given. In most instances the R. O. T. C. occupies a special position with regard to student activities such as the fire guard and police patrol.

The only schools which remain to be inspected are Amundsen and Lake View. The Amundsen unit will be examined tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in Winnemac park, Damen and Foster avenues; and the Lake View unit at 1:15 o'clock in Welles park, Montrose and Western avenues.

Safety Patrol Boys to Be Paid Radio Tribute

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

[PICTURE ON PAGE 5.]

In tribute to the more than a quarter of a million boys and girls of America who safeguard the lives of fellow pupils during the school term, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will sponsor a half hour radio broadcast on W-G-N Friday night, June 7, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the new W-G-N audience studio.

Charles M. Hayes.

Special guests will be 600 outstanding members of the school safety patrols of the Chicago and Cook county schools, founded by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Mr. Hayes will be the principal speaker on the program.

The entertainment will feature Harold Stokes and his orchestra. Novelty acts especially appealing to young America will punctuate the broadcast. A special tribute will be paid to five lads who have been awarded distinguished service medals by the Chicago Motor club. They are Victor McElhose [La Vergne school] of Berwyn, David Velen [Lawson school], 1256 South Homan avenue, and Stanley Burmeister [Whittier school], 1900 West 23d street, both of Chicago; John Edwards, and Donald Banks of Danville and Quincy, Ill., respectively.

URGE REBUILDING OF RAIL VIADUCT AT EMERSON ST.

Motor Council Asks That Evanston Act.

Rebuilding of the viaduct of the Chicago and North Western railroad at the intersection of Ridge road and Emerson street in Evanston was urged last week by members of the North Area council of the Chicago Motor club.

The council at its meeting last Monday recommended that the city of Evanston file a petition before the Illinois Commerce commission. The viaduct and intersection for several years has aroused discussion among city, county, and state highway authorities.

Four Streets Intersect.

Four streets come together at this location. Emerson street running east and west crosses East Railroad avenue. Ridge road comes in at a southwest-northeast angle and Green Bay road begins at this point.

Motor club traffic engineers have recommended improvements that included widening of the viaduct and the rounding off of several sharp corners created by the intersection. Area council members say the problem can best be solved before the commerce commission.

Urge Parking Rules.

At the Monday meeting the council recommended morning and evening parking regulation for North Dearborn street and Foster avenue. Members suggest that no parking be permitted between 8 and 10 o'clock in the morning on the west side of Dearborn street between Chicago and North avenues, and on the east side between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. A similar plan was suggested for Foster avenue between Clark street and Ashland avenue.

The council voted to appeal to the state for a solution to the problem of installing signal lights on Green Bay road at Lake, Wilmette and Central avenues in Wilmette. Members said the village board has used up its available gas tax funds.

VETERANS TAKE LEAD IN ANNUAL MEMORIAL RITES

10,000 Will Assemble at Rosehill.

While the war machines roll over Europe again, thousands of north siders will march to the graves of their own war dead Thursday, Memorial day.

Logan, second commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, veterans, civilians and children will march to the pounding of drums down cemetery driveways and halt at the graves of soldiers of three wars. Carrying out the orders which created Memorial day, they will decorate the graves with wreaths, flowers and plants. In the words of Gen. Logan, they will "gather around their sacred remains and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of springtime . . . cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead."

WANTS A SAFETY ISLAND.

I am almost killed once a day at Devon avenue and Broadway as I wait for a street car going west. It happens five days a week at about 6 o'clock. Traffic shoots by in such thick quantities and so rapidly that boarding a street car becomes as dangerous as a blitzkrieg. I'm fairly safe as long as I stay on the sidewalk, but when the street car finally arrives I am forced to get out into the street to get on board. Once the wind of a truck streaking by blew my hat off. Another time a sedan hit another car trying to avoid hitting me.

P. S.—You see, there is no safety island at the corner on the southeast side where I board my street car. MRS. M. W.

SLOWED DOWN BY LEFT TURNS.

Why don't the park district engineers induce the authorities to forbid left turns off Sheridan road at Berwyn and Bryn Mawr avenues? Why can't this traffic, west bound from Sheridan, be routed on Foster avenue? Northbound traffic on Sheridan road last Sunday afternoon was backed up as far south as Foster while one driver waited for a change in the Bryn Mawr traffic light so he could turn west. After he turned all the cars behind had to wait for another change before they could proceed. P. J. W.

BUSES INSTEAD OF TROLLEYS.

The city fathers could really do the city some good by replacing the Taylor, Sedgwick and Webster avenue car lines with buses.

With buses the Sedgwick line south of Wrightwood could be re-routed to absorb all the Webster avenue line and by doing so serve an additional six blocks of territory at present without service. An extension north of the present terminal to Irving Park road would be a great convenience. In the summer time, Montrose beach could be included. A. H. S.

ASPIRING BOY ACTORS TO FACE MIKE THIS WEEK

Seek to Follow Steps of Club Member.

If you see several hundred north side boys with their fingers crossed and muttering the same words over and over to themselves, this is the reason:

Tommy Carmichael.

They are all hoping they will be as lucky as Tommy Carmichael, 13 years old, 1707 North Halsted street. For Tommy came back a few days ago from New York where he took movie screen tests and signed a seven year option with a film company.

It all started last year when Tommy joined the radio guild of the Lincoln branch of the Chicago Boys' clubs, 1725 Orchard street. He was "scouted" by Mrs. Lavina Schwartz, midwestern educational director for the Columbia Broadcasting system, and movie scouts.

Rush for Rôles.

When Tommy's friends heard about it they rushed to join the club's radio-drama group. Immediately they began rehearsing dramatic bits and practicing sound effects.

On Tuesday evening north side boys will get an audition at the Lincoln club's radio studio. Other auditions will be held in other sections of the city. A total of 2,000 boys from eight branches of the clubs and public and parochial school drama groups are expected to take part.

Finals In June.

The auditions will take the form of contests. Winners will compete in city-wide finals to be held in June at radio station WBBM.

Directors of drama groups taking part in the north side audition Tuesday evening include Mrs. Bess I. Wenzel, Miss Ruth Russell, J. W. Swart, Miss Alice Casey, Miss Carol Anger, A. A. Gill, L. E. Novotny, Charles Hurst, Franklin Boehmer, and Miss Jenny Heyl.

St. Athanasius Group Gives Spring Party Tuesday Next

Friends and members of St. Athanasius church of Evanston will hold their annual spring party Tuesday evening at the Evanston Woman's club. The Rev. Leo M. Hartke, pastor, is general chairman. He will be assisted by the Rev. Joseph F. Byrne and the Rev. Joseph T. Holbrook.

SERBIAN CHAPEL SCENE OF QUIET HOLIDAY RITES

Rural Retreat Will Echo Memorial Masses.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Over the rise of a hill on Highway 63 about four miles north of Libertyville, one gets his first glimpse of 13 crosses on a little white chapel. Rows of tall poplars flanked by chubby evergreens repeat the outline of the crosses rising from their bases on the chapel roof. As the car approaches, the picture of a Serbian chapel takes form.

On Memorial day Thursday, hundreds of cars will stop along the pebbled circular drive just off the highway. Serbian families will step out, walk thru the iron gates, down the long flagstone path and into the chapel to worship.

First of Three Services.

This is the first of three summer holidays which are observed by services in the chapel for Serbians in the United States and Canada. Other services are held on the 4th of July and Labor day. The public is welcome.

The event is a custom from the old country transplanted to the new. Since Father Dimitri, in charge of the chapel, only came here from Yugo-Slavia before Easter and cannot say more than "good morning" in English, the caretaker's wife, Anna Bosnjak, explained.

"In Yugo-Slavia," she said in broken English, "there were about 18 of these chapels in my district, or as you say here, in my state. Out in the country, you see. On holidays," she continued, adjusting the scarf tied around her head, "the people would come from the cities and towns for services and a picnic. Now we do that here, but not so often."

Several thousand attend the Memorial day services, which are the most popular. About 12 priests take part. The regular liturgy is read from 9 until 1 o'clock, with a special service for the dead.

Priests Taking Part.

Among the priests who will assist Father Dimitri are Bishop Dionisie from Chicago, the Rev. Peter O. Stiyachich from the Church of the Resurrection, 1905 Shiller avenue; the Rev. Dushan Shukletovich, Gary; the Very Rev. George Petrovich, Milwaukee; the Rev. George Milosazljezich, Indiana Harbor; the Rev. Milan Brkich, South Chicago, and the Rev. Zivojin Ristanovich, Chicago.

"St. Sava Monastery, 1925" reads the engraved iron plate on the chapel cornerstone. Bishop Mardary, who is buried in the chapel, was in charge during that year and until his death in 1935. Father Ristanovich, his secretary, took over the work and remained in charge until last winter when he was appointed parochial school inspector for the diocese.

The Serbians donated about $70,000 to pay for the 30 acres of land, the chapel and the landscaping. Originally, the plans included a home for old people and orphans adjoining the chapel. Two buildings were started, but the funds ran out before the home was completed.

Chapel Bells Separate.

One of the most attractive features of the chapel is the landscaping around it. The long path up to the canopy covered entrance is planted with rose and peony bushes, evergreens and poplars. Shrubs divide a double walk. Outside the fence to the south are the two chapel bells protected by a V-shaped roof. Grass is growing thickly over the 100 graves in a small cemetery in the back.

The property extends east across a stream and includes a grove which is used for a picnic ground. Across the highway to the west is a farm house and garden. Father Dimitri resides there with the caretakers, Anna and Tom Bosjnak, and Tom's uncle.

If Father Dimitri had stayed in Europe, today he would be in the army. The government does not excuse monks from service. When he was 12 years old, he started studying to be a priest. Now at 26 he has been selected to build up the chapel and make friends for his church and people in the United States and Canada.

Chapter of Purple Heart to Greet 50 New Members

Fifty new members will be initiated into the Ray Workman chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart Tuesday evening at the Hotel Sherman. They will be installed by Wendell A. Lochbider, national commander. A dinner will be served for members and their families at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

Georgia Honeymoon

Miss Bernice Marie Stenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Stenson, 4164 Lake Shore drive, became the bride of Charles W. Clines on May 18 in Our Lady of the Lake church, Buena avenue and Sheridan road. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Clines, 3637 Janssen avenue. The newlyweds, who are honeymooning in Georgia, will reside at 2558 Fitch avenue.

HO, HUM: NILES CENTER'S NAME UP ONCE MORE

Villagers to Vote June 3 Whether to Change.

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

Niles Center's old trouble over a name again has begun to plague residents who otherwise are good friends. But this time villagers believe it will be settled once and for all Monday, June 3.

Villagers that day will go to their seven polling places and vote on the question, "Should the name of Niles Center be changed?" For the last two years it has caused more arguments than the war, Dizzy Dean, the third term, or the removal of Fountain square in Evanston. For two years or so it has pitted cousin against cousin and village trustee against village trustee.

The suburb is expected to pile up the greatest vote in its 51 year old history. Villagers also will vote on candidates for Cook county judges, but that part of the election is merely incidental. Some 2,500 votes out of 3,600 registrations are expected to be cast on the name issue.

Must Hunt for Name.

If the voters decide to change the name a committee will be appointed to search for a new one. Petitions approving this new name then would be submitted to the village council which in turn would rule on it. If, however, citizens vote no on the change, then Niles Center's troubles on this issue are over for a long time to come.

The war over Niles Center's good [or not so good] name has broken out from time to time ever since real estate men and others decided that more people would move in if the village had a different name. They argue:

1. The name Niles Center sounds like a hick town. It makes you think of farmers hitching up the hay rack and going to market with the eggs.

2. It causes mixups with Niles, another village, and Niles township.

Look at Oshkosh!

Antichange residents sneer at these arguments. "Look at Oshkosh, for a town with a hayseed twang to its name," they say, "and Oshkosh has a population of more than 40,000." Confusion among the three similarly titled localities is at a minimum because Niles Center is the best known of the three, they add.

A committee of name changers last November went to work on a campaign "to change the name by Christmas." And they almost did. After a contest in which villagers submitted 1,097 other choices, the committee sifted down the suggestions to two—Oakton and Ridgeview. A postal card canvass of only those two choices favored Ridgeview.

Then petitions demanding that Niles Center henceforth be known as Ridgeview were submitted to the board of trustees. Eight hundred residents attended at the meeting—one of the largest board meetings ever held in the village. After a couple of hours of wrangling the board voted 4 to 2 against the name Ridgeview, thus retaining the old name—for a while, at least.

DR. E. F. TITTLE TO RESUME HIS PULPIT TODAY

Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church of Evanston, will return to his pulpit for Church School day this morning after an absence of four Sundays. He will preach at 11 o'clock on "What Shall I Do with My Life?"

Elaine Wright directs the junior choir; Elaine De Wolfe, the junior high group, assisted by Grace Whifford, and Sadie Rafferty, the high school choir. Le Roy Wetzel is organist and director of music.

JEWISH PUPILS TO TAKE PART IN ANCIENT PAGEANT

Twenty-five hundred pupils of synagogue schools in the city will take part in the ancient Jewish Pageant of Festivals Sunday morning at the Auditorium theater, Congress street and Wabash avenue.

The symbolism of the Jewish major holidays will be expressed in music, dancing and pageantry. One of the symbolic traditions to be observed is Bikkurim, ancient custom of bringing the first fruits of the harvest.

Instead of actual fruits, children will bring the proceeds from handicraft articles made at the schools and sold to adults. This money, known as "redemption money," will be used to swell the quotas of the Jewish Welfare fund.

North side schools taking part in the program include Anshe Emet schools, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street; Emanuel Congregation Sunday school, 701 Buckingham place; B'nai Zion Hebrew school and Sunday school, 1447 Pratt boulevard, and Ner Tamid Congregation Hebrew and Sunday schools.

Anshe Emet pupils who will appear in scenes of the pageant are Charles Lapin, Ronald Eger, Leonard More, Arline Goldman, Barbara Lans, Rex Wilk and Arthur Ehrmann.

LOYOLA MUSICAL GROUPS TO GIVE CONCERT TODAY

The combined musical organizations of Loyola university will present a concert in tribute to Our Lady of the Way this afternoon on the esplanade of the new student chapel on the Lake Shore campus. Graciano Salvador will direct and his son, Mario, a senior in arts and science, will play the organ.

A feature will be the singing of young Salvador's first published composition for mixed voices entitled "All the Ends of the Earth Have Seen." Other selections will be Schubert's "Omnipotence," Mascagni's "Ave Maria," Hummel's "Alma Virgo," Nevin's "The Rosary," and Rubenstein's "Seraphic Song." Miss Nona Peters and Miss Bertha Floros will be the soloists.

Numbers by the orchestra will include "Bolero," by Ravel, "The Blue Danube," and "Tales from Vienna Woods," by Strauss; "La Comparsa," by Leucoma, and "Moment Musicale," by Schubert. North side students participating include Robert Covington, Lawrence Tholen, Eileen Masterson, Alice Driscoll, Anita Mangbera, and Jennie McGarry.

PIONEER CLUB WOMEN RECALL FRUITFUL YEARS

Devote Many Years to Organization Work.

A gala season for pioneer clubwomen thruout the nation is drawing to its close. In accordance with the golden jubilee program the General Federation of Women's clubs, many north side clubwomen have received medals honoring them for their years of service or length of membership in the club.

Mrs. Charles H. Betts. [J. D. Toloff Photo.]

Two outstanding pioneers are Mrs. Charles H. Betts of Evanston, who was chosen to represent the 10th district, and Mrs. Oscar W. Brecher, 516 Briar place, candidate for state honors from the 9th district.

Mrs. Betts is one of three surviving charter members of the Woman's Club of Evanston. The others are Miss Sarah Dickinson of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. O. Clinton French of Evanston. The club was chartered by 42 women in 1889, with Mrs. Elizabeth Boynton Harbert, the founder, as president.

Protection for Food.

Altho keenly interested in all philanthropic and educational projects, Mrs. Betts believes her most constructive work was done as chairman of the pure foods committee for the state. She campaigned for wrapped bread and for measures forcing grocers to protect food from flies.

"I don't do as much as I used to," she admitted. "We must give the younger ones a chance."

In addition to her work in the Evanston club, Mrs. Betts also was treasurer of the Chicago Woman's club for 10 years, president of the League of Cook County clubs, a member of the Ravenswood Woman's club and active in the women's organizations in the Ravenswood Congregational church.

Besides her club activities, Mrs. Betts reared three children. Her daughter, Mrs. Hugh McCulloch of Evanston, is following in her mother's footsteps in club work.

Was Club President.

Mrs. Betts served a term as president of the Evanston club from 1924 to '26. Those who were on the board of managers with Mrs. Betts and are still members include Mrs. C. J. Ellis, Mrs. W. R. T. Ewen Jr., Mrs. W. C. Fox, Mrs. E. L. Harpham, Mrs. J. M. Stifler.

Mrs. Hugh Beelman, Mrs. Harry Eugene Kelly, Miss Zella Marshall, Mrs. H. S. Camp, Mrs. Arne Oldberg, Mrs. H. S. Philbrick, Mrs. E. L. Middleton, Mrs. Walter D. Steele, Mrs. C. B. Atcheson, Mrs. J. H. Allen, Mrs. Amos Ball, Mrs. C. O. Barnes, Mrs. Alfred R. Bates, Mrs. George N. Beecher and Mrs. Cassius F. Biggert.

"I was born and reared right here on this street," said Mrs. Beecher. "I'm a charter member of the Lake View Woman's club, which was started 47 years ago by a group of teachers.

Life has kept Mrs. Brecher in the hub of Lake View activities. She married a Lake View boy with whom she had gone to school and for 14 years resided in Ravenswood. Then they returned to the home her father had built. He was one of the early residents in this region.

Mrs. Brecher did most of her club work within her group before the district became such an important unit. For 22 years she has served as chairman of the scholarship committee.

At the time of the club's silver anniversary, Mrs. Brecher was one of the old timers who was presented with a diploma making her a life member. Four surviving founders are Mrs. Lela M. McCauley and Mrs. Marion Gates Granger of Chicago and Mrs. Cornelia Dyer Heile and Miss Eleanor Larrison of Evanston.

'BLOSSOM TIME' NEXT ON W-G-N THEATER OF AIR

Miss Claire, Igor Gorin, Bartlett to Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For its third production the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening will present Sigmund Romberg's melodic operetta, "Blossom Time," which is based on the life and work of Franz Schubert.

This performance will bring together three celebrated singers: Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano; Igor Gorin, internationally famous baritone, and Michael Bartlett, the American tenor.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be aired from 9 to 10 p. m. Thursday from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

An audience of specially invited guests who are officials and members of The Tribune Chicagoland Music Festival committee will attend the performance.

First Radio Showing Here.

Chicagoans last witnessed Sigmund Romberg's beautiful operetta in the fall of 1938 when it made its ninth appearance here. The Chicago Theater of the Air's radio version, which is to be directed and produced by William A. Bacher, will be the first broadcast presentation from Chicago.

The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. The same fine dramatic cast, which performed in the two previous Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, including Alice Hill, Olan Soule, Fran Carlon, Willard Waterman, Bret Morrison, Marvin Mueller, Judith Lowry, will play the dramatic rôles.

Miss Claire Sings Mitzl.

Miss Claire will be heard as Mitzl; Gorin will portray Franz Schubert and Bartlett will be cast as Baron Franz Schobar.

Educated at Princeton.

Michael Bartlett's ancestors came to America in colonial times. Born in Massachusetts, he attended Princeton university and began his musical career there with the Triangle club. He decided to make music his life's work upon graduation, and studied in Milan, Italy.

After additional study in Rome, he attracted the attention of the Crown Prince Umberto, Princess Mafalda, and United States Ambassador Henry Fletcher, who sponsored him in many concerts and recitals in Rome, Turin, and Trieste. Bartlett's first big triumph came in the musical movie, "Love Me Forever," in which he was cast opposite Grace Moore. He also was starred in the movie, "Follow Your Heart," with Marion Talley. He has starred in the operettas, "Three Waltzes" and "The Cat and the Fiddle."

Among the guests representing The Tribune Chicagoland Musical Festival committee will be Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director; Fred Miller, supervisor of field events; Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the band and instrumental contests; Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal and choral contests; Prof. Walter A. Stults, president of the Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing; Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumentalists, Chicago public schools; Miss Helen Howe, director of music, Chicago public schools, and Philip Maxwell, music festival director of THE TRIBUNE.

Miss Glatz made her debut at the State Opera in Breslau. She made her American debut with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, and later, as leading contralto of the Salzburg Opera guild, toured the United States and Canada, singing in more than 80 cities.

The Chicago Opera company engaged Miss Glatz to make appearances singing with Kirsten Flagstad. She was reëngaged for the Chicago opera season of last year.

DAY TELLS HOW HE HAPPENED TO LAND IN RIGA

Donald Day, chief of the Baltic bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mutual's Stockholm broadcaster, comes from an old newspaper family with its genesis in Chicago. After a long apprenticeship on American dailies, he went to Europe for a trip.

"In December, 1920," he wrote, "a representative of the soviet government in New York invited me to go to Russia with him; he was being deported. I got as far as Riga only to find that Moscow had changed its mind. I received a telegram telling me I would not be permitted in Russia."

"'All right,' "I said, 'I will stay here.'"

And there he has been for THE TRIBUNE, almost continuously since 1921.

COL. KERWOOD NAMED MUTUAL AVIATION EXPERT

Col. Charles W. Kerwood, has joined Mutual's war coverage staff as regular aviation news analyst. Col. Kerwood had done two previous special broadcasts for Mutual, but his new position finds him permanently joining Maj. Leonard H. Mason and Paul Schubert, army and navy analysts, respectively, thus completing a staff trio of land, sea, and air.

Col. Kerwood flew with the Lafayette corps in France, was shot down behind the lines and finally escaped. He has been an aeronautical engineer and chief test pilot for the Franco-Rumanian lines, a colonel commanding the Greek air forces, and has seen air action in northern Africa. He is a member of the Caterpillar club and has served on the United States aeronautical advisory committe for aircraft safety.

School cheers will be led by Bernie Susman, Allen Trester, Jerome Marks, and Richard Cherney.

Name More to Honor Roll.

Other musical numbers will be "Sleep Noble Hearts" by Mendelssohn, a special tribute to Memorial day, and "Night Has a Thousand Eyes," composed by Noble Cain.

Five more Chicago and Chicagoland students will be named to the Citizens of Tomorrow Honor Roll. Accomplishments of these boys and girls will be told by Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE staff, who is the entertainment's "principal" and master of ceremonies.

SULLIVAN HIGH DRILL TEAM IS DECLARED BEST

Takes Championship of 6th Corps Area.

High school drill championship of the 6th corps area was won by the Sullivan High school R. O. T. C. crack platoon, representing the Chicago high schools, recently at Madison, Wis. The team was awarded a silver plaque and each member received a medal. The team's average score was slightly over 98 points out of 100.

Ripon college, Ripon, Wis., won the senior division, and St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis., the military academy division.

Called Best Drilled.

The competition was sponsored by the Wisconsin chapter of the Reserve Officers' association and was judged by Lieut. Col. Oliver Hess, stationed with the organized reserves at Racine, Wis. Lieut. Col. Hess later stated that the Sullivan unit was the "best drill team ever to perform on a Wisconsin field."

Col. John S. Sullivan, in charge of civilian component affairs for this area, also praised the team, as well as Sergt. Anthony Gristhus, military instructor at the school and coach of the team.

Cadet First Lieutenant William Powers commanded the tri-state winning team, which was made up of the following cadets: Robert Luce, Robert Keyes, James Friss, Don Koch, Edward Graf, Don Reynolds, Robert Lambertson, Robert Flint, Phil Jaynes, Rollin Etter, Westley Ruther.

Others on Team.

Martin Rubenstein, Tom Traeumer, John McCarthy, Tom Ennis, Howard Contarsy, Lawrence Neikrug, Dan Fulton, Phil King, Fred Yonkers, Leonard Wolf, Elmer Miller, Ed Lund, Don Lyons, Frank Peterson, John Peterson, Laurence Helper, Irwin Gould, and Robert Cederburg.

Second place among the high schools went to the Evanston Township High team, commanded by Capt. Thomas Smith. Its average was slightly under 98 points. Other teams which made good showings were from the Beloit, Wis., and Waukegan high schools.

Concert by Children.

The children's a cappella choir of Tabor Lutheran school, will give a program this evening in Tabor church, Sunnyside and Drake avenues, under the direction of John G. Rieck.

Other members of the committee include Mrs. E. P. Byrnes Jr., Mrs. Phillip J. Clark Jr., Mrs. Daniel A. Cullinan, Mrs. T. B. Hale, Mrs. George A. Han, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Mrs. T. J. Kilroy, Mrs. James L. Masterson, Mrs. Walter W. Meso, Mrs. F. P. McInerney, Mrs. J. P. Nolan, Mrs. John V. McCormick, Mrs. R. T. Scully, Mrs. Irwin K. Stevenson, and Mrs. S. C. Parker.

LAKE VIEW HIGH HAS 35% OF BOYS IN R. O. T. C. UNIT

Leads All City Schools; Morgan Park Second.

Thirty-five per cent of the boys at Lake View High school are members of the R. O. T. C. regiment, a survey last week revealed. This percentage is greater than in any other public school unit in the city, the lowest enrollment being 9.3 per cent.

There are 476 students taking military training at the school out of a masculine enrollment of 1,358. Sergt. Albert D. Lee, military instructor at the school since 1920, attributes the high percentage to the fact that military training has been given at Lake View as long as at any other school in Chicago, and that during this time the R. O. T. C. unit has become influential in many phases of school life, including the fire guard, student government, and the police patrol.

Credits Sergt. Lee.

Capt. E. F. Hocke, who is director of physical education at the school, gives credit to Sergt. Lee for the high rating. Capt. Hocke was military instructor at the school for several years prior to 1920, when the existing R. O. T. C. was provided for in the National Defense act.

"The boys all like him and he likes them; those are the main things," Capt. Hocke said.

Morgan Park High school ranks second in percentage, with 301 out of 1,063 boys taking military training—or about 30 per cent. Other high ranking schools are Sullivan, 28 per cent; Amundsen, 27 per cent; Foreman, 21 per cent; Von Steuben, 21 per cent, and Schurz, 16.9 per cent, notwithstanding the fact that freshmen are not enrolled.

Other Schools' Rating.

The other schools follow in this order: Du Sable, Fenger, Hirsch, Lindblom, Harper, Hyde Park, Roosevelt, Senn, Austin, Lane, Steinmetz, Bowen, Waller, Englewood, Kelly, Tilden, Calumet, Crane, Harrison, and Marshall.

Due to its high percentage, the Lake View unit is third in the city in size, altho in number of boys enrolled the school ranks 20th out of the 27 schools. Tho the largest unit, which is at Lane Tech, lists 1,059 cadets, this comprises only 14.6 per cent of the student body.

Taking the Chicago high schools as a whole, there are 9,203 boys out of 58,613 enrolled in military training.

POST KOLLEGE KLUB FESTIVAL DUE WEDNESDAY

The Post Kollege Klub of Evanston will hold its "Finale Festival" on Wednesday night in the Great hall of the First Methodist church. The party will be an open house for all north shore young people of post college age. George Goettsche, 1440 Birchwood avenue, vice president of the club, is general chairman of arrangements. Frank McKinney, invitations chairman, is contacting local churches and other young people's groups as well as the more than 500 club members. Display posters and publicity are being handled by Miss Ruth Johnson and Miss Phyllis Johnson.

Drastic Modernization in City

The "new" home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Booth at 1721 West 100th place. For it is a new home, now in the heyday of its restored youth. The modernization was drastic, with many structural changes inside and out. The artistic and the practical have been combined thruout, and the result—an eminently satisfying, handsome home.

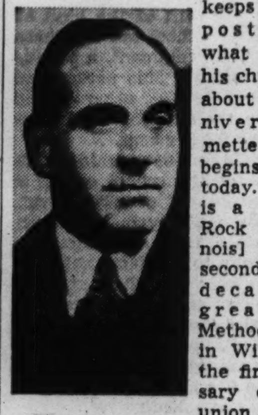
News and Queries Within and Without the Church —A Religious Voice of the People— Edited by the Rev. John Evans

Walter N. Sutherland, a member of Wilmette Methodist church, who keeps newspapers posted about what goes on in his church, writes about a triple anniversary Wilmette Methodist begins observing today. The first is a century of Rock River [Illinois] Methodism, second, the first decade of the great Gothic Methodist church in Wilmette and the first anniversary of the reunion of three main branches of the American Methodist church.



Dr. Erskine Jeffords.

Now the pastor, the Rev. Erskine Jeffords, looked at those three anniversaries—100, 10 and 1—and put them together to make 111. So what? Among other things, there will be 111 new members received a week from today as an anniversary token. These 111 new members will also be guests at a reception this afternoon.

Then, on Tuesday night there will be a banquet with Dr. Richard C. Raines of Minneapolis, Minn., the main speaker. Tickets are $1.11. Other speakers include Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Chicago area, and Dr. Horace Greeley Smith, president of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, who was pastor of the Wilmette parish when the new church was built a decade ago.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C., who retired two weeks ago as senior bishop of the church, will be the anniversary preacher next Sunday morning.

When the name of Dr. Raines is mentioned across the nation more and more frequently, another younger pastor comes to mind who, like Raines [all Cornell, Ia., college alumni call him Dick] came from a small denominational college and also built a city congregation that overflowed his church twice or more each Sunday morning.

The other is the Rev. Dr. Otterbein of North Austin United Lutheran church, Mason and Le Moyne avenues. Dr. Otterbein, now on a six month leave from North Austin church while recovering from illness, is a Carthage college alumnus. Dick Raines is 42 years old; Dr. Otterbein is 50. The Raines church in Minneapolis, Hennepin Avenue Methodist, was a great institution when Raines took charge in 1930. When Dr. Otterbein began at North Austin in 1920, there were 50 members and no church. Today each has a constituency in excess of 5,000—accredited the largest in their denominations.

Observation: These men both preach the gospel of Christian salvation on a personal basis, and the personal responsibility of the individual to God.

ARTS FESTIVAL WILL BE HELD BY ANSHE EMET

Orchestra and Choir to Be on Program.

Two hundred men and women will take part in an arts festival to be held at 8:15 o'clock this evening in Anshe Emet synagogue, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street. The public is invited to attend the festival, which will feature music by a symphony orchestra and a choir, a play and an exhibit of paintings and photographs.

Sol Harrison is chairman, assisted by Joseph Schwartz, co-chairman, Rabbi Solomon Goldman, spiritual adviser, and Benjamin Kahn, assistant rabbi. The 90 piece orchestra will be conducted by Irving R. Letchinger. The musical selections will be climaxed with the first Chicago performance of "The Emek," a Palestine tone poem composed by Mark Lavry of the Palestine Symphony orchestra.

The choir of 60 voices and the Players' group will combine to present the comedy, "200,000," written by Sholom Aleichem, translated from the Yiddish by Davida Barzel Danish, and arranged as a play by Ben Aronin. Miss Beulah Margolis will direct the players. The art display will include paintings by leading Jewish artists in Chicago such as Todros Geller, A. Raymond Katz, and Dr. Max Thorek.

B'nai B'rith.

The earning fund dinner dance of the Lake View Women's auxiliary No. 214 will be held at 6 o'clock this evening in the Palmer house. Mrs. Maurice A. Harvis is dance chairman, assisted by Mrs. Albert Gorbach and Mrs. William Cass, ad book co-chairmen; Mrs. Seymour Perline and Mrs. Harry Goldberg, arrangement co-chairmen, and Mabelle Shlensky, publicity chairman. Rhoda Nedwick is president.

Jewish Youth Leagues.

Members of the leagues in Chicago High schools will close their activities with a spring frolic Saturday evening in the community hall of Anshe Emet synagogue, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street. Miss Vivian Touff, a member of the Senn league, is general chairman.

Other north siders on the arrangement committee are Ruth Kramer and Lila Fritzshall, co-chairmen for the Senn, Sullivan, and Lane leagues, assisted by Sam Berger, Jack Beiman, and Sally Weber.

Sax Memorial Aid.

The Aid society, affiliated with Rest Haven, will meet Tuesday afternoon in the Sheridan Beach hotel, 7301 Sheridan road. After election of officers, members will play bridge and mah jongg. Mrs. Benjamin Twery is president.

OLD BUNGALOW GROWS INTO HOME OF EIGHT ROOMS

Roof Lifted to Provide Upstairs Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth first looked at the little bungalow they later purchased at 1721 West 100th place, and deliberated on purchase, site, costs of renovation, and so on, the original bungalow, judging from pictures of it and from Mrs. Booth's description, looked very much like the "last of pea time." It was a far from seductive little gray bungalow, not doing justice to itself or its site in a nice residential block in Beverly Hills.

However, after due consideration, Mr. and Mrs. Booth decided to make the investment. They felt that modernization could redeem it and that things could be done for it to make it a home with "youth on the prow and pleasure at the helm."

And things were done for it! Here's how:

The original bungalow had a large front porch and entrance door which opened directly into a squarish living room, small dark bedrooms, an ageing dining room and kitchen, and an outmoded bathroom.

Old Porch Ripped Off.

The porch was ripped off, the layout on the first floor changed in several ways, the roof lifted, and three new bedrooms and a large bathroom built on the second floor.

Now the house has eight rooms, a bath and a powder room, a sunny breakfast room opening from the kitchen and paneled in pine; and, besides a wealth of storage space, a small study room for Mr. Booth on the first floor.

No doubt but that this new home which has stepped into the shoes of the old one has been very skilfully altered. The enlargement of the rooms and the change in layout have been adroitly and capably handled.

This newborn home has exterior walls of California redwood siding, painted white and heavily insulated. The entrance was moved to the side of the house, with a wall of rugged stone. When the roof was raised to permit the second floor bedrooms and bath, a new front gable and dormers were built.

Closet Near Entrance.

The main entrance to the house is now directly into a compact, small hallway, with oval window at left, a guest closet, door chimes, and gayly flowered, light blue wall paper.

The living room is at the right and the fireplace wall on the opposite side is an arresting feature. Where once was a dejected small brick fireplace with stained glass windows there is now a wide fireplace painted white, with a stunning black marble facing and mirror above to the ceiling. The stained glass windows were covered with clapboards, and built-in bookcases substituted.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 27.

It is time to turn water into the tropical lily pool to permit it to warm up a bit. The boxes should be in place and filled with rich soil. Fill the pool until the water level is slightly below the top of the boxes to permit planting about June 1. Plant lilies one plant to a box. Good, dependable varieties are August Koch, pink pearl, and Chicago. Giant varieties include Mrs. Edward Whitaker, Gen. Pershing, Mrs. Pring, O'Mara, and others. Many kinds of hardy lilies are available. Plants to supplement the lilies and add interest where there is sufficient room in the pool include the water hyacinth, water poppy, parrot's feather, cat tail, floating heart, paper reed or papyrus, and many others. Plants to grow along the pool margin include the Siberian iris, yellow flag, marshmallow, and Japanese iris. Put goldfish in the pool and the mosquitoes will not have a chance.

Tuesday, May 28.

Plant cannas. Do not cut the grass too short—about 1½ inches is the right height for a bluegrass lawn. Water peonies when in bud to obtain high grade flowers. Prune goldenbells after they finish flowering. Repot the poinsettia, cut back the stems if necessary, and plunge in the garden as soon as the weather is settled. Examine each day and water if dry. Spray perennials to prevent disease, such as mildew. Keep after the weeds at all times. Watch for aphids on sweet peas. Keep all flowers picked each day or remove withered blooms to prevent seed from forming.

Wednesday, May 29.

Plant out all bedding plants, such as geraniums. If the plants were carried over during winter cut them back before planting out of doors. Try different varieties of geraniums, for they are always delightful. Sow castor beans as screens, for they are quite tropical in appearance and grow rapidly. The elephant ear grows from a bulb and does well. Give it plenty of water and food and the leaves will grow very large. In congested areas of the city sow four o'clocks, for they thrive under most conditions. They make a nice hedge. Plant a few tiger flowers; also montbretias, which look something like gladioli. Tuberoses are always interesting and their chalk whiteness and penetrating fragrance are particularly desirable.

Thursday, May 30.

Stake peonies before they grow out of bounds. Special wire frames may be purchased. Spray roses for black spot and mildew and dust hollyhocks, phlox, and delphinium with sulphur. Spray the hawthorn and Virginia creeper with bordeaux for leaf spot. Use it on lilies for blight.

Friday, May 31.

When setting out plants always firm the soil around the roots. Shade the plants for a day or two until they have somewhat recovered from the disturbance of moving. Be sure to apply a complete plant food to all plants that are grown in poor soil. Zinnias are among the most dependable annuals and the seed still can be sown with excellent results, altho the flowers will be late. They like hot weather.

Saturday, June 1.

Give hardy chrysanthemums a feeding of complete, balanced food, using a tablespoonful to the square foot about the plants. Work the material into the soil and water. Roses can be mulched with peat moss if decayed manure is not available. Plant food can be put on top of the peat and watered in.

PLAN MEMORIAL RITES FOR WAR DEAD

CHIEF OF ARMY AREA TO AWARD CADET COLORS

Feature of R. O. T. C. Review June 4.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area, has accepted the invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to present colors to Chicago R. O. T. C. units which place first and second in federal inspections to be completed tomorrow. The presentation in Tribune Square June 4, will climax the annual Cadet day parade on Michigan avenue, and will immediately precede the unveiling of the Nathan Hale statue which is to stand between The Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, also will speak briefly.

Lieut. Gen. Ford.

The program will be heard on W-G-N from 1:15 to 1:45 o'clock.

The American flags are given annually by THE TRIBUNE to encourage the Chicago R. O. T. C. to greater achievement in citizenship, leadership, courtesy, neatness, and discipline. Last year's first and second place winners were Tilden and Crane Technical High schools, respectively.

Two Units in Ceremony.

The parade up Michigan avenue is scheduled to begin at 11:45 o'clock at Balbo avenue, and 26 school units will disperse at Randolph street. The two winning schools, numbering about 500 cadets, will march on to Tribune Square, where the ceremonies are to begin at 1:15 o'clock.

After the flag presentation Dr. William Warren Sweet, professor of American church history at the University of Chicago, will give the address dedicating the statue of Nathan Hale, which will be unveiled by cadet commanders of the two school military groups.

The statue is a duplicate of the well known one at Yale university, from which Capt. Hale was graduated in 1773, three years before he was hanged by the British troops as a spy.

Choices Not Yet Made.

Which two schools will take part in this patriotic ceremony will not be known until several days before the parade. Maj. Norman M. Nelsen, who is conducting the inspections, said that after the final inspections tomorrow his report must be drawn up, sealed, and approved by war department officials in Washington before it is released thru the 6th corps area headquarters here.

Maj. Nelsen expressed astonishment at the excellent performance of the units he has already inspected.

"The enthusiasm and proficiency evident in the schools I have seen is largely due to coöperation offered by the school authorities," he said.

He pointed out that R. O. T. C. regulations call for three hours weekly of training for each cadet, but that in Chicago schools at least five is given. In most instances the R. O. T. C. occupies a special position with regard to student activities such as the fire guard and police patrol.

The only schools which remain to be inspected are Amundsen and Lake View. The Amundsen unit will be examined tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in Winnemac park, Damen and Foster avenues; and the Lake View unit at 1:15 o'clock in Welles park, Montrose and Western avenues.

108th Quartermaster Unit to Give Mess Kit Dinner

A dinner, cooked on army field ranges and served in mess kits, will be held Saturday evening, June 1, by Company B, 108th Quartermaster regiment, Illinois National Guard, in the armory at 3400 North Western avenue. There will be a display of military equipment and two floor shows savoring of the military atmosphere. Dinner is to be served at 8 o'clock. The company is commanded by Capt. F. Grant Swafford. The public is invited.

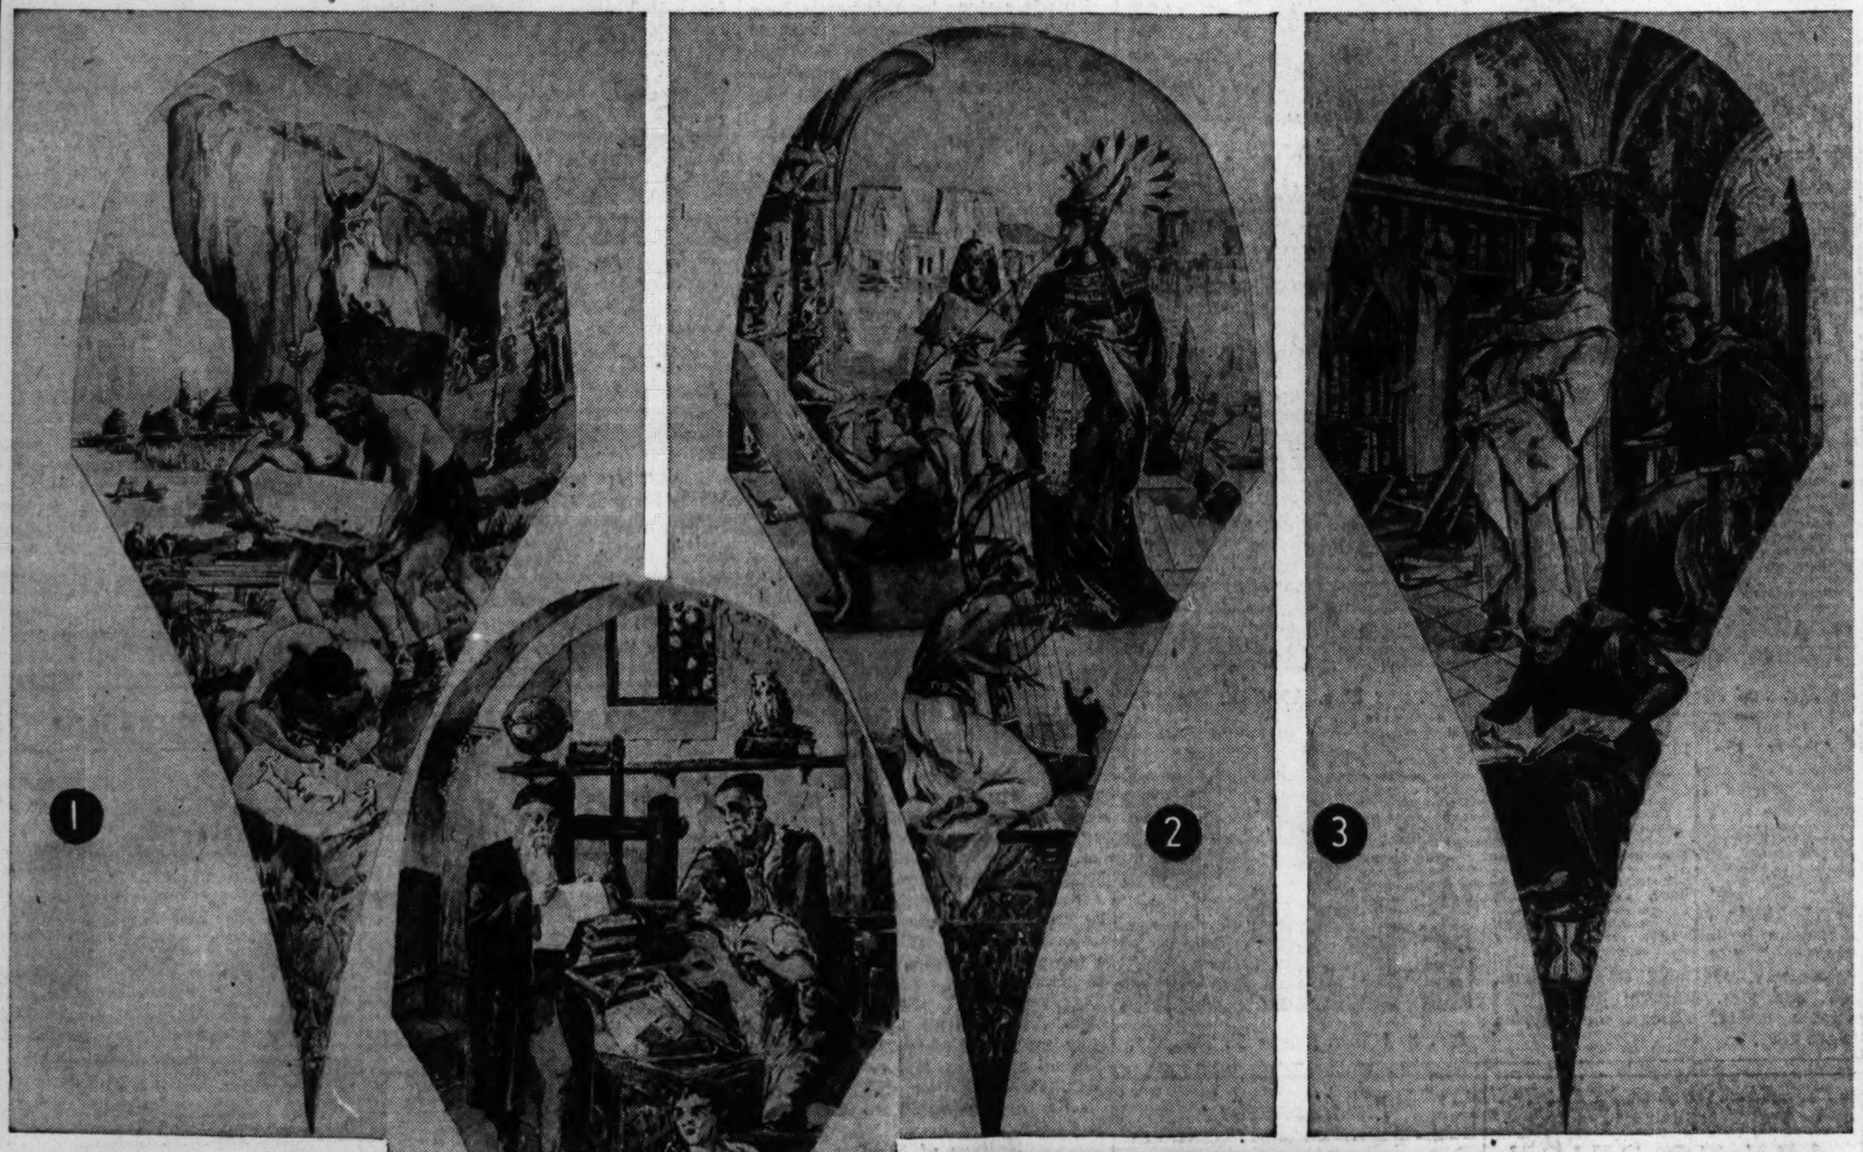
Chapter of Purple Heart to Greet 50 New Members

Fifty new members will be initiated into the Ray Workman chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart Tuesday evening at the Hotel Sherman. They will be installed by Wendell A. Lochbider, national commander. A dinner will be served for members and their families at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. Herbert J. Oke is commander of the chapter.

Cantor Will Give Recital of Religious Music Tonight

Cantor Moishe Oysher will give a recital of religious music tonight in the Austria Calicia temple, Hirsch street and California avenue. Cantor Oysher has appeared in several Yiddish films, including "Cantor's Son," The Singing Blacksmith," and "Overture to Glory."

Murals at Schurz High Tell the Story of Printed Word



In four heroic murals 32 feet high and 14 feet wide students at Schurz High school have told the story of the evolution of the printed word. Last week the first of the huge canvases was hung in the library. Others will be placed before June 11. Scene 1 depicts the earliest known form of writing, the pictographs of the stone age. Scene 2 illustrates the first important advance to the stone hieroglyphs and papyrus scrolls of the Egyptians and other early eastern Mediterranean civilizations. Manuscripts and copy books of the medieval monks are shown in panel 3. Gutenberg's first printing press, invented 500 years ago, is represented in panel 4. Thirty-one students working under the direction of Gustave Brand and the staff of art teachers completed the panels and 27 portraits in eight weeks. In the picture Mr. Brand puts a perfecting stroke on a student's work. The young artists are, left to right (standing), Shirle De Volld, Eleanor Klak, Vally Ringstmeyer, and Marilyn Kruty; (seated) Helen Dachs, Marion Mirguet, Rena Zampa, and Evelyn Nitschke.

WHEN curious friends ask Maximilian E. Huhnke why he has a coin mounted in a frame hanging on his office wall he tells them this story: Fifteen years ago he was watching a steam shovel excavating the basement for a new home in Portage Park. In one of the lumps of clay that rolled to his feet, he saw something that glittered. He picked it up, cleaned it, discovered that it was a French "dix centimes" piece minted in 1854. Convinced that it was dropped by an early traveler, he determined to keep the coin as a relic of the past. That determination has not been shaken, he says, by offers of as much as $15 from numismatists. His office is at 3622 Fullerton avenue,

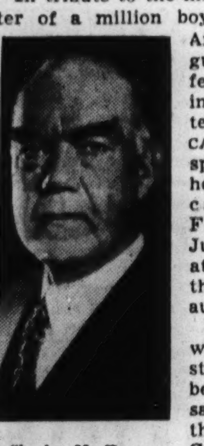
BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

[PICTURE ON PAGE 5.]

In tribute to the more than a quarter of a million boys and girls of America who safeguard the lives of fellow pupils during the school term, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will sponsor a half hour radio broadcast on W-G-N Friday night, June 7, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the new W-G-N audience studio.



Charles M. Hayes.

Special guests will be 600 outstanding members of the school safety patrols of the Chicago and Cook county schools, founded by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Mr. Hayes will be the principal speaker on the program.

The entertainment will feature Harold Stokes and his orchestra. Novelty acts especially appealing to young America will punctuate the broadcast. A special tribute will be paid to five lads who have been awarded distinguished service medals by the Chicago Motor club. They are Victor McElhose [La Vergne school] of Berwyn, David Velen [Lawson school], 1256 South Homan avenue, and Stanley Burmeister [Whittier school], 1900 West 23d street, both of Chicago; John Edwards, and Donald Banks of Danville and Quincy, Ill., respectively.

Each Saved a Life.

Shooters Join in Move for Home Defense

Eighteen of the northwest side's leading sportsmen attended a meeting in Hotel Sherman last week where plans were drafted for the organization of a home defense corps to be called the Sportsmen's Defense reserve. The reserve will function as a civilian army to protect homes and cities in the event of a national emergency.

The purpose in organizing American marksmen was explained by Walter Peacock, veteran hunter and a leader in shooting organizations in Chicago, who has been appointed chairman of the organizing committee.

Seek 7 Million Members.

"Recent developments in the European war, especially in the use of parachute troops, has awakened American sportsmen to the vital need for just such an organization as this," he said. "We want to bring together in one vast civilian army the 7,500,000 club marksmen who will form an immensely powerful third line of defense for America.

"This reserve will not be a war mongering body, seeking to embroil the country in any international struggle. It will be a purely civilian organization devoted to the inner defense of the nation."

Those from the northwest side helping to organize the reserve are: Charles R. Wallace, 5705 North Austin avenue; Lambert Kuffel, 5138 Wrightwood avenue, Evanston Gun club; F. W. Kullas, 1935 North Spaulding avenue; B. E. Harrington, 1731 North Meade avenue, Hawthorne Hunting and Fishing club; Alex Dombrowski, 5220 George street.

Pupils' Murals Adorn Schurz Library Walls

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

Students at Carl Schurz High school last week finished the largest special art project ever attempted in Chicago's public schools. The first of four heroic mural paintings depicting the development of the written word was hung in the school library. Portraits of 27 men and women who have contributed to education have already been set in a frieze around the room, and the three other murals are finished and ready to be placed.

Far from amateurish daubs, the huge canvases are painted with the precision of line and symmetry of composition, the brilliance of color and careful choice of subject that distinguishes masterpieces.

Director Lauds Work.

In January, when the project was proposed to Miss Elizabeth Robertson, director of art for the board of education, she said she could not see how it could be done. Last week she described the work as "magnificent—probably the finest contribution to art education in the high schools since it was added to the curriculum."

Appraisers of art values said similar paintings could not be produced for less than $20,000. The cost to Schurz is nothing more than the cost of canvas and paints plus the expense of hanging and other mechanical work which must be done by union labor.

Three factors contributed to the success of the work. The first was the salesmanship of a high school principal, Albert G. Bauersfeld. The second was the wisdom, genius, and generosity of one of Chicago's foremost artists, Gustave E. Brand. The third was the enthusiasm, energy, and talent of a group of student artists and their teachers.

Three Story Room.

It was Mr. Bauersfeld who conceived the idea of decorating the walls of the library. The room is square, three stories high, and surmounted by a domelike roof set with skylights. Visiting school inspectors have termed it the most beautiful high school library in the state.

The complicated architectural form of the roof left spandrels, triangular shaped spaces, in each corner. It was these that Mr. Bauersfeld hoped to cover with the murals. He approached his friend, Mr. Brand, who had recently retired from offices as city treasurer, and outlined the problem. The 78 year old artist was enthusiastic and offered to contribute his time and talent to the project.

The next step was to sell the idea to Superintendent William H. Johnson and the board of education. By the end of last January the necessary approval was won and the way was clear for the project to begin.

Students Select Themes.

Since Mr. Brand wished the students to make the principal contributions to the work, they were invited to submit appropriate themes for the murals. The two generally adjudged best were the development of the written word and portraits of great contributors to learning and education. Enthusiasm for the work by this time was so great that it was decided to use the first in the murals and the second in a frieze.

A competition for the best mural designs illustrating the themes was organized and the sketches of Rena Zampa, a senior, won first place. Second, third, and fourth places were won by Donald St. Peter, Rhoda Arenson, and Evelyn Nischke. Mr. Brand supplied the cash prizes.

Eight weeks ago the work was ready to begin. The balcony of the gymnasium, amply supplied with natural light, was converted into a huge studio. The canvases, 32 feet high and 14 feet wide, were stretched on wooden frames—four of them strung across the room. Designs finished on a smaller scale were sketched in charcoal on the canvas.

Give Up Vacation.

Behind them on the tiers of seats smaller easels were set up for the 27 portraits. The hours for the 31 students ran from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 6 o'clock whenever they were free from other classes. "Papa" Brand, as he was affectionately called, kept those hours every day. Not one stopped for spring vacation. The excitement of creation was upon them. Girls in gay smocks and boys in paint daubed suits made great progress that week.

The work of supervision was enormous. None of the students had ever worked in oils. Few had done anything better than cardboard posters. Now they were painting in the manner of the masters. Some afternoons work went on simultaneously on the four murals and several portraits. Papa Brand, as eager in his enthusiasm as his co-workers, went up and down the ladders for hours—always ready with advice and a skilful brush stroke on the difficult details.

He was inspired by their enthusiasm, by the budding talent he found in some of them. They were inspired by the genius that produced the murals in the Auditorium theater in Chicago and in the Boston public library. Some of them remembered his great panorama, "Pantheon de la Guerre," which he had painted for the French government and exhibited at the Century of Progress.

Mrs. Brand Sits In.

At times the painting sessions were made lively by the vivacious wit of Mrs. Brand, who came to watch and talk and joke with the students. Teachers said the makeshift studio had the informal atmosphere of camaraderie and enthusiasm they had read

STORY ABOUT A BUSY YOUNG MAN.

Last Sunday while out riding with my family I was introduced to a new branch of the county highway police. Southbound on Cumberland road we were halted by a pileup of traffic at the Belmont avenue intersection. Cars were waiting two abreast for a quarter mile north of the crossing and crept forward at long intervals.

When we finally reached Belmont we found an ice cream vendor, attired in his white uniform and Sam Browne belt, valiantly trying to sort out traffic and sell his wares at the same time. Perhaps traffic signals or a double stop at the intersection could save the ice cream men for their other duties. Belmont traffic now hasn't a chance, for Cumberland is the preferential highway. P. W.

FLOWERS FOR INDIAN GRAVES.

If you live on the northwest side very long you can't escape hearing rumors about an old, almost forgotten, Indian burying ground near the Des Plaines river and Irving Park road. I expect it is the last resting place of some of the tribe of old Chief Robertson, friendly red men who gave frequent assistance to the early settlers in Chicago. If these graves may be found I would like to suggest that some veterans' organization or civic club remember them next Thursday when flowers are taken to cemeteries thruout Chicago. Those early friends deserve a few blossoms. I. A. W.

PRAISE FOR MR. McBRIDE.

What Chicago needs, and sorely needs, is more "Tad G. McBride."

Your article in last week's paper was indeed a masterpiece. R. T. O'KEEFE.

[Note—Mr. McBride contrasted conditions on the northwest side, which has no superhighway, with plans for further improvement of the outer drives.]

ARMY OF 50 MAPS BATTLE AGAINST 100,000 FOEMEN

Food Blockade Is First Major Strategy.

It is estimated that Logan square is the home of 100,000 rats. It is also the home of 50 Lions. The rats, or their ancestors, have been there since the first settler built a cabin in the northwest side community. The Lions are comparative newcomers, having arrived only 15 years ago.

Relations between the two have been unfriendly but not actively hostile until now. Last week, however, the Lions had resived that the rats must go despite their prior rights. Battle lines were drawn—50 Lions on one side and 100,000 rats on the other. And frankly, the Lions felt need for reënforcements.

List Charges Against Rats.

It would take, they thought, more than a handful of Lions, even tho they have the courage of the king of beasts, to defeat an enemy that can gnaw thru concrete floors, undermine foundations so that buildings fall, kill cats and dogs by clever mass maneuvers, enter houses and bite babies, and reproduce himself 12 times over in the short space of three weeks. [Evidence of these facts is in the files of James Curtis, Pied Piper of the Logan Square Lions club and chief statistician of the Rat Research bureau.]

So tomorrow night the Lions will open a recruiting station in the Chicago Norske club, 2350 North Kedzie boulevard. Every interested private person and all the civic and service organizations on the northwest side have been invited to attend the meeting. They will see a movie illuminating the habits of the rat. They will hear the cold words of a scientist, Dr. Royal F. Fitsch, describing how it may be exterminated. And they will hear fiery pep talks by Carl F. Rank, president of the Lions club, and Mr. Curtis.

First Drive Mapped.

Then with the army formed the battle will begin. The first tactics, said Mr. Curtis, will aim at cutting off the enemy's source of supplies. Up and down thru the alleys of the 33d ward scouts from Ward Superintendent Kenneth Tobin's office will go finding the places where improperly protected refuse serves rats with choice eatables.

Householders will be warned to provide ratproof garbage containers in conformity with the law. They will be subjected to a steady barrage of cleanup, antirat propaganda turned out by young authors in the 12 elementary schools and one high school of the community who will be given prizes for their best efforts.

After a siege which will last until next September, generals in the Lions army expect to mop up the feeble and dwindling ranks of the rats with a three day drive. At that time all householders will be asked to join in a poisoning campaign. Pets will be penned up during the big drive. Homes of the starving rodents will be filled with poisoned food. Chemicals are expected to win the war for the Lions.

Leaders in Army.

Those assisting Mr. Curtis in directing the forces of the attackers are Hilton A. Moberg, Raymond L. Donahue, Edward C. Sternman, Dr. Eric Tavs, Dr. E. N. Johnson, and Carl Lundsgaard.

Coöperating organizations are the Kiwanis club, Men's club, Community council, Social and Athletic club, Booster's club, and Business Men's association from Logan Square, the Lakeview Lions club, the Triangle Lions club, the Northwest Lions club, the Fullerton Avenue Business Men's association, the Elston-Belmont-California Business Men's association, the Central Lions club, the Episcopal Church of the Advent, and St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church.

JEWISH PAGEANT IS SYMBOL OF FRUIT HARVEST

The color, music, and poetry of Old World festivals will be paraded across the stage of the Auditorium theater next Sunday morning. More than 300 boys and girls from Jewish schools and a chorus of 60 adults will participate in the pageant of festivals or Hag Ha-Bikkurim, an ancient holiday celebrating the gathering of the first fruits of the harvest.

Group dances, processionals, dramatic pantomine, and parades of floats will review the customs of the major holidays, Sukkot, Pesah, and Shabuot. Ben Aronin will direct the production with the assistance of Hyman Reznick, Nathan Vizonsky, and Todros Geller. I. B. Rappoport, supervisor of the board of Jewish Education, is general chairman of the festival.

Northwest side schools which will be represented at the festival are Albany Park Hebrew, Temple Beth Israel Hebrew, Atereth Zion Hebrew, Talmud Torah Jabneh, Humboldt Boulevard Temple Hebrew, and Logan Square Congregation Hebrew.

STORY IN THIS FOR 1940 BEVY OF JUNE BRIDES

Ten Couples Will Note Long Wedded Life.

This is a story for this year's June brides. It is a success story with 10 northwest side couples as the principal characters. It is a testimonial to the kind of domestic happiness that never makes headlines.

River Grove Depositors Receive 10 Pct.

Some 7,400 depositors of three more closed state banks in northwestern Chicago and Cook county received an additional $39,700 in refunds during the first quarter of 1940.

This is shown in statements issued by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett last week, showing the condition of the remaining group of closed banks as of last March 31. Similar figures for other banks in the area were printed in these columns recently.

The state auditor's figures are based in the main on reports made to him periodically by Charles H. Albers, general receiver for all except two of the 130 state banks in Cook county that still remain in receivership.

The banks that made new repayments last quarter, and the amount each returned are:

Second Humboldt State bank, 5 per cent or $21,000; State Bank of River Grove, 10 per cent or $3,200, and West City Trust and Savings bank, 5 per cent or $15,500.

Here are summarized new statements for the final group of northwest side and northwest suburban banks, with the best available estimates of the future outlook for depositors:

SECOND HUMBOLDT STATE BANK—Total receipts, $391,206. Paid on prior claims, $156,833. Paid depositors, $126,715 or 30 per cent. Costs: receivers, $3,980; legal, $14,285; clerical, $25,964; interest, $976; advanced to protect assets, $40,234, with $43,162 refunded. Cash, $22,217. There may be 5 per cent more eventually.

SECOND NORTHWESTERN STATE BANK—Total receipts, $2,263,816. Paid on prior claims, $634,081. Paid depositors, $1,030,444 or 55 per cent. Costs: receivers, $12,980; legal, $59,410; clerical, $130,211; interest, $7,878; advanced to protect assets, $240,769, with $235,069 refunded. Cash, $62,746. Estimates indicated another 5 to 10 per cent before the receivership ends.

SERVICE STATE BANK—Total receipts, $426,738. Paid on prior claims, $242,160. Paid depositors, $53,595 or 17 per cent. Costs: receivers, $4,968; legal, $17,355; clerical, $42,277; interest, $1; advanced to protect assets, $55,160, with $51,066 refunded. Cash, $11,218. Indications point to a small final return.

STATE BANK OF FRANKLIN PARK—Total receipts, $155,788. Paid on prior claims, $94,284. Paid depositors, $6,777 or 5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $410; legal, $3,092; clerical, $13,717; interest, $10,118; advanced to protect assets, $25,744, with $24,534 refunded. Cash, $1,643. There may possibly be a small additional disbursement some day.

STATE BANK OF PALATINE—Total receipts, $384,664. Paid on prior claims, $97,428. Paid depositors, $48,870 or 37 per cent. Costs: receivers, $411; legal, $8,425; clerical, $24,416; interest, $8,742; advanced to protect assets, $112,629, with $118,084 refunded. Cash, $12,179. The next distribution of 5 per cent or perhaps more will probably be the final one.

STATE BANK OF RIVER GROVE—Total receipts, $99,587. Paid on prior claims, $35,692. Paid depositors, $11,938 or 30 per cent. Costs: receivers, $1,515; legal, $6,721; clerical, $11,300; interest, $4,252; advanced to protect assets, $20,241, with $19,768 refunded. Cash, $7,925. Estimates indicate there may be as much as 20 per cent more.

UNITED AMERICAN TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK—Total receipts, $2,584,166. Paid on prior claims, $965,322. Paid depositors nothing. Costs: Receivers, $5,628; legal, $15,730; clerical, $183,383; interest, $280,261; advanced to protect assets, $970,322, with $688,739 refunded. Cash, $163,517. Future returns are uncertain.

It appears there will be a small final return subsequently.

WESTWOOD STATE BANK—Total receipts, $73,006. Paid on prior claims, $41,519. Paid depositors, $12,584, or 30 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $1,383; legal, $4,022; clerical, $8,680; interest, $39; advanced to protect assets, $2,176, with $2,176 refunded. Cash, $2,600. Only a small final disbursement can be anticipated.

J. T. McCUTCHEON TO GIVE TALK AT CITIZENS' RALLY

Pupils of Roosevelt High to Be Guests.

John T. McCutcheon, dean of CHICAGO TRIBUNE cartoonists, will speak briefly on the ninth Citizens of Tomorrow radio program to be presented Wednesday night from 7 to 7:30 o'clock in the audience studio of W-G-N. Special guests will be 600 students from Roosevelt High school. Their principal, John L. O'Brien, will be seated on the stage and the history of this Chicago public high school will be related during the broadcast.

John L. O'Brien.

Featured will be the Roosevelt Girls' chorus, conducted by Miss Helen P. Johnson. The first number will be "Rough Riders," written by Jerome Bresler, a graduate of the school, and dedicated to Theodore Roosevelt after whom the school was named.

School cheers will be led by Bernie Susman, Allen Trester, Jerome Marks, and Richard Cherney.

Name More to Honor Roll.

Other musical numbers will be "Sleep Noble Hearts" by Mendelssohn, a special tribute to Memorial day, and "Night Has a Thousand Eyes," composed by Noble Cain.

Five more Chicago and Chicagoland students will be named to the Citizens of Tomorrow Honor Roll. Accomplishments of these boys and girls will be told by Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE staff, who is the entertainment's "principal" and master of ceremonies.

In all fifty students will be nominated by their principals and superintendents to this scroll and all of them are being invited by THE TRIBUNE to be its guests at the 11th and final broadcast of this series on Wednesday night, June 12.

Come From 40 Cities.

These youths will come from 40 midwestern cities and will enjoy a full day in Chicago. At noon they will be the guests of the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce and during the afternoon will be taken airplane rides over Chicago in a big TWA plane.

At 5 o'clock they will be guests of the Chicago Woman's club at its club house at 72 East 11th street, and following the broadcast they will see the talking film, "Trees to Tribune" and be taken on a tour thru the Tribune Tower.

Miss Elizabeth Waters, radio chairman for Roosevelt High school, is assisting in plans for Wednesday's show.

LAKE VIEW HIGH HAS 35% OF BOYS IN R. O. T. C. UNIT

Thirty-five per cent of the boys at Lake View High school are members of the R. O. T. C. regiment, a survey last week revealed. This percentage is greater than in any other public school unit in the city, the lowest enrollment being 9.3 per cent.

There are 476 students taking military training at the school out of a masculine enrollment of 1,358. Sergt. Albert D. Lee, military instructor at the school since 1920, attributes the high percentage to the fact that military training has been given at Lake View as long as at any other school in Chicago, and that during this time the R. O. T. C. unit has become influential in many phases of school life, including the fire guard, student government, and the police patrol.

Morgan Park High school ranks second in percentage, with 301 out of 1,063 boys taking military training—or about 30 per cent. Other high ranking schools are Sullivan, 28 per cent; Amundsen, 27 per cent; Foreman, 21 per cent; Von Steuben, 21 per cent, and Schurz, 16.9 per cent, notwithstanding the fact that freshmen are not enrolled.

The other schools follow in this order: Du Sable, Fenger, Hirsch, Lindblom, Harper, Hyde Park, Roosevelt, Senn, Austin, Lane, Steinmetz, Bowen, Waller, Englewood, Kelly, Tilden, Calumet, Crane, Harrison, and Marshall.

ST. VERONICA'S GUILD TO GIVE A CARD PARTY

A card party will be sponsored by St. Veronica's guild at the parish house at 3300 North Whipple street, at 1 o'clock, June 5. Proceeds will be used for the guild's philanthropic work. Mrs. Lewis C. It is equipped with a mechanically operated vibra harp and chimes which may be heard for a distance of four miles. Recorded music and radio programs also may be broadcast from the belfry. OLD BUNGALOW GROWS INTO HOME OF EIGHT ROOMS

Roof Lifted to Provide Upstairs Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth first looked at the little bungalow they later purchased at 1721 West 100th place, and deliberated on purchase, site, costs of renovation, and so on, the original bungalow, judging from pictures of it and from Mrs. Booth's description, looked very much like the "last of pea time." It was a far from seductive little gray bungalow, not doing justice to itself or its site in a nice residential block in Beverly Hills.

However, after due consideration, Mr. and Mrs. Booth decided to make the investment. They felt that modernization could redeem it and that things could be done for it to make it a home with "youth on the prow and pleasure at the helm."

And things were done for it! Here's how:

The original bungalow had a large front porch and entrance door which opened directly into a squarish living room, small dark bedrooms, an ageing dining room and kitchen, and an outmoded bathroom.

Old Porch Ripped Off.

The porch was ripped off, the layout on the first floor changed in several ways, the roof lifted, and three new bedrooms and a large bathroom built on the second floor.

Now the house has eight rooms, a bath and a powder room, a sunny breakfast room opening from the kitchen and paneled in pine; and, besides a wealth of storage space, a small study room for Mr. Booth on the first floor.

No doubt but that this new home which has stepped into the shoes of the old one has been very skilfully altered. The enlargement of the rooms and the change in layout have been adroitly and capably handled.

This newborn home has exterior walls of California redwood siding, painted white and heavily insulated. The entrance was moved to the side of the house, with a wall of rugged stone. When the roof was raised to permit the second floor bedrooms and bath, a new front gable and dormers were built.

Closet Near Entrance.

The main entrance to the house is now directly into a compact, small hallway, with oval window at left, a guest closet, door chimes, and gayly flowered, light blue wall paper.

The living room is at the right and the fireplace wall on the opposite side is an arresting feature. Where once was a dejected small brick fireplace with stained glass windows there is now a wide fireplace painted white, with a stunning black marble facing and mirror above to the ceiling. The stained glass windows were covered with clapboards, and built-in bookcases substituted.

On the second floor there are the three bedrooms, all with intriguing alcoves, made possible by the new roof's outlines. There are two closets in each bedroom.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 27.

It is time to turn water into the tropical lily pool to permit it to warm up a bit. The boxes should be in place and filled with rich soil. Fill the pool until the water level is slightly below the top of the boxes to permit planting about June 1. Plant lilies one plant to a box. Good, dependable varieties are August Koch, pink pearl, and Chicago. Giant varieties include Mrs. Edward Whitaker, Gen. Pershing, Mrs. Pring, O'Mara, and others. Many kinds of hardy lilies are available. Plants to supplement the lilies and add interest where there is sufficient room in the pool include the water hyacinth, water poppy, parrot's feather, cat tail, floating heart, paper reed or papyrus, and many others.

Tuesday, May 28.

Plant cannas. Do not cut the grass too short—about 1½ inches is the right height for a bluegrass lawn. Water peonies when in bud to obtain high grade flowers. Prune goldenbells after they finish flowering. Repot the poinsettia, cut back the stems if necessary, and plunge in the garden as soon as the weather is settled. Examine each day and water if dry. Spray perennials to prevent disease, such as mildew. Keep after the weeds at all times. Watch for aphids on sweet peas.

Wednesday, May 29.

Plant out all bedding plants, such as geraniums. If the plants were carried over during winter cut them back before planting out of doors. Try different varieties of geraniums, for they are always delightful. Sow castor beans as screens, for they are quite tropical in appearance and grow rapidly. The elephant ear grows from a bulb and does well. Give it plenty of water and food and the leaves will grow very large. In congested areas of the city sow four o'clocks, for they thrive under most conditions. They make a nice hedge.

Thursday, May 30.

Stake peonies before they grow out of bounds. Special wire frames may be purchased. Spray roses for black spot and mildew and dust hollyhocks, phlox, and delphinium with sulphur. Spray the hawthorn and Virginia creeper with bordeaux for leaf spot. Use it on lilies for blight. Currants should be sprayed with a nicotine preparation to kill aphids.

Friday, May 31.

When setting out plants always firm the soil around the roots. Shade the plants for a day or two until they have somewhat recovered from the disturbance of moving. Be sure to apply a complete plant food to all plants that are grown in poor soil. Zinnias are among the most dependable annuals and the seed still can be sown with excellent results, altho the flowers will be late. They like hot weather.

Saturday, June 1.

Give hardy chrysanthemums a feeding of complete, balanced food, using a tablespoonful to the square foot about the plants. Work the material into the soil and water. Roses can be mulched with peat moss if decayed manure is not available. Plant food can be put on top of the peat and watered in. After blooming cut off the old flowers on the peonies and apply food to the soil. Peonies grow during the summer and they need plenty of food to produce next season's crowns. Keep all withered flowers removed from perennials.

'BLOSSOM TIME' NEXT ON W-G-N THEATER OF AIR

Miss Claire, Igor Gorin, Bartlett to Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For its third production the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening will present Sigmund Romberg's melodic operetta, "Blossom Time," which is based on the life and work of Franz Schubert.

This performance will bring together three celebrated singers: Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano; Igor Gorin, internationally famous baritone, and Michael Bartlett, the American tenor.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be aired from 9 to 10 p. m. Thursday from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

An audience of specially invited guests who are officials and members of The Tribune Chicagoland Music Festival committee will attend the performance.

First Radio Showing Here.

Chicagoans last witnessed Sigmund Romberg's beautiful operetta in the fall of 1938 when it made its ninth appearance here. The Chicago Theater of the Air's radio version, which is to be directed and produced by William A. Bacher, will be the first broadcast presentation from Chicago.

The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. The same fine dramatic cast, which performed in the two previous Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, including Alice Hill, Olan Soule, Fran Carlon, Willard Waterman, Bret Morrison, Marvin Mueller, Judith Lowry, will play the dramatic rôles.

Miss Claire Sings Mitzi.

Miss Claire will be heard as Mitzi; Gorin will portray Franz Schubert and Bartlett will be cast as Baron Franz Schobar.

Marion Claire was starred in the first two Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, "Bittersweet" and "The Student Prince." On Sunday nights she is the soloist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour, aired at 8 o'clock on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Igor Gorin, who scored a success as Dr. Engel in the radio operetta, "The Student Prince," brings to his rôle of Franz Schubert a great baritone voice. He is best known to Americans for his performances in the movie, "Broadway Melody of 1938," the radio program, "Hollywood Hotel," and for his concerts.

Educated at Princeton.

Michael Bartlett's ancestors came to America in colonial times. Born in Massachusetts, he attended Princeton university and began his musical career there with the Triangle club. He decided to make music his life's work upon graduation, and studied in Milan, Italy.

After additional study in Rome, he attracted the attention of the Crown Prince Umberto, Princess Mafalda, and United States Ambassador Henry Fletcher, who sponsored him in many concerts and recitals in Rome, Turin, and Trieste. Bartlett's first big triumph came in the musical movie, "Love Me Forever," in which he was cast opposite Grace Moore. He also was starred in the movie, "Follow Your Heart," with Marion Talley. He has starred in the operettas, "Three Waltzes" and "The Cat and the Fiddle."

Music to Be Heard.

The music to be heard from "Blossom Time" includes "Schubert's Serenade," "Unfinished Symphony," an orchestral number which opens the third act; "Love and Springtime," to be sung by Bartlett, Gorin, and three male voices; "Three Little Maids," sung by Miss Claire accompanied by two feminine voices; "Song of Love," a duet between Miss Claire and Gorin, and "Tell Be Daisy," "Only One Love Ever Fills the Heart," and Schubert's immortal "Ave Maria."

Among the guests representing The Tribune Chicagoland Musical Festival committee will be Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director; Fred Miller, supervisor of field events; Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the band and instrumental contests; Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal and choral contests; Prof. Walter A. Stults, president of the Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing; Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumentalists, Chicago public schools; Miss Helen Howe, director of music, Chicago public schools, and Philip Maxwell, music festival director of THE TRIBUNE.

In "Blossom Time"

Michael Bartlett, American tenor, who will be one of the three stars in the production of "Blossom Time" on the Chicago Theater of the Air at 9 o'clock next Thursday over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Marion Claire and Igor Gorin are the other headliners.

DAY TELLS HOW HE HAPPENED TO LAND IN RIGA

Donald Day, chief of the Baltic bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mutual's Stockholm broadcaster, comes from an old newspaper family with its genesis in Chicago. After a long apprenticeship on American dailies, he went to Europe for a trip.

"In December, 1920," he wrote, "a representative of the soviet government in New York invited me to go to Russia with him; he was being deported. I got as far as Riga only to find that Moscow had changed its mind. I received a telegram telling me I would not be permitted in Russia."

"'All right,' "I said, 'I will stay here.'"

And there he has been for THE TRIBUNE, almost continuously since 1921.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

WEST AREA TO HONOR U. S. WAR DEAD

CHIEF OF ARMY AREA TO AWARD CADET COLORS

Feature of R. O. T. C. Review June 4.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area, has accepted the invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to present colors to Chicago R. O. T. C. units which place first and second in federal inspections to be completed tomorrow. The presentation in Tribune Square June 4, will climax the annual Cadet day parade on Michigan avenue, and will immediately precede the unveiling of the Nathan Hale statue which is to stand between The Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, also will speak briefly.

Lieut. Gen. Ford.

The program will be heard on W-G-N from 1:15 to 1:45 o'clock.

The American flags are given annually by THE TRIBUNE to encourage the Chicago R. O. T. C. to greater achievement in citizenship, leadership, courtesy, neatness, and discipline. Last year's first and second place winners were Tilden and Crane Technical High schools, respectively.

Two Units in Ceremony.

The parade up Michigan avenue is scheduled to begin at 11:45 o'clock at Balbo avenue, and 26 school units will disperse at Randolph street. The two winning schools, numbering about 500 cadets, will march on to Tribune Square, where the ceremonies are to begin at 1:15 o'clock.

After the flag presentation Dr. William Warren Sweet, professor of American church history at the University of Chicago, will give the address dedicating the statue of Nathan Hale, which will be unveiled by cadet commanders of the two school military groups.

The statue is a duplicate of the well known one at Yale university, from which Capt. Hale was graduated in 1773, three years before he was hanged by the British troops as a spy.

Choices Not Yet Made.

Which two schools will take part in this patriotic ceremony will not be known until several days before the parade. Maj. Norman M. Nelsen, who is conducting the inspections, said that after the final inspections tomorrow his report must be drawn up, sealed, and approved by war department officials in Washington before it is released thru the 6th corps area headquarters here.

Maj. Nelsen expressed astonishment at the excellent performance of the units he has already inspected.

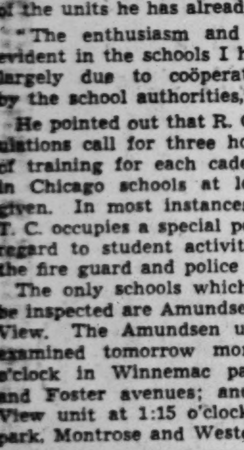
"The enthusiasm and proficiency evident in the schools I have seen is largely due to coöperation offered by the school authorities," he said.

He pointed out that R. O. T. C. regulations call for three hours weekly of training for each cadet, but that in Chicago schools at least five is given. In most instances the R. O. T. C. occupies a special position with regard to student activities such as the fire guard and police patrol.

The only schools which remain to be inspected are Amundsen and Lake View. The Amundsen unit will be examined tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in Winnemac park, Damen and Foster avenues; and the Lake View unit at 1:15 o'clock in Welles park, Montrose and Western avenues.

MODEL HOME EXHIBIT TO AID GLEN ELLYN INFANT WELFARE FUND

Members of the Glen Ellyn Infant Welfare society are sponsoring the opening Saturday of their model furnished home at Turner avenue west of Park boulevard, Glen Ellyn. One of the features in the house of the $10,000 price class will be a nursery. The game room in the basement also will be furnished.



Mrs. E. C. Hall Jr.

Mrs. E. C. Hall Jr. of Glen Ellyn is in charge of the house during the month of June and has arranged that one of the members of the society will be at the building every day during June. A charge of 10 cents is being made for admittance. The money collected will go directly to the Glen Ellyn Infant Welfare society's clinic and milk fund.

Mrs. A. H. Burton is president of the society.

Expert Shots Rally in New Defense Corps

Sportsmen from the west side and western suburbs have rallied wholeheartedly to the support of the embryonic Sportsmen's Defense reserve—the proposed organization of the nation's 7,500,000 licensed hunters and rifle club members for action in case of an emergency, self-styled by some early members "para-shooters."

A dozen clubs were represented by the 47 west side marksmen who attended the preliminary meeting Monday night which was called by Walter C. Peacock, State street merchant and leading sportsman.

Gun Clubs Represented.

When It's Party Time in Western Suburbs

JIMMIE ELLIOTT AND MARTHA GWYN JONES.

DICKIE STRAUSS AND ANNE ELIZABETH SWARTWOOD.

ARDEN ANN HAY AND JEAN ELLIOTT.

When it's party time for west suburban mothers who aid the Evanston Cradle, it's party time, too, for Jimmie and Jean, Martha and Anne. Whether the mothers are holding their monthly luncheon meeting or voting a gift to help meet the Cradle's $50,000 budget, these are scenes in the younger corners.

The older girls, Arden Ann and Jean, now can wear silk dresses and wrist watches. Arden is Mrs. Otis C. Hay's daughter and resides in Western Springs. Jean is the Harold M. Elliotts' daughter from La Grange.

The reasons for every party may be found down deep in the ice cream dish. That's what Dickie Strauss and his dessert partner, Anne Elizabeth, believe. Dickie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hellmuth Strauss of La Grange. Anne Elizabeth is the daughter in the Kenneth Swartwood home, Western Springs.

Making use of the plush elephant and toy piano are Jimmie Elliott and Martha Gwyn Jones, the daughter of the Donald S. Joneses, La Grange.

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know

OBERLIN conservatory in Oberlin, O., writes that Miss Ruby Violet Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shaw, Maywood, has been elected to membership in Pi Kappa Lambda. She is one of the youngest students to be graduated from the school, has played major programs on both piano and organ and will be presented this week in her senior organ recital in the Warner concert hall. She will play compositions of Buxtehude, Bach, Franck, Dupre, and Mulet.

Miss Ruby Violet Shaw.

Wheaton High school students won three out of a possibl six awards in recent scholarship contests held by the Frederick Mizen Academy of Art, 75 East Wacker drive. Mildred Cooper won first place in the fashion illustration division which brought a five months scholarship to the day school. Mary Jane Wicke received honorable mention in the same division and Betty Brooks was given honorable mention in the dress design division. Both Miss Wicke and Miss Brooks won eight week summer scholarships in connection with the awards. Miss Eleanor Windhorn of Oak Park was awarded honorable mention in the commercial art division.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Scaman, 3137 Harvey avenue, Berwyn, recently became parents of a girl baby, the first break in a line or seven male offspring in the Scaman clan. The Oak Park Hospital Daily Gazette devotes its entire one page extra to "Paulette," and comments that "the tradition that all Scaman babies are born measured for knickers and not petticoats is now just a fable."

RITA BOBER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bober, Maywood, received a special first award rating for the bass viol solo that she played at the recent national music contest held in Battle Creek, Mich. Rita has been studying bass viol for the last four years. She is a sophomore at the Proviso Township High school.

Miss Rita Bober.

Safety Patrol Boys to Be Paid Radio Tribute

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

[PICTURE ON PAGE 3.]

In tribute to the more than a quarter of a million boys and girls of America who safeguard the lives of fellow pupils during the school term, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will sponsor a half hour radio broadcast on W-G-N Friday night, June 7, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the new W-G-N audience studio.

Charles M. Hayes.

Special guests will be 600 outstanding members of the school safety patrols of the Chicago and Cook county schools, founded by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Mr. Hayes will be the principal speaker on the program.

The entertainment will feature Harold Stokes and his orchestra. Novelty acts especially appealing to young America will punctuate the broadcast. A special tribute will be paid to five lads who have been awarded distinguished service medals by the Chicago Motor club. They are Victor McElhose [La Vergne school] of Berwyn, David Velen [Lawson school], 1256 South Homan avenue, and Stanley Burmeister [Whittier school], 1900 West 23d street, both of Chicago; John Edwards, and Donald Banks of Danville and Quincy, Ill., respectively.

Each Saved a Life.

These boys each saved a life. Their deeds are typical of the splendid service which all of these safety patrol members give to their local communities. The safety patrol was organized in 1922 and the movement has spread thruout the United States and nearly 10 foreign countries.

Other guests will be chairmen of safety councils and educational and civic leaders in Chicago and suburbs. This group will include Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools; Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools; George W. Flemming, general secretary of Keep Chicago Safe committee; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education in the Chicago public schools, and Leslie J. Sorsenson, city traffic engineer.

Bob Elson to Talk.

Following the broadcast Bob Elson, baseball announcer of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, will introduce celebrities of the baseball world, and Chester Gould, creator of Dick Tracy, will give a chalk talk.

Jess Kirkpatrick, W-G-N announcer, will be master of ceremonies of the radio show. The Tribune talking movie, "Trees to Tribune" will close the entertainment.

Assisting in the preparation of this tribute to the contribution which these young "Citizens of Tomorrow" are making to America, are George Barton, director of the safety and traffic department, and Gordon Sheehe, assistant, both of the motor club.

MORTON JUNIOR VERDICT: STAY OUT OF THE WAR

Sixty per cent of the 2,000 persons questioned by the International Relations club of Morton Junior college do not want to participate in the present war under any circumstance except there is direct aggression by some foreign power. The same survey also revealed that 9 out of 10 persons interviewed favored the reciprocal trade agreements between the United States and South America.

Half of the answers to the questionnaires put out by the club maintained that the air force of the nation must be enlarged and expanded, a majority believed the navy must be enlarged, and one-fourth of the votes expressed a desire for a mechanized army.

The conclusion reached was that the average citizen realizes the futility of entering the war and wants to remain neutral. He is willing to carry on trade by cash and carry methods, but wants to cultivate permanent and stable commerce in the western hemisphere. Also, he desires an air force second to none, believing that a good defense is a strong offense.

LEGION POSTS TO TAKE LEAD IN CEREMONIES

Suburban Units Will Hold Parades.

With added respect and veneration for those who so loved liberty that they were willing to lay down their lives for maintaining it, patriotic organizations of the west side and west suburbs this week will observe Memorial day under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Association of Cook County.

George F. Hime.

"This year, approach of the day gives us much reason for sober reflection," said George F. Hime, commander of the 5th district of the American Legion which comprises 27 posts in the area. "It is a time for reflection not only on present happenings in other parts of the world but of the glorious progress of our republic. It is not only to the hero dead, but to the living that homage should be paid.

"Let us, whom providence decreed should survive, learn from lessons of the past. Let us work to lead our nation along the paths of peace, but always stand ready to defend our government from the inroads of those who would make a mockery of humanity, liberty, and religious freedom."

Others Are to Assist.

At its 21st observance of Memorial day, Maywood post will be assisted by John Sheldon post of the American Legion, Finfield Scott post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Anna Binkley tent, Daughters of Union Veterans; Boy and Girl Scouts, Winfield Scott post juniors; Sons of the American Legion, and auxiliary groups of the post organizations.

The parade, forming at 5th avenue and Erie street, will proceed south on 5th avenue to Washington boulevard, west to 11th avenue and Veterans' park. Capt. Harold Carnwright, grand marshal, will be assisted by officers of the 33d Tank company, Maywood's own National Guard unit.

There will be music by the Winfield Scott post junior band, the fife and drum corps of Maywood squadron, and the Paul Stone Military band.

Along with Legionnaires, the La Grange squadron, Sons of the American Legion, said to be the largest squadron in the state, will join other veterans, civic, and youth organizations in the line of march.

At the conclusion of the parade, Robert Salveson will make a short address at services held at the high school campus. Graves of veterans will be decorated at ceremonies conducted by the color guard, firing squad, and members of La Grange post of the American Legion.

This morning, La Grange post and Sons of the Legion will attend services at Grace Lutheran church, where the Rev. O. V. Anderson will preach a memorial sermon. Tomorrow, members of the post will speak at Memorial day programs in the neighboring schools. Wednesday, the post and squadron will take part in a service at Our Lady of Bethlehem academy.

A COMMENCEMENT SUGGESTION.

Commencement time is just about here again. As a parent of four who have been graduated I would like to make a suggestion. On that night of nights when the organ rolls and a long list of hopefuls march up the aisles, a parent wants to hear the voice of his own hild. Too many times I have gone to commencements when the address was given by a paid speaker. His subjects are on war, peace, success, happiness. We would like to listen to him any other time.

But on commencement let us hear our own boys and girls, the smart Jimmie who is valedictorian, the popular class president, the sweet dark haired girl who studied dramatics. What they say will not stir the world and tomorrow their words will be forgotten. But parents will have a memory of a June night when apple blossoms were in bloom and their son or their daughter, the reasons for wishing, waiting and working will have said a piece without forgetting. Give us our own kids for a commencement program. J. M.

TULIP FESTIVAL A SUCCESS.

In behalf of the Ladies' Aid society of the Elmhurst Methodist church I take this opportunity to express the thanks and appreciation of our members for the assistance you gave us in making our tulip festival a success. We had more guests even than we anticipated, many from other towns, even as far as Batavia and Roselle, and we feel that our first attempt at this was a great success, both socally and financially.

MRS. W. S. MORLAN.

SYMBOL OF PEACE.

It's a comfort to know that Chicago residents are about to arm themselves and invade the congested areas. They will be armed, however with lilacs and words of cheers and will march in on misery. Lilac day is a symbol of peace and springtime, that the sun shines on neighbor's fences and that men and women still reach across the boundaries of their private interests and domains and shake hands or compare the flowers in their gardens. HAZEL SPARKS.

WANTS OAK PARK TRANSFERS.

Why is it that folks who live in Oak Park can't get transfers when they pay their elevated fare at an Oak Park station? I live just one stop beyond the city limits and yet I must pay another seven cents as penalty because I ride that moment further. Why can't we have a uniform system and be able to get a bus or street car transfer at any station on the entire elevated line? M. B.

WEST AREA CLUB MEMBERS SHARE IN STATE AWARDS

Berwyn Juniors Win First Press Book Prize.

There were west side women in the crowd over the Hotel Sherman recently rubbing elbows and exchanging ideas with fellow club workers from cities, towns and crossroads in all parts of Illinois. It was the annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. But west side women were not lost in the crowd, especially when prizes were being given out.

Not only did the women win, but a west side school boy pocketed five dollars as an essay contest prize. Cicero school now has a bronze statue because one of its pupils beat almost every youth in the state in drawing. Club members have blue, white and yellow ribbons signifying that they are best or near best.

Last winter at the suggestion of club women all the eighth grade boys and girls in Illinois were writing essays on the topic "Why Should We Retain Our Democracy?" For his essay, an honorable mention went to a Maywood boy, Robert Webb of the Emerson school. Robert has five dollars for his bank.

The essay contest was a project this club year of the American citizenship department of which Mrs. Henry Rhode is state chairman. Mrs. D. H. Johnson is Sixth district chairman and Mrs. George H. Casper is the chairman of citizenship in the Maywood 20th Century club which sponsored the contest in the village's schools.

Wins Bronze Statue.

At the same time the grade pupils were drawing pictures for the penny art fund poster contest. Club members gave their pennies to buy pictures and art work for the schools having a prize winning pupil. Robert Oechner of Cicero won for his school a bronze statue, a study of a mother and child done by Mabel Landon Torrey of Chicago.

MUSICAL SUBURB TRIES NOVELTY—A KAZOO BAND

Boys and Girls Now Hum Buzzing Tunes.

Oak Park, home of a symphonic orchestra, is now going in for kazoos. Boys are quitting their tops and marbles to play them. Girls who can't play anything else are masters after one lesson. A man named Schuyler Baldwin has made Oak Park kazoo conscious.

A kazoo is a little instrument and a fairly old one. The player puts one end in his mouth and hums. When the hum comes out it is magically converted into organ-like tones and a collection of kazoo hums is orchestra music.

Oak Park now has a kazoo band. Mr. Baldwin, a furniture buyer, organized it two weeks ago as a feature of the minstrel show arranged by the village Kiwanis club and the Aviation club.

Helped by Applause.

Applause made it a permanent contribution to the village's cultural life. Kazooing will go on at weekly rehersals in the Aviation club, Harrison street and East avenue.

"Good voices make a star kazoo player but even a bad singing voice can hum sufficiently to get into the band," says Mr. Baldwin who arranges the music.

Back in 1880 a Frenchman named Bigot invented the kazoo. He took a piece of pipe with a hole in each end and put a vibrator in the middle. This was called the Bigophone by some and the Bigottphone by others.

Crossed into England.

A few years later it crossed into England and there was called the Tommy Talker.

Star players occupying the four sections are: Clarinet, Dorothy Main, Martha King, Helen Picchietti, Jeannette Tregay; saxophone, Helen Rockwell, Babe Zydorczak, Bill Hewitt and Harley Russell; trumpet, Bud Morard, Fred Muntwyler, Clyde Johnson and Charles Alder; trombone, Karl Daniels, Neil Daniels, C. B. Wilson and Charles Muntwyler.

The instrumental accompanyists are Ray Kramer, accordion; Ed Duzan, drums; John Musengo, violin; Bill Hannigan, trumpet; Angelo Jannotta, guitar, and Louis Picchietti, bull fiddle.

GLEN ELLYN DUE TO START WORK ON SWIM POOL

In Glen Ellyn, excavation for a new municipal swimming pool, approved by the village last spring, is expected to start soon, while in La Grange, petitions asking that the question of the construction of a pool be submitted to the voters of the district, have been presented to the park district board.

Members of the Glen Ellyn park board, the state department of health, and WPA officials have been working on plans that will give to the community what is termed "the cleanest pool in the state."

Changes from original plans provide for inside dimensions to meet Olympic standards, 40 feet wide and 82½ feet long. The filtration plant will make a complete change of water every four hours, as compared to a six-hour turnover in most pools. The change means the water tank can be almost free from chemicals.

Additional improvements also call for an underwater lighting system that will lend to its beauty at night.

The pool will be located in the south part of the village immediately east of the present playground and tennis courts. Tentative plans also provide for a roadway along the south side of the park, with a parking area, the whole screened by shrubbery.

To prevent congestion on Main street, an entrance from Fairview avenue and an exit into Sunset avenue have been suggested. The filtration plant will be glass enclosed so that visitors may watch its operation. A wading pool for children is included.

The petition for a swimming pool in La Grange is the second to be submitted to the park board. A petition a year ago was signed largely by children and young people, and the board took no action because more voters and taxpayers had not attached their signatures.

This time an effort is being made to exclude all those who are not legal voters. The petition asks that a referendum be submitted to the voters within 60 days.

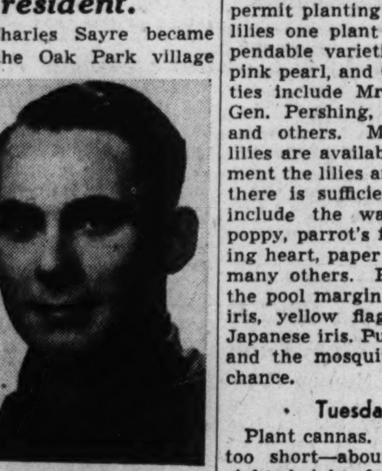
BOY SCOUTS TAKE OVER OAK PARK OFFICES FOR DAY

Charles Sayre Sits In as President.

Yesterday Charles Sayre became president of the Oak Park village board. The day before that he was a high school junior. Tomorrow he will go back to high school classes again. His excursion into village government lasted for only a day.



Charles Sayre.

It was a hotly contested campaign that put Boy Scouts into every village office yesterday. James A. Howe, president, and other officials, stepped aside so the boys could manage Oak Park for 24 hours.

The village officers-for-a-day were all senior scouts fifteen years of age or older. The voters who put them in office were all registered Oak Park Boy scouts and the project was a part of the scouting citizenship training program.

Scout Since 1935.

Young Sayre, the victorious candidate for president, entered scouting in Nov. 1935 when he was 12 years old. He became a member of troop No. 19 of the Grace Episcopal church, Oak Park. He was advanced to second class rank in May, 1936 and received the first class award in November of the same year. In 1937 he became a star scout, received his life scout award, and transferred his membership to troop No. 16 of the First Presbyterian church.

The rank of Eagle scout, the highest award in scouting, went to him in January, 1938. He has also won the bronze, gold and silver palms which indicate further achievement beyond the rank of eagle. He received the Lincoln Trail award, signifying that he walked in Loncoln's footprints from New Salem to Springfield.

Boys elected village trustees who served yesterday are Warren Hedstrom, James Hotchkiss, George McNichols, Fred Irland, Robert Knueppfer and Robert Anderson. Robert Rinnan was elected village clerk. The six boys who were library directors yesterday are Robert Weber, David Willoughby, Arthur Schwanke, Bremond Birch, Arthur Block and Robert Grundin.

Other Town Officers.

Gordon McClure was elected town clerk; Roger Dreffein took over the job of town assessor and Ed Linquist was town supervisor. Jack Flindt was town collector. The five justices of the peace are Paul Walker, Jim LeGros, Jack Adams, William Scott and Robert Frost. The new town constables were Ralph Graziano, John LeGros, Clarence Kuklinski, William Drennan and Owen Hanson.

The election was carried on at troop meetings during the week. All registered Scouts who attended these meetings were entitled to vote. All ballots were then taken to the Oak Park Area council headquarters and tallied. All Scouts on the ballots were nominated by petitions.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 27.

It is time to turn water into the tropical lily pool to permit it to warm up a bit. The boxes should be in place and filled with rich soil. Fill the pool until the water level is slightly below the top of the boxes to permit planting about June 1. Plant lilies one plant to a box. Good, dependable varieties are August Koch, pink pearl, and Chicago. Giant varieties include Mrs. Edward Whitaker, Gen. Pershing, Mrs. Pring, O'Mara, and others. Many kinds of hardy lilies are available. Plants to supplement the lilies and add interest where there is sufficient room in the pool include the water hyacinth, water poppy, parrot's feather, cat tail, floating heart, paper reed or papyrus, and many others. Plants to grow along the pool margin include the Siberian iris, yellow flag, marshmallow, and Japanese iris. Put goldfish in the pool and the mosquitoes will not have a chance.

Tuesday, May 28.

Plant cannas. Do not cut the grass too short—about 1½ inches is the right height for a bluegrass lawn. Water peonies when in bud to obtain high grade flowers. Prune goldenbells after they finish flowering. Repot the poinsettia, cut back the stems if necessary, and plunge in the garden as soon as the weather is settled. Examine each day and water if dry. Spray perennials to prevent disease, such as mildew. Keep after the weeds at all times. Watch for aphids on sweet peas. Keep all flowers picked each day or remove withered blooms to prevent seed from forming.

Wednesday, May 29.

Plant out all bedding plants, such as geraniums. If the plants were carried over during winter cut them back before planting out of doors. Try different varieties of geraniums, for they are always delightful. Sow castor beans as screens, for they are quite tropical in appearance and grow rapidly. The elephant ear grows from a bulb and does well. Give it plenty of water and food and the leaves will grow very large. In congested areas of the city sow four o'clocks, for they thrive under most conditions. They make a nice hedge. Plant a few tiger flowers; also montbretias, which look something like gladioli. Tuberoses are always interesting and their chalk whiteness and penetrating fragrance are particularly desirable.

Thursday, May 30.

Stake peonies before they grow out of bounds. Special wire frames may be purchased. Spray roses for black spot and mildew and dust hollyhocks, phlox, and delphinium with sulphur. Spray the hawthorn and Virginia creeper with bordeaux for leaf spot. Use it on lilies for blight. Currants should be sprayed with a nicotine preparation to kill aphids. Cottonlike masses on maple branches are caused by the cottony woolly aphid; nicotine will kill them.

Friday, May 31.

When setting out plants always firm the soil around the roots. Shade the plants for a day or two until they have somewhat recovered from the disturbance of moving. Be sure to apply a complete plant food to all plants that are grown in poor soil. Zinnias are among the most dependable annuals and the seed still can be sown with excellent results, altho the flowers will be late. They like hot weather.

Saturday, June 1.

Give hardy chrysanthemums a feeding of complete, balanced food, using a tablespoonful to the square foot about the plants. Work the material into the soil and water. Roses can be mulched with peat moss if decayed manure is not available. Plant food can be put on top of the peat and watered in. After blooming cut off the old flowers on the peonies and apply food to the soil. Peonies grow during the summer and they need plenty of food to produce next season's crowns. Keep all withered flowers removed from perennials. Feed the plants after blooming with a complete plant food. Keep the soil stirred in beds and borders. Keep the edges of beds cut. Never allow weeds to grow in gravel walks and paths.

OLD BUNGALOW GROWS INTO HOME OF EIGHT ROOMS

Roof Lifted to Provide Upstairs Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth first looked at the little bungalow they later purchased at 1721 West 100th place, and deliberated on purchase, site, costs of renovation, and so on, the original bungalow, judging from pictures of it and from Mrs. Booth's description, looked very much like the "last of pea time." It was a far from seductive little gray bungalow, not doing justice to itself or its site in a nice residential block in Beverly Hills.

However, after due consideration, Mr. and Mrs. Booth decided to make the investment. They felt that modernization could redeem it and that things could be done for it to make it a home with "youth on the prow and pleasure at the helm."

And things were done for it! Here's how:

The original bungalow had a large front porch and entrance door which opened directly into a squarish living room, small dark bedrooms, an ageing dining room and kitchen, and an outmoded bathroom.

Old Porch Ripped Off.

The porch was ripped off, the layout on the first floor changed in several ways, the roof lifted, and three new bedrooms and a large bathroom built on the second floor.

Now the house has eight rooms, a bath and a powder room, a sunny breakfast room opening from the kitchen and paneled in pine; and, besides a wealth of storage space, a small study room for Mr. Booth on the first floor.

No doubt but that this new home which has stepped into the shoes of the old one has been very skilfully altered. The enlargement of the rooms and the change in layout have been adroitly and capably handled.

This newborn home has exterior walls of California redwood siding, painted white and heavily insulated. The entrance was moved to the side of the house, with a wall of rugged stone. When the roof was raised to permit the second floor bedrooms and bath, a new front gable and dormers were built.

Closet Near Entrance.

The main entrance to the house is now directly into a compact, small hallway, with oval window at left, a guest closet, door chimes, and gayly flowered, light blue wall paper.

The living room is at the right and the fireplace wall on the opposite side is an arresting feature. Where once was a dejected small brick fireplace with stained glass windows there is now a wide fireplace painted white, with a stunning black marble facing and mirror above to the ceiling. The stained glass windows were covered with clapboards, and built-in bookcases substituted.

DINNER TO CLOSE FESTIVAL TODAY AT HOLY FAMILY

A corned beef and cabbage dinner will be served from noon until 3 o'clock today as a feature of the annual carnival at Holy Family church, 1080 West Roosevelt road, which will end today. The dinner will be served by the women's organization in the new Damen hall.

The annual memorial mass for deceased parishioners and members of the Acolythical Alumni association and Ladies' auxiliary will be celebrated at 11 o'clock this morning in the church.

The sermon will be preached by the Rev. James R. Keane, national director of the perpetual novena. Officers of the mass will be former members of the 84 year old parish.

Cadets Rewarded

William A. Henke. Albert P. Boyson.

Among outstanding cadets of the University of Illinois R. O. T. C. brigade to receive awards from patriotic societies were Albert P. Boyson of Elmhurst and William A. Henke of Aurora. Boyson, signal corps cadet, received one of the six American Legion medals awarded to the best sophomore in each unit. Henke was among 18 seniors outstanding in the university R. O. T. C. brigade listed on the Woman's Relief corps panel of awards.

PUBLIC DANCES IN HIGH SCHOOLS AID RED CROSS

Eighteen high school social centers will be opened by the Chicago board of education from 7 to 12 o'clock Friday night for benefit dances, it was announced by Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools.

The dancing season officially closed on April 12 but will be opened for a special dance this week to raise money for the American Red Cross. Miss Ernestine L. Badt, director of social centers, expects an attendance of more than 15,000 persons. Boy attendants, chaperons and managers of the center will contribute their services for the night under the direction of John Howatt, chief engineer.

West side schools which will be opened are Crane High school, 2245 West Jackson boulevard; Farragut, 2339 South Christiana avenue, and Medill, 1326 West 14th place.

'BLOSSOM TIME' NEXT ON W-G-N THEATER OF AIR

Miss Claire, Igor Gorin, Bartlett to Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For its third production the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening will present Sigmund Romberg's melodic operetta, "Blossom Time," which is based on the life and work of Franz Schubert.

This performance will bring together three celebrated singers: Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano; Igor Gorin, internationally famous baritone, and Michael Bartlett, the American tenor.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be aired from 9 to 10 p. m. Thursday from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

An audience of specially invited guests who are officials and members of The Tribune Chicagoland Music Festival committee will attend the performance.

First Radio Showing Here.

Chicagoans last witnessed Sigmund Romberg's beautiful operetta in the fall of 1938 when it made its ninth appearance here. The Chicago Theater of the Air's radio version, which is to be directed and produced by William A. Bacher, will be the first broadcast presentation from Chicago.

The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. The same fine dramatic cast, which performed in the two previous Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, including Alice Hill, Olan Soule, Fran Carlon, Willard Waterman, Bret Morrison, Marvin Mueller, Judith Lowry, will play the dramatic rôles.

Miss Claire Sings Mitzi.

Miss Claire will be heard as Mitzi; Gorin will portray Franz Schubert and Bartlett will be cast as Baron Franz Schobar.

Marion Claire was starred in the first two Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, "Bittersweet" and "The Student Prince." On Sunday nights she is the soloist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour, aired at 8 o'clock on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Igor Gorin, who scored a success as Dr. Engel in the radio operetta, "The Student Prince," brings to his rôle of Franz Schubert a great baritone voice. He is best known to Americans for his performances in the movie, "Broadway Melody of 1938," the radio program, "Hollywood Hotel," and for his concerts.

Educated at Princeton.

Michael Bartlett's ancestors came to America in colonial times. Born in Massachusetts, he attended Princeton university and began his musical career there with the Triangle club. He decided to make music his life's work upon graduation, and studied in Milan, Italy.

After additional study in Rome, he attracted the attention of the Crown Prince Umberto, Princess Mafalda, and United States Ambassador Henry Fletcher, who sponsored him in many concerts and recitals in Rome, Turin, and Trieste. Bartlett's first big triumph came in the musical movie, "Love Me Forever," in which he was cast opposite Grace Moore. He also was starred in the movie, "Follow Your Heart," with Marion Talley. He has starred in the operettas, "Three Waltzes" and "The Cat and the Fiddle."

Music to Be Heard.

The music to be heard from "Blossom Time" includes "Schubert's Serenade," "Unfinished Symphony," an orchestral number which opens the third act; "Love and Springtime," to be sung by Bartlett, Gorin, and three male voices; "Three Little Maids," sung by Miss Claire accompanied by two feminine voices; "Song of Love," a duet between Miss Claire and Gorin, and "Tell Be Daisy," "Only One Love Ever Fills the Heart," and Schubert's immortal "Ave Maria."

Among the guests representing The Tribune Chicagoland Musical Festival committee will be Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director; Fred Miller, supervisor of field events; Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the band and instrumental contests; Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal and choral contests; Prof. Walter A. Stults, president of the Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing; Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumentalists, Chicago public schools; Miss Helen Howe, director of music, Chicago public schools, and Philip Maxwell, music festival director of THE TRIBUNE.

[ADVERTISMENT]

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

In "Blossom Time"

Michael Bartlett, American tenor, who will be one of the three stars in the production of "Blossom Time" on the Chicago Theater of the Air at 9 o'clock next Thursday over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Marion Claire and Igor Gorin are the other headliners.

DAY TELLS HOW HE HAPPENED TO LAND IN RIGA

Donald Day, chief of the Baltic bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mutual's Stockholm broadcaster, comes from an old newspaper family with its genesis in Chicago. After a long apprenticeship on American dailies, he went to Europe for a trip.

"In December, 1920," he wrote, "a representative of the soviet government in New York invited me to go to Russia with him; he was being deported. I got as far as Riga only to find that Moscow had changed its mind. I received a telegram telling me I would not be permitted in Russia."

"'All right,' "I said, 'I will stay here.'"

And there he has been for THE TRIBUNE, almost continuously since 1921.

WOMEN'S CLUBS ARE INVITED TO SHOW ON W-G-N

"What Do You Say?"—a program presented by and for women—has extended invitations to all Chicago women's clubs to attend the broadcasts. Each club, upon appearance, receives mention of its presence over the air.

Alan Scott asks questions which require opinions rather than direct answers.

"What Do You Say?" is heard daily, Monday thru Friday, from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. over W-G-N.

HERTHA GLATZ TO SING ON W-G-N MELODY PAGEANT

Viennese Contralto Slated on Wednesday.

Hertha Glatz, young Viennese contralto, will be guest star on the Pageant of Melody, directed by Henry Weber, from 9:15 to 10 p. m., Wednesday, on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System. With Miss Glatz will be heard Kathryn Witwer, lyric soprano, Attilio Baggiore, tenor, the octet and concert orchestra.

For her solo, Miss Glatz will sing "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saëns. She will join Miss Witwear and Baggiore in themes from Giuseppe Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Miss Witwer will sing "Stresa," by Watts. Baggiore will sing the aria, "Romance," from Charles L. Thomas' "Mignon."

The orchestra will play "Der Schauspieldirektor," by Mozart; "La Damoselle Elue," by Debussy; and the octet will join the orchestra in the "Anvil Chorus," from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," and "Creole Days" and "Mardi Gras" from Ferde Grofe's "Mississippi Suite."

Miss Glatz made her debut at the State Opera in Breslau. Before her United States arrival in 1937, she sang thruout Europe, including engagements with the Glyndebourne Opera Festival in England; Prague Opera house; Opera festival, Interlaken, Switzerland, and the Salzburg International Opera guild.

She made her American debut with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, and later, as leading contralto of the Salzburg Opera guild, toured the United States and Canada, singing in more than 80 cities.

The Chicago Opera company engaged Miss Glatz to make appearances singing with Kirsten Flagstad. She was reëngaged for the Chicago opera season of last year.

SOUTH SIDE TO SALUTE WAR HEROES

BUGLES OF 1861 ECHO AGAIN FOR BOYS IN BLUE

They're Past 90, Yet Memories Linger.

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

They've dusted their hats with the braid tied 'round and looped in front—they've dusted their coats and rehung the encampment medals near the left lapels. They're ready for another Memorial day. "They" are the soldier boys of almost eight decades ago, the veterans of the civil war. Few are left now, but those few carry on, altho, "when a fellow's 95, it's kind of tiresome to stand in a reception line for two or three hours." So says Ezra Peebles of 6707 South Halsted street. He likes the ceremonies for the veterans, however, and he'll be on hand for the Memorial day parade.

So will John Burke of 7947 Peoria street, another southwest side veteran, and James Quigley of 7923 Harvard street. Another veteran will be James Henry Lewis, retired Negro lawyer of 4409 Federal street.

It's all a long while ago. But the fellows who were the 'teen age youngsters of '61 to '65 remember the campaigns, the short rations, the fall of Vicksburg.

96 Next September.

Mr. Peebles, who says, "I'll be 96 if I live until the 21st day of September," recalls that he enlisted in Kankakee and left here for Memphis about Dec. 1, 1862, with the 113th Illinois infantry under Col. George B. Hoge. Peebles was from Iroquois county. Originally, the recruiting at Kankakee was for a regiment, but the lads from the surrounding territory were so patriotic that a regiment and a half signed for service. Cook county happened to have half a regiment, so the two halves were consolidated as the 3d Board of Trade regiment.

Peebles recalls the trip down the river from Cairo to Vicksburg . . . the assaults on the Confederate fort there . . . the defeats . . . and the last long siege that began May 22 and lasted until July 3 when the southerners surrendered. He remembers that he lived 21 days on five days' rations, but "I was never hungry a meal, because I don't believe in eating too much anyhow."

Born at Solon Mills, McHenry county, in 1844, Peebles was the son of settlers from Lewis county, New York. He was 11 years old when his father, his sister, and his brother-in-law all died of Asiatic cholera on the same day.

Wabash on the Lake.

"Chicago wasn't much when I first saw it," he said. "Lake Michigan washed Wabash avenue." He came to the city to live in 1888, and in 1890 he and his nephew put up the building where Peebles now lives. Never married, Peebles says, "I missed a whole lot of trouble." He firmly believes "if that man Lincoln had lived out his term and a good many years after to advise people" many of the problems of the reconstruction period would have been solved happily.

John Burke ran away from his home in Aurora to join the 108th Illinois on Aug. 8, 1862, in Peoria. He, too, fought at Vicksburg and in the surrounding territory. He was 15 when he went away to fight. Of the 100 boys in his company, 17 came back. Now Mr. Burke is the only one left. He thinks he is the last of his regiment, too.

James Quigley was a sailor in the civil war. Altho he didn't fight in major battles, he explains that "if you get hit by a bullet in a little battle or a big one, the result's about the same."

Learns He's No Citizen.

Born in Scotland on June 1, 1848, Quigley began voting in this country in 1868, because "I thought I was a citizen after my navy service." He was told he wasn't only a couple of years ago, so he has been naturalized.

A smallish chap, Quigley went into show business after the civil war. He was a magician, a Punch and Judy operator, a dog and bird trainer, and a lightning sketch artist. When he had a show on Clark street between Madison and Washington, he says that reporters dropped in to sharpen their pencils. That was in the '70s and '80s, when his "kind of an Eskimo dog" named Snow was with him. He had his cockatoo, Tommy, then, also. In the winters he stayed in Chicago. Summers, he worked the fairs thru the state and set up business in the city parks.

Once he bought a crate of 30 roosters. There were 11 left when he had them trained, and then the venture failed. "Those chickens couldn't learn to stay awake nights and roost days. And that's how you have to work in show business. "Quigley had his show in the postoffice building at the time of the Chicago fire. He showed at Crosby's Opera house, too. "Sometimes," he recalls, "I'd get a part to say 'Yes, sir,' at McVicker's."

Will Speak Twice.

Oldest southwest side comrade is James Henry Lewis who will be 99 on Sept. 1 and who will speak at two schools the day before Memorial day. Lewis enlisted at Vicksburg, Miss., with the northern forces. He was in company B of the 3d cavalry. Coming north after the war, he studied law and in 1892 was graduated from Northwestern university. Active in veterans' work, he also takes part in other organizations. He belongs to 13 benevolent societies.

Charles M. Hayes.

In tribute to the more than a quarter of a million boys and girls of America who safeguard the lives of fellow pupils during the school term, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will sponsor a half hour radio broadcast on W-G-N Friday night, June 7, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the new W-G-N audience studio.

Special guests will be 600 outstanding members of the school safety patrols of the Chicago and Cook county schools, founded by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Mr. Hayes will be the principal speaker on the program.

The entertainment will feature Harold Stokes and his orchestra. Novelty acts especially appealing to young America will punctuate the broadcast. A special tribute will be paid to five lads who have been awarded distinguished service medals by the Chicago Motor club. They are Victor McElhose [La Vergne school] of Berwyn, David Velen [Lawson school], 1256 South Homan avenue, and Stanley Burmeister [Whittier school], 1900 West 23d street, both of Chicago; John Edwards, and Donald Banks of Danville and Quincy, Ill., respectively.

Each Saved a Life.

These boys each saved a life. Their deeds are typical of the splendid service which all of these safety patrol members give to their local communities. The safety patrol was organized in 1922 and the movement has spread thruout the United States and nearly 10 foreign countries.

Other guests will be chairmen of safety councils and educational and civic leaders in Chicago and suburbs. This group will include Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools; Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools; George W. Flemming, general secretary of Keep Chicago Safe committee; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education in the Chicago public schools, and Leslie J. Sorsenson, city traffic engineer.

Bob Elson to Talk.

Following the broadcast Bob Elson, baseball announcer of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, will introduce celebrities of the baseball world, and Chester Gould, creator of Dick Tracy, will give a chalk talk.

Jess Kirkpatrick, W-G-N announcer, will be master of ceremonies of the radio show. The Tribune talking movie, "Trees to Tribune" will close the entertainment.

Assisting in the preparation of this tribute to the contribution which these young "Citizens of Tomorrow" are making to America, are George Barton, director of the safety and traffic department, and Gordon Sheehe, assistant, both of the motor club.

The Flick twins' dresses are of blue flowered organdy. Commercial art, beauty culture, and junior nursing were also demonstrated at the open house. Mrs. Anna Flott is school principal.

Paragraphs About People You May Know

HELEN KNOBLOCH of 9956 South Parnell avenue, is the kind of a girl who follows the international situation with an intelligent viewpoint. Proof of this was advanced recently when she won first honors in the state patriotic essay contest sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary for high school students on the subject, "Why Increased National Defense Is the Best Insurance Against War." A senior at Pullman Technical High school, she first represented her school in the contest conducted by the auxiliary of Roseland Legion post and, after winning that, took first place in the 3d district contest. Having successfully passed the next hurdle, the state competition, she is now a contestant for the national honors. Our Town wishes her good luck.

BENJAMIN J. RAPPAPORT, chief architectural engineer of the board of education, was special guest at a surprise banquet given by fellow workers and friends recently in Allegretti's restaurant. The occasion was his 25th anniversary as an employé of the board. Mr. Rappaport was presented with a wrist watch and a testimonial scroll bearing 135 signatures. The party was organized by the following residents of Our Town: Joseph Prior, E. E. Thompson, Gilbert Thompson, James Campbell, Joseph Farrelly, Elmer Carlson, Andy C. Anderson, Eben Jayne, Jack Travnicek, and M. E. Barquist. Mr. Rappaport lives at the Plaisance hotel.

They called it "just a family gathering" last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Seyfarth, 6103 South Peoria avenue, when the couple celebrated a 60th wedding anniversary. Mr. Seyfarth was born in Blue Island and Mrs. Seyfarth in Chicago. CHIEF OF ARMY AREA TO AWARD CADET COLORS

Feature of R. O. T. C. Review June 4.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area, has accepted the invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to present colors to Chicago R. O. T. C. units which place first and second in federal inspections to be completed tomorrow. The presentation in Tribune Square June 4, will climax the annual Cadet day parade on Michigan avenue, and will immediately precede the unveiling of the Nathan Hale statue which is to stand between The Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building.

Lieut. Gen. Ford.

The American flags are given annually by THE TRIBUNE to encourage the Chicago R. O. T. C. to greater achievement in citizenship, leadership, courtesy, neatness, and discipline. Last year's first and second place winners were Tilden and Crane Technical High schools, respectively.

Two Units in Ceremony.

The parade up Michigan avenue is scheduled to begin at 12 o'clock at Balbo avenue, and 26 school units will disperse at Randolph street. The two winning schools, numbering about 500 cadets, will march on to Tribune Square, where the ceremonies are to begin at 1:15 o'clock.

After the flag presentation Dr. William Warren Sweet, professor of American church history at the University of Chicago, will give the address dedicating the statue of Nathan Hale, which will be unveiled by cadet commanders of the two school military groups. Cadets then will unite in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The statue is a duplicate of the well known one at Yale university, from which Capt. Hale was graduated in 1773, three years before he was hanged by the British troops as a spy.

Choices Not Yet Made.

Which two schools will take part in this patriotic ceremony will not be known until several days before the parade. Maj. Norman M. Nelson, who is conducting the inspections, said that after the final inspections tomorrow his report must be drawn up, sealed, and approved by war department officials in Washington before it is released thru the 6th corps area headquarters here.

Maj. Nelson expressed astonishment at the excellent performance of the units he has already inspected.

"The enthusiasm and proficiency evident in the schools I have seen is largely due to coöperation offered by the school authorities," he said.

He pointed out that R. O. T. C. regulations call for three hours weekly of training for each cadet, but that in Chicago schools at least five is given. In most instances the R. O. T. C. occupies a special position with regard to student activities such as the fire guard and police patrol.

The only schools which remain to be inspected are Amundsen and Lake View. The Amundsen unit will be examined tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in Winnemac park, Damen and Foster avenues; and the Lake View unit at 1:15 o'clock in Welles park, Montrose and Western avenues.

Dancing parties will be held at each social center. The admittance fees will be turned over to the Red Cross. Contributing their services for the night will be N. Y. A. and R. O. T. C. boy attendants, chaperons, managers of the centers, and the engineering force of the board of education, under the direction of John Howatt, chief engineer.

On the south and southwest side, parties will take place at: Calumet, DuSable, Farragut, Fenger, Kelly, Hyde Park, Lindblom, Medill, and Tilden high schools.

WANTS AN EVEN BREAK.

As a believer in competition to bring out the best in people, especially youths, I am wondering if the present judging of the 27 R. O. T. C. units in the public schools is altogether fair. This spring the south side scohols are being inspected by the visiting officer first and the north side schools last. For instance, Hirsch and Bowen High schools were examined on May 7, while Amundsen and Lake View will not be reviewed until May 27. This undoubtedly favors the latter schools, not only because they had a full two weeks longer to study their theory and perfect their drilling but because this spring, like most springs in Chicago, was cold and rainy, and made it tough on these kids who had to shiver with a military bearing in outdoor ceremonies.

Now I have a son who is a corporal at Bowen and a nephew who has just become a captain in the Hirsch unit, and I would like to see them lined up with the No. 1 and No. 2 corps in the city during your Tribune parade on June 4. It would make me proud to think at least one of them was responsible for helping his bunch win the Tribune colors. But how can we expect a south side school to win when they haven't been given as much of a chance to make a splendid showing as the north side schools? It seems to me this thing could be divided up better around the city. I think it was something like 10 or 11 south side schools that were inspected from May 7 to May 14. Why doesn't the army give all Chicago an even break? W. F. M.

ANTIDOTE FOR UNREST.

While my neighbors worry about "fifth columns" and what Hitler's doing, I like occasionally to think of the actual business before us here in our small locality. For the last few weeks my neighbors, while they've been talking war, have really been busy getting out to vote for new high school districts. Within the last month they've agreed to establish a community high school district in Crete and one in Beecher. I see by the papers that other districts are also interested in organizing high schools. When my neighbors get too excited about conditions I like to suggest that perhaps a country where there are free high schools and the opportunities they represent for every one is pretty safe from "left wings," "fifth columns," and "reds."

6 CLOSED BANKS REPAY $286,000 TO DEPOSITORS

Refunds Shown as Made in First Quarter.

More than 36,000 depositors of six more closed state banks on the southwest side received an additional $286,000 in repayments during the opening 1940 quarter.

This is indicated in statements made public by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett last week, showing the condition of the defunct state institutions in receivership as of March 31.

These statements are made up from reports submitted by the receivers. Charles H. Albers is general receiver for all except two of the 130 state banks in Cook county that are still in receivership. The additional banks that made new repayments and the amounts each disbursed are:

Roseland State Savings, $80,000 or 5 per cent; South-West Trust and Savings, $60,000 or 4 per cent; Stockmen's Trust and Savings, $31,000 or 5 per cent; Universal State, $30,000 or 5 per cent; West Highland State, $41,000 or 5 per cent, and Wiersma State, $44,000 or 5 per cent.

Here are summarized statements for the final group of southwest banks, with the receivers' estimates of what depositors can still expect:

Roseland State Savings—Total receipts, $1,607,387. Paid on prior claims, $146,348. Paid depositors, $963,469, or 60 per cent. The depositors may some day get 5 or 10 per cent more.

Sherman State—Total receipts, $261,689. Paid on prior claims, $58,443. Paid depositors, $78,871, or 37½ per cent. Costs: Receivers, $4,044; legal, $9,737; clerical, $27,315; interest, $1,293; advanced to protect assets, $50,370, with $48,295 refunded. Cash, $14,966. Estimates indicate there will be another 5 per cent or so eventually.

Costs: Receivers, $4,209; legal, $17,953; clerical, $54,003; interest, $5,302; advanced to protect assets, $70,559, with $57,805 refunded. Cash, $22,873. From 5 to 8 per cent additional is regarded as a possibility.

DAMEN AVENUE IMPROVEMENT TO BE DEDICATED

Ceremony Scheduled for Sunday Afternoon.

Dedication of the $600,000 South Damen avenue improvement extending from 74th to 79th street, is now scheduled for 2 o'clock next Sunday. It had been planned for earlier in the season, but work delays caused postponements each time a date was set.

This improvement covers a distance of 3,286 feet. It consists of: [1] Construction of a concrete and steel subway under four main line tracks of the Wabash railroad and two tracks of the Belt railroad; [2] a concrete and steel subway under two tracks serving local industries; [3] approaches to the subways cut thru the property of the Clayton Mark company and the Southwest Manufacturing District corporation; [4] street work consisting of new pavement, sidewalks, and sewers, and [5] street lighting.

Work Long Delayed.

From 1920 until 1938, attempts were made to open this thorofare. Finally, with the aid of state and federal funds, ways and means of overcoming obstacles were devised two years ago.

Work was begun in December, 1938, and was financed jointly from the city's share of the motor fuel tax fund and a PWA grant. Work was done by the city under the local improvement board and its president, Michael F. Mulcahy.

Effects of Improvement.

The improvement provides a thorofare thru from 47th to 87th street. Previously, the nearest openings thru this area were Ashland avenue, one-half mile east of Damen, and Western avenue, one-half mile west. An immediate benefit expected is the development of the subdivision just south of 76th street.

The new sewer system will take care of the drainage in the subways, the large manufacturing plants, and the new homes and buildings between 76th street and 79th street. The new roadway is 51 feet wide, and the sidewalks are 7 feet, 6 inches wide.

Will Hold Dance.

Congregation Beth Eliezer will hold a May dance and card party this evening at the Congregation auditorium, 4601 Drexel boulevard. Mrs. T. C. Korshak is president of the Daughters of Beth Eliezer, organization assisting with dance.

Look Back to War

James Henry Lewis.

James Quigley.

Ezra Peebles.

John Burke.

While the world has suffered many wars in the last eight decades, and The War to most moderns means Europe's present conflagration, to these four veterans, the war means memories of a long ago conflict when the boys in blue met the waves of gray-clad soldiers from the south. Again on Memorial day they will be taking part in services commemorating the heroes of the civil war.

THREE REASONS WHY BOY BUILDS A LIE DETECTOR

One, Says Stanley, Was a Radio Reaction Test.

A trip to the University of Chicago to be tested for his reactions to radio programs, an interest in electricity, and a helpful mechanical drawing teacher are all reasons why Stanley Wayne Salter, 15, grade 2B at Parker High school, has built the smallest known lie detector that works. With its power supply the machine weighs 35 pounds. Without the power transformers the weight is two pounds.

Stanley Salter.

When Stanley was in grade 8B at Parker Grammar school he was one of the youngsters selected for the university tests conducted by Prof. J. J. De Bourgh. Stanley's interest in electricity dates back to—well, a long time ago, he says. And the interest in the lie detector was born of the university testing experience.

Stanley went to high school and there he met O. E. Friedl, mechanical drawing instructor. Mr. Friedl assisted and encouraged, and Stanley started work on the lie detector last October. He finished it in about four months, and now he uses it. He says he's discovered where some of his belongings are, and he has been finding out little known facts in the lives of his friends—if they stay his friends.

Stanley Explains It.

"Once the question is asked," Stanley explains, "the answer really isn't necessary. The needle registers the answer thru registering what the emotions say. There is a long name for the process. It is the amplified records of the galvanic skin reflex."

The builder has submitted to tests himself. He says he can foil the detector now and then, for "after all, it's only a machine!"

And what makes a lie detector, Stanley says the parts are a tube [a 56 type], two transformers, 10 or 12 resisters, a galvanometer, six condensers, a couple of hand electrodes [Stanley uses two nickels], two rheostats, and some copper wire. Cost, complete, from $25 to $35, according to how much stuff a fellow can salvage from shops and from his own collection of gadgets.

Assembled in Two Days.

Stanley has been taking radios apart for years. It took him just a couple of days actually to assemble his little outfit. The rest of the building time was used for experimenting and "just thinking." Mr. Friedl did quite a little of the thinking, too, Stanley says. "I can't claim all the credit. My teacher helped all the time."

The boy could get no information on lie detectors because the machines are not common enough.

For the last three years Stanley has had a laboratory in his home at 7041 Eggleston avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Salter, and his father is a maintenance engineer.

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD NATIONAL MEETING FRIDAY

But All Will Be Calumet High Students.

This country's presidential future will be settled Friday at Calumet High school when the United States history and civic classes put the model National Democratic convention on record. Keynoter and permanent chairman will be Robert Girtin, who won his place over Eugene Duff and Allen Burris.

Constantine Kontos, chairman of the National committee, is announcing the following subcommittee chairmen: Paul Becker, chairman of dividing states among the classes; Eugene Duff, chairman of elections; Donald Claus, program; J. V. Cunningham, publicity and signs, and Florence Carson, acting secretary. Other national committee members are Ken Dedrick, Roland Sanders, Edward Kurry, Sam McLaughry, and Ruth Greenlee.

The National committee has been meeting once a week, and each civics and United States history class has one delegate to it. Duties of the delegates are to organize the convention and to plan it to operate as much like an actual convention as possible.

Work on Aspirants.

Besides planning the convention, delegates have been busy persuading the various aspirants to "yield." Support has been solicited and pledged for President Roosevelt, Paul McNutt, A. B. Chandler, Eleanor Roosevelt, James M. Farley, John N. Garner, Burton K. Wheeler, Cordell Hull, Robert Jackson, and others.

The actual convention will be called to order at 8 o'clock Friday morning in the school auditorium. Order of business is scheduled to follow the course outlined for the Democratic convention here in July. Kontos will introduce Girtin who will give the keynote speech. After the opening address, states will answer roll call.

Students chose the Democrat convention because it will actually take place here. Calumet's first mock convention was held in 1932, and in 1936 the students selected the Republican meeting as a sample.

Balcony for Visitors.

Balcony of the school auditorium has been reserved for visitors. Invitations to attend have been sent to Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Courtney, Aldermen Bernard O'Halloren [18th], John Duffy [19th], and others.

Subcommittee members are Jim Costakis, Gus Lambares, Sheldon Ginsburg, states; Jorj Tychsen, Windell Russell, Michael Coccia, program; Marty Black, Ellis Bradley, Martin Kennely, election, and Mary Kennedy, Allen Burris, Carl Wienold and Martin Kennely, publicity.

History and civics teachers believe that the convention will help students to understand national politics. The All Calumet Civic league, Calumet's student government, is coöperating in the convention plans by paying for badges and decorations.

SERVING CHICAGO FOR 92 YEARS

OLD BUNGALOW GROWS INTO HOME OF EIGHT ROOMS

Roof Lifted to Provide Upstairs Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth first looked at the little bungalow they later purchased at 1721 West 100th place, and deliberated on purchase, site, costs of renovation, and so on, the original bungalow, judging from pictures of it and from Mrs. Booth's description, looked very much like the "last of pea time." It was a far from seductive little gray bungalow, not doing justice to itself or its site in a nice residential block in Beverly Hills.

However, after due consideration, Mr. and Mrs. Booth decided to make the investment. They felt that modernization could redeem it and that things could be done for it to make it a home with "youth on the prow and pleasure at the helm."

And things were done for it! Here's how:

The original bungalow had a large front porch and entrance door which opened directly into a squarish living room, small dark bedrooms, an ageing dining room and kitchen, and an outmoded bathroom.

Old Porch Ripped Off.

The porch was ripped off, the layout on the first floor changed in several ways, the roof lifted, and three new bedrooms and a large bathroom built on the second floor.

Now the house has eight rooms, a bath and a powder room, a sunny breakfast room opening from the kitchen and paneled in pine; and, besides a wealth of storage space, a small study room for Mr. Booth on the first floor.

No doubt but that this new home which has stepped into the shoes of the old one has been very skilfully altered. The enlargement of the rooms and the change in layout have been adroitly and capably handled.

This newborn home has exterior walls of California redwood siding, painted white and heavily insulated. The entrance was moved to the side of the house, with a wall of rugged stone. When the roof was raised to permit the second floor bedrooms and bath, a new front gable and dormers were built.

Closet Near Entrance.

The main entrance to the house is now directly into a compact, small hallway, with oval window at left, a guest closet, door chimes, and gayly flowered, light blue wall paper.

The living room is at the right and the fireplace wall on the opposite side is an arresting feature. Where once was a dejected small brick fireplace with stained glass windows there is now a wide fireplace painted white, with a stunning black marble facing and mirror above to the ceiling. The stained glass windows were covered with clapboards, and built-in bookcases substituted.

Likewise, in this living room there are French doors to a front terrace which will be of flagstone. The floors are carpeted in a phantom peach shade and the white woodwork has an eggshell finish. The papered walls of this room, as well as the stair hall which leads from it to the second floor, have a pale gray background, enlivened by a faint tone of dusty pink.

Bay in Dining Room.

The wainscot in the dining room is a rich gray with the same phantom dusty pink tone. There are new arches between living room and dining room, and a bay has been added to this latter room. The effect of the first floor is a bright, open one.

In place of a bedroom beyond the living room there is now a large, modern powder room, with space for dressing table, a sizable storage closet, and also a convenient small study-den for Mr. Booth.

The kitchen has been entirely remodeled with dropped ceiling, ventilator, and large sink under a window. The back bedroom, which was originally small and dark, was given more light by the addition of an extra window, and more space by ripping out the kitchen pantry which extended into it, and also an old closet.

New Breakfast Room.

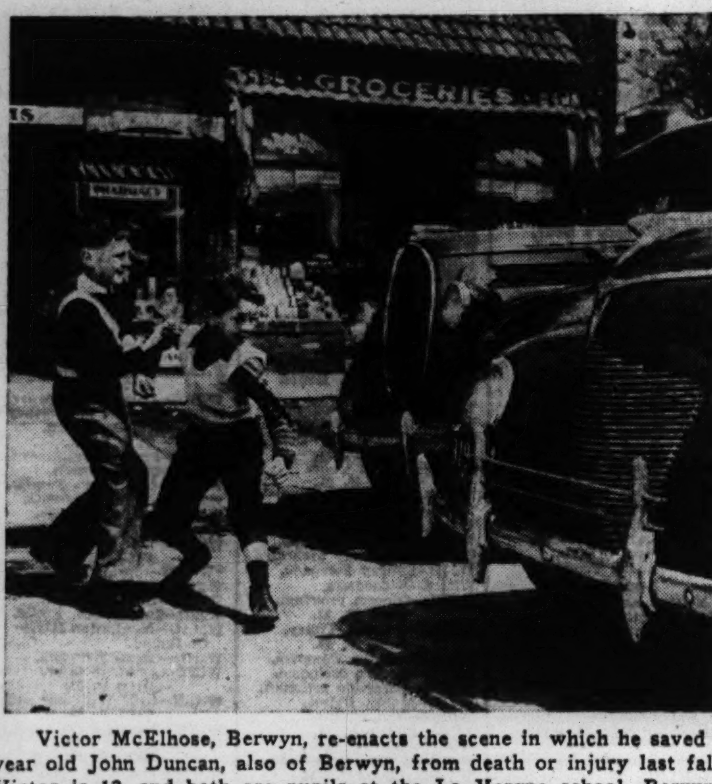
The former back stairs between hall and kitchen were closed, with space cleverly retained to accommodate brooms, vacuum, and household cleaning equipment of various sorts. The new back entrance to street has had its walls paneled in pine. Similar treatment has been given to the walls of the beuatiful, sunny, new breakfast room, opening from the kitchen.

The basement was given a new, forced warm air heating plant, gas fueled.

On the second floor there are the three bedrooms, all with intriguing alcoves, made possible by the new roof's outlines. There are two closets in each bedroom.

The second floor bath is unusually large, with one of the new type square tubs and a handsome black and white marbleized composition floor.

Shows How He Saved Life



Victor McElhose, Berwyn, re-enacts the scene in which he saved 9 year old John Duncan, also of Berwyn, from death or injury last fall. Victor is 12, and both are pupils at the La Vergne school, Berwyn, Victor being a member of the school safety patrol. He will be among the safety patrol heroes who will be honored on a W-G-N program June 7.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 27.

It is time to turn water into the tropical lily pool to permit it to warm up a bit. The boxes should be in place and filled with rich soil. Fill the pool until the water level is slightly below the top of the boxes to permit planting about June 1. Plant lilies one plant to a box. Good, dependable varieties are August Koch, pink pearl, and Chicago. Giant varieties include Mrs. Edward Whitaker, Gen. Pershing, Mrs. Pring, O'Mara, and others. Many kinds of hardy lilies are available. Plants to supplement the lilies and add interest where there is sufficient room in the pool include the water hyacinth, water poppy, parrot's feather, cat tail, floating heart, paper reed or papyrus, and many others. Plants to grow along the pool margin include the Siberian iris, yellow flag, marshmallow, and Japanese iris. Put goldfish in the pool and the mosquitoes will not have a chance.

Tuesday, May 28.

Plant cannas. Do not cut the grass too short—about 1½ inches is the right height for a bluegrass lawn. Water peonies when in bud to obtain high grade flowers. Prune goldenbells after they finish flowering. Repot the poinsettia, cut back the stems if necessary, and plunge in the garden as soon as the weather is settled. Examine each day and water if dry. Spray perennials to prevent disease, such as mildew. Keep after the weeds at all times. Watch for aphids on sweet peas. Keep all flowers picked each day or remove withered blooms to prevent seed from forming.

Wednesday, May 29.

Plant out all bedding plants, such as geraniums. If the plants were carried over during winter cut them back before planting out of doors. Try different varieties of geraniums, for they are always delightful. Sow castor beans as screens, for they are quite tropical in appearance and grow rapidly. The elephant ear grows from a bulb and does well. Give it plenty of water and food and the leaves will grow very large. In congested areas of the city sow four o'clocks, for they thrive under most conditions. They make a nice hedge. Plant a few tiger flowers; also montbretias, which look something like gladioli. Tuberoses are always interesting and their chalk whiteness and penetrating fragrance are particularly desirable.

Thursday, May 30.

Stake peonies before they grow out of bounds. Special wire frames may be purchased. Spray roses for black spot and mildew and dust hollyhocks, phlox, and delphinium with sulphur. Spray the hawthorn and Virginia creeper with bordeaux for leaf spot. Use it on lilies for blight. Currants should be sprayed with a nicotine preparation to kill aphids. Cottonlike masses on maple branches are caused by the cottony woolly aphid; nicotine will kill them.

Friday, May 31.

When setting out plants always firm the soil around the roots. Shade the plants for a day or two until they have somewhat recovered from the disturbance of moving. Be sure to apply a complete plant food to all plants that are grown in poor soil. Zinnias are among the most dependable annuals and the seed still can be sown with excellent results, altho the flowers will be late. They like hot weather. They are fine in masses or when used as a hedge. Mildew frequently attacks these plants; keep it in check by dusting with finely ground sulphur. During wet weather black spot may appear—spray with bordeaux or dust with copper lime dust.

Saturday, June 1.

Give hardy chrysanthemums a feeding of complete, balanced food, using a tablespoonful to the square foot about the plants. Work the material into the soil and water. Roses can be mulched with peat moss if decayed manure is not available. Plant food can be put on top of the peat and watered in. After blooming cut off the old flowers on the peonies and apply food to the soil. Peonies grow during the summer and they need plenty of food to produce next season's crowns. Keep all withered flowers removed from perennials. Feed the plants after blooming with a complete plant food. Keep the soil stirred in beds and borders. Keep the edges of beds cut. Never allow weeds to grow in gravel walks and paths.

The Harvard school was founded in 1865 by John Schobinger, father of the principal. Its first enrollment listed 16 boys.

LAKE VIEW HIGH HAS 35% OF BOYS IN R. O. T. C. UNIT

Leads All City Schools; Morgan Park Second.

Thirty-five per cent of the boys at Lake View High school are members of the R. O. T. C. regiment, a survey last week revealed. This percentage is greater than in any other public school unit in the city, the lowest enrollment being 9.3 per cent.

There are 476 students taking military training at the school out of a masculine enrollment of 1,358. Sergt. Albert D. Lee, military instructor at the school since 1920, attributes the high percentage to the fact that military training has been given at Lake View as long as at any other school in Chicago, and that during this time the R. O. T. C. unit has become influential in many phases of school life, including the fire guard, student government, and the police patrol.

Credits Sergt. Lee.

Capt. E. F. Hocke, who is director of physical education at the school, gives credit to Sergt. Lee for the high rating. Capt. Hocke was military instructor at the school for several years prior to 1920, when the existing R. O. T. C. was provided for in the National Defense act.

"The boys all like him and he likes them; those are the main things," Capt. Hocke said.

Morgan Park High school ranks second in percentage, with 301 out of 1,063 boys taking military training—or about 30 per cent. Other high ranking schools are Sullivan, 28 per cent; Amundsen, 27 per cent; Foreman, 21 per cent; Von Steuben, 21 per cent, and Schurz, 16.9 per cent, notwithstanding the fact that freshmen are not enrolled.

Other Schools' Rating.

The other schools follow in this order: Du Sable, Fenger, Hirsch, Lindblom, Harper, Hyde Park, Roosevelt, Senn, Austin, Lane, Steinmetz, Bowen, Waller, Englewood, Kelly, Tilden, Calumet, Crane, Harrison, and Marshall.

Due to its high percentage, the Lake View unit is third in the city in size, altho in number of boys enrolled the school ranks 20th out of the 27 schools. Tho the largest unit, which is at Lane Tech, lists 1,059 cadets, this comprises only 14.6 per cent of the student body.

Taking the Chicago high schools as a whole, there are 9,203 boys out of 58,613 enrolled in military training. The general average is 15.7 per cent.

YOUNG SAILORS MAN FLEET AT CALUMET PARK

DinghyCrews Compete in Weekly Races.

Calumet park, nestling in the shadow of South Chicago's fiery steel mills and the state line power plant, is turning workingmen's sons into amateur yachtsmen. Like the Liptons and the Vanderbilts, about 30 neighborhood boys have begun to sprinkle their speech with such phrases as "coming about," "pointing to windward," and "luffing," and on bright, breezy days they push sailing dinghies into Calumet harbor to challenge the playful and often robust winds and waters. Officially they comprise the Rainbow fleet.

The fleet has the park district to thank for its existence. The park supplies six gaff-rigged dinghies for boys between 14 and 18 years old. Six additional dinghies are expected to be sent to the park next month. The dinghies, or "dinks," as their skippers call them, are 10½ feet long, constructed of mahogany. Boys are taught to sail them by William Zobel, the park's craft instructor, and members of the fleet who demonstrated their skill last year, when the club was organized.

Ideal for Sailing.

During the week the boys practice and on Sundays the red, blue, and yellow sails of the fleet may be seen scooting before the wind in fiercely contested races. Each ships a skipper and a crew of one, who crouch beneath their single sail and maneuver their craft.

"There is only a minimum of danger, too," he says, "because before the boys are allowed to sail they must be able to swim 50 yards with all their clothes on and 200 yards in bathing suits. Besides, we have a coast guard station within sight of where they sail."

The park also teaches private boat building. At present a Lightning class boat, 19 feet long, is being finished by William Swanson, 9833 Avenue J, and Bud Erickson, 9841 Avenue L. The youths, who began their work last October, bought their own lumber and made their own forms, but used the lathes, circular saw, drill press, and other tools in the Calumet park boat shop, under Mr. Zobel's supervision. Four kayaks also are under construction by boys at the park.

Work During Winter.

The Rainbow fleet met regularly during the winter at the park to work on boats, discuss sailing, and yearn collectively for spring. Members are Arthur Lekew, Roger Weber, Harold Reid, Robert Howe, Alfred Matz, James Matz, Arthur Emanuel, William Shon, John Dorigan, Emil Nelson, Louis Berg, Ted Wake, Lee Nash, Anthony Mastronardi, Jack Kovich, Frank Ryan, Rudolph Novosel, Colman Anderson, Frank Delconio, Peter Krilich, George West, Wesley Gerdel, Donald Gerdel, Robert Anderson, John Leo, Adolph Mastronardi, Boris Bruce, Louis Serpe, and Carl Berna.

'BLOSSOM TIME' NEXT ON W-G-N THEATER OF AIR

Miss Claire, Igor Gorin, Bartlett to Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For its third production the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening will present Sigmund Romberg's melodic operetta, "Blossom Time," which is based on the life and work of Franz Schubert.

This performance will bring together three celebrated singers: Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano; Igor Gorin, internationally famous baritone, and Michael Bartlett, the American tenor.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be aired from 9 to 10 p. m. Thursday from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

An audience of specially invited guests who are officials and members of The Tribune Chicagoland Music Festival committee will attend the performance.

First Radio Showing Here.

Chicagoans last witnessed Sigmund Romberg's beautiful operetta in the fall of 1938 when it made its ninth appearance here. The Chicago Theater of the Air's radio version, which is to be directed and produced by William A. Bacher, will be the first broadcast presentation from Chicago.

The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. The same fine dramatic cast, which performed in the two previous Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, including Alice Hill, Olan Soule, Fran Carlon, Willard Waterman, Bret Morrison, Marvin Mueller, Judith Lowry, will play the dramatic rôles.

Miss Claire Sings Mitzi.

Miss Claire will be heard as Mitzi; Gorin will portray Franz Schubert and Bartlett will be cast as Baron Franz Schobar.

Marion Claire was starred in the first two Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, "Bittersweet" and "The Student Prince." On Sunday nights she is the soloist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour, aired at 8 o'clock on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Igor Gorin, who scored a success as Dr. Engel in the radio operetta, "The Student Prince," brings to his rôle of Franz Schubert a great baritone voice. He is best known to Americans for his performances in the movie, "Broadway Melody of 1938," the radio program, "Hollywood Hotel," and for his concerts.

Educated at Princeton.

Michael Bartlett's ancestors came to America in colonial times. Born in Massachusetts, he attended Princeton university and began his musical career there with the Triangle club. He decided to make music his life's work upon graduation, and studied in Milan, Italy.

After additional study in Rome, he attracted the attention of the Crown Prince Umberto, Princess Mafalda, and United States Ambassador Henry Fletcher, who sponsored him in many concerts and recitals in Rome, Turin, and Trieste. Bartlett's first big triumph came in the musical movie, "Love Me Forever," in which he was cast opposite Grace Moore. He also was starred in the movie, "Follow Your Heart," with Marion Talley. He has starred in the operettas, "Three Waltzes" and "The Cat and the Fiddle."

Among the guests representing The Tribune Chicagoland Musical Festival committee will be Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director; Fred Miller, supervisor of field events; Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the band and instrumental contests; Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal and choral contests; Prof. Walter A. Stults, president of the Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing; Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumentalists, Chicago public schools; Miss Helen Howe, director of music, Chicago public schools, and Philip Maxwell, music festival director of THE TRIBUNE.

A full color picture of Miss Neagle wearing the "Alice blue gown," specially created for the new musical picture, "Irene," in which she is starred, appears on page 1 of part 7 of today's SUNDAY TRIBUNE. There are also full stories about the special W-G-N show and the life and career of Miss Neagle and of Mr. Meredith as well as additional pictures. A CHOIR SINGER MEETS OLD BOSS ON W-G-N SHOW

A Moody Bible Institute choir singer was a guest on last Tuesday's "What Do You Say?" quiz show on W-G-N. During her visit she revealed that she demonstrated the sponsor's product 40 years ago and didn't know until she was in the studio that she was once again appearing with her former employer.

"What Do You Say?" the quiz show produced by, with, and for women, is heard daily at 12:15 to 12:30 p. m., Monday thru Friday, over W-G-N. Alan Scott and the engineer are the only two men that have anything to do with the program from the sponsor to the audience. The producer, writer, and supervisor are all women.

Prizes offered include $1 for every question used when sent in by a listener, $5 for each of four women guests appearing on the show and a grand award of $10 for the best question of the week.

WOMEN'S CLUBS ARE INVITED TO SHOW ON W-G-N

"What Do You Say?"—a program presented by and for women—has extended invitations to all Chicago women's clubs to attend the broadcasts. Each club, upon appearance, receives mention of its presence over the air. Last week, groups from the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and representatives of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad auxiliary were among those attending.

Alan Scott asks questions which require opinions rather than direct answers.

"What Do You Say?" is heard daily, Monday thru Friday, from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. over W-G-N.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

SOUTH SIDE TO SALUTE WAR HEROES

BUGLES OF 1861 ECHO AGAIN FOR BOYS IN BLUE

They're Past 90, Yet Memories Linger.

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

They've dusted their hats with the braid tied 'round and looped in front—they've dusted their coats and rehung the encampment medals near the left lapels. They're ready for another Memorial day. "They" are the soldier boys of almost eight decades ago, the veterans of the civil war. Few are left now, but those few carry on, altho, "when a fellow's 95, it's kind of tiresome to stand in a reception line for two or three hours." So says Ezra Peebles of 6707 South Halsted street. He likes the ceremonies for the veterans, however, and he'll be on hand for the Memorial day parade.

So will John Burke of 7947 Peoria street, another southwest side veteran, and James Quigley of 7923 Harvard street. Another veteran will be James Henry Lewis, retired Negro lawyer of 4409 Federal street.

It's all a long while ago. But the fellows who were the 'teen age youngsters of '61 to '65 remember the campaigns, the short rations, the fall of Vicksburg.

96 Next September.

Mr. Peebles, who says, "I'll be 96 if I live until the 21st day of September," recalls that he enlisted in Kankakee and left here for Memphis about Dec. 1, 1862, with the 113th Illinois infantry under Col. George B. Hoge. Peebles was from Iroquois county. Originally, the recruiting at Kankakee was for a regiment, but the lads from the surrounding territory were so patriotic that a regiment and a half signed for service. Cook county happened to have half a regiment, so the two halves were consolidated as the 3d Board of Trade regiment.

Peebles recalls the trip down the river from Cairo to Vicksburg . . . the assaults on the Confederate fort there . . . the defeats . . . and the last long siege that began May 22 and lasted until July 3 when the southerners surrendered. He remembers that he lived 21 days on five days' rations, but "I was never hungry a meal, because I don't believe in eating too much anyhow."

Born at Solon Mills, McHenry county, in 1844, Peebles was the son of settlers from Lewis county, New York. He was 11 years old when his father, his sister, and his brother-in-law all died of Asiatic cholera on the same day.

Wabash on the Lake.

"Chicago wasn't much when I first saw it," he said. "Lake Michigan washed Wabash avenue." He came to the city to live in 1888, and in 1890 he and his nephew put up the building where Peebles now lives. Never married, Peebles says, "I missed a whole lot of trouble." He firmly believes "if that man Lincoln had lived out his term and a good many years after to advise people" many of the problems of the reconstruction period would have been solved happily.

John Burke ran away from his home in Aurora to join the 108th Illinois on Aug. 8, 1862, in Peoria. He, too, fought at Vicksburg and in the surrounding territory. He was 15 when he went away to fight. Of the 100 boys in his company, 17 came back. Now Mr. Burke is the only one left. He thinks he is the last of his regiment, too.

James Quigley was a sailor in the civil war. Altho he didn't fight in major battles, he explains that "if you get hit by a bullet in a little battle or a big one, the result's about the same."

Learns He's No Citizen.

Born in Scotland on June 1, 1848, Quigley began voting in this country in 1868, because "I thought I was a citizen after my navy service." He was told he wasn't only a couple of years ago, so he has been naturalized.

A smallish chap, Quigley went into show business after the civil war. He was a magician, a Punch and Judy operator, a dog and bird trainer, and a lightning sketch artist. When he had a show on Clark street between Madison and Washington, he says that reporters dropped in to sharpen their pencils. That was in the '70s and '80s, when his "kind of an Eskimo dog" named Snow was with him. He had his cockatoo, Tommy, then, also. In the winters he stayed in Chicago. Summers, he worked the fairs thru the state and set up business in the city parks.

Once he bought a crate of 30 roosters. There were 11 left when he had them trained, and then the venture failed. "Those chickens couldn't learn to stay awake nights and roost days. And that's how you have to work in show business. "Quigley had his show in the postoffice building at the time of the Chicago fire. He showed at Crosby's Opera house, too. "Sometimes," he recalls, "I'd get a part to say 'Yes, sir,' at McVicker's."

Will Speak Twice.

Oldest southwest side comrade is James Henry Lewis who will be 99 on Sept. 1 and who will speak at two schools the day before Memorial day.

Lewis enlisted at Vicksburg, Miss., with the northern forces. He was in company B of the 3d cavalry. Coming north after the war, he studied law and in 1892 was graduated from Northwestern university. Active in veterans' work, he also takes part in other organizations. He belongs to 13 benevolent societies.

School Riding Club Plans Jaunt

Pretty girl, handsome boy, country fence, blossoms, and a riding horse named Firefly . . . make a picture to announce that 20 men and co-eds of the Morgan Park Junior College Riding club will leave on a cross country jaunt Friday noon. Betty Stober is secretary of the club and lives at 10337 Prospect avenue. Posing with her is Bob Ehrler, president of the club. He resides at 10020 Hoyne avenue.

Safety Patrol Boys to Be Paid Radio Tribute

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

[PICTURE ON PAGE 2.]

In tribute to the more than a quarter of a million boys and girls of America who safeguard the lives of fellow pupils during the school term, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will sponsor a half hour radio broadcast on W-G-N Friday night, June 7, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the new W-G-N audience studio.

Charles M. Hayes.

Special guests will be 600 outstanding members of the school safety patrols of the Chicago and Cook county schools, founded by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Mr. Hayes will be the principal speaker on the program.

The entertainment will feature Harold Stokes and his orchestra. Novelty acts especially appealing to young America will punctuate the broadcast. A special tribute will be paid to five lads who have been awarded distinguished service medals by the Chicago Motor club. They are Victor McElhose [La Vergne school] of Berwyn, David Velen [Lawson school], 1256 South Homan avenue, and Stanley Burmeister [Whittier school], 1900 West 23d street, both of Chicago; John Edwards, and Donald Banks of Danville and Quincy, Ill., respectively.

Each Saved a Life.

These boys each saved a life. Their deeds are typical of the splendid service which all of these safety patrol members give to their local communities. The safety patrol was organized in 1922 and the movement has spread thruout the United States and nearly 10 foreign countries.

Other guests will be chairmen of safety councils and educational and civic leaders in Chicago and suburbs. This group will include Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools; Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools; George W. Flemming, general secretary of Keep Chicago Safe committee; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education in the Chicago public schools, and Leslie J. Sorsenson, city traffic engineer.

Bob Elson to Talk.

Following the broadcast Bob Elson, baseball announcer of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, will introduce celebrities of the baseball world, and Chester Gould, creator of Dick Tracy, will give a chalk talk.

Assisting in the preparation of this tribute to the contribution which these young "Citizens of Tomorrow" are making to America, are George Barton, director of the safety and traffic department, and Gordon Sheehe, assistant, both of the motor club.

Five Hyde Park High school students were fêted at a recent banquet in the Morrison hotel as winners of honors in the Greater Chicago Scholastic Press guild writers' tournament. They are Stephen Allen, 6059 Green street; Elaine Benesohn, 6706 Clyde avenue; Jean Harper, Crete; Ruth Imler, 1500 East 70th street, and Mary McCaffery, 5307 Blackstone avenue.

TODAY Michael Karleskind is motoring to St. Joseph, Mich., carrying seven Our Mother of Sorrows stations—paintings 36 by 30 inches—to be placed in the St. Joseph's church of that city. Mr. Karleskind is proud of his gift, for it represents the fulfillment of a promise made by the late Mrs. Karleskind to the Rev. J. V. Coyle, St. Joseph's pastor. Last summer the Karleskinds visiting St. Joseph, discovered the church's need for the stations in conducting Our Mother of Sorrows novenas. Mrs. Karleskind, an artist, told Father Coyle that she would paint the stations for him, and when the Karleskinds returned home she began working 10 hours a day on the project. On Oct. 19, however, she died, with three stations completed.

Sister Mary Paul, of St. Xavier's academy, 8100 Prairie avenue, volunteered to finish the work and recently the four additional stations, to Mr. Karleskind's delight, were completed. Mr. Karleskind believes that it is fitting that his wife's final work should not have been left unfinished, for she painted every day of her life for the last 20 years. Most of her art was religious; 12 years ago she gave 14 stations to a church in Houston, Tex., the fruit of three years' steady labor.

Robert Lee Millis, 12 year old dramatic student, will give a recital at 3 o'clock next Sunday in Timothy church, 83d and Paulina streets.

Home Defense Plan Advances with a Rush

Twenty-two sharpshooters from the south side and suburbs have responded to the plan to organize a body of modern American "minute men," who will be available to defend their homes and communities in the event of a national emergency. The organization is called the Sportsmen's Defense reserve and includes marksmen from every state in the nation.

The plan is an outgrowth of the current European war, which has demonstrated the need for a nation's inner defense, particularly against parachute troops. The Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs, which quickly indorsed the idea, expects approximately 50,000 of its members to join the civilian army.

First Volunteers.

The following marksmen from the south area have volunteered to join the organization: Joseph Lopez, 8828 Buffalo avenue, Marshy Acres Gun club; Clarence Jennings, 7027 Calumet avenue; W. J. Ferguson, 2301 Prairie avenue; V. Wesley Cormack, 1906 Prairie avenue, 341st infantry reserve; Edward H. Lee, 5609 Maryland avenue; J. B. Smith, 8233 Evans avenue; W. W. Coe, 8233 Evans avenue; J. H. Cumming, 2326 South Michigan avenue; Dr. Harry E. L. Timm, 9901 South Ewing avenue, Whiting Trapshooters' club.

Joseph Grein, Hotel Sherman, South Shore Hunting club; C. N. Curry, 1114 East 65th street; Henry A. Ayers, 5242 Hyde Park boulevard, South Shore Country club; William G. Hogencamp, 2016 East 93d street, Marshy Acres Gun club; Charles Lopez, 8828 Buffalo avenue, Marshy Acres Gun club.

More Join Group.

J. R. P. Kettle, Gary, Gary Rifle club; Victor H. Rylander, Gary, Gary Rifle club president; Morris Frimet, 1126 East 47th street; Joseph F. Goss, 4709 Ellis avenue, rifle sight designer; E. T. Wood, 5131 South Michigan avenue, executive officer, Federal Employés Rifle and Pistol club; Russell Wiles Jr., 5830 Stony Island avenue, director, Illinois State Rifle association; Todd Maynard, 7019 Dorchester avenue, and Earl W. Schenck.

ST. FELICITAS MOTHERS' CLUB PLANS LUNCHEON

St. Felicitas Mothers' club will sponsor a smorgasbord luncheon and card party at the school auditorium, 83d place and Blackstone avenue, next Tuesday at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Lawrence Austin, 8452 Blackstone avenue, is chairman and Mrs. J. M. Keeffe, 8439 Blackstone avenue, co-chairman. Mrs. Frank A. Nessinger, 1627 East 86th street, is president of the club. The proceeds of the event are to defray the expense of the Boys' club and altar boys annual summer outing.

VETERANS TAKE LEAD IN ANNUAL MEMORIAL RITES

Services Planned for Today, Thursday.

Today and Thursday patriotic citizens thruout the land will salute the men who fought and died that America might be united, free and democratic. Leaders in the Memorial Day services will be various posts of the American Legion, and their auxiliaries, Veterans of Foreign Wars, a handful of members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Boy Scout troops. On the south side most of the ceremonies will take the form of religious services in churches and cemeteries featuring memorial addresses and preceded by community parades.

The annual mass for deceased members of the Chicago fire department and fire patrols will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday at St. Columbanus church, 71st street and Calumet avenue. The Rev. William J. Gorman will officiate, assisted by sons and brothers of firemen. The members of the uniformed force and others who wish to be in the parade will assemble at the quarters of Engine company No. 122, 69th street and Indiana avenue, at 9:15 o'clock.

Four Join in Services.

Members and friends of four American Legion posts and three Veterans of Foreign Wars posts will attend high mass at St. Kilian's church, 8725 South May street, at 9 o'clock Thursday morning for the third consecutive year. The Rev. James M. Leddy, pastor, will sing the mass and the Rev. Raymond O'Connor will deliver the sermon. After taps has been blown, the ladies auxiliary of the O'Donnell-Eddy post will present an American flag for the St. Kilian's sanctuary.

Before mass, a parade will be formed at 87th street and Ashland avenue and will proceed east on 87th street to the church with massed colors and to the muffled drums of the St. Kilian's band, which holds the parochial school championship, and Illinois Central Sons of the Legion drum and bugle corps.

Legion posts which will participate are the Leroy A. McCullough, O'Donnell-Eddy, Commodore Vanderbilt, and Illinois Central. Veterans of Foreign Wars posts are Auburn, William G. Murray, and Greater Pullman.

Services at Cemetery.

All these posts, except the Auburn post, will attend a ceremony at Holy Sepulchre cemetery at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Henry W. Coffman, past commander of Commodore Vanderbilt post, will be in charge of the service. The Rev. H. H. Goodell, pastor of the Brainerd Community church, will give the oration. Music will be supplied by bands from Calumet High school and the Illinois Central Sons of the Legion.

Temple Isaiah Israel, 1100 Hyde Park boulevard, will hold its annual Memorial service at 2:45 o'clock Thursday at Isaiah Israel cemetery, 6600 Addison street. Rabbi Morton M. Berman will conduct the service and Robert Spiro, baritone of the temple choir, will supply the music. Members of the cemetery committee will be present before the service to guide members of the congregation thru the memorial park.

Three Links post No. 361 of the Legion will be special guest at the annual memorial service at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 6559 South Marshfield avenue, today. On Thursday the post will hold services at Oak Hills' cemetery over the grave of Roy Borgerson, who served in the United States navy and died May 26, 1939.

Plan Firing Squad.

Arthur Moldenhauer, general chairman, will be assisted by Ralph Enzenbacher, in charge of the firing squad, and Harry Dahlin, grave registration officer. Taps will be sounded by Val Scanlon Jr., and Fred Resner Jr. Members of the Junior Aides will sing under the direction of Miss Deborah Jensen.

Stock Yards Legion post will hold its annual field mass at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in Mount Olivet cemetery in honor of departed comrades. The Rev. Charles Burke will celebrate the mass, which will be sung by 100 boys comprising the St. Gabriel's church choir. At 9:30 a. m. there will be a short parade starting from the gate of the cemetery at 111th street, led by the post colors, the drum and bugle corps of the Sons' squadron of the post, and the post's Sea Scout Blackhawk ship.

The general public is invited to participate in the ceremony, according to Commander Thomas J. Lynch, senior vice commander Maurice J. Keane, junior vice commander William L. Lauer and Memorial Day chairman Thomas J. Murphy.

Square Legion Rites.

Square Legion post will hold its ceremony Thursday in Oakwoods cemetery, 67th street and Cottage Grove avenue. All marching units of the post, miscellaneous patriotic groups, Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts and possibly other posts from the third district will assemble at 61st street and Cottage Grove at 9 o'clock. The parade will go south on Cottage Grove to 67th street, and east to Greenwood avenue to the cemetery entrance. A public address system will carry the program to all parts of the cemetery. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Arthur F. Ewart of

Heave Ho, for a Sailor's Life

Three boys launching a sailing dinghy in Calumet harbor is a common sight these days. Calumet park, 99th street and the lake, will have 12 dinghies by the end of June available for neighborhood boys between the ages of 14 and 18. The boys are taught to sail and to build boats under the supervision of William Zobel, park craft instructor. Three members of the Rainbow Fleet, the park sailing club, Adolph Mastronardi, Frank Delcorio, and Louis Matz, launch one of the craft in the park harbor.

Young Sailors Man Fleet at Calumet Park

Calumet park, nestling in the shadow of South Chicago's fiery steel mills and the state line power plant, is turning workingmen's sons into amateur yachtsmen. Like the Liptons and the Vanderbilts, about 30 neighborhood boys have begun to sprinkle their speech with such phrases as "coming about," "pointing to windward," and "luffing," and on bright, breezy days they push sailing dinghies into Calumet harbor to challenge the playful and often robust winds and waters. Officially they comprise the Rainbow fleet.

The fleet has the park district to thank for its existence. The park supplies six gaff-rigged dinghies for boys between 14 and 18 years old. Six additional dinghies are expected to be sent to the park next month. The dinghies, or "dinks," as their skippers call them, are 10½ feet long, constructed of mahogany. Boys are taught to sail them by William Zobel, the park's craft instructor, and members of the fleet who demonstrated their skill last year, when the club was organized.

Ideal for Sailing.

During the week the boys practice and on Sundays the red, blue, and yellow sails of the fleet may be seen scooting before the wind in fiercely contested races. Each ships a skipper and a crew of one, who crouch beneath their single sail and maneuver their craft. Ideal for racing, according to Mr. Zobel, the boats can be sailed in almost any kind of weather and take only five minutes to rig and launch.

"There is only a minimum of danger, too," he says, "because before the boys are allowed to sail they must be able to swim 50 yards with all their clothes on and 200 yards in bathing suits. Besides, we have a coast guard station within sight of where they sail."

The park also teaches private boat building. At present a Lightning class boat, 19 feet long, is being finished by William Swanson, 9833 Avenue J, and Bud Erickson, 9841 Avenue L. The youths, who began their work last October, bought their own lumber and made their own forms, but used the lathes, circular saw, drill press, and other tools in the Calumet park boat shop, under Mr. Zobel's supervision. Four kayaks also are under construction by boys at the park.

Work During Winter.

The Rainbow fleet met regularly during the winter at the park to work on boats, discuss sailing, and yearn collectively for spring. Members are Arthur Lekew, Roger Weber, Harold Reid, Robert Howe, Alfred Matz, James Matz, Arthur Emanuel, William Shon, John Dorigan, Emil Nelson, Louis Berg, Ted Wake, Lee Nash, Anthony Mastronardi, Jack Kovich, Frank Ryan, Rudolph Novosel, Colman Anderson, Frank Delconio, Peter Krilich, George West, Wesley Gerdel, Donald Gerdel, Robert Anderson, John Leo, Adolph Mastronardi, Boris Bruce, Louis Serpe, and Carl Berna.

MEMORIAL SERVICES CLOSE YEAR OF SUNDAY EVENING CLUB TODAY

The Sunday Evening club will close its 33d season with a Memorial day observance tonight in Orchestra hall. The guest speaker will be Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., who makes his first appearance before this audience speaking on the topic "We Remember." Dr. Cowling will also preach this morning at the 11 o'clock service in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, 1424 North Dearborn street.

Dr. Donald J. Cowling.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, resident bishop of the Methodist church, will give the prayer and benediction. Kenneth E. Rice, president elect of the Union League club, will read the scripture, and Clifford W. Barnes, president of the club, will preside. Representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish-American war veterans, and the American Legion will occupy seats on the platform.

Directed by Edgar Nelson, the 125 voice club choir will sing music patriotic in theme. Stanley Martin, the club's organist, will play Rinck's variations on "America."

The Welsh male chorus, directed by Gomer Jones, will sing at the preliminary 7 o'clock meeting and the club's quartet—Mary Ann Kaufmann, soprano; Virginia Auyer, contralto; Charles Sears, tenor, and Mark Love, bass—will sing civil war songs, with Robert Yale Smith as accompanist.

WOMEN VOTERS ARE TO REVIEW YEAR OF WORK

CHIEF OF ARMY AREA TO AWARD CADET COLORS

Feature of R. O. T. C. Review June 4.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area, has accepted the invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to present colors to Chicago R. O. T. C. units which place first and second in federal inspections to be completed tomorrow. The presentation in Tribune Square June 4, will climax the annual Cadet day parade on Michigan avenue, and will immediately precede the unveiling of the Nathan Hale statue which is to stand between The Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building.

Lieut. Gen. Ford.

The American flags are given annually by THE TRIBUNE to encourage the Chicago R. O. T. C. to greater achievement in citizenship, leadership, courtesy, neatness, and discipline. Last year's first and second place winners were Tilden and Crane Technical High schools, respectively.

Two Units in Ceremony.

The parade up Michigan avenue is scheduled to begin at 12 o'clock at Balbo avenue, and 26 school units will disperse at Randolph street. The two winning schools, numbering about 500 cadets, will march on to Tribune Square, where the ceremonies are to begin at 1:15 o'clock.

After the flag presentation Dr. William Warren Sweet, professor of American church history at the University of Chicago, will give the address dedicating the statue of Nathan Hale, which will be unveiled by cadet commanders of the two school military groups. Cadets then will unite in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The statue is a duplicate of the well known one at Yale university, from which Capt. Hale was graduated in 1773, three years before he was hanged by the British troops as a spy.

Choices Not Yet Made.

Which two schools will take part in this patriotic ceremony will not be known until several days before the parade. Maj. Norman M. Nelson, who is conducting the inspections, said that after the final inspections tomorrow his report must be drawn up, sealed, and approved by war department officials in Washington before it is released thru the 6th corps area headquarters here.

Maj. Nelson expressed astonishment at the excellent performance of the units he has already inspected.

"The enthusiasm and proficiency evident in the schools I have seen is largely due to coöperation offered by the school authorities," he said.

He pointed out that R. O. T. C. regulations call for three hours weekly of training for each cadet, but that in Chicago schools at least five is given. In most instances the R. O. T. C. occupies a special position with regard to student activities such as the fire guard and police patrol.

The only schools which remain to be inspected are Amundsen and Lake View. The Amundsen unit will be examined tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in Winnemac park, Damen and Foster avenues; and the Lake View unit at 1:15 o'clock in Welles park, Montrose and Western avenues.

WANTS AN EVEN BREAK.

As a believer in competition to bring out the best in people, especially youths, I am wondering if the present judging of the 27 R. O. T. C. units in the public schools is altogether fair. This spring the south side scohols are being inspected by the visiting officer first and the north side schools last. For instance, Hirsch and Bowen High schools were examined on May 7, while Amundsen and Lake View will not be reviewed until May 27. This undoubtedly favors the latter schools, not only because they had a full two weeks longer to study their theory and perfect their drilling but because this spring, like most springs in Chicago, was cold and rainy, and made it tough on these kids who had to shiver with a military bearing in outdoor ceremonies.

Now I have a son who is a corporal at Bowen and a nephew who has just become a captain in the Hirsch unit, and I would like to see them lined up with the No. 1 and No. 2 corps in the city during your Tribune parade on June 4. It would make me proud to think at least one of them was responsible for helping his bunch win the Tribune colors. But how can we expect a south side school to win when they haven't been given as much of a chance to make a splendid showing as the north side schools? It seems to me this thing could be divided up better around the city. I think it was something like 10 or 11 south side schools that were inspected from May 7 to May 14. Why doesn't the army give all Chicago an even break? W. F. M.

HOME OWNERS AND DOG OWNERS.

The voice of L. E. J. in the May 12 issue provoked quite a furore among property owners, like those we have seen in Woodlawn, diligently prepare seed beds, plant, sweep, and pick up other people's litter from the grounds around their buildings.

L. E. J. sounds like the voice of one of those careless and inconsiderate litter throwers whose cigaret packages, match boxes, newspapers, torn letters, gum, candy, and cigar wrappers were collected on the small area in front of our house between 6:30 last evening and 9 o'clock this morning.

He may be one of those whose dog is encouraged to claw and scratch up other people's sod, and add his quota [on other people's lawns] to the patches of deadened foliage and grass resulting from deposits of canine excretion. Should not such dog owners be required to furnish evidence of the fact that they are equipped properly to care for an animal in the city?

I hope we will hear from others who have helped to prepare and plant the lawns which L. E. J. and the park district wish to save.

MRS. G. PATRICK WARNER.

Miss Claire, Igor Gorin, Bartlett to Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For its third production the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening will present Sigmund Romberg's melodic operetta, "Blossom Time," which is based on the life and work of Franz Schubert.

This performance will bring together three celebrated singers: Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano; Igor Gorin, internationally famous baritone, and Michael Bartlett, the American tenor.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be aired from 9 to 10 p. m. Thursday from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

An audience of specially invited guests who are officials and members of The Tribune Chicagoland Music Festival committee will attend the performance.

First Radio Showing Here.

Chicagoans last witnessed Sigmund Romberg's beautiful operetta in the fall of 1938 when it made its ninth appearance here. The Chicago Theater of the Air's radio version, which is to be directed and produced by William A. Bacher, will be the first broadcast presentation from Chicago.

The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company. The same fine dramatic cast, which performed in the two previous Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, including Alice Hill, Olan Soule, Fran Carlon, Willard Waterman, Bret Morrison, Marvin Mueller, Judith Lowry, will play the dramatic rôles.

Miss Claire Sings Mitzi.

Miss Claire will be heard as Mitzi; Gorin will portray Franz Schubert and. Bartlett will be cast as Baron Franz Schobar.

Marion Claire was starred in the first two Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, "Bittersweet" and "The Student Prince." On Sunday nights she is the soloist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour, aired at 8 o'clock on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Igor Gorin, who scored a success as Dr. Engel in the radio operetta, "The Student Prince," brings to his rôle of Franz Schubert a great baritone voice. He is best known to Americans for his performances in the movie, "Broadway Melody of 1938," the radio program, "Hollywood Hotel," and for his concerts.

Educated at Princeton.

Michael Bartlett's ancestors came to America in colonial times. Born in Massachusetts, he attended Princeton university and began his musical career there with the Triangle club. He decided to make music his life's work upon graduation, and studied in Milan, Italy.

After additional study in Rome, ne attracted the attention of the Crown Prince Umberto, Princess Mafalda, and United States Ambassador Henry Fletcher, who sponsored him in many concerts and recitals in Rome, Turin, and Trieste. Bartlett's first big triumph came in the musical movie, "Love Me Forever," in which he was cast opposite Grace Moore. He also was starred in the movie, "Follow Your Heart," with Marion Talley. He has starred in the operettas, "Three Waltzes" and "The Cat and the Fiddle."

Among the guests representing The Tribune Chicagoland Musical Festival committee will be Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director; Fred Miller, supervisor of field events; Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the band and instrumental contests; Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal and choral contests; Prof. Walter A. Stults, president of the Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing; Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumentalists, Chicago public schools; Miss Helen Howe, director of music, Chicago public schools, and Philip Maxwell, music festival director of THE TRIBUNE.

In "Blossom Time"

Michael Bartlett, American tenor, who will be one of the three stars in the production of "Blossom Time" on the Chicago Theater of the Air at 9 o'clock next Thursday over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Marion Claire and Igor Gorin are the other headliners.

Viennese Contralto Slated on Wednesday.

Hertha Glatz, young Viennese contralto, will be guest star on the Pageant of Melody, directed by Henry Weber, from 9:15 to 10 p. m., Wednesday, on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System. With Miss Glatz will be heard Kathryn Witwer, lyric soprano, Attilio Baggiore, tenor, the octet and concert orchestra.

For her solo, Miss Glatz will sing "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saëns. She will join Miss Witwear and Baggiore in themes from Giuseppe Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Miss Witwer will sing "Stresa," by Watts. Baggiore will sing the aria, "Romance," from Charles L. Thomas' "Mignon."

The orchestra will play "Der Schauspieldirektor," by Mozart; "La Damoselle Elue," by Debussy; and the octet will join the orchestra in the "Anvil Chorus," from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," and "Creole Days" and "Mardi Gras" from Ferde Grofe's "Mississippi Suite."

Miss Glatz made her debut at the State Opera in Breslau. Before her United States arrival in 1937, she sang thruout Europe, including engagements with the Glyndebourne Opera Festival in England; Prague Opera house; Opera festival, Interlaken, Switzerland, and the Salzburg International Opera guild.

She made her American debut with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, and later, as leading contralto of the Salzburg Opera guild, toured the United States and Canada, singing in more than 80 cities.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. CLOSED BANK'S REFUND $121,000 IN FIRST QUARTER

The 11,500 depositors of the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank received another $121,000 in refunds during the March quarter this year, it was indicated in statements released last week by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

These statements are based principally on reports made to Barrett by Charles H. Albers, general receiver for all except two of the 130 state banks in Chicago and Cook county that were still in receivership at the end of the quarter in question.

Here are summaries of the new statements for the final group of south side and south suburban banks, with the receivers' best estimates of what depositors can still expect:

South Side Savings Bank and Trust company—Total receipts, $3,181,031. Paid on prior claims, $319,561. Paid depositors, $1,570,748, or 55 per cent. Costs: Receivers', $42,476; legal, $70,350; clerical, $187,295; interest, $21,903; advanced to protect assets, $830,211, with $463,889 refunded. Cash, $1,385. No estimate can be made at this time.

Stony Island State Savings—Total receipts, $1,611,353. Paid on prior claims, $443,326. Paid depositors, $442,889, or 22.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers', $16,637; legal, $94,147; clerical, $121,769; interest, $3,021; advanced to protect assets, $446,747, with $411,189 refunded. Cash, $42,814. There is a possibility of 5 per cent more before the receivership lifts.

Union State Bank of South Chicago—Total receipts, $1,594,375. Paid on prior claims, $489,671. Paid depositors, $718,474, or 42.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers', $13,094; legal, $41,430; clerical, $113,122; interest, $1,096; advanced to protect assets, $179,620, with $148,088 refunded. Cash, $37,865. Perhaps 5 per cent additional is about all that can be forseen.

Woodlawn Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $2,516,650. Paid on prior claims, $679,498. Paid depositors, $729,174, or 36 per cent. Costs: Receivers', $12,918; legal, $100,034; clerical, $123,679; interest, none; advanced to protect assets, $412,211, with $393,822 refunded. Cash, $34,656. The payout may be increased another 5 or 10 per cent.

OLD BUNGALOW GROWS INTO HOME OF EIGHT ROOMS

Roof Lifted to Provide Upstairs Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth first looked at the little bungalow they later purchased at 1721 West 100th place, and deliberated on purchase, site, costs of renovation, and so on, the original bungalow, judging from pictures of it and from Mrs. Booth's description, looked very much like the "last of pea time." It was a far from seductive little gray bungalow, not doing justice to itself or its site in a nice residential block in Beverly Hills.

However, after due consideration, Mr. and Mrs. Booth decided to make the investment. They felt that modernization could redeem it and that things could be done for it to make it a home with "youth on the prow and pleasure at the helm."

And things were done for it! Here's how:

The original bungalow had a large front porch and entrance door which opened directly into a squarish living room, small dark bedrooms, an ageing dining room and kitchen, and an outmoded bathroom.

Old Porch Ripped Off.

The porch was ripped off, the layout on the first floor changed in several ways, the roof lifted, and three new bedrooms and a large bathroom built on the second floor.

Now the house has eight rooms, a bath and a powder room, a sunny breakfast room opening from the kitchen and paneled in pine; and, besides a wealth of storage space, a small study room for Mr. Booth on the first floor.

No doubt but that this new home which has stepped into the shoes of the old one has been very skilfully altered. The enlargement of the rooms and the change in layout have been adroitly and capably handled.

This newborn home has exterior walls of California redwood siding, painted white and heavily insulated. The entrance was moved to the side of the house, with a wall of rugged stone. When the roof was raised to permit the second floor bedrooms and bath, a new front gable and dormers were built.

Closet Near Entrance.

The main entrance to the house is now directly into a compact, small hallway, with oval window at left, a guest closet, door chimes, and gayly flowered, light blue wall paper.

The living room is at the right and the fireplace wall on the opposite side is an arresting feature. Where once was a dejected small brick fireplace with stained glass windows there is now a wide fireplace painted white, with a stunning black marble facing and mirror above to the ceiling. The stained glass windows were covered with clapboards, and built-in bookcases substituted.

Likewise, in this living room there are French doors to a front terrace which will be of flagstone. The floors are carpeted in a phantom peach shade and the white woodwork has an eggshell finish. The papered walls of this room, as well as the stair hall which leads from it to the second floor, have a pale gray background, enlivened by a faint tone of dusty pink.

Bay in Dining Room.

The wainscot in the dining room is a rich gray with the same phantom dusty pink tone. There are new arches between living room and dining room, and a bay has been added to this latter room. The effect of the first floor is a bright, open one.

In place of a bedroom beyond the living room there is now a large, modern powder room, with space for dressing table, a sizable storage closet, and also a convenient small study-den for Mr. Booth.

The kitchen has been entirely remodeled with dropped ceiling, ventilator, and large sink under a window. The back bedroom, which was originally small and dark, was given more light by the addition of an extra window, and more space by ripping out the kitchen pantry which extended into it, and also an old closet.

New Breakfast Room.

The former back stairs between hall and kitchen were closed, with space cleverly retained to accommodate brooms, vacuum, and household cleaning equipment of various sorts. The new back entrance to street has had its walls paneled in pine. Similar treatment has been given to the walls of the beuatiful, sunny, new breakfast room, opening from the kitchen.

The basement was given a new, forced warm air heating plant, gas fueled.

On the second floor there are the three bedrooms, all with intriguihg alcoves, made possible by the new roof's outlines. There are two closets in each bedroom.

The second floor bath is unusually large, with one of the new type square tubs and a handsome black and white marbleized composition floor.

Senior Dance Chairman

Miss Betty Kreuzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kreuzer, 8459 Crandon avenue, is general chairman of the Mundelein college senior ball which will be held in the Congress Casino Wednesday evening. Miss Kreuzer was recently crowned queen of the Loyola university senior ball. [Carlos Photo.]

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 27.

It is time to turn water into the tropical lily pool to permit it to warm up a bit. The boxes should be in place and filled with rich soil. Fill the pool until the water level is slightly below the top of the boxes to permit planting about June 1. Plant lilies one plant to a box. Good, dependable varieties are August Koch, pink pearl, and Chicago. Giant varieties include Mrs. Edward Whitaker, Gen. Pershing, Mrs. Pring, O'Mara, and others. Many kinds of hardy lilies are available. Plants to supplement the lilies and add interest where there is sufficient room in the pool include the water hyacinth, water poppy, parrot's feather, cat tail, floating heart, paper reed or papyrus, and many others. Plants to grow along the pool margin include the Siberian iris, yellow flag, marshmallow, and Japanese iris. Put goldfish in the pool and the mosquitoes will not have a chance.

Tuesday, May 28.

Plant cannas. Do not cut the grass too short—about 1½ inches is the right height for a bluegrass lawn. Water peonies when in bud to obtain high grade flowers. Prune goldenbells after they finish flowering. Repot the poinsettia, cut back the stems if necessary, and plunge in the garden as soon as the weather is settled. Examine each day and water if dry. Spray perennials to prevent disease, such as mildew. Keep after the weeds at all times. Watch for aphids on sweet peas. Keep all flowers picked each day or remove withered blooms to prevent seed from forming.

Wednesday, May 29.

Plant out all bedding plants, such as geraniums. If the plants were carried over during winter cut them back before planting out of doors. Try different varieties of geraniums, for they are always delightful. Sow castor beans as screens, for they are quite tropical in appearance and grow rapidly. The elephant ear grows from a bulb and does well. Give it plenty of water and food and the leaves will grow very large. In congested areas of the city sow four o'clocks, for they thrive under most conditions. They make a nice hedge. Plant a few tiger flowers; also montbretias, which look something like gladioli. Tuberoses are always interesting and their chalk whiteness and penetrating fragrance are particularly desirable.

Thursday, May 30.

Stake peonies before they grow out of bounds. Special wire frames may be purchased. Spray roses for black spot and mildew and dust hollyhocks, phlox, and delphinium with sulphur. Spray the hawthorn and Virginia creeper with bordeaux for leaf spot. Use it on lilies for blight. Currants should be sprayed with a nicotine preparation to kill aphids. Cottonlike masses on maple branches are caused by the cottony woolly aphid; nicotine will kill them.

Friday, May 31.

When setting out plants always firm the soil around the roots. Shade the plants for a day or two until they have somewhat recovered from the disturbance of moving. Be sure to apply a complete plant food to all plants that are grown in poor soil. Zinnias are among the most dependable annuals and the seed still can be sown with excellent results, altho the flowers will be late. They like hot weather. They are fine in masses or when used as a hedge. Mildew frequently attacks these plants; keep it in check by dusting with finely ground sulphur. During wet weather black spot may appear—spray with bordeaux or dust with copper lime dust.

Saturday, June 1.

Give hardy chrysanthemums a feeding of complete, balanced food, using a tablespoonful to the square foot about the plants. Work the material into the soil and water. Roses can be mulched with peat moss if decayed manure is not available. Plant food can be put on top of the peat and watered in. After blooming cut off the old flowers on the peonies and apply food to the soil. Peonies grow during the summer and they need plenty of food to produce next season's crowns. Keep all withered flowers removed from perennials.

LAKE VIEW HIGH HAS 35% OF BOYS IN R. O. T. C. UNIT

Leads All City Schools; Morgan Park Second.

Thirty-five per cent of the boys at Lake View High school are members of the R. O. T. C. regiment, a survey last week revealed. This percentage is greater than in any other public school unit in the city, the lowest enrollment being 9.3 per cent.

There are 476 students taking military training at the school out of a masculine enrollment of 1,358. Sergt. Albert D. Lee, military instructor at the school since 1920, attributes the high percentage to the fact that military training has been given at Lake View as long as at any other school in Chicago, and that during this time the R. O. T. C. unit has become influential in many phases of school life, including the fire guard, student government, and the police patrol.

Credits Sergt. Lee.

Capt. E. F. Hocke, who is director of physical education at the school, gives credit to Sergt. Lee for the high rating. Capt. Hocke was military instructor at the school for several years prior to 1920, when the existing R. O. T. C. was provided for in the National Defense act.

"The boys all like him and he likes them; those are the main things," Capt. Hocke said.

Morgan Park High school ranks second in percentage, with 301 out of 1,063 boys taking military training—or about 30 per cent. Other high ranking schools are Sullivan, 28 per cent; Amundsen, 27 per cent; Foreman, 21 per cent; Von Steuben, 21 per cent, and Schurz, 16.9 per cent, notwithstanding the fact that freshmen are not enrolled.

Other Schools' Rating.

The other schools follow in this order: Du Sable, Fenger, Hirsch, Lindblom, Harper, Hyde Park, Roosevelt, Senn, Austin, Lane, Steinmetz, Bowen, Waller, Englewood, Kelly, Tilden, Calumet, Crane, Harrison, and Marshall.

Due to its high percentage, the Lake View unit is third in the city in size, altho in number of boys enrolled the school ranks 20th out of the 27 schools. Tho the largest unit, which is at Lane Tech, lists 1,059 cadets, this comprises only 14.6 per cent of the student body.

Taking the Chicago high schools as a whole, there are 9,203 boys out of 58,613 enrolled in military training. The general average is 15.7 per cent.

Two South Side Students Win Y.M.C.A. Scholarships

Thirty-nine scholarships were given out recently by the Central Y. M. C. A. college, 19 South La Salle street. One hundred seventy four students from 60 high schools and five junior colleges in the Chicago area took the examinations. South side students who won scholarships are Robert D. Thorne, 7704 South Michigan avenue, and Peter Yff, of Lansing.

W-G-N to Star Anna Neagle in Brilliant Fifth Row Center Show

Burgess Meredith Will Co-Star in 'Irene' Friday

Anna Neagle in "Irene!"

This is the bill for Fifth Row Center's most ambitious production to date to be presented from 7 to 8 o'clock, Chicago daylight time, next Friday evening over W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. "Irene" will be made available to 131 stations of the network.

For this special production W-G-N is providing an exceptional dramatic and musical setting for the many talents of glamorous Anna Neagle, often called the "first lady of the British theater" and now at the peak of her popularity in America.

Burgess Meredith, the distinguished American actor, is to play the male lead. These two stars will be supported by a cast of Chicago's best radio actors. And the original musical score of this unusually tuneful musical comedy will be presented as "background" while the actors recreate the romantic story of the Manhattan Cinderella who left a trail of broken hearts behind her.

This musical setting will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra, directed by Harold Stokes, which is to be specially augmented for this occasion; the vocal octet and guest soloists.

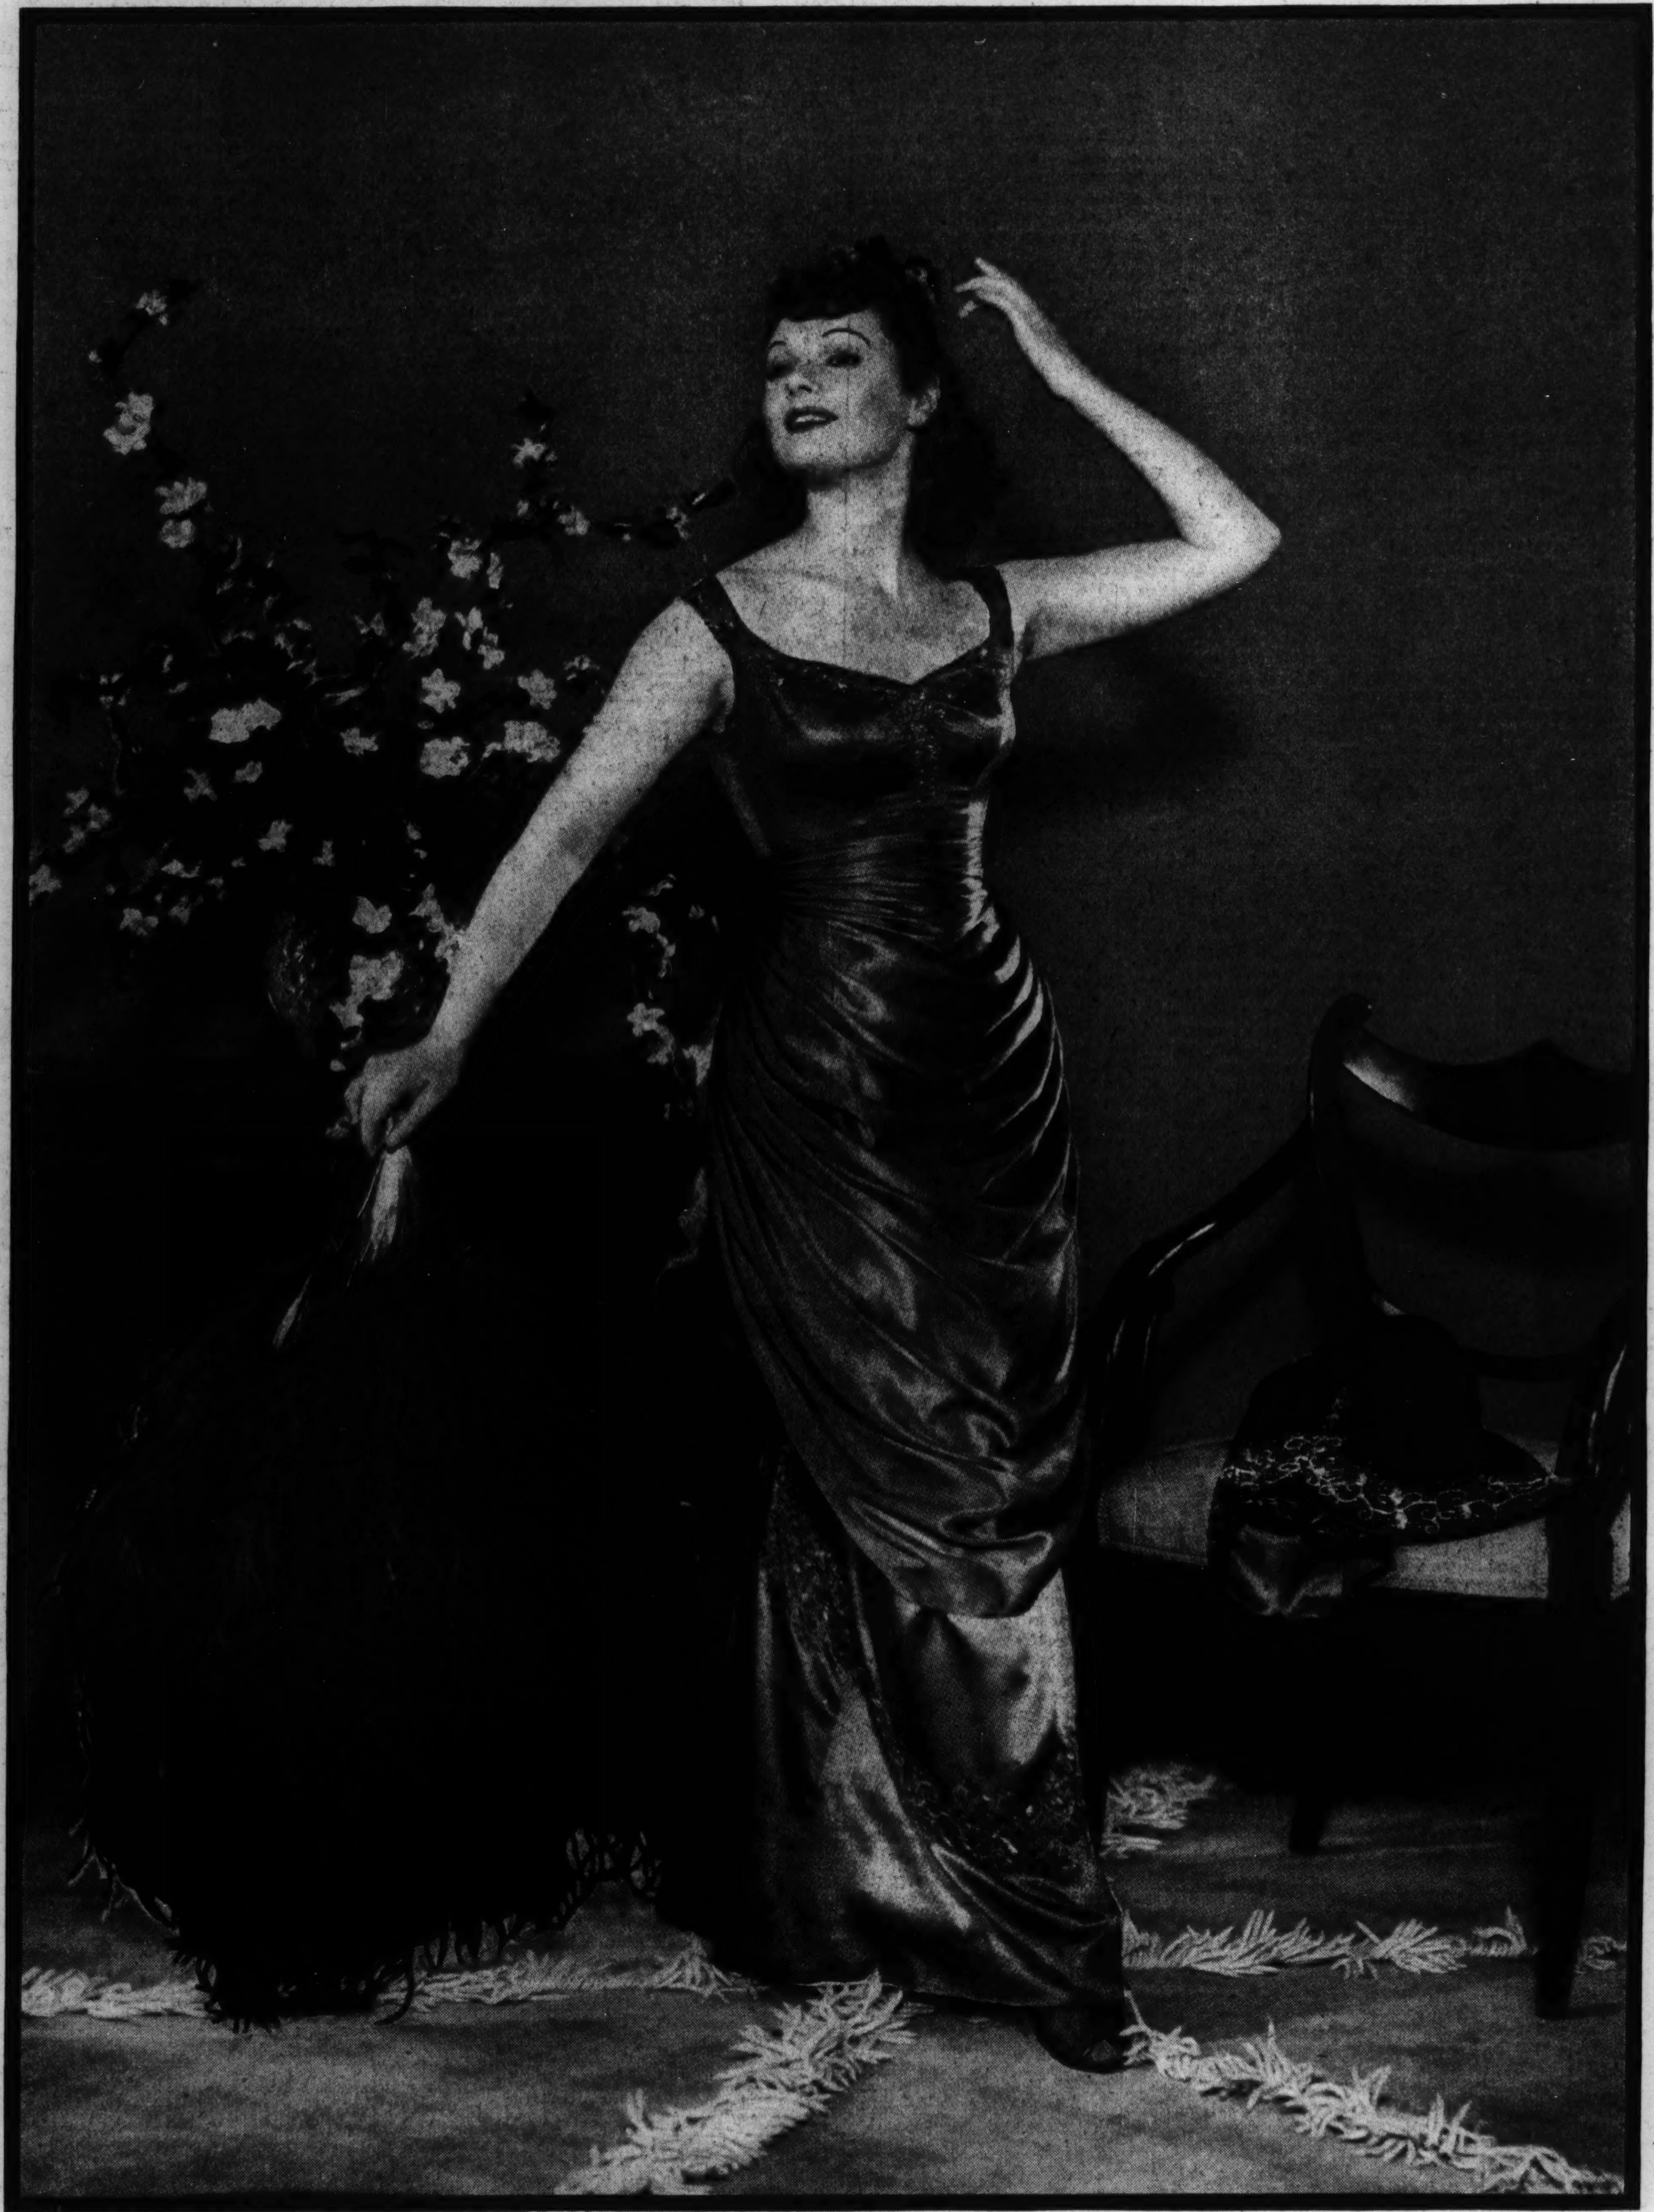
A highlight of the broadcast will be a special musical treatment of "Alice Blue Gown," the hit tune of the original show, which will be adapted to radio from the streamlined modern version presented in the movie, "Irene," in which Miss Neagle is starred.

Appearing at W-G-N in the modern adaptation of the "Alice Blue Gown," specially created for the picture, Miss Neagle will introduce the song "Alice Blue Gown." Then the tune will be taken up by other singers with Spanish, Hawaiian, Chinese, and Harlem interpretations.

Miss Neagle will arrive in Chicago Thursday to begin intensive rehearsals for "Irene." While here she will attend the local première of the picture version, opening Friday at the Oriental theater. Mr. Meredith will come to Chicago especially for W-G-N's production of "Irene."

"Irene" ran for two years on Broadway and a half dozen road companies presented it simultaneously. Then its popularity spread to London, where Edith Day, the original star, further enhanced (Continued on Page 3.)



Anna Neagle in the "Alice blue gown" she will wear next Friday night when she sings over W-G-N in the radio version of "Irene." Also pictured on this page are other members of the all star cast that will support Miss Neagle.

British Actress Got Her Start in the Chorus

A friend of Anna Neagle recently described her astonishing theatrical career in this manner:

"She woke up and dreamed, stood up and sang—and now she's a movie star!"

This is what she meant: Just a few years ago, a vibrant English girl came to America in the stage chorus of a show titled "Wake Up and Dream."

Up to then her ambitions had never gone beyond the chorus. But there was something in the attitude of American girls that stirred her own hopes.

So she began taking lessons in singing, deportment, and stage dancing. (She had taught ballroom dancing in England.)

After she returned to England there came word that Producer Jack Buchanan needed a blonde leading lady for "Stand Up and Sing." Miss Neagle went to see him and asked for the part. She was given a hearing; won the rôle.

That was the beginning! During the run of this show at the Hippodrome Producer Herbert Wilcox encountered her. He thought of her for the British musical film, "Good Night, Vienna." The screen test turned out well; she got the part. It was a success—and so she was started on the road to movie fame.

Since then she has made many successful pictures, the latest being "Irene." And now she is turning to radio to present a full hour's adaptation of this musical comedy success. With Burgess Meredith she will be starred in "Irene" on Fifth Row Center on W-G-N and the Mutual network at 7 o'clock next Friday night. Miss Neagle and Mr. Meredith will come to Chicago especially for the W-G-N show.

Miss Neagle's real name is Marjorie Robertson. She was born Oct. 20, 1908. She's 5 feet 5 inches tall and has auburn hair and blue eyes.

After several years as a dancing teacher Miss Neagle resolved to get on the stage. Her very first chore behind the footlights was as a standby for the chorus in the London production of "Rose Marie." Soon she was called "England's perfect chorus girl."

Summer Theaters to Keep Drama Alive in Chicagoland

The 'Straw Hat' Circuit Plans a Busy Season

By Cecil Smith.

The winter and spring dramatic season in the loop has now spent its force. Those who have not seen Tallulah Bankhead in "The Little Foxes," one of the most powerful dramatic performances in several seasons, will have to hurry to the Selwyn theater this week, for the Lillian Hellman drama closes Saturday evening. Likewise "The Man Who Came to Dinner," a continuously and hilariously funny comedy, closes at the Harris theater the same evening, after 23 weeks in Chicago. "Margin for Error" closed last night, having attracted rather half hearted business for three weeks.

Only "Life With Father," too lovable and diverting an entertainment to outlive its welcome for many weeks and months to come, keeps the city theatrically alive after this week. [It is at the Blackstone theater.] Not until July 7 will another opening light one of our darkened marquees. On that evening the Grand Opera house will reopen for the musical, "Silks and Saddles," in which Al Jolson returns to the speaking stage, accompanied by Ruby Keeler, Martha Raye, and a large supporting cast. This new piece, said to deal with cowboy life, will come to Chicago in time for the Democratic convention, before going east for a Broadway première.

But while the professional urban theater enters into a period of relative somnolence, the drama no longer dies utterly in the middle west during the summer. Last year activity in a dozen rural summer theaters spurted in a crescendo of enthusiasm all over the Chicago area. From the northern peninsula of Michigan down thru Wisconsin, in the immediate vicinity of Chicago, over east along the Indiana dunes shore, and along the east coast of the lake in Michigan plays were presented weekly—in all sorts of theaters, makeshift and permanent; with all kinds of performers, amateur and professional, and before all sizes of audiences, large and small. Not all of the performances, I am told, were as good as they might have been. But some of them were, and vacationists everywhere discovered new pleasure in theater attendance on a summer evening.

Complete forecasts of all the rural summer seasons have not yet reached this desk. In some cases the directors do not yet know what they will be doing, and in other instances the theaters suffer from the lack of experienced or dependable people to handle publicity. Yet it is time to start talking about the summer theaters, and I have rifled my manila filing cover labeled "Summer Theater" for the incomplete data presented in the next few paragraphs.

The most complete material submitted so far comes from the energetic Belfry players in Williams Bay, Wis., on the shore of Lake Geneva. The Belfry theater opens its season on June 26 with Mark Reed's comedy, "Yes, My Darling Daughter." The schedule for the summer includes five other plays, all comedies; July 2-7, "The Night of January 16"; July 15-21, "First Lady"; July 29-Aug. 4, "The Pursuit of Happiness"; Aug. 12-18, "What a Life"; Aug. 26-Sept. 1, "The Petrified Forest."

A little old Mormon church houses the Belfry players. The original pews are still in use, with their low partitions dividing the male from the female members of the congregation. Because the wooden pews were rather hard, some of the season subscribers last year clubbed together to buy enough soft cushions for all the pews. Hez Diefenthaler of Freeport, Ill., enters upon his third season as director of the players. Associated with him this summer will be Howard Lambert of Milwaukee.

The Chicago Mummers theater, which crashed the gates of professionalism last February with a production of "Night Must Fall" at the Studebaker theater, will have their first summer theater season this year. Mrs. Harold Seymour has given the Mummers use of her estate at Eagle Point Lake, Wis. A seven week session, from July 8 to Aug. 30, is planned. The work will be conducted on a workshop basis. A professional company will form a nucleus for the public performances, with up to 12 nonprofessionals appearing in the casts. In addition to these 12, other students desiring to take master classes in acting will be permitted to live and work at Eagle Point Lake. The repertory of plays has not yet been selected.

Far up in Marquette Mich., on the peninsula, the Marquette Summer theater will again function under the direction of Joe A. Callaway. This group stands apart from all others in the middle west in that it is entirely composed of professional Equity [union] players. In a six week season beginning July 4 the repertory will consist of "Accent on Youth," "Outward Bound," "The Taming of the Shrew," "The Playboy of the Western World," "Kind Lady," and "Biography." For its essay in Shakespeare ["The Taming of the Shrew"] the company will move from its regular theater to Deertrack Dell, an outdoor theater designed by Jens Jensen, who landscaped some of the Chicago parks.

Thoda Cocroft will once again direct the six week season of the Coach House theater at Oconomowoc, Wis. At an informal playhouse on the Valentine estate six new plays will be performed, one each week. Announced so far are "Lady in the Bath," by Herbert Kubly, drama editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and a "streamlined" version of the celebrated tear-jerker, "East Lynne." Other scripts will be selected from among the winning manuscripts in the annual Marjorie Montgomery Ward Baker play writing contest.

The Lake Zurich playhouse, at Lake Zurich, Ill., will open its season June 27 and will close Sept. 1. The players are again under the direction of Sidney Breese. Mary Elizabeth Aurelius is associate director, and Henry Kurth is art director. The theater, which proved to be too small last summer, is in process of remodeling. The enlarged seating capacity will be 170!

At Michigan Shores, near New Buffalo, Mich., a new theater project is scheduled to commence operations in the first week of July. Here a new, modern, air conditioned theater, seating 350, is now being constructed. No announcement of players or plays has reached this desk, altho it is said that a five week repertory is contemplated. The project is directed by John McMahill Jr.

These brief notes by no means offer an adequate forecast of the "straw hat" season. No doubt word will soon be forthcoming from the Port Washington players, who won considerable reclame last summer at their lake shore theater an hour north of Milwaukee; from the Peninsula players up at Fish Creek, in beautiful Door county, Wisconsin, and from other groups still not accounted for. All communications from summer theaters will be gratefully received at this desk, and all matter deserving of publication will be relayed to readers of this column.

A little farther away from Chicago, St. Louis is getting ready for its annual municipal opera. For 21 years elaborate summer productions have been given before huge audiences in the big open air theater. The season is devoted to spectacular presentations, all except the first of which are musical. The opening bill, beginning June 3 and running for two weeks, is "The American Way," the patriotic spectacle by Moss Hart and George Kaufman. Subsequent productions, to be given for a week each, will be "Naughty Marietta," "Apple Blossoms," "Rio Rita," "The Chocolate Soldier," "Good News," "Knickerbocker Holiday," "Anything Goes," "East Wind," "Rosalie," "Babes in Arms," and "The Great Waltz."

The list of players for the summer is too long to print in detail. Among the headline names are James Barton, Hilda Burke, Rosemarie Brancato, Norma Terris, Nancy McCord, John Gurney, Wilbur Evans, Audrey Christie, Sterling Holloway, Vera Marshe, Gisella Caccialanza, and Nina Stroganova.

The second performance of "The Lady Is Right," the Chicago Repertory group's original musical comedy, takes place tonight at Forester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street. Additional performances will be given on June 1, 2, 8 and 9. The music is by Sonny Vale, and the book and lyrics are by David DeKoven and Maurice Lorber.

• • •

Raymond Massey finally ends his long tour in Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," at the Davidson theater, Milwaukee, on Tuesday and Wednesday. After Wednesday evening's performance the cast will disband and return to New York, or wherever summer interests may call them. At one time a resumption of the tour in the fall was contemplated, but nothing more has been said about this in recent weeks.

Raymond Massey.

Katharine Cornell in "No Time for Comedy"—like "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," a production of the Playwrights' company—completed its extended career a fortnight ago in Brooklyn, N. Y. The inclusive dates were March 30, 1939 [the Indianapolis première] to May 11, 1940. Total gross of the show was $1,043,258.88, of which $356,187 went into salaries of the cast, stagehands, the company manager and the press agent.

Another inexhaustible trouper, Edward Everett Horton, wound up his journey with "Springtime for Henry" in Boston at the same time. Mr. Horton first experimented with his vehicle in eastern summer theaters, and brought it to Chicago in November, 1939.

Another celebrated play, "My Dear Children," starring John Barrymore, closed in New York on May 18. Mr. Barrymore is en route to the coast to make a picture tentatively titled "The Great Profile." Perhaps he will pick up again with "My Dear Children" in the fall for more time in New York and a further tour, and perhaps he will not. He is under contract to Aldrich and Myers, the producers of the comedy, until April 14, 1941.

The new edition of the "Ziegfeld Follies," mentioned in this column last Sunday as a summer possibility, is a false alarm. Harry Richman, who was interested in the project, has decided to invade the Chez Paree instead. [He opens there on Wednesday night.]

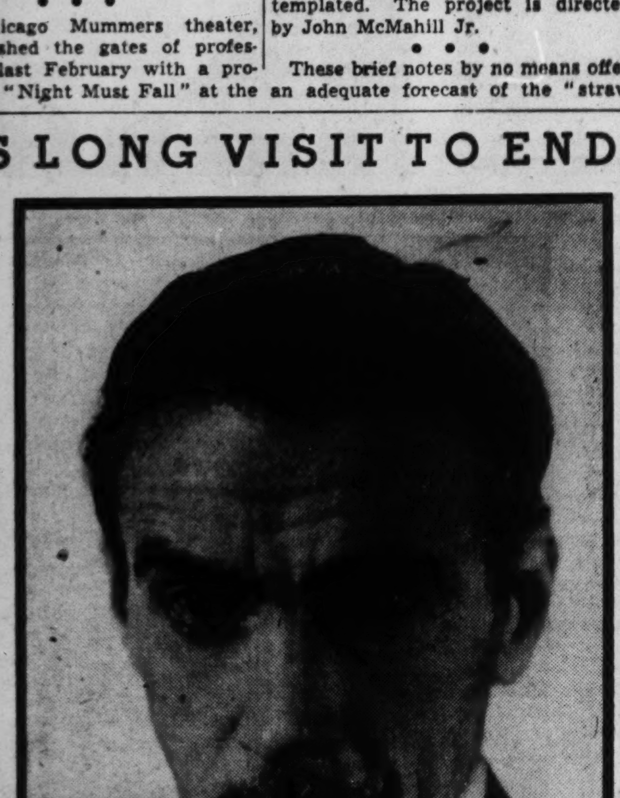
HIS LONG VISIT TO END



After his valiant performances in a wheel chair during the last 22 weeks, Clifton Webb seems entitled to the vacation he will get when his play, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," closes at the Harris theater next Saturday night.

U. S. Audiences Note: Mexicans Hiss Bad Music

By Edward Barry.

A visitor who dropped into the office sometime ago had interesting things to say about concert audiences in Mexico City. Down there, it seems, listeners are willing to hiss and jeer and even throw things. When an audience dislikes a piece of music the performers are not compelled, as they are among us, merely to surmise this fact. On the contrary, the truth is borne in upon them in the most emphatic way.

Altho the occupational hazards of musicians are thus far greater in Mexico City than they are, say, in Chicago, it is reasonable to maintain that music is in a healthier condition there than it is here. Performances may not be as good nor the number of significant new works as large, but music is evidently treated as a living art—something to get excited about and to take an active hand in. This is a sign of a very healthy musicality.

The American musical public is for the most part timid and polite. Its members take it for granted that musical values have been settled long ago and that any one who disputes them is stamping himself as a boor. Even brand new works come before this public with an aura of prestige. Has not the conductor of the orchestra, a man whose name actually appears in the musical encyclopedias, vouched for the value of a new work by the very fact that he has accepted it for performance? Then let every one beware of an unfavorable reaction!

Even tho a hearer does not like a new piece he is apt to keep this fact to himself because of his belief that inability to appreciate it is a sign of Philistinism and old fogeyism. Far worse than merely concealing his dislike is denying even to himself that this dislike exists. The desire to think of ourselves as intelligent and sensitive is an almost universal human foible, and it leads us to propose to ourselves and to accept some very fantastic propositions. Such, for instance, as the idea that we have grasped and been genuinely delighted by some unfamiliar, cacophonous composition in a brand new idiom.

In short, the American musical public is entirely too humble. Its members do not realize that they can play an important part in the process of musical selection—in deciding what works are to be admitted to the permanent répertoire and what excluded therefrom. They would exercise this function much more vigorously if they could be disabused of the notion that inability to like something is usually due to their own deficiencies. Such inability is often due to the deficiencies of the music or of the performance—and a good sound hissing is indicated! The Homers of music nod often. The reactions of an uninhibited audience should serve as an alarm.

In other times and other climes audiences exercised and do exercise their preprogatives fearlessly, and are partly responsible for the weeding out process which should be going on every day, everywhere. If applause is honest, and not the result of a fear of ridicule or loss of prestige, mediocre music is apt to have very hard sledding.

In this country the weeding out process is not proceeding smoothly. Music is surrounded with too much respect. How can a conductor check up on his own taste if he can get no reliable indication from his audience as to whether the work was disliked, liked moderately, or like greatly? Critics are not as helpful in such cases as they might be—partly because of their notorious proneness to assess new things by false criteria, partly because they too are sensitive about being thought Philistines or fogeys and are sometimes reluctant to condemn new works with the vigor which they secretly think would be justified.

Even musicians themselves, who would be the first to suffer if audiences grew suddenly bellicose and began hurling things, are not united in their liking for the present state of things. Even when listening to their audience's polite applause they must think nostalgically of a musical day which they know principally from their reading of memoirs—a day when exponents of rival esthetic theories were willing to settle their differences in street brawls, and when people could get excited enough over musical questions to terminate friendships and fight duels. The classic example of this is, of course, the Gluck-Piccinni feud in Paris in the 1700s, altho the "Tannhäuser" affair in the same city about a century later is a worthy runner-up.

The weakness of the thesis of this article lies in the fact that it is impossible even for the most experienced listener to assess a work adequately on first hearing. Therefore it would seem that a piece should be listened to respectfully two or three times. However, an unfavorable reception is not reason enough to withdraw a work if the conductor is thoroly convinced of its value. A few good hissings per season would do nobody and nothing any permanent harm and might return music to that healthy state where it is demanded of a composer that he either say something or hold his peace. In the long run only those composers will be asked to hold their peace who have nothing of importance to say.

Appointed Conductor.

Thor Johnson was recently announced to succeed Karl Wecker as conductor of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Symphony orchestra for the 1940-'41 season. Mr. Johnson is director of the University of Michigan Choral Union and founder of the university's little symphony, which he has conducted in Chicago.

Music in Mexico

Some 15 works new to Mexico will be included on the programs of the Symphony Orchestra of Mexico, conducted by Carlos Chavez, during its 12th season. The concerts will be given in the Palace of Fine Arts, Mexico City, during July and August on Friday nights and—at popular prices—on Sunday mornings. Among the novelties will be two recently discovered Vivaldi symphonies, Sibelius' Third Symphony, Shostakovich's Fifth Symphony, Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf," Roy Harris' Third Symphony, Fauré's "Pelléas et Mélisande" suite, Dukas' "La Péri," Satie's "Trois Petites Pièces Montées," Milhaud's Suite Provençale, and Debussy's "Le Martyre de Saint-Sébastien." Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will be performed with the choral movement, and his Fifth Concerto for piano will be played by the artist who wins a current contest being sponsored by the Symphonic society.

Plays for Small Towns.

The American Theater society, now functioning in the nation's larger cities, will invade the smaller towns during the coming season with an organization to be called the American Theater Society Tours. This outfit will send on the road four plays, tried and true Broadway successes, under the management of the original producers. The society will attend to the organization of the audiences, which has been the successful factor in its subscriptions in large cities. Two of the plays promised for the coming year are William Saroyan's Pulitzer prize comedy, "The Time of Your Life," and the successful "The Man Who Came to Dinner" by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart. Any civic organization, local group or theater manager interested in this new plan may get information from Warren P. Munsell, business manager of the American Theater society, 245 West 52d street, New York.

FAVORITE AT THE STEVENS

Griff Williams, the genial gentleman from the west coast, is reigning favorite of the Continental room in the Stevens hotel, where his band has been playing, with one brief interruption, since last October.

Free Concerts Open Saturday in Grant Park

Grant park concert time has rolled around again. On Saturday evening, in the band shell at the foot of 11th street, the first of 101 free open air concerts will initiate the 1940 summer season. These concerts, which are nationally recognized as a unique civic enterprise in music appreciation and recreation, are presented by the Chicago park district in coöperation with the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

During June the sponsors of the concerts will enjoy the additional coöperation of the board of education. Each concert in the month of June will consist of a double feature, the first hour to be given by a professional orchestra or band, and the second hour to be played by an orchestra or band from a Chicago high school. Thus in the month of June Chicagoans may obtain each evening a vivid first hand impression of the musical work now being accomplished in one or another of our public schools.

The programs in July and August will follow the pattern of earlier seasons. Nightly concerts will bring forward orchestras and bands, conducted by musicians of national and local reputation, assisted by distinctive—and sometimes world famous—soloists, both vocal and instrumental. All evening concerts begin at 8 o'clock and last until 10. Sunday and holiday afternoon concerts are from 3 to 5.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra opens the season Saturday evening, conducted by David Van Vactor, well known composer and flutist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The program includes his own "Bagatelles" for string orchestra. The second half of the program, beginning at 9 o'clock, will be played by the Marshall High school orchestra, Merle J. Isaac, conductor.

Two concerts will be played next Sunday. The Chicago Woman's Concert band, Lillian Poenisch, conductor, and the Schurz High school band, Clayborne Harvey, conductor, share the afternoon. The evening music will be presented by the Glenn Bainum band, Glenn Cliffe Bainum, conductor, and the Senn High school band, Charles Ostergren, conductor.

Detailed programs of the first three concerts follow:

Hal Kemp and his orchestra furnish the stage show at the Chicago theater this week. A special revue, presented by the band leader, offers Judy Starr, songstress; Janet Blair, Bob Allen, Clayton Cash, Jack Le Maire, Gower and Jeanne, dance team, and Shea and Raymond. On the screen "'Til We Meet Again," with Merle Oberon and George Brent.

Several stellar names stud the stage bill at the Oriental theater. Willie and Eugene Howard, last seen here this season in George White's "Scandals," return to present their special, and excellent, brand of comedy. Beverly Roberts, screen actress and singer, is on hand, and so, too, is Dixie Dunbar, a dancer from the films. Joe Termini and company, James Evans, and others complete the bill. The film is "Alias, the Deacon," starring Bob Burns and Mischa Auer.

One of the last of the great names among magicians—Blackstone—heads the list of entertainers at the State-Lake theater. He has brought along his troupe of 30 aides and his two carloads of props to awe his audiences with his superb répertoire of tricks and illusions. Additional performers are Milt Britton and his orchestra, Tommy Rafferty, Chubby Silver and Irving Jaffe. "I Take This Woman," with Spencer Tracy and Hedy Lamarr, is the motion picture.

The popular and lovely Myrna Dean is still providing glamor on the Rialto theater's stage show, along with Mimi Reed, Marie Cord, Joan Carroll, and Chiquita Garcia. "Enemy Agent," featuring Richard Cromwell and Helen Vinson, is on the screen.

Show Boat Revival.

Three of the principals in the original cast of "Show Boat" appeared in their old rôles in a revival of the famous musical comedy in Los Angeles, Cal., recently. They were Norma Terris, Helen Morgan, and Sammy White.

Ravinia Park to Open Annual Outdoor Season on June 25

Ormandy Will Conduct First Concert Series

By Cecil Smith.

Rumors have been flying about for several weeks concerning the nature of the outdoor summer symphonic season at Ravinia park, the wooded enclosure with its music pavilion, near the lake 21 miles north of Chicago. Last Tuesday the Ravinia festival committee gave its annual preview luncheon for its workers and the press, and confessed that all the promising and attractive rumors we have all heard are to become realities.

As usual, the season will be six weeks long. The opening concert will be played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, on Tuesday evening, June 25. Thereafter—note the revision of the weekly schedule this year—concerts will take place each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evening and each Sunday afternoon. This disposition of concert dates allows a breathing spell for orchestral rehearsal between concerts, and spaces the public performances better thru the week.

The whole reason for Ravinia's existence, of course, is the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which plays all 24 of the summer's concerts. Five guest conductors will keep interest high, thru the diversity of their musical attitudes and the variety of their répertoire. Four celebrated assisting soloists will enhance several of the week-end programs.

Eugene Ormandy, conductor and musical director of the Philadelphia orchestra, has been selected for the four concerts of the opening week [June 25, 27, 29, and 30]. Mr. Ormandy conducted at Ravinia two summers ago, and on occasion he has appeared in the loop at the head of his own Philadelphia orchestra.

Eugene Ormanly.

For the second and third weeks of the festival [July 2 to 14] Artur Rodzinski, the dynamic and dramatic conductor of the Cleveland orchestra, returns to Ravinia for his third fortnight. No conductor in the first four seasons of the present symphonic régime in the north shore park has won a more devoted and enthusiastic following.

Mr. Rodzinski has already planned his répertoire carefully. During his stay he will direct a cycle of several of the important symphonic works of Johannes Brahms. He also has two new works definitly in mind—the third symphony of Roy Harris, which has won recognition as one of the most significant works yet composed by an American; and a brand new concerto for viola by David Van Vactor, young Evanston composer, a member of the Northwestern music faculty and a flutist in the Chicago Symphony orchestra. In Mr. Van Vactor's work—his third to receive its world première at Ravinia—the solo part will be played by Milton Preves, the accomplished first violist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

The festival committee has decided to experiment with a new idea on Sunday afternoon, July 7. On this date, which falls within Mr. Rodzinski's period, a children's concert will be played. A feature of the program will be Serge Prokofieff's delightful fairy tale, "Peter and the Wolf." The narrator will be Paul Leyssac, the distinguished actor and reader who took part in the downtown performances of "Peter and the Wolf" last winter. Mr. Leyssac will also serve as commentator for the rest of the children's program.

The fourth week, from July 16 to 21, brings a newcomer to the Ravinia platform. Nicolai Malko, a Russian conductor whose appearances last January with the Boston Symphony orchestra were outstandingly successful, makes his middle western debut at this time. Mr. Malko, a pupil of Rimsky-Korsakoff and Glazounoff, at one time conducted in St. Petersburg [later Leningrad]. At this moment he is engaged in Copenhagen, Denmark, as director of the State Radio orchestra. While he has not yet left Copenhagen for America, Ravinia promises confidently that he will be able to cross the ocean without difficulty. Mr. Malko's chief contribution will be a Tschaikowsky cycle, in honor of the centenary of the birth of the composer.

The final fortnight of the season [July 23 to Aug. 4] falls to John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony society. Mr. Barbirolli has conducted in Chicago only once, when his orchestra gave a concert in the Auditorium theater last November. The catholicity of his taste and the breadth of his musical outlook promise a distinctive and interesting répertoire, tho details of his programs are not yet available.

The number of soloists engaged for the season is not large, but the quality is high. Vladimir Horowitz, famous Russian pianist, will play with Mr. Ormandy and the orchestra on Saturday evening, June 29. Mr. Horowitz insists that this, his first outdoor summer appearance, will also be his only one anywhere this summer.

Albert Spalding, the noted American violinist, will play twice. On Saturday evening, July 13, he will play the Brahms concerto as part of Mr. Rodzinski's Brahms cycle. A week later he will appear with Mr. Malko, presumably in the Tschaikowsky concerto.

The final soloist of the summer will be Kirsten Flagstad, Wagnerian soprano of the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies. Mme. Flagstad will sing at both the last Saturday evening concert [Aug. 3] and the closing program of the season [Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4]. The committee has acceded to the suggestion that Edwin McArthur, Mme. Flagstad's accompanist, be invited to conduct on Sunday afternoon, and Mr. Barbirolli has graciously relinquished this date.

Coupon books of 18 tickets, good either for gate admission or reserved seat locations, may now be purchased at a saving of $3.50 on each book. In Chicago coupon books are obtainable at the Ravinia festival office, Room 1522, 231 South La Salle street; at Lyon & Healy, Inc.; at Marshall Field and company [also at Oak Park, Evanston and Lake Forest stores], and at Spaulding-Gorham Inc., in the Drake hotel.

DIRECTS FREE CONCERT

The great series of free concerts in the Grant park band shell will open on Saturday night with a program played by members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra under David Van Vactor's direction. The Marshall High school orchestra will also take part.

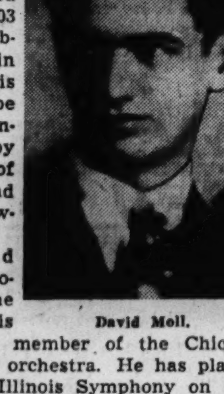
Current Music News

At tomorrow night's concert by the Illinois Symphony in the Studebaker theater David Moll will give the first Chicago performance with the orchestra of a violin concerto by a Polish composer, Mieczyslaw Karlowicz. Since the latter's name rarely, if ever, appears on local concert programs, he deserves an extended introduction.

Karlowicz is rated by his countrymen as their greatest symphonist prior to 1914. He was born in Wiszniewo on Dec. 11, 1876. Altho weak in health, he had the advantages as he grew up of a comfortable home and cultured, music loving parents. Frequent trips to Heidelberg, Prague, and Dresden with his mother and father added immeasurably to his musical background.

When he was 5 he had already started to play the violin. He intensified his studies on this instrument when his family moved to Warsaw in 1887. Here he began the study of music theory, his best known teacher being Zygmunt Noskowski. Between 1895 and 1900 he worked under Heinrich Urban in Berlin, and a few years later took up conducting with Artur Nikisch in Leipzig. He returned to Warsaw to compose and direct the activities of the Warsaw Musical society. Becoming dissatisfied with the confusion of city life and the constant intrigues of Warsaw musical circles he retreated to an estate in Zakopane, where he spent all his time composing. There he also took long excursions among his beloved Polish mountains. On the 8th of February, 1909, during one such trip he was killed by an avalanche.

The body of Karlowicz's creations consists of songs, symphonic poems, and the violin concerto. This last was written in 1902, first performed early in 1903 and published in 1908. It is said to be strongly influenced by the styles of Brahms and Tschaikowsky.



David Moll.

David Moll, the soloist in the concerto, is a familiar member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He has played with the Illinois Symphony on two previous occasions.

Albert Goldberg will wield the baton for tomorrow's program, which follows:

Overture to "Benvenuto Cellini"....Berlioz
Symphony No. 3....Sibelius
Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, A Major....Karlowicz
David Moll.

Concert Overture, "Cockaigne"....Elgar

For its 40th anniversary program in the Civic Opera house tonight the Workmen's Circle has engaged Jan Peerce, radio and concert tenor, to appear as guest artist with the Workmen's Circle choir. The tenor has one Chicago recital to his credit as well as an engagement for one of W-G-N's operetta productions. During the approaching summer he will go busily around the country to sing on the Cincinnati Music festival, with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony in Lewisohn stadium, with the Philadelphia orchestra in Robin Hood Dell, with the Los Angeles Philharmonic in Hollywood bowl, and with the Portland Symphony at the Multnomah Civic stadium. The Workmen's Circle choir made its last Chicago appearance in March with another popular tenor, Jan Kiepura.

Robert S. Childe will conduct the Notre Dame Alumni glee club in its first concert in the Studebaker theater this afternoon. Members of the organization are the doctors, lawyers, manufacturers, publishers, and other business and professional men who, in their undergraduate days, sang together in the Notre Dame glee club. Sacred, folk, and popular numbers are scheduled on their program, together with an appropriate medley of Notre Dame songs. The afternoon will offer two guest stars: Pat O'Malley, the Lancashire lad of "Little Albert and the Lion" fame, and George Menard, a member of the WLS Barn Dance cast. Proceeds of the concert will go toward a scholarship fund for those wishing to attend the choir members' alma mater.

Joy Cole, a blind soprano from Oklahoma, will give her first Chicago recital in Kimball hall tomorrow night. She has been studying in this city for the past seasons and she will demonstrate her abilities in songs by Schumann, Schubert, Debussy, Rossini, Charles Wakefield Cadman, and others. Her sister, Jane Cole, will supply two groups of piano solos to the program.

A welcome change from the usual run of recitalists is the presence of Charles Fischman, flutist, on the Young American Artists' series in Curtiss hall next Tuesday. He will share the program with Jeanette Risler, pianist. Mr. Fischman will offer several interesting numbers: Casella's Sicilienne et Burlesque, the andante from Ibert's Concerto for Flute and Piano, the Dance of the Blessed Spirits from Gluck's "Orpheus," Hindemith's Sonata, and the scherzo from Widor's Suite for Flute. Miss Risler has prepared pieces by Bach, Scarlatti, Chopin, Liszt, Ravel, Scriabin, De Severac, and Schuett.

The annual musical given by professional musicians belonging to the Arts club will take place at the club on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Mae Doelling Schmidt will open the program with three piano solos by Eleanor Everest Freer. Robert Speaker, baritone, will sing four songs by Jeanne Boyd, the composer accompanying. Rose Lyon du Moulin will offer piano compositions by George Gershwin, Alexander Tansman, John Alden Carpenter, and William Pelz, a newcomer on the American scene. To bring the session to a close Frances Coates Grace, soprano, will be accompanied by Robert MacDonald in excerpts from Gian-Carlo Menotti's "Amelia Goes to the Ball." These represent the first Chicago performance of any part of the opera.

The last performance for the season of the dramatized "Elijah" will be given by the United Choirs of the New First Congregational church, Ashland and Washington boulevards, tonight.

The third annual May musical of the glee club of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago will be held in Blackstone hall of the institute on Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock. Charles Fabens Kelley is the conductor, and Bertram Webber the organ accompanist and soloist. A generous portion of the program is devoted to some unfamiliar folk songs.

Frederick Marriott, organist and carillonneur of the Rockefeller Memorial chapel, 59th street and Woodlawn avenue, will give an organ recital there on Tuesday evening at 8:15. The program lists works by Bach, Reger, Jongen, Vierne, Saint-Martin, and Dupré. Admission is without ticket.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Kimball hall will be the scene of a recital by Dorothy Edidin, soprano, today. Her generous program includes a group of five neglected songs by Anton Rubinstein; a discriminating assortment of arias from "The Marriage of Figaro," "Il Trovatore," Korngold's "The Dead City," Ravel's "L'Enfant et les Sortilèges," and Messager's "Madame Chrysanthème"; songs by Bach, Scarlatti, Handel, Wolf, and others. Violet Martens will be the accompanist.

Fourth and last of the Fine Art Opera company's series of "Carmen" performances will be given in the Auditorium Recital hall tonight. This time Vera Jeske will sing the title rôle; Gertrude Immekus will be Micaela, William Ponticell the Don José, and George Barnard the Escamillo. Supporting rôles will be taken by Dorothy Chimi, Gladys Zeiher, Otto Pabst, Lionel Godow, Daniel Mendelsohn, and Arthur Nordhem. Zerline Muhlman Metzger will direct the performance from her place as piano accompanist.

José Alvarez and Mira Soriano, Spanish dance team, will give their first downtown program since last May in the Goodman theater this afternoon. Several new dances will be shown for the first time on the concert in combination with numbers from their regular répertoire. There will be authentic examples, choreographed by Mr. Alvarez, of gypsy or flamenco, classical and peasant dances, and one of the new items will be a jota done to Chabrier's "España." The dancers will appear as soloists as well as together. Jean Williams will play piano compositions by Spanish composers at various points on the program.

Virginia Wilson, a resident of Ravinia, will make her debut as a recitalist in Kimball hall on Tuesday. A mezzo-soprano, she has already sung numerous concerts on a tour of the east, and a year ago she sang the title rôle in an all-female performance of the second act of "The Barber of Seville" at the Civic theater. For this she also acted as English translator. One summer she went to Italy with Rosa Raisa for a season of operatic coaching. Tuesday's concert lists among other things the first performance of Charles Richard's "Lift Up Thy Golden Head," a song dedicated to Miss Wilson. Charles Eiferle, her accompanist, will add a group of piano solos to the program.

On Friday night Anna Zaretsky Elvove, another mezzo-soprano, will be heard in Kimball hall. Accompanied by Julia Le Vine she will sing several Russian songs, arrangements of Palestinian and Russian folk tunes, operatic and classical arias, and sundry other items. The assisting artist will be Edward Epstien, pianist.

A second series of public auditions will be sponsored by the Chicago Opera company starting early in June. Any one in the country is eligible and can make application by writing to Mrs. William Cowen, vice chairman of the auditions committee, 20 North Wacker drive, Chicago. One man and one woman will be selected from the contestants to appear in supporting rôles for which they are prepared during the 1940 season. The winners will be given featured radio appearances and the privilege of attending all stage rehearsals and at least 10 performances. Checks for $100, presented by the Illinois Opera guild, will be additional awards. The auditions will be held on the stage of the Civic Opera house before a committee headed by Henry Weber and Mrs. Cowen, and including Eugene Stinson, Cecil Smith, Mrs. Royden J. Keith, Edith Mason, Marjorie Maxwell, Robert Pollack, Roy Shields, Mrs. James Ames, Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, George Czaplicki, John Charles Gilbert, and Sonia Sharnova. None of these are voice teachers, a point stressed to show the impartiality of the judging. At the last audition, representatives of the theater, motion pictures, radio, and concert managements will be invited to hear the finalists.

Two units of the Illinois music project will give concerts at the Illinois Concert Music hall, 632 North Dearborn street, this week. On Tuesday at 8:15 the National Youth orchestra, Irwin Fischer, conductor, will offer a program of music by Beethoven, Lalo, Weber, Wagner, Tschaikowsky, and Shostakovich. George H. Shapiro's transcription of the nocturne from Borodin's string quartet will be given its first performance. David Chausow, concert master of the orchestra, and Pearl Anderson, soprano, will be the soloists.

On Friday night at the same hour the American Concert orchestra will present another adult music appreciation program, featuring the works of Nicolai, MacDowell, Saint-Saëns, Grieg, Bizet, and Johann Strauss Jr. The conductor, Ralph Cissne, will lecture on this miscellany of composers.

Delta Omicron, national music sorority, will sponsor a musical today at 3 o'clock at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. Leo Waner, 832 Ingleside place, Evanston, for the benefit of the sorority studios at Interlachen National Music camp and the MacDowell colony at Peterboro. Performers on the program will be Elaine Dahlgren, contralto; Helen Guest, pianist, and Mildred Cruse, violinist.

Proof Is Added to Genuineness of Runestone

Which university for my son?—which college for my daughter?—what is the endowment at college A?—what is the faculty rating at college B? Answers to these and other questions will be found in "Higher Education," by Dr. John Evans, education editor. On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower. Price, 10 cents, by mail, 13 cents.

By the Rev. John Evans.

Scientists may continue to argue about runic inscriptions found on the North American continent, but a report on the Kensington runestone recently made to the American Archaeological society by Dr. George Lechler of Wayne university upholds the theory of authenticity.

Dr. Lechler has spent four years on this runestone, which was found in 1898 about 190 miles southwest of Duluth, Minn., and the inscription indicates that white men made a voyage into Minnesota in 1362, 130 years before Columbus landed at San Salvador. Dr. Lechler is convinced that this Kensington stone is a genuine calling card of those early Norsemen.

The 200 pound boulder, incised with runes, describes an exploring trip of "8 Goths and 22 Norwegians" in that year, and the establishment of their camp at the spot where the stone was found.

While a translation was made soon after the discovery of the boulder, the genuineness was disputed on two principal assumptions: Orthographical peculiarities and the location of the stone, which was so distant from the Norse settlements in Greenland.

After examining archaeological, historical, and geographical evidence involved, Dr. Lechler bases his belief in the stone's genuineness largely on the peculiarities of the spelling. These peculiar words, long believed to be evidence of the forger's clumsiness, have been found thru research work within the last year to be typical of Norse runic writings at the purported date.

"Norsemen located in the Greenland settlements almost certainly would have become acquainted with Hudson's bay, whence they could have penetrated by water most of the way to Kensington," says Dr. Lechler. He adds that historical events occurring in Greenland during the 1360's would make distant inland voyages at that time entirely credible.

Interest anew in the Kensington stone recalls the Yarmouth stone, which also is regarded as another runestone. It was exhibited in Chicago at the World's Columbian exposition in 1893. This stone, weighing about 500 pounds, was found in 1812 near the head of Northwestern cove of Yarmouth harbor in Nova Scotia. According to Olaf Strandwold, an expert in runology and formerly superintendent of schools in Benton county, Wash., the inscription reads: "Leif to Erik raises this monument."

While there is no unanimity of opinion among scientists on the Yarmouth stone any more so than on the Kensington as to authenticity, its location excludes the assumption of forgery on the ground of distance in travel. From credible narratives of voyages by the Norsemen of Scandinavia, the leaders of expeditions over the northern and western seas gave repeated descriptions of a country which can be identified as Nova Scotia.

Mr. Strandwold is of the opinion that Leif Eriksen was present when this boulder was inscribed, which would place its date about 1001 A. D.

Criticism is offered that Norsemen would be unlikely to inscribe a stone expressive merely of sentiment. Opposed to this view are the facts that Yarmouth is the last horbor in coastwise sailing, and that human nature differed no whit nine centuries ago. Homeward bound! Leif had no other choice, and he recorded the limit of a successful voyage with this token of filial affection.

Anna Neagle Will Star in 'Irene' Friday

her reputation. Irene Dunne and Jeannette McDonald, now Hollywood stars, scored successes in the original stage version.

W-G-N's production department promises that this special radio version will fully measure up to the stage and screen versions of "Irene." To assure this achievement Fifth Row Center has been expanded from a half hour to a full hour. And special steps are being taken, Director Blair Walliser said, to present both the drama and the music in the best possible combination.

The cast of actors will be "sheltered" from the music in a specially constructed soundproof shield on wheels. This will be around around the actors. This arrangement will permit full orchestration but at levels controled by the engineer. It will prevent possible drowning out of the actors' voices on the air, sometimes the misfortune on programs combining music and drama.

Ken Griffin.
[Mayrice Seymour Photo.]

Besides the presentation of the "Alice Blue Gown" spectacle, other songs from the show will be featured. These include "Irene," "There's Something in the Air," "Castle of Dreams," and "You've Got Me Out on a Limb." The latter is a new tune which Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy, who wrote the original lyrics, turned out for the movie version. This will be introduced to Mutual's listeners in a special arrangement featuring Edna Odell as soloist.

The cast for "Irene," while not yet completed, will include besides Miss Neagle as Irene O'Dare, and Mr. Meredith as Don Lawrence, the following:

Ken Griffin as "Bob Vincent," Ethel Owen as "Mrs. Vincent," Hilda Graham as "Granny," Bret Morrison as "Mr. Smith," Joan Winters as "Eleanor," Luise Barclay as "Lillian," Cyrilla Dorne as "Jane," Audrey McGrath as "Mrs. Morel," John Goldsworthy as "Betherton," and Patricia Dunlap as "Helen."

was "Bittersweet," recently re-created on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N-Mutual, with Marion Claire in the starring rôle.

"Victoria the Great" and "Nurse Edith Cavell" revealed Miss Neagle to American movie goers as a dramatic star of the first magnitude. They also tended to type her in rôles that failed to capitalize to the fullest on her beauty, her lovely personality, and her versatility as an entertainer. "Irene" does precisely that.

Miss Neagle early this year was voted the best dressed international star by the Fashion Academy. In "Irene" she wears, besides the famous "Alice blue gown," six other startling creations designed by Edward Stevenson.

The shade, "Alice blue," dates back to the Theodore Roosevelt era [this information is for the younger generation] and his daughter, Alice, who inspired it. While "Irene" was being screened a dozen persons wrote to the R-K-O studios claiming they possessed the "original" Alice blue gown worn by Miss Edith Day in the stage version.

However, the movie studios took no chances, and created a modern adaptation of their own which Miss Neagle will wear to the W-G-N studios next Friday. The material is slipper satin of the required shade. Its features include a draped pannier that falls full from the draped corselet, with a large bustlette bow at the back. The floor length skirt has a garland of pearl embroidery repeating the lines of the pannier.

Burgess Meredith has had a rapid rise to eminence on the American stage. But prior to his stage and movie career his activities were as varied as they were multitudinous. He started out in life as a choir boy. Then he was a newspaper reporter, haberdasher, Wall street messenger, then vacuum cleaner, roofing material, necktie and fur salesman, and a sailor on tramp steamers. He was well known as a radio actor before achieving a reputation on the stage.

Seven years ago he became an unsalaried apprentice in Eva Le Gallienne's Repertory company, playing three parts in "Alice in Wonderland"—the roller skating duck, the Dormouse, and Tweedledee.

On Broadway he scored a hit as a tap dancing student in "She Loves Me Not," a success that ran for a year in New York.

Later Katharine Cornell engaged him as one of the young men in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Since then he has sailed under sunny skies. Under the management of Guthrie McClintic, Miss Cornell's husband, Meredith appeared in "Flowers of the Forest," "Winterset," "High Tor," and "The Star Wagon." This season he has been starred in a revival of "Liliom."

German Drama

In spite of the heavy war it is waging, Germany continues to indulge in exchange programs in both the musical and dramatic realms with other European countries. The Berlin Schiller theater is touring such cities as Brünn, Bratislava, Budapest, Zagreb and Belgrade with a production of Calderon's "The Alcalde of Zalamea." It has sent out several conductors for guest performances—Herbert von Karajan of Berlin to Madrid, Clemens Krauss of Munich to Bologna, Hans Knappertsbusch of Munich to Milan, and Eugen Jochum of Hamburg to Naples. Italy has returned the favor by sending to the larger German cities the 35 piece Orchestra Romana da Camera of Rome, directed by Luigi Toffolo.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

They tell me I'm partial to Spencer Tracy. Well—so are a lot of other folks, including Academy Award-ers. And with reason, as is proved again by "Edison, the Man."

Mr. Tracy's characterization of Thomas A. Edison is, perhaps, the best thing he's done. Certainly it is a forceful, intuitive, and moving portrayal and a great contribution to the screen gallery of living likenesses.

He assumes so easily the mantle of another's personality! He never —apparently—strives to "be like Garbo." He just BECOMES—Garbo. . . . And so—he is Edison, the practical dreamer. Gentle, but with starch to his sweetness; unostentatious but inspired; persistent, full of faith—and full of iron. With sympathy for weakness, understanding for mistakes but no tolerance for slipshodness. . . . Earning and retaining the devoted loyalty of his helpers, who stand by him thru thick and thin, bolster his courage when it falters and are, in no small way, responsible for his ultimate achievements, the greatest of which, as you know, is electrical illumination . . .

The film follows Edison from boyhood to old age, depicting in absorbing fashion the hurdles, hazards, and triumphs of his career. It abounds in little human touches—for instance how Thomas Alva DID love apple pie and milk!—and there is an appealing quality to the entire production that warms and yet in no way detracts from its strength.

Rita Johnson was a happy choice as Mrs. Edison. She's an actress of charm and ability. Outstanding in the supporting cast are Charles Coburn, Lynne Overman, Gene Lockhart, and Felix Bressart.

Everything about this movie gives evidence of money and brains wisely utilized, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer may justly point with pride to "Edison, the Man."

See you tomorrow.

Shakespeare Festival.

Altho it may well have been interrupted by now the annual Shakespeare Festival season at Stratford-on-Avon, England, did get off to a good start toward the end of April. This year's directors were B. Iden Payne, Balliol Holloway, and Andrew Leigh. Of the bard's plays "Measure for Measure," "As You Like It," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "King John," "Hamlet," and "The Merchant of Venice" were produced. Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" was also in the répertoire, the first non-Shakespearean play to make its appearance at Stratford-on-Avon since the festival was initiated.

Bon Air Will Open Tuesday; New Chez Show

This week's showbill for Chicago's cafés reads like a page torn from the Burke's Peerage of the entertainment business. Consider the weekday calendar:

Tuesday—Tony and Renee De Marco, Gracie Barrie, Al Bernie, and Clyde Lucas' orchestra, all opening the suburban Bon Air. The Four Ambassadorettes, the Belles of Bon Air, and the Dukes and Their Duchess, an alternate band, will assist.

Wednesday—Cobina Wright Jr., Harry Richman, Dean Murphy, Lucien and Ashour, Gloria Day, and the ever present Lou Breese and the Adorables provide downtown competition at Chez Paree. It is Cobina's Chicago debut.

Friday—Carl Ravazza's orchestra replaces Carlos Molina at the Colony. It is a debut for Carl, his tremendous popularity having been built up on the west coast. George Owen and Tony Parker, song comedians, and the La Playa dancers, along with Fantasia and her Rhumboleros, carry on. Out at the Trianon ballroom Hal Kemp steps in for a three night stand, while Jack McLean goes north to the Aragon.

Saturday—Blue Barron brings a sweet note into the Blackhawk restaurant. It is his Chicago debut, and is in the nature of an innovation for the Blackhawk in view of its predilection for hot bands.

Add on to the list of names due this week the following which appeared over the last week-end: Chaz Chase, the shirt eating comedian; Ben Yost's singing Whiteguards, and the acrobatic Tryon sisters, who joined Tony Cabot's band in the second spring show at Villa Moderne Friday night.

Patricia Perry.

Leonard Keller, whose old sobriquet as the "tone poet" has been quietly dropped since his graduation into the ranks of the more solid senders. He returned Friday to the Bismarck hotel's Walnut room.

Ralph [Cookie] Cook, who received these reinforcements Thursday in his blitzkrieg on the blues at Harry's New Yorker: Patricia Perry; the De Vovi twins, acrodancers; Louise Powell, vocalist, and Winnie Hoveler's Dancing Darlings in a new Indian adagio routine.

For several decades one of Chicago's favorite fun rendezvous, Riverview Park is again in full swing with a new array of rides and entertainment features that give meaning to its slogan of "Chicago's permanent world's fair." The mile-long midway boasts a setting of natural and artificial beauty—groves of full-leafed trees, glowing with color from a spectacular indirect lighting system . . . modernistic street lamps . . . the brilliant lights of the rides and concessions . . . and, towering over all, the gray, silent heights of the most topical "ride" of all—the Pair-o-Chutes. This latter device provides the layman with a few brief seconds of the thrills of a parachute drop, with none of the dangers. In point of actual fact, news reports from Germany indicate that quick opening 'chutes enable her famed parachute troops to make safe landings from planes flying no higher than the Riverview tower—200 feet.

Sandwiched between the two main floor shows, the "little show" in the Empire room of the Palmer House gives Charles Baum and nis orchestra a special chance to show their wares. They open the revue with an unusual arrangement of "Moonlight Sonata," follow it up with an interlude of Baum's own individual piano artistry, and close the show with a burnished-copper version of "The Fire Dance." Before it's over, however, Gary Stone, the singing master of ceremonies, offers a medley of his favorite tunes, and Dorothy Dale, an Abbott pupil making her professional solo debut, appears in a novelty tap number.

Boswelling the Bistros:

The Drake's new supper room is no longer under the decorative direction of Dorothy Draper, reports say. A Chicago firm is readying the room for an opening Sept. 15. . . . Bud Freeman will honor his prep alma mater—Austin High school of Chicago—on Wednesday night in the Panther room of the Hotel Sherman. Bud, Benny Goodman, Jimmy McPartland, Dave Tough, and the late Bix Beiderbecke—all greats in the world of swing—were Austin grads. . . . Freddy Martin and his orchestra take over the Aragon bandstand June 4 for about six weeks. . . . The barn dance craze, inaugurated by Griff Williams in the Continental room of the Stevens hotel, has spread to the Panther room. . . . Petite Gourmet, the quiet little bar-café hidden away on North Michigan, has a dance interlude every Wednesday from 10 to midnight, the Arthur Murray dancers in charge. . . . Precious secret of Don the Beachcomber is his long list of drink formulas. A peek into the forbidden land behind the bar reveals a crew of seven men, each a specialist, working with the precision and care of chemists. . . . Sight of the week: Muggsy Spanier blowing a lot of trumpet with Bob Crosby's band at the Sunday Bobcat matinée, while Griff Williams looked on from a ringside table.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.
[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Why did you put up your ace, partner?" West asked reproachfully.

East immediately bristled. "When I learned bridge," he said, using a nice blend of frigidity and pompousness, "the first thing I was taught was never to finesse against my own partner."

West was not squelched—not even impressed. "Well, you were taught badly," he said. "The mere fact that the word 'never' was part of your instructions was proof that your teacher was all wet. If he hadn't been he would have told you there are no 'nevers' in bridge!"

And needless to say West was right! There are any number of cases in which it is not only all right but vital for one defender to "finesse" against the other. Terence Reese, in a recent issue of the Bridge World magazine, describes several standard situations in which only the "finesse against partner" has a chance to confuse and confound the enemy declarer. He writes:

"The commonest example of a finesse to help in the establishment of partner's suit occurs when the distribution is of this kind:

10 x
WEST J x x x x — EAST A Q x
SOUTH
K x x

"The lead is fourth best against a no trump contract and it is clear to East that his partner may have no entry for his suit. He can hardly lose by playing the queen in this situation; if he plays the ace declarer will hold off until the third round and the suit may never be brought in. On the play of the queen declarer will not hold off because of the fear that the A-J is on his left. Altho it is true that technically this finesse cannot be a losing play, for declarer is most unlikely to have a singleton king, it has been known to go wrong. The queen has to be played promptly and disinterestedly, for if the player considers a while or plays the queen with meaning look, declarer will understand what is happening and will refuse to win. If the play is smooth enough to deceive declarer it may deceive partner, too, and he may start discarding the suit or, worse still, may obtain the lead and switch to another suit. There is no honest way of combating this tragedy; one can only say that partner should be alive to the possibility of the ace being in the same hand with the queen.

"It is not only when declarer is suspected of having but one high honor, the king, that it pays to finesse against partner. Consider a hand of this type:

♥ K J 3
♦ Q J 6 3 2
♣ K 8 4 3

WEST
♠ K 9 4 3 2
♥ 10 8 2
♣ J 7 2

EAST
♠ A J 7
♥ 9 6 5 4
♦ K 10 9
♣ Q 9 6

SOUTH
♠ Q 10 6 5
♥ A Q 7
♦ A 7 4
♣ A 10 5

Double Dummy Problem

NORTH
♠ None
♥ K 2
♦ K 10 3
♣ 10 5 2

WEST
♠ J
♥ 10 6
♣ J 8 6

EAST
♠ 8 6 5
♥ Q 4

SOUTH
♠ 10 7 2
♦ Q
♣ Q 9

Hearts are trump and South leads. North and South are to win seven tricks against any defense.

Solution: South leads the deuce of spades. North ruffs and leads the king of trumps. If both East and West play low, North then leads the king and ten of diamonds, South discarding the club nine. Now North leads a club which South wins. South leads his losing trump, forcing East to give South two spade tricks. If East unblocks the heart queen on North's king, North leads a small diamond instead of the king and South, winning with the queen, then throws West on lead, North discarding the club deuce. Now, whether West exits with a club or a diamond, South is assured of entry to dummy, where he can cash two diamond tricks, and his own club queen and spade ten are good.

"After South has opened with a bid of one no trump vulnerable he becomes declarer at three no trump and West leads his fourth best spade. The fact that dummy has a singleton tells East that partner has five at least, and it is probable that declarer has four. Without doubt declarer has at least one stop in the suit. On this evidence East should finesse the jack. Observe the effect if he plays the ace and follows with the jack; if South is not a beginner he will refuse to cover; the suit will be cleared, but East has the diamond stop and West no entry, so South goes game, losing three spades and a diamond. If East plays the jack, however, South has a difficult decision to make at the first trick. If East has J x x, to hold off will be fatal, for the defense will duck the second round and take four spades and a diamond for a certainty. South may think his best chance lies in winning with the queen and losing the lead in diamonds to West; this can be managed if West has the king or if he has any three cards in the suit.

"Note that the finesse of the jack at the first trick does not gain only in the distribution given. It is effective also if declarer has such a holding as K 10 x x; and if declarer has K Q x x the play of the hand is made much more difficult for him if the ace does not go up at the first trick.

"A variation of the same play occurs when the distribution is:

x
WEST A 9 x x x — EAST K 10 x
SOUTH
Q J x x

"In the light of the foregoing arguments the reader will see that the finesse of the ten may well be a winning play for the defense. Of course the danger here is that declarer may have a rather different holding and the finesse can certainly prove a mistake.

"A very clever coup by a defender to aid his partner's suit was brought off on this hand in a recent championship:

"North, dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K J 9 8
♥ 7 5 3
♦ J
♣ A Q 9 6 3

WEST
♠ 10 5 4
♥ A 10 8 4 2
♦ 9 8 7 2

EAST
♠ 7 6 3 2
♥ K J
♦ K 6 5 4
♣ K 8 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q
♥ Q 9 6
♦ A Q 10 3
♣ J 10 7 4

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

"West opened the heart four and from the bidding and the strength of his own hand East realized that there was no chance of his partner having the ace of hearts and a side entry. He therefore played the jack, a brilliant false card which declarer could not possibly read. He won with the queen and the defense had then no difficulty in making a club and four hearts to set the hand. In the other room East went up with the king and returned the jack; South held off, his best chance, and the hand was now a spread for the contract. The same type of play could be made if the distribution were this:

x x
WEST A K 9 x x — EAST Q 10
SOUTH
J x x x

"One more situation in which it pays to finesse against partner is this:

NORTH
A 9 x x
WEST x x x — EAST Q 10 x
SOUTH
K J x

"If in the middle of a hand West leads this suit there is a lot to be said for the unhesitating play of the ten; then declarer is likely to cash the king and finesse the nine, playing West for the queen. This play by East can go wrong if the cards are different, but I have often seen it succeed."

Cohan's Play Closes After One Week Run

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—George M. Cohan took a beating from his favorite public last week. He came back with a sequel to "The Tavern," called "The Return of the Vagabond," detailing the further adventures of an odd character he wrote for the late Arnold Daly in 1920 and afterward played himself.

"The Tavern" was the first of the irregular comedies that undertook to spoof the old-time drama, and because it did so a little more intelligently than had previously been done it proved a popular diversion for the time. The line, "What's all the shootin' for?" became a popular query with the production of "The Tavern" and is still a frequent query in debate.

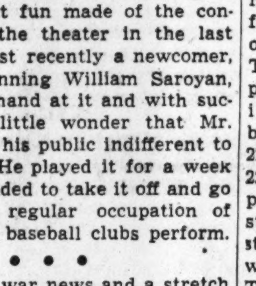
"The Return of the Vagabond" goes on with the story. The guests at a fantastic old inn again include and daughter, the daughter's husband, and the mysterious vagabond band, and the mysterious vagabond who blows in on the wings of a hurricane, manages to mess things up a bit, takes a hand in the apprehension of a couple of bank robbers, and blows out again.

• • •

The governor's daughter, married now where she was merely engaged before, is having a little difficulty with her bridegroom, who is fearfully frightened of thunderstorms. There is a new hired man, probably a better worker but not nearly so funny as the old What's all the shootin' for?" fellow.



George M. Cohan.

"The Tavern" travesty was always a little forced to me; so I did not share the complete disappointment of my confreres when the sequel failed. There has been a good deal of smart fun made of the conventions of the theater in the last 20 years. Just recently a newcomer, the prize winning William Saroyan, has taken a hand at it and with success. It is little wonder that Mr. Cohan found his public indifferent to his revival. He played it for a week and then decided to take it off and go back to his regular occupation of watching the baseball clubs perform.

Depressing war news and a stretch of fine spring weather, not to mention the reopening of the World's Fair, have hit the Broadway theaters a slap the last fortnight. Business has been bad, even for the hits, and a little pathetic for some of the others. There are still several spring productions scheduled for the next few weeks. When they have bowed in the struggle for the survival of the most popular will set in in earnest.

Opera Premiere

Rio de Janeiro saw the première of an opera by Hector Villa-Lobos, the Brazilian composer, not long ago. "Izaht," as it is called, was given in oratorio form, and altho the overture and the last two acts have been played in Brazil before, this was its first complete performance. It is unknown outside the South American country. "Izaht" is one of five operas composed by Villa-Lobos during his younger days, and the only one of them for which he completed the orchestration. It is in four acts with a libretto by Azevedo Junior and E. Villalba, which are nothing more nor less than pseudonyms for the composer himself. The music was written during 1912 and 1914 and orchestrated in 1918 and 1920 when the composer was in his 20s. It is strongly influenced by Puccini, but does contain evidences of the later, maturer Villa-Lobos and his concern for Brazilian folk motives. The libretto is a highly romantic affair, involving castles, taverns, gypsies, viscounts, gangsters, and Parisian apaches. The opera made a decided hit with its first night audience.

THE BARRON IS BLUE

A new note will be sounded in the Blackhawk starting Saturday—a sweet one, played by Blue Barron and his orchestra. It is Barron's first engagement in a Chicago cafe.

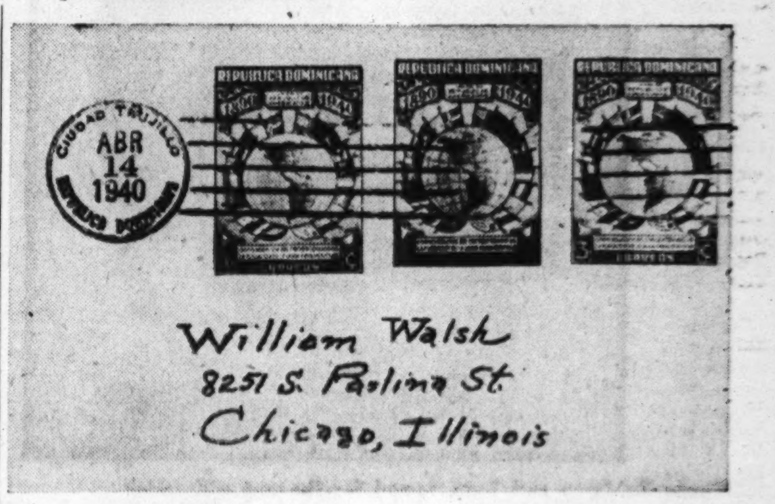
Concert Series

Three orchestras, a string quartet, a choral group, and five soloists will be heard on the Choral Union Concert series during the season of 1940-'41. The set of 10 programs will be given in Hill auditorium of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, and are sponsored by the University Musical society, Charles A. Sink, president. The concerts will begin with the presentation of Marian Anderson, contralto, on Oct. 23. Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will play on Nov. 7. Serge Jaroff will conduct the popular Don Cossack Russian chorus on Nov. 18. The New York Philharmonic symphony will appear under the baton of John Barbirolli on Nov. 24. On Dec. 3 Richard Bonelli, baritone, will give a recital. The Boston Symphony orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky, conductor, will make its 10th annual visit on Dec. 11. Jan. 15 will mark the reappearance at Ann Arbor of Vladimir Horowitz, pianist, after a long absence. The Minneapolis symphony, under Dimitri Mitropoulos, will play during the last week of January on a date as yet undetermined. The superb Budapest String quartet will give its second concert at the university on Feb. 20, and Georges Enesco, eminent composer and violinist, will bring the series to a close with a recital on March 4.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



The flags of the 21 member nations of the Pan American Union are shown in full color on the Pan American commemorative stamps recently issued by the Dominican Republic. William Walsh of Chicago lent this first day cover for illustrations.

The 10 cent value of the composers group of the Famous Americans series will honor Ethelbert Nevin and will be placed on first day sale at Pittsburgh, Pa., on June 10.

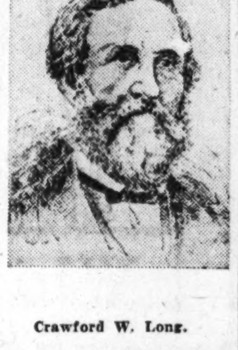
Collectors desiring official first day postmarks on covers bearing this stamp may send not to exceed 10 addressed envelopes to the postmaster at Pittsburgh, Pa., together with a postal money order remittance covering the exact cost of stamps to be affixed. Place a pencil notation in the upper right hand corner of each envelope stating the number of stamps which are to be affixed.

Forward the prepared covers and remittance in an envelope addressed to the postmaster at Pittsburgh, and mark this envelope prominently in the lower left corner, "For First Day Cover Service, Famous Americans Series."

Collectors must not order unused stamps from the first day postoffice, but should direct their orders for these to the Philatelic Agency, Postoffice department, Washington, D. C., where the stamps will go on sale on June 11.

The 17th example of the Famous Americans series of commemorative stamps was the 2 cent red stamp of the scientists' group which was issued on April 8, 1940, at Jefferson, Ga., in honor of Dr. Crawford Williamson Long, who is credited with the discovery of ether anesthesia.

The design of this stamp measures 85-100 by 98-100 inch and is uniform with the 1 cent value described in a recent issue. The rotary press plates from which these stamps are printed contain 280 stamp subjects arranged in four panes of 70 each. Three plates bearing numbers 22549, 22550, and 22551 were prepared in January and printing of the issue of 50 million stamps of this denomination was started on Feb. 16 on a press equipped with the first two mentioned plates. These plates are laid out with markings to actuate the photo-electric controled perforating machines.



Crawford W. Long.

The portrait of Dr. Long used for this stamp was taken from an engraving by R. O'Brien which was furnished by the Library of Congress. William A. Roach designed the stamp, John Eissler engraved the portrait, James T. Vail, the frame, and William B. Wells, the lettering.

Dr. Long was born on Nov. 1, 1815, at Danielsville, Ga. He attended a local academy, Franklin college, and Transylvania university and then entered the medical school at the University of Pennsylvania, from which he graduated in 1839. His internship was had in New York hospitals and it is believed that ether "jags" participated in by medical students gave him the idea of its use as an anesthetic.

He returned to practice in Georgia in 1841 and on March 30 of the following year removed a tumor from the neck of James Venable at Jefferson, Ga., while the patient was under the influence of ether. This was followed by other operations, but Dr. Long feared any premature publicity and did not publish reports of his experiments until 1846. Meanwhile, Horace Wells and a student, W. T. G. Morton, discovered the advantage of ether in difficult dental extractions and made a public demonstration of its effects in 1846. Dr. Long has been honored in many countries as the discoverer of this type of anesthesia and the issuance of a stamp appears to indicate that the United States government recognizes his right to the distinction. Dr. Long died at Athens, Ga., June 16, 1878.

The postoffice department has announced a change in conversion rates for international money orders for certain countries. New Zealand pounds are now quoted at $2.90; the pound of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the Union of South Africa at $3.50, the dollar of China at 5½ cents, and the leu of Rumania at ½ cent.

The Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter company, manufacturers of the Mailomat, coin operated mailing machine, celebrated the centenary of penny postage by using a special cachet on the machine installed at the Hotel Mayflower, Washington, D. C. This cachet which is at the left of the eagle design consists of a reproduction of an early sketch submitted for the Penny Black stamp, and the inscriptions, "Postage Stamp Centenary, May 2-6, 1940, Washington Philatelic Society, Hotel Mayflower, Washington, D. C."

Lesgor & Reel News is a house organ of Lesgor & Reel, 551 Madison avenue, New York. This is issued about once each month and contains the latest news of new issues and features offers of the stamps of at least one European country in each issue. It will be mailed to collectors who request it.

Cuba will issue a special 2 cent stamp to commemorate the convention of Lions International at Havana, July 23-25, 1940. The stamp will show the flag of Cuba, diagonal, the emblem of the Lions at the lower left and the palms of Cuba at the right. A special inscription will read, "Convencion, La Habana, 1940." The printing will consist of 2,500,000 copies and the stamp will be placed on sale during the convention at a special postal station either in the convention hall or at the convention headquarters. More than 5,000 members of the Lions organization are expected to assemble at Havana for the event.

David Bushnell chapter, No. 48, U. S. C. S., will sponsor a two color cachet from three ships for July 4. Send standard 6¾ stamped and addressed envelopes, with 1 cent additional per cover for forwarding to Henry S. Wright, 5 Brooks street, New London, Conn., before June 15.

The postoffice department again has advised postmasters that it is not permissible to precancel commemorative postage stamps and has asked them to take steps to prevent a recurrence. This, like the presale of commemoratives, is difficult to stop. Apparently postmasters do not read the Postal Bulletin frequently. In an attempt to prevent the missending to Chicago of mail addressed to North Chicago, Ill., the Postal Bulletin printed a notice day by day for about two weeks in the hope that it might be seen at least once by those responsible for the error in dispatch.

Homan Krassa Company, Inc., announces a new address at 551 5th avenue, New York.

Kenmore Stamp company, Kenmore, N. Y., announces that the British Centenary set of stamps will contain six values instead of four values as originally announced. The increased postal rates recently introduced due to the war have caused second and third stamps to be added to the set.

W. H. Compton Jr., 1254 East 172d street, Cleveland, O., publisher of Covers magazine, announces an interesting set of three cacheted covers from Holland, Minn. The covers will be at first class and third class rates and the third will bear a precanceled stamp. Send one envelope with a 3 cent stamp, another with a 1½ cent stamp, and the third without stamp, but include 1 cent for the precanceled stamp and 3 cents for forwarding the three covers.

Pilgrim Cachets, John Aldén, RCD 263, Box 158, Bergenfield, N. J., is sponsoring bicolored cachets for Kentucky and Tennessee on June 1; for Arkansas on June 15; for West Virginia on June 20; New Hampshire on June 21, and Virginia on June 25. Send stamped addressed covers with 1c additional per cover for forwarding, or 4 cents each to cover the cost of everything. Cacheted first day covers for Idaho and Wyoming, July 3 and 10, will be handled at 4 cents each to cover cost of stamp and forwarding.

J. A. Gaydos, 1437 Gregory street, Chicago, will sponsor a red, white, and blue cachet for the "Let's Win America for God" rally at Soldiers' field on Sunday afternoon, June 2. Send stamped addressed envelopes, unsealed, at once. No charge.

Plan People's Theater Group

Plans for the formation of a National People's Theater that would be self-supporting and without government subsidy have been started by the American National Theater and Academy, of which Robert E. Sherwood is the president.

In fulfilment of its obligations under the charter granted by congress on July 5, 1935, the purpose of the American National Theater and Academy is to make stage plays available—at a maximum price of $1.50—in the greatest possible number of communities thruout the nation. Under the direction of Mr. Sherwood, personal letters accompanied by a prospectus outlining details of the undertaking have been mailed to some 1,500 Little Theater groups, college and school dramatic societies and other organizations.

The first step—which will be initiated on the basis of the replies received from the material sent out—will be the formation of a producing company that probably will be known as the National People's Theater. It will be directed by leading American managers, actors, playwrights, and scene designers.

This company will produce each season a group of plays [probably five the first season]. A typical group would include: a Shakespearean production [for instance, the Mercury Theater's "Julius Cæsar"]; another classic revival from the plays of Shaw, Ibsen, Chekov; one or more current Broadway successes, such as "Life With Father" or "The Time of Your Life," and revivals of comparatively recent examples of the work of the most prominent living American playwrights.

These plays will be toured about the country to the greatest possible extent, particularly in communities which, under present circumstances, never see good professional productions. Each play will be given one performance [or more, if the local demand warrants it] in each community. Thus, each community will have all of the plays on the program—two or three weeks apart—thruout the fall and winter season. A separate acting company will be formed for each play, the casting, direction, scene designing to be done exactly as tho for first class Broadway production.

Altho designed to be self-supporting, the National People's Theater will be a nonprofit enterprise for those who operate it. If the plan operates successfully, and profits accrue, the money earned will be used for the expansion of the organization itself and for the benefit of the Little Theater movement everywhere.

The services of the officers and directors of the body are entirely voluntary. The board comprises A. Conger Goodyear, chairman; Stanton Griffis, treasurer; J. Howard Reber, Edith J. R. Isaacs, Brooks Atkinson, secretary; Lucrezia Bori, John Mason Brown, C. Lawton Campbell, Mrs. Frances Crane, Vinton Freedley, Mary Stewart French, Clayton Hamilton, Amory Haskell, Mrs. Amory Hare Hutchinson, Jens Frederick Larson, Anne Morgan, Mrs. Aubrey Morgan, Lee Simonson, John F. Wharton, John Hay Whitney, and Mr. Sherwood.

Recordings

Both Victor and Columbia hit upon the pleasant idea of bringing out recordings appropriate to this season of the year. Victor has recently released Schumann's "Spring" Symphony, and Columbia's current offerings include Beethoven's "Spring" sonata for violin and piano.

The "Spring" Symphony, Schumann's first symphony in B Flat Major, is played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Serge Koussevitzky. It was composed between January 20 and February 20, 1841, which seems a little early in the year for one to be feverish with spring. Yet, Schumann himself referred to it as a spring symphony, written "in that flush of spring which carries a man away even in his old age."

Tripping figures, buoyant and joyous, keep the first movement irrepressibly light-hearted. The more reposeful passages are romantic enough, but always sun-washed and wholesome.

Beethoven, still a stanch classicist when he wrote the F Major Sonata for violin and piano, had nothing to do with the subtitle of his work. Someone else, no one knows who, christened it the "Spring" sonata, and perhaps if we try we can find the season's stamp on this songful, serenely joyful work. It is recorded by Jeno Lener and Louis Kentner.

In another Columbia album, this one fittingly bound in flame red, is presented Liszt's glittering Spanish Rhapsody. The rhapsody is performed with great brilliance by Egon Petri and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting. This is Liszt's only venture into the Spanish idiom, but except for one or two recognizable Spanish tunes, it might be in any idiom the composer chose to name. Like so much of his music, it is fancy, fluent and impressive in the idiom of Liszt, not necessarily the idiom of Spain.

Piano pieces of an arrestingly different nature from the Rhapsody are Debussy's "L'ile Joyeuse" and "Pagodes," which fill a single 12 inch Columbia disk. Walter Gieseking, most faithful Debussy interpreter of the day, records them.

On another Columbia 12 inch is Stravinsky's "Baiser de la Fee" recorded by the London Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Anatol Dorati.

The following single Victor recordings are new: Richard Crooks singing "Amor ti vieta" from "Fedora," and "E lucevan le stelle" from "Tosca;" Mischa Elman playing "La Hora Staccato" [Dinicu-Heifetz] and one of Mendelssohn's "Song without words;" the Boston "Pops" Orchestra, Arthur Fiedler conducting, playing La Rocca's "Tiger Rag" and Coffey's "Virginia Reel;" John Barbirolli conducting "Praeludium" and "Berceuse," both by Järnefelt. All recordings in this group are 10 inch disks.

Washington in Doldrums Over European War

By Cousin Eve.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The social atmosphere of Washington is charged with dynamite these days. No longer is there give and take among the embassies or kind words and dinner parties including the legations.

The French ambassador, Count René de St. Quentin, is in seclusion after word reached Washington that a terrific battle of giant tanks was taking place in his ancestral town, St. Quentin.

The British ambassador, the Marquess of Lothian, declines all invitations in view of the threatened invasion of the British Isles and displacement of the Lion and the Unicorn. The Dutch and Belgian ministers had invitations out for large dinners and were both in New York for the reopening of the world's fair when their countries were invaded by Germany. They rushed back to Washington with their wives and canceled everything in view of their national desolation.

Comtesse de Ponthoz, wife of the Belgian ambassador, is a gray haired beauty with black eyes, who dresses smartly, and Mme. Loudon, wife of the Dutch minister, is tall, fair, rosy cheeked and quite young. Socially, Washington is in the doldrums, and there are no gay, young hand kissing secretaries and their vivid wives to give verve to the spring season, while ambassadors and ministers stay cached in their embassies.

Washington now has a certain dreamlike loveliness. Once it looked like a glorified stone quarry with acres of stone government houses springing up like mushrooms. There is even a little underground train to take lawmakers from the capitol to their offices, so great are the marble halls. But now the building orgy is over and green grass and trees and flaming azaleas frame these piles of granite, and it has less the look of a builder's heaven.

The Federal Reserve building is the handsomest of all, severely plain and imposing. But there is a building under way to surpass everything else in size and grandeur, the Mellon Gallery of Fine Arts, costing $15,000,000. The hope in the Mellon family is that a Republican President will open this gift to the nation when it is ready to house the Mellon and other magnificent collections.

The White House has continued on its way with a garden party a day. The President received the war veterans and Mrs. Roosevelt the lawyers, who came in a great swarm to Washington with their wives.

Glorious was the tea set out for victims of the last war from Washington hospitals. On this boiling day society women in heavy motor corps cloth uniforms drove the invalids in and out, and the little tents on the White House lawn were bubbling over with orangeade, ices, cakes, salads, and sandwiches. The sight of many of these wounded men was a great argument against American intervention.

Leander McCormick-Goodhart of the British embassy and his delightful wife, Janet, did not open Langley hall, their estate in Spring Valley, for the winter season. They took a smaller house on the edge of town, just now literally buried in flowering hedges and garden flowers. They have two youngsters of school age, and as work is heavy at the embassy, they stayed in town for the winter months. In June they go back to the country for a while.

Lunching with them one day I met a new member of the embassy staff, the Hon. John Freeman-Mitford, younger brother of Lord Redesdale, a charming man and lifelong friend of Mr. McCormick-Goodhart. It didn't take much remembering to remember that Mr. Freeman-Mitford has six exceedingly lovely nieces, daughters of Lord and Lady Redesdale.

Lord Redesdale, father of the present peer and of Mr. Freeman-Mitford, had an outstanding diplomatic career, and wrote books of memoirs, including one about his post in China 80 years ago and another about Japan at the time of Admiral Perry. The Mitfords are an ancient family, and there is an etching of Mitford castle which goes back to the days of King John. There are many changes in the British embassy staff owing to the war. Leander McCormick-Goodhart was highly entertained by a letter addressed to him the other day as "American Attaché of the English Embassy." A British father and London for a birthplace ought to make a British subject, after all.

There are lots of people one hopes to see in Washington, but doesn't see because the days aren't long enough. One of these, missed this year, was Mrs. Leila Barnett, cousin of the duchess of Windsor. Mrs. Barnett is a blonde, beautiful and witty, whose house in Massachusetts avenue is a rendezvous for the great world. She was opening her country place back of Warrenton, so her town house was dark. Mrs. Barnett never refers to her interesting cousin, but all Washington knows the duchess of Windsor gave her Aunt Bessie Merryman a smart new motor this spring, war or no war.

Capt. and Mrs. Paul Bastedo have a beautiful Washington house on the hill side above the Brazilian embassy. Their garden, which is a large square, gives on the gardens of the British embassy, and is full of spring flowers and budding trees.

While we were having tea on the veranda, a crowd was gathering in a garden next door, and we could see that a religious revival was in full swing in this fashionable region. The "Oxford Movement" seems to have quite a toehold in Washington.

Mrs. Bastedo was formerly Helen Prindiville of Chicago, whose first marriage, with James Griffin, left her a widow with three children and a large fortune. Her marriage with Capt. Bastedo of the navy has kept her traveling the world over, and just at present the family is getting ready for Newport and duty at the naval training college.

The James L. Houghtelings, Wayne Chatfield Taylor, and Hjalmar Procope, the super-handsome Finn minister, and his lovely English bride live in a row in Wyoming avenue. The Houghtelings are Chicago's contribution to the Washington world and have already an interesting position, being official and social as well. Mrs. Houghteling, who was Laura Delano, is related to the Roosevelts. The Chatfield Taylors have a small house during the absence of Mr. Taylor on Red Cross duty in Europe, but it is a pretty one with a garden. Adele Taylor was recovering from an illness of the winter and about to leave for York house, the historic mansion left to the Blow children by their mother. It is a very complete, upstanding colonial mansion at York, furnished handsomely in period. On the dining room wall is a panel which, when lifted, shows the wicked hole made by a cannon ball when it killed the old Negro butler 165 years ago.

The family, however, does not occupy York house, but spreads out in a circle of rose bowered cottages on the velvet lawn. Lilacs, tulips, and pansies brighten the ancient brick walled garden. The Taylors will be in Lake Forest this coming summer, and Rose, the season's beautiful debutante, has exploded a bomb in the family circle. She has taken a job at Hull House, and so will spend the hot months on the west side. Rose is as lovely in her blondeness as her grandmother, Rose Farwell, was in her dark, dashing way, really the dazzling, vivacious beauty of Washington.

Finally, after many false starts and years of effort, we made Gunston Hall-on-the-Potomac. And like so many things one strives and struggles for, it wasn't on the Potomac, after all. The present owner is Louis Hertle, venerable, courtly Evanstonian, partner of the late Marshall Field. His wife was Ella Daughaday, sister of Mrs. Tracy Drake.

The old manor is four miles below Mount Vernon. It is a small, quaint house, a modest colonial dwelling that had long stood empty when bought for a song.

The house stands on a bluff, and one needs bird glasses to see the Potomac, which flows by at the far end of the wooded peninsula where Gunston hall perches. The interior is a four room square, reconditioned from years of use as a shelter for mules. The walls of natural pine and woodwork are marvelous, and one room that charmed me had a lilt to everything à la Chinoise. It was a white Chinese Chippendale room, absolutely enchanting, with wall recesses and door and window lintels curved lightly upward.

Mr. Hertle bade us take time to inspect house and gardens at our leisure. History records that Arthur Balfour and other peace commissioners after the great war motored out from Washington to Gunston Hall every day. A glassed-in summer house, buried in English box and overlooking the country, was the scene of their confabulations. We walked down thru the box hedges that tower overhead and sat for a while in the pergola. If walls had speech as well as ears, we might have heard something. But as it was it struck us that the place was remote and sad, and there was a new war to worry over. So it was hardly worth while to linger on the last one.

The eastern shore of Maryland was in the spotlight this spring. The Baltimore garden club women had arranged garden tours for their members and guests among the estates in that secluded region. Nearly all of them are houses old and beautiful, their gardens varying in splendor with the owners' whimsies and purse.

The early settlers of Maryland's eastern shore were English, and the towns dotted over this fertile peninsula have English names, Easton, Chesterton, and Talbot county. And the rivers and waters on which 500 of these estates are situated are Choptank river, Tred Avon river, the Wye, Peach Blossom creek, Trippe's creek, and Chesapeake bay. The eastern shore is easy to reach from Baltimore, but from Washington, not so good. We left before 8 to catch the 9 o'clock ferry at Annapolis, and missed it.

The country was quite different on the other shore. We skimmed thru small, quaint towns, along smooth country roads white with dogwood. The fields were green with early wheat and rye and often tall chimneys told of some old manor hidden behind leafy trees. The sun was hot, but little did we care, for adventure was the password that day. Rain or shine, we were out to make a dent in the eastern shore and see what it was all about. It was so calm and quiet, so fresh and different from hectic Washington. Red birds, cardinals, I suppose, darted out of the hedges and butterflies fluttered over magnolia flowers. At Easton we had a superb fish luncheon with lobsters, crabs, clams, and scallops galore—a wonderful place! And here from a native we had news of where and how to follow the trail of the old houses. We motored to Troppe and then on to the Wilderness, a vast estate granted to the Martin family in 1669 and now owned by the J. Ramsey Speers of Philadelphia. The house is brick, a lovely white spreading house on the Choptank river, with wonderful trees and shrubbery. Mrs. Speer was charming and gave us the further news that the Wilderness was built by Gov. Martin, but that an earlier house of the family was Beauvoir, which was the original house of brick built by the first Martin in Maryland. We found this charming little house on the river. It had a round portico with pillars, and fine woodwork, and as the Hadleys, who own it, were away we roamed around and picked a few purple irises growing by the water's edge.

There was too, on the point an old cemetery and we climbed barbed wire fences to read the quaint old inscriptions on the flat tombs about Thomas and Elizabeth and their virtues.

A few miles down the road was Myrtle Grove, grant to the Goldsborough family, and then off down an irresponsible winding road thru woods and more woods to the water. We were free as air to wander over all the gardens that lay round their sleepy old pink brick house.

Huge trees stood at the end of garden vistas, and young flowering fruit trees made pink blots on the vivid green.

There's an Art to Arranging Flowers Well

What do you know about china? The booklet, "Learn About China Before You Buy," by Claire Winslow, Tribune stylist in interior decoration, gives brief histories of the most important potters and their works. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower. Price, 3 cents. Postpaid, 5 cents.

By Claire Winslow.

There are not many "musts" in home managing or interior decoration nowadays. Styles of period furniture are mixed and combined as never before; color schemes may be startling or quiet; your rooms may be tricky as a Hollywood movie setting, or simple as a country cottage. But you should know how to arrange flowers, to give the final touch of beauty to your home. That is one of the few "musts."

And this subject of flower fixing is a fascinating one. A whole array of books has been written, most of which are beautifully illustrated, to help you achieve really artistic effects with either real or artificial blooms. Gone are the days when it was enough to thrust a dozen roses in a vase, put them on the table and call it a centerpiece.

A few day lilies held in a needlepoint holder in a large, shallow pottery bowl, shell shaped like the one in the photograph today, make a charming picture against a paneled or painted wall. And a bouquet of carnations and snapdragons in a simple square vase, shown in the second picture, creates a beautiful effect.

The flowers in both illustrations are artificial. So, altho you may be without a garden this summer, you need not be without blooms. At small expense you can get from your florist a little bunch of bright orange calendulas for a squatty copper jug, a few glorious pink peonies for the mantel, or yellow and white snapdragons and blue larkspur for a white pottery urn.

And for containers the following have been used successfully: Old china sugar bowls and tea pots; old glass spoon holders and celery holders; copper pudding molds; tin cookie pans and bread tins; bean pots; wicker flower baskets lined with tin; glass battery jars; china soup tureens and gravy boats; balloon brandy glasses; kitchen mixing bowls and wooden mixing bowls. All these besides the conventional vases and bowls for flowers!

If you read just one book on flower arrangements we're sure you'll want to own several. So here's a list of the best books on the subject that have been published during the last few years:

New Flower Arrangements, by Mrs. Walter R. Hine [Scribners, $2.75].

Japanese Flower Arrangement, by Margaret Preininger [Little-Brown, $5].

Flowers: East-West, by J. Gregory Conway and Elinor W. Hiatt [Knopf, $5].

American Flower Arrangement, by Opal M. Scarborough [George Palmer Putnam, Inc., $1.25].

Miniature Flower Arrangement, by E. Mason and E. B. Waas, [Little Flower Studio, 708 Gilmore street, Jacksonville, Fla., $2].

Harmony in Flower Design, by I. I. Ackerman [Dodd, $3].

Fun with Flowers, by Ferguson and Sheldon [Houghton-Mifflin, $2.50].

Flowers in House and Garden, by Constance Spry [Putnam, $3.75].

Garden Notebook, by Constance Spry [Knopf, $3].

[Willming Photo.]

Simple, graceful containers are best for flower arrangements, for they do not detract from their color and design. The lilies are seen in a low pottery shell-shaped bowl, while a squatty, square vase is used for the carnations and snap-dragons.

Club Leaders Make History at Convention

By Betty Browning.

Illinois club leaders contributed an exciting and significant chapter to the evolution of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at its 49th annual meeting last week at Milwaukee, Wis.

Mrs. William T. Bruckner.

"We're making history" and "It's a fight for the democratic process" were statements repeated half humorously, half proudly, whenever and wherever the Illinois delegates met during the five day meeting.

In the end they succeeded in setting forth two principles in the face of the national board's opposition and of long practice to the contrary. They established the right of individual delegates and delegations to share in shaping the national organization's policies.

Incidentally, they sent the general federation off to a good start upon its second half century of achievement as the largest women's organization.

Many of the women found in the courageous initiative of the Illinois delegates a marked resemblance to the enterprise of the pioneer leaders, who are being recalled during the federation's golden jubilee this year and next.

The immediate cause of the Illinois delegation's unprecedented course of action was a resolution adopted by the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs at its Chicago convention the previous week.

This resolution urged that America remain out of all foreign wars. It was diametrically opposed to a resolution sponsored by the national board and previously voted down by the Illinois federation. The rejected resolution favored the participation of this country in some form of world organization and besought our government "to assist in securing a just settlement of the present conflict."

It was Mrs. William T. Bruckner of Hinsdale, the Illinois state president, who gave her organization full rein in making both decisions. In so doing she was running counter to the tradition that a state president throws the weight of her authority on the side of conformance with the policies laid down by the national federation.

The movement to defeat the national board's resolution was led by Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers of Chicago and Mrs. Alton G. Hall of Springfield, and together they drafted the resolution adopted by Illinois. The former is state legislation chairman, the latter, chairman of international relations.

When the Illinois delegation arrived at the general federation convention Monday, they found that news of their deviation from the course charted by the national board had preceded them. They all noted a chill in the atmosphere.

Monday noon Mrs. Bruckner placed Illinois' resolution in the hands of the resolutions committee, but it was not until after midnight Tuesday, a few hours before the resolutions were scheduled for action, that she and other Illinois leaders were called to a conference on their resolution.

As Mrs. Bruckner later told the entire Illinois delegation, the resolutions committee tried to prevail upon Illinois to accept a substitute resolution making no recommendation against participation in foreign wars. Illinois was told its own resolution would help Germany.

When Illinois stood firm, national board members refused to give the resolution the indorsement necessary to bring it before the convention. After Illinois leaders left the room, however, the board members changed their minds, and telephoned that they would sign it.

The Illinois delegates' triumph was brief. The next morning they asked for more time to consolidate support of their resolution, and were told that the entire convention must grant postponement of the resolution. They decided not to risk postponement in the face of the national board's opposition.

A few minutes later they were told that the resolutions committee must pass again on their resolution, which would postpone it until the next day.

Just then the national board's substitute resolution, which Illinois had rejected the night before, was presented to the convention. Mimeographed copies prepared a few minutes before the session began were placed in every delegate's hands. Several national board members spoke for the resolution. It went thru like a flash.

Immediately afterward, Illinois' resolution was read from the platform. Later it was learned that Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, national president, had whisked her resolutions committee off the platform during a musical interlude to obtain the necessary indorsement.

Caught off guard, Mrs. Suthers nevertheless arose to support the resolution. She referred to the consequences of the last war to save democracy, and reminded the delegates that "the instant we get into a war, dictatorship takes the place of democracy." She emphasized the importance of the resolution's nonbelligerent clause. She spoke from the floor, and no microphone was offered to her.

Half a dozen national board members thereupon spoke against the resolution from the platform. When one opponent said there was little danger of America's sons again being sent to fight on foreign soil, the delegates emitted a half groan, half murmur of protest.

But Illinois had no support organized. Three or four voices were raised from the floor, most of them inaudible for lack of microphones. Illinois' resolution was voted down by 202 to 74. A good many delegates did not vote.

Then the resolution voted down by the Illinois state federation the previous week was submitted. The Illinois delegation immediately rallied, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Bruckner both opposed to the measure as premature and dangerous. Action was postponed to the following day with a strong possibility of revision.

Mrs. Bruckner called a strategy meeting of the entire delegation for that afternoon. The group, by that time, "collectively in the doghouse," as one member laughingly put it, gave Mrs. Bruckner a vote of appreciation for her courageous stand. It was voted to empower Mrs. Suthers, Mrs. Hall, and three others to draw up an amendment to the resolution in place of the interventionist and world government clauses.

Mrs. Suthers and Mrs. Hall, whose first General Federation convention it was, lightly agreed that henceforth domesticity would be their hobby. The amendment was prepared.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., first vice president of the General federation, now proved to be an unexpected ally. Thru her good offices negotiations were entered into with other national board members.

The final session on resolutions had begun when Mrs. Hall won the last remaining objector to her side. When the resolution was brought up Mrs. Hall was given the microphone. She proposed that in place of indorsing America's participation in some form of world organization the General federation should "undertake an intensive study program on the subject of world rehabilitation, which will include various proposals for a permanent world society."

In place of the phrase urging the American government "to assist in securing a just settlement of the present conflict," Mrs. Hall suggested a noncommittal expression in favor of a world of law and order.

National board members expressed themselves satisfied with the substitutions and declared that they did not alter the resolution as it had been originally intended.

Mrs. Hall emphasized the importance of a thoro study program on a subject such as world government before an intelligent conclusion can be reached. "Thinking without action is futile," she quoted. "Action without thinking is fatal."

Without further delay the amended resolution was adopted. This was compensation for the defeat of the Illinois resolution opposing America's entering foreign wars, since the General federation, by Illinois' action, was prevented from indorsing world organization and American intervention in foreign affairs. Once again women had proved their ability to demonstrate successfully the democratic process of consultation and compromise in the face of warring convictions.

Weather Slows Tarpon Fishing at Sarasota

By Marion Hobson.

Sarasota's May tropic moonlight has always illuminated dawn fishing scenes, but this season has been a slight exception. Due to that weather again.

SARASOTA, FLA.

Heavenly weather, considering everywhere, and war news notwithstanding, but just a bit too chilly at the sun's rising to draw silver kings to the surface and into the proper biting mood. And it's been just in the last three days that they've appeared at all responsive.

Christy Payne of Long Island, N. Y., and Sarasota, may provoke a controversial issue with his 81 pounder—for it was his fish that brought up the question of how many scales a tarpon has. The answer probably belongs in the "how high is up" department, but the discoursers on the matter have carried it to the directors of the Anglers club—and that august body decided, its collective tongues in cheeks, to decree 1,250 to an 80 pounder, with correspondingly greater numbers to larger tarpons.

E. E. Peter of Chicago and Sarasota so far has for himself the record of being the only contestant to get two tarpon, one that tipped the scales at 77 and the other at 51½ pounds. His trip was in the way of an initiation, so far as tarpon fishing in Sarasota waters was concerned, for his trim, luxuriously fitted new cruiser. Tonight he's host to two other former Chicagoans on a second tarpon trip—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. Lawrence, formerly of Flossmoor.

Currently, Sarasotans have themselves a new playhouse along the aquamarine striped gulf of Mexico waters, at Lido Beach. The $250,000 City Beach casino was opened Thursday. It's a southern Jones beach affair with plenty of room for fun and not too far away from sufficient solitude to dilute the gayety the group of buildings affords. Several Chicagoans' names are already on the list of those who have reserved 20 of the 39 cabanas.

The reality of early Sarasota days came back when we looked in at the Historical society's display in the Sarasota hotel—of days when the city was chiefly a fishing village, even then known for its "keen sport of catching tarpon with a rod and reel."

Among other articles, there's a watch that belonged to the grandfather of Sarasota's first white child—a man named William Wyatt who migrated south instead of west about the year 1830 from a small town in southern Indiana. His daughter Mary married William Whitaker and they built Sarasota's first house atop an Indian mound overlooking Sarasota bay where now stands the beautiful home built by Madame Cantacuzene Grant's mother, called the Acavias.

Among those from Chicagoland who have delayed their trips home is James Fentress, who's due to leave June 10. He has had many guests at his beautiful home down in Red Rock, near Granada, the last few weeks. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. James White of Chicago, McCready Sykes of New York, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. L. Behlen of New York, Count and Countess O. Banchonel d'Aoust of France, D. Wendell Fentress and Mr. and Mrs. John F. P. Farror of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods.

France Shows Resources of Her Colonies

By May Birkhead.

PARIS.

For years, in the piping times of peace, it has been the custom for the city to attend the painting and sculpture extensive showing of known the world over as the Salon. But this year, with thousands of artists mobilized, the Grand Palais is given over to a striking display of France's colonial resources. The colonies and dependencies of France cover an area of nearly 5 million square miles, with a population of about 70 million. Practically all are represented by the display of their products at Grand Palais, and nothing more picturesque has been seen in this line here since the Colonial Exposition of 1931 in the Forest of Vincennes. One of the most interesting sections is that devoted to geography, with plans of airports and illustrations of the way the natives live.

It used to be said that a Frenchman was a man who wore a decoration, ate a lot of bread, and knew nothing of geography. But events of the last quarter of a century have stopped up some of the holes in his geographical ignorance, and he now knows that many things for his table and household generally, for his factories and for making war, come from the French colonies scattered over the two hemispheres. Algeria supplies iron ore, cereals, wine, cork and tobacco; Tunisia gives cereals, phosphates, olive oil and dates; Indo-China ships coal, rubber, tea and spices; French West Africa sends coffee, cocoa, cotton, gold, copra, bananas and woods; Morocco, wheat, wool, and many other things; Madagascar a great variety of products, to mention only half the colonies and dependencies.

If one visits the Colonial Salon looking for objects of beauty rather than use, there is much to delight the eye. The showing from Madagascar is rich in beryl, quartz, and other precious and semiprecious stones which have been fashioned into jewels of remarkable splendor, while the polished woods have a decorative effect which must be seen to be believed.

In the Indo-China pavilion the crowds are fascinated by the objects in ivory, bronze, stone, lacquer, with their strange designs and rich coloring.

Nearly every manifestation of art in Paris these days tends to become some form of applied art, no matter how purely artistic the conception and execution of the objects shown. This is true in some measure of the Exposition of French Art in the revamped Trocadero, now known as the Palais de Chaillot. It consists of several thousand pieces of sculpture and of canvases shown by members of the two famous groups known respectively as the Société des Artistes Français and the Société Nationale des Beaux Arts.

There is little to suggest that the present display in the Palais de Chaillot is a wartime showing. Most of the paintings and sculptures deal with the familiar indoor or outdoor scenes that make up the bulk of the grand salons. Such renowned contemporary painters as Lucien Simon and Maurice Denis are represented by brilliant studies, and a striking corner of the park of Versailles, a study in green and gray, with a gray frame, bears the name of Van Dongen.

Notable Artists on Programs of Oak Park Center

The announcement of a series of five concerts to be given in Oak Park during the coming winter and spring should be of great interest to every music lover in the western suburbs. Gladys Swarthout, Efram Zimbalist, and the Don Cossack chorus are included in the roster of artists.

They and Hertha Glatz and Mischa Levitzki will be heard on Friday nights, beginning on Oct. 11, in the Oak Park High school. Responsible for the musical feast are the young women who are members of Circle 27 of the Oak Park and River Forest center of the Infant Welfare society.

They are making a decided change in breaking away from their usual benefit supper-dance to sponsor a concert series. Starting tomorrow they will put on an intensive campaign to sell seats. The selling program will continue to June 6 and then will be resumed in September. The charge will be a modest one, $5 for the series of five concerts. And there are only 1,400 seats to be had.

Miss Swarthout will give the opening program. Miss Glatz, who will be heard over W-G-N on May 29, will sing on the night of Feb. 9, 1941.

Mrs. Harold Banholzer is general chairman of the series. Assisting her are Mrs. William W. Barber, tickets; Mrs. W. T. Stannard, program; Mrs. Robert E. Fisher, ushers; Mrs. John P. Gorman, decorations; Miss Beverly Mills and Mrs. H. William Melum.

Zimbalist will give the Nov. 8 concert. The chorus will be heard on Dec. 3, and the final program, by Levitzki, will be held on April 18 next year.

Aesop's Fables Are Portrayed on New Medal

By Eleanor Jewett.

One of the most important societies for the furtherance of art and interest in art in our country is the Society of Medalists with headquarters in the National Arts Club building, New York City. The membership of the society is not very great, one would like to see it tripled; it publishes two stunning medals a year and the dues are $8. Thru the publication each year of two medals by famous sculptors the society has covered in its 21 issues the work of most of our nationally and internationally known men and women. Those who have the medals have a fascinating story of sculpture in America on their hands. It is an achievement hard to duplicate in the history of any other organization united simply for the preservation of a craft.

The medals thru the years have been of various kinds, some bronze, some silver in finish. They have been carved in low relief and in high. They have run the gamut in subject matter from a Thanksgiving medal showing a man and his setter on the hunting fields of November [with a magnificent turkey on the reverse] to Lorado Taft's beautiful and symbolic group of maidens representing the five lakes.

The twenty-first issue has just appeared and it is one of the best. It is silver in finish and carved in high relief. The sculptor is Edmond Amateis, who was born in Rome in 1897. He studied at the Beaux-Arts, the Academie Julien, and at the American academy in Rome. He is a member of the National Sculpture society, the Architectural League of New York, the National Academy of Design, Artists' fellowship, Century association, A. A. A. A. R., and the American Legion.

Mr. Amateis has chosen two of Aesop's fables for his medals and his work is curiously apt because the fables he has selected point a moral for our times. The one is of "The Kite, Hawk and Pigeons." "The Pigeons, finding themselves persecuted by the Kite, made choice of the Hawk for their guardian. The Hawk sets up for their protector; but, under the countenance of that authority, makes more havoc in the dovehouse in two days than the Kite could have done in twice as many months."

The moral [which Aesop always pointed] "'Tis a dangerous thing for people to call in a powerful and ambitious man for their protector; and upon the clamor of here and there a private person, to hazard the whole community."

On the reverse of the medal is the likeness of a dog holding a bone, looking at his reflection in the water. As you remember, the tale gives the sad fate of the greedy animal who, hoping to get both, drops the substance for the shadow.

The moral: "All covet, all lose; which may serve for a reproof to those that govern their lives by fancy and appetite, without consulting the Honor and Justice of the case."

Both of Aesop's fables are applicable to world affairs today. The Society of Medalists is to be congratulated heartily upon its choice of artist for the twenty-first medal and for the medal itself, a beautiful and impressive piece of miniature sculpture.

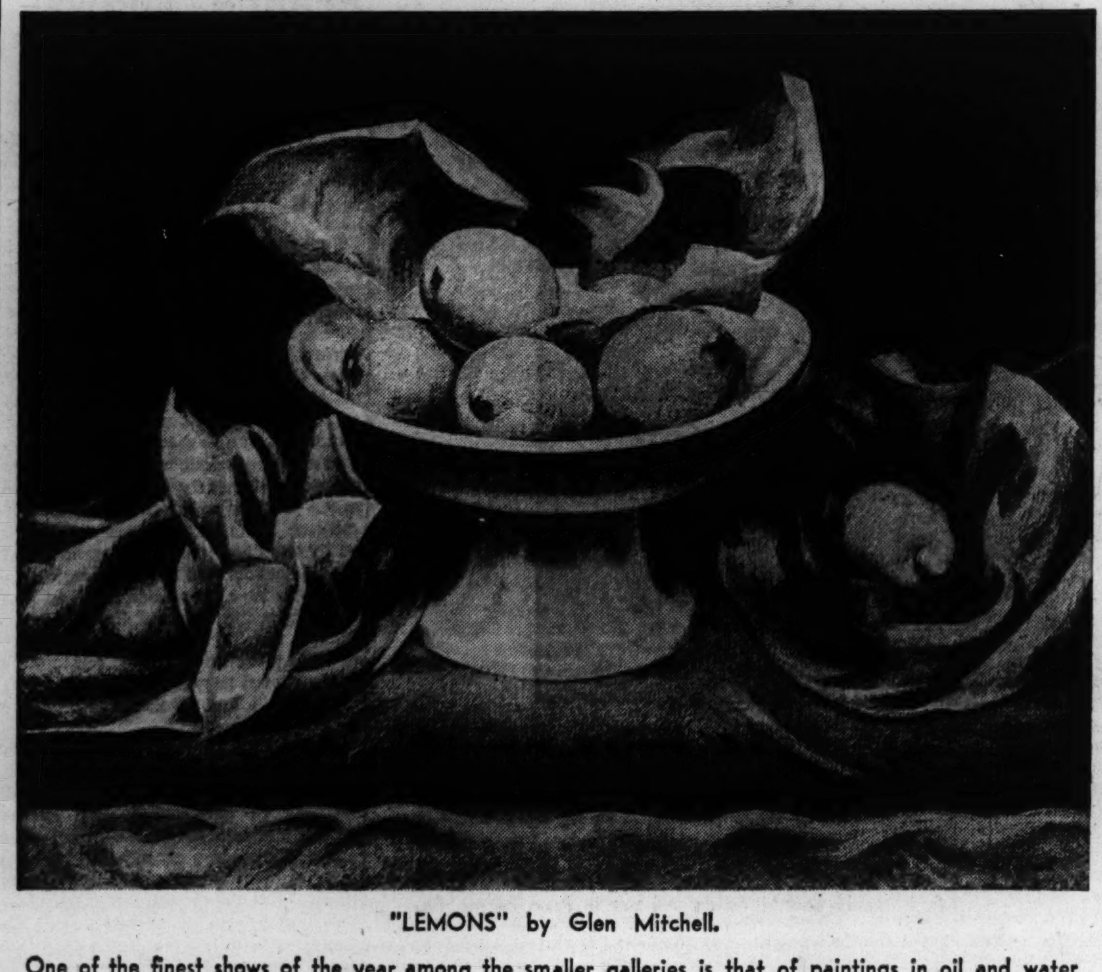
Kenneth Becker, a graduate of the Art institute school, has an exhibit of drawings and water colors at the Paul Theobald gallery, 104 South Michigan avenue, to May 31. With the exception of two little drawings Mr. Becker is still in the second grade so far as one may interpret his work; this modern style of going all out for the juvenile touch in art training makes the necessity of that training obscure. One could hardly call it worth while to study four years in an art school and still be at the six year old level, which is the maximum needed to produce such a still life of flowers [to select but one illustration] as Mr. Becker pulls from under his cap. It seems impossible that one can learn so nearly nothing, even in an art school.

Another alumnus of the Art institute school, Robert Lifvendahl, is represented in a current small exhibit. The show of drawings and paintings in the Art institute school lobby is his work. The young man won the Edward L. Ryerson traveling fellowship in the Art institute school in 1938 and these 23 works which make up his show represent what he did while abroad. There is one picture, a brilliant little street corner, which looks like the Lifvendahl who at one time gave life to a Chicago Artists and Vicinity exhibit with a painting of polo players, but outside the one picture there is literally nothing of value in his present exhibit. The pictures look as tho the puzzled painter were spinning like a top thru the maze of modern isms and could not come to a full stop at any one conviction. A pinch of nearly every French name of note in the last decade flavors his stew, it seems to us; he had much better throw the whole mess away, and go out to New Mexico and work under Fechin or Gaspard [if either of those men would accept him as a pupil]; then the Lifvendahl who painted the polo game might become a painter—a real painter. We had thought him the most promising student to have graduated from the institute in years—it is a pity to find him playing tag with Matisse, Soutine, Picasso, etc. Surely he has legs of his own to stand on; let him get out of Chicago and walk.

The annual spring salon of the All Illinois Society of Fine Arts is current in the third floor corridor gallery, Stevens hotel. It is a pleasant show with many uncomplicated and attractive pictures to its credit. The American Legion Auxiliary Department of Illinois gave two $25 prizes. That for the best oil by an ex-service man of Illinois went to "Taxco" by Jerome J. Klapka; the prize for the best water color by an ex-service man was given to "Lingering Snow" by Donald Mills.

Among the outstanding pictures in the exhibition are "Heirlooms" by Grace Davis, "Study in Yellow" by Claire Gomersall, "Visualizing," by Edward John Klimek, "The Iridescent Jar" by Percy H. Sloan, "Lilacs" by Minnie Warner, "The Christening" by Sidne H. Langford, "Callas" by Nina K. Griffin, "Patsy" by Douglas Ewen, "The Blue Pinafore" by Alice Mason, "Lost Breakfast" by Ted Vognild [two beautiful spaniel puppies], "Repairs" by Dale Nichols, "Pansies" by Alice Mae Jackson, "Breakers" by Louis Jensen, and "Connors Mill, Indiana" by Mary B. Poull.

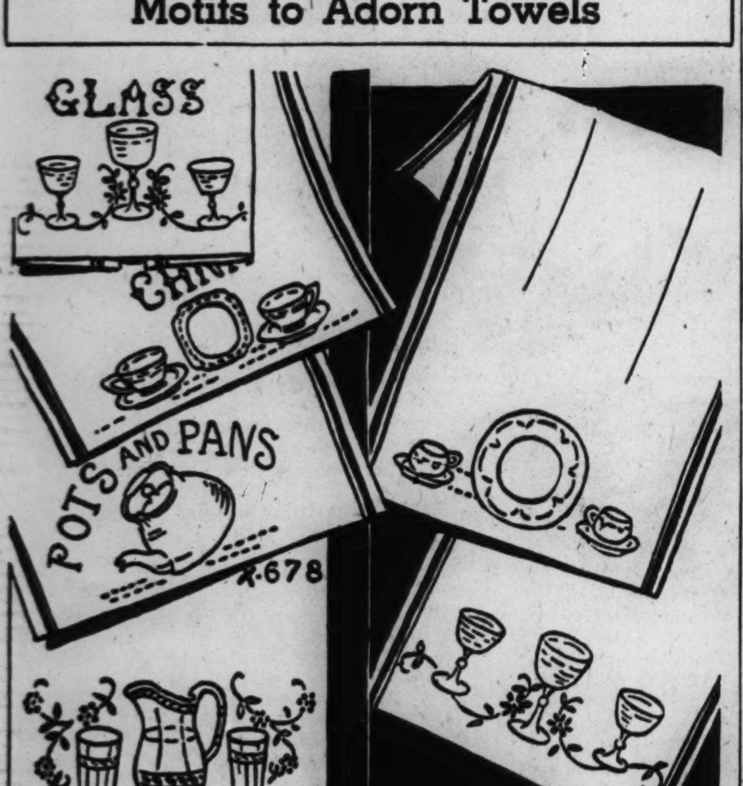
The exhibition will continue thru the summer to September 1, and is well worth seeing.



"LEMONS" by Glen Mitchell.

One of the finest shows of the year among the smaller galleries is that of paintings in oil and water color by Glen Mitchell at the Hoosier Art gallery, 211 West Wacker drive. It will continue to June 1.

Motifs to Adorn Towels



By Nancy Cabot.

There is no more appropriate manner in which to decorate gay kitchen towels than outline embroidery. Cups, saucers, glasses, and pots and pans furnish excellent themes, while the color schemes may be of your own creation. The hot iron transfer pattern contains the motifs illlustrated, together with information on the necessary material requirements, directions, and color guide.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the motifs used on towels, No. X-678, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Bygone Period Returns in the New Lingerie

By Bettina Bedwell.

Maybe it's the shadow of bygone beauties cast over summer styles, the Lillian Russell and Lily Langtry influence. Maybe it's the war, for Paris is doing it. Or the cause may be the big crop of summer brides, whose choice of lingerie for their hope chests I've been seeing around. Anyway, there's a rush of white to lingerie fashions, coupled with extra sheer fragility, and lots of lace, laid on without counting the cost. And not only is 24 carat lingerie the foregoing, but it is likewise made of batiste or handkerchief linen some of the time.

The snowy aspect of piles of lacy white lingerie is so fresh you feel like diving in at once. Strictly confidential things made of such stuff comprise negligees and housecoats, stepins, bras, and culotte teams, nightgowns, bed jackets, and camisole slips, or just slips. There's a basic simplicity about the cut of this new lingerie which, for the most part, looks delicate and modest, rather than brazen and hussylike. I remember, when I was in London last year, English women then were showing a tendency toward adopting white lingerie of very ladylike aspect and cut. The sheer white nightgown with long, bishop sleeves was an item there, and it now is to be found in local lingerie emporiums, repeated also in color. I'm told by the lingerie people that about 60 per cent of the brides-to-be who have completed their lingerie trousseaux chose nightgowns and other items of their lingerie in white.

Frenchwomen, my Paris informant writes me, have this spring, more than ever, gone in for sheer lace trimmed lingerie that's white more often than in color. They still prefer silk lingerie in Paris, and sheer chiffons, triple voiles, and crêpes are the materials they select. The more delicate laces, such as Chantilly and Valenciennes, are in high favor in the French capital, and no less here in the United States, if what I've seen is any proof, and I've seen plenty.

A lingerie item with a past is the old-fashioned corset cover, which has been revived in its lace-ribbon-peekaboo version to wear under the many sheer white blouses that are so important in the spring dress fashions. This is for women who don't take to the camisole slip. It's matched to brief panties in some places to make a lingerie ensemble.

There is more than a little of the Langtry-Russell atmosphere in many of the summer hostess gowns and negligees to be found in the best places. One I found most effective was made of pink crêpe, cut princess with black lace sleeves and a ruffled black lace jabot at the neckline. Shirtwaist dress editions of the housecoat and the hostess gown are more than plentiful, and lots of them come in the new bloused waist and slender skirt silhouette, with a decorative sash tied around the waistline. Very beautiful and bridelike are summer housecoats of white, eyelet-embroidered cotton worn over taffeta or satin slips. Can't you just see them coming down to that first honeymoon breakfast? Most of these delightful garments have full skirts, and a good many of them trail a bit.

One of the most beautiful of these intimate life items is one which comes from Paris and was designed by Maggy Rouff. It is made of very heavy white crêpe, and laced shut at the center front by ties of the material run thru square eyelets made of rhinestones. The short sleeves are full and slit over the tops of the arms, while at the back they meet and merge with a bertha. Cut princess, this model hugs the hipline and flares into a very wide skirt.

The kind of summer nightgown that would make a lazybones out of any woman is from Paris, designed by Helene Aubry, and made of white chiffon brocaded with tiny dots of satin, so that it looks a bit like dotted swiss. The neckline is bateau shaped and flanked by a scalloped bertha edged with lace and joined to the gown by clusters of hand run tucks. The hem of the gown has the same ruffle treatment, and both are bordered with white valenciennes lace.

Chicago Folk Converging on Berkshire Hills

By Cary S. Hayward.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Most of the Chicago summer residents of the Berkshire Hills will have arrived by the first of June and events of interest to society are getting under way, altho vegetation is fully 10 days later than the average. Just now thousands of apple trees are in blossom.

On Monday the Great Barrington Garden club, of which Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett is president, is having an open day for gardens with Mrs. George O. Forbes of Rockford, Ill., as hostess. A tour will be made of 15 gardens in Sheffield, Great Barrington, and South Egremont, and members with guests will meet late in the afternoon for tea at Orchard farm, the North Egremont summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes.

Following a winter sojourn at Winter Park, Fla., Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs [Rebecca McC. Whitehead] is again at Rock Ridge farms, Richmond, and the Richmond Garden club has started its 25th year of activities. She founded the club, which is the second oldest garden organization in the Berkshires, and has been its only president. The initial meeting of the summer was held this week with Mrs. Frederick Goodrich Crane at Model farm, Dalton, as hostess. Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Winthrop M. Crane Jr. poured.

The Richmond, Lenox, and Bennington Garden clubs will be combined hostess for a zone meeting of the Garden Club of America at the Berkshire Garden center, Stockbridge, June 4 and 5, with Mrs. Gibbs chairman of the general committee.

Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra, and Mrs. Koussevitzky are spending a few days at Bald Head, Lenox, the estate of the late Miss Kate S. Buckingham of Chicago, which they bought from the Art institute of Chicago. The view from the house high upon Bald Head mountain is one of the finest in the Berkshire uplands. It is about a mile from Tanglewood, where the orchestra will give nine concerts the first three weeks of August. Miss Buckingham bequeathed Bald Head estate to Walter B. Smith of Chicago, who gave it to the Art institute. The property has an assessed valuation of $50,000 and it sold for $18,000. Dr. Koussevitzky also paid $2,000 for the furniture and furnishings.

Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor and Miss Helen Campbell Taylor of 1500 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, have opened Plumsted at Lenox. Mr. and Mrs. Wait Talcott of Rockford are at Rollaway Hill, North Egremont.

Harley C. Darlington of Chicago has bought from the Olde Egremont corporation the Egremont inn at South Egremont, built in 1780 and restored by Maj. Hugh Smiley, now of Concord, N. H. The inn was a favorite rendezvous for stage coach parties between Boston and Albany. Its knotted pine room has a huge fireplace large enough for 4 foot sticks of oak. Mr. Darlington was assistant manager of the Stevens hotel, Chicago, for 10 years. He was also with the Hotel Sherry.

Following a visit with Mrs. James Ransom Walker at Fair Acres, Stockbridge, Mrs. Brown Caldwell [Blanche Follansbee] is now with her sister, Mrs. William Gold Hibbard of Willow road, Winnetka.

Mrs. Bernhard Hoffmann, who is the former Miss Irene Botsford of Chicago, was chairman of a recent tea at the Berkshire Garden center, Stockbridge, where 4,000 tulips are in bloom.

Mrs. C. A. Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, Minn., has rented Windermere, Dr. and Mrs. William Morris Carpenter's summer home on Prospect Hill, Stockbridge.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, April 21, 1892.

Dear Julia: Will and I have attended today a funeral which recalled early days in Chicago. Ex-Mayor Harvey D. Colvin, an old man of 78, died in Florida and was taken to his Dearborn avenue home for burial. Tho Will and he were not in the same political party, Will had known Mr. Colvin and liked him personally, so we felt it only right to pay our tribute of respect. Mr. Colvin, of Quaker parentage, was born in eastern Pennsylvania and came to Chicago in 1854, the same year father settled here. He was for many years local agent for the United States Express company.

Harvey D. Colvin.

Altho a Democrat, he sided with the north during the civil war, and his personal popularity was so great that he was elected mayor in 1873, when he was a candidate of the "People's party," really the Democratic party plus that element—mainly Germans—who wanted the "Continental Sunday," with saloons and places of amusement open. We were with the "Sunday closing" party, and I still think this was right, yet I do feel that we—the church people—should have offered something to take the place of closed saloons. People want something to do on Sunday besides just going to church, but it should be uplifting entertainment.

Dr. Thomas preached the funeral sermon and paid tribute to Mr. Colvin's character, saying that his election as mayor was not due to low motives on the part of his supporters, but because the genius of the people led them to reject anything that savored of the joining of church and state. That seemed to me far-fetched, but I presume Dr. Thomas thinks there was need for such a rebuke. He is a liberal, you know.

As we emerged from the house of mourning I was pleased to see how many people Will knew and how glad they seemed to speak to him. Will is a natural "mixer," a splendid gift. "Hello, Matt," I would hear, and would be told that this was Mr. Benner, ex-fire marshal of the city; "Pat" proved to be Patrick McGrath, clerk of the Superior court—Will knew them all, and was quick with his warm handshake. So many names I heard as we walked toward our carriage—Philip Hoyne, J. H. McVicker, Richard M. Hooley, Potter Palmer, Redmond Prindiville, Cornelius Price—all intimately connected with the growth of the city. It recalled to Will's mind the contrast between the population of Chicago in 1837, which was officially 4,170, when William B. Ogden was elected first mayor, and that of today, when we have probably a million and a quarter.

But, to turn to lighter matters, we have attended a wedding on the north side this week, too, a very handsome affair in our own neighborhood, when Miss Katherine Porter, daughter of H. H. Porter, wealthy railroad man, was married to George Snow Isham, successful young physician of the city. It is one of those perfectly satisfactory marriages which occur once in a blue moon. Both are exemplary young people; both come of fine families, distinguished for wealth and culture. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Floyd Tompkins of St. James' Episcopal church, in the beautiful Porter home, a red brick house at the northwest corner of Cass and Erie streets. The bridesmaids were Katherine and Harriet Isham, sisters of the groom; Josephine Cable, and Lida Rumsey. The young couple will live on Bellevue place for a time. I believe they expect to build a large house on North street, which is becoming increasingly fashionable.

I am interested to know that our Chicago Historical society is about to erect a fine stone building at the corner of Dearborn avenue and Ontario street to house its treasures. It is hoped to have it completed so that visiting historians who may be here for the fair can speak in the lecture hall. There is much wonderful material that historians would enjoy seeing in the possession of the society.

And now, my dear, I must close. Lovingly,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOT NOTES.

Descendants of the Porter and Isham families are still numerous and influential in Chicago.

The old building of the Chicago Historical society still stands at the corner of Dearborn and Ontario streets, but the society is now housed in its handsome brick building at North avenue and Clark street, where its rich treasures can be seen in proper setting.

Were Two Fort Dearborns Built in 1803?

Hermon Dunlap Smith, who was responsible for the publication of the complete series of Maj. Gen. Henry Dearborn's diaries by the Caxton club, has uncovered evidence that leads to the conclusion that there may have been two Fort Dearborns built in 1803—that at the mouth of the Chicago river and one near Natchez, in Mississippi territory. Land was bought by the government to be used for erecting a military post near Natchez in 1803. This was known as Fort Dearborn in that vicinity for some time afterward. Col. H. A. Musham, who is deeply interested in Chicago's Fort Dearborn, says it is probable the projected southern post was given first choice in the name Fort Dearborn. The purchase of Louisiana soon after the Natchez fort was started obviated the necessity of this fort, and it is likely that it was dropped, but that the name clung to the part already built. Chicago's Fort Dearborn was not authorized until March 9, 1803, after work was started on its counterpart in the south. When the latter was dropped the name was given to the Chicago post. Our Fort Dearborn was so named in the latter part of 1803, for it is carried by this name on official documents dated Dec. 31, 1803, when it had a garrison of 4 officers and 65 enlisted men. But thruout the western country it was generally known as "Fort Chicago," and this as late as the end of the war of 1812.

Frontier State Celebrates Its 50th Birthday

By Alden Powell.

Wyoming is where the plains meet the mountains. This year the state is adding to its natural attractions with a celebration of its golden anniversary.

Wyoming was the first commonwealth to confer upon women the same rights of suffrage enjoyed by men. Thruout the summer there will be pageants, parades, and other festivities recalling the winning of the west, dramatizing the state's contribution to political progress with women's suffrage, and summarizing progress since statehood was granted.

The celebrations will be in addition to regularly held rodeos and outdoor shows.

Wyoming has two national parks, three national monuments, 11 national forests, two state parks, 20,000 miles of fishing streams, 130,000 acres of fishing lakes, 140,000 big game animals, the largest forest wilderness area in the country, the largest ice fields in the continental United States, and more than 100 dude ranches and resorts.

It contains the showpiece of American vacation lands, Yellowstone. That park is the hissing arena for the world's greatest display of geyser activity. It has more than 3,000 geysers, hot springs, and pools. In it also are a varied assortment of wild life, a falls twice as high as Niagara, a canyon that Kipling called "one wild welter of color," and 138 square mile Yellowstone lake.

South of Yellowstone is the most spectacular mountain area of America—Grand Teton National park. This playground includes 22 major peaks, and numerous lakes, glaciers, snowfields, and forests.

Northeastern Wyoming has Devils Tower National monument. The "stump," formed by an up-welling of lava, rises sheer 865 feet from base to summit and contains enough material to provide surfacing for a 16 foot roadway nine times around the earth.

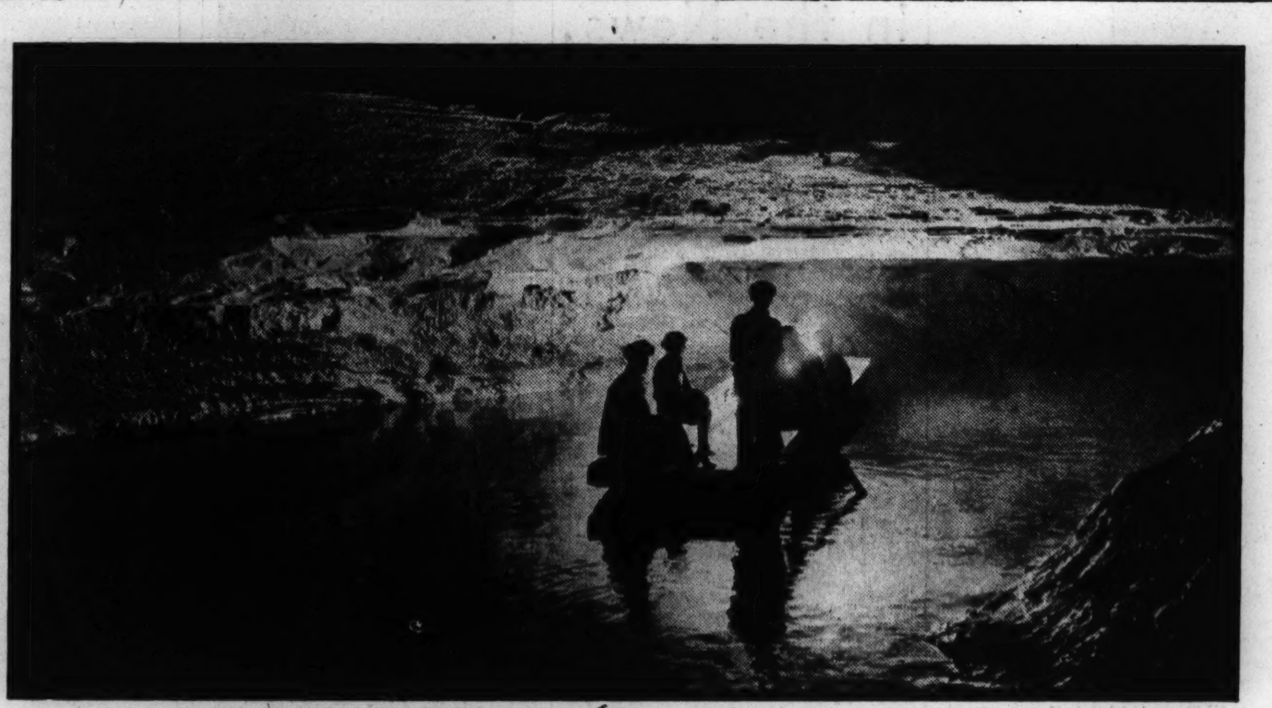
The state's newest national monument is Old Fort Laramie, first used as a trapper rendezvous about 1820 and established as a trading post in 1834. The fort was the first, and for a score of years the most important, military post in the west.

The world's largest mineral hot spring, flowing 18,600,000 gallons daily, is in Hot Springs State park at Thermopolis. In southeastern Wyoming are the rock formations of Sherman hill, highest point on the Lincoln highway, and the glacier-scoured "Snowy range" section of the Rockies.

Central Wyoming contains the Wind River mountains, guardians of a million acre primitive area and of glaciers 300 to 600 feet thick.

Scattered thruout the state are such attractions as the dinosaur graveyard and the mountain of fossilized fish. Every section is accessible over paved highways.



WEIRD LIGHTS AND WEIRD FORMATIONS IN KENTUCKY CAVERN

Echo river in Mammoth cave. The principal route thru the caverns provides the world's longest journey of its kind. Virtually every known type of cave formation is to be found there.

They Push Their Trolleys Around

Passengers riding to the end of the line on the street cars of Colima, Mexico, play a "ring around the rosy" game all their own.

They get out and help the conductor and motorman push the car around on a huge wooden turntable so that it can make a return trip over the line.

Colima's cars have open sides, wooden benches, are run by gas, and demand the right of way with a mad tootle.

Public Library Is Housed in Box Car

The town of Colmar, N. M., with a population of 75, is said to have America's smallest public library. The institution is housed in an old box car, bought from a railroad, and moved to a vacant lot near the station. It contains nearly 2,000 books, contributed by friends and by women's clubs in other parts of the state.

Music in Quebec.

The French Canadian is by nature musical. From the hearty songs of the lumberjacks to the chansons of the villages, the people are seldom without a song on their lips. In the large cities this love for music is expanded to include symphony orchestras and male and mixed choirs.

Dog Teams and Airplanes.

Transportation in Quebec province, Canada, is perhaps the most varied in the world. Motor cars speed along the highways, a dog hauls a milk cart along a by-path, airports greet airway travelers, river barges sail down the St. Lawrence, and yachts cruise along inland waterways. Even oxen are used to pull carts.

Chinese Have Own Colony in Montreal

While thousands of visitors each summer explore the streets, shops, and restaurants of French Montreal and view the sights of the English and Canadian districts, few know the novelties of the city's oriental section.

Down Lagauchetiere street is a Chinese city on the Island of Montreal. Here nearly 2,000 Chinese have their schools, churches, hospital, societies, and social orders.

On summer nights, heard above the noise of ship signaling in the harbor, is the cadence of a strange oriental speech. From narrow doorways of incense smelling shops a singsong dialect directs visitors to shops of ivory carved articles, legend-bearing vases, jewels, and flaming silks.

Of special interest to visitors is Tong hall, where a large porcelain figure of Tit-Croy-Lee, the laughing Chinese Aladdin, bids welcome. Inside is the sacred shrine of the Tongs, together with a theater where a daily show continues for five hours against shifting designs and drop curtains of startling colors.

The community is known for a tea supposed to have been grown on the White Crown mountains of China.

Oakhurst Hall Storied Estate at Lake Geneva

By Rose Cour.

An air of romance and mystery still pervades Oakhurst hall, oldest of all the "gentleman's" country estates not only in the Lake Geneva region, but in the state of Wisconsin.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

The house and the 520 acres that comprise the estate are now the property of Mr. and Mrs. John Toigo of Hyde Park, Chicago, who are also the owners of Upland farm, formerly one of the Edward E. Ayer farms on the hills overlooking the south shore of Lake Geneva.

Nearly 100 years old, the main structure of Oakhurst hall is as stanch and sturdy today as when it was built in 1847, altho it has lost several of its wings. They housed a conservatory, gun room, smoking room, and other rooms mentioned in the unpublished diaries of William H. Whiting, a man who in many ways was as romantic and mysterious as the mansion he built in the wilderness of "Wiskonsan" territory.

Born at Hudson, N. Y., in 1813, Mr. Whiting early attained fame as an engraver and became a partner in the firm of Whiting & Whitney, New York, later the American Bank Note company of which firm he was secretary for many years. His ancestors founded Hartford, Conn., where a monument now stands in honor of the Whitings. And while Mr. Whiting was proud of his forbears he was even more proud of his own son, William Henry Whiting Jr., later admiral in the United States navy. Admiral Whiting, who received his training aboard the historic old wooden frigate, Constitution, during the civil war, was given his appointment to Annapolis by a Wisconsin representative in 1860.

"Willie," as he is fondly referred to in his father's diaries, spent most of his early summers and later furloughs with his eight brothers and sisters at Oakhurst hall. One of the major mysteries of Oakhurst is why a man of Mr. Whiting's wealth and prominence selected the untrod wilderness of what was then known as Bloom Prairie as the site for a country home, transportation between New York and Wisconsin being what it was in the 1840's. While there are numerous accounts in his diaries of the many laborious trips by boat, train, and carriage to Oakhurst, no inkling is given of his reason for buying a country seat of 640 acres in a wild country where bands of Indians, wolves, and bears were ordinary sights. If it were only a desire for wilderness, he could have realized it easily without leaving his own state.

The construction of the house itself is another mystery, as it is built like a fortress with walls 16 and even 18 inches thick in places. The cream colored bricks for the walls had to be transported by ox teams from Kenosha, then called South Port. Still another mystery is the secret passageway which led from under the house to the stables. While this tunnel was known to exist for many years the entrance was sought in vain. Within the last year, a granddaughter of Mr. Whiting, the late Mrs. Charles O. LaSalle of East Orange, N. J., sent to the new owners a sketch of the house indicating where the opening was located at the time when she, as a child, was taken into the underground passageway by her grandfather. Mrs. Toigo immediately drove out from Chicago with her young sons, Romolo and Angelo. An exploring party including the farm's caretakers was made up and armed with the map, measuring rules, flashlights, crowbars, and shovels. Because of sundry minor partition changes since the 1860's when Mrs. LaSalle visited the tunnel, considerable difficulty was encountered in locating the trap door, but it was found at last. Upon prying it up, however, and descending into black, earthy depths, it was discovered that the passageway ended after a few feet at an archway so solidly bricked up that it resisted all efforts of amateur crowbar wielders. Workmen later advised that breaking down the barrier would entail tearing out a portion of the foundation, so the pleasure of further investigating the secret tunnel at Oakhurst has been reserved by the Toigo family until they enter upon the pleasant task of repairing and restoring the house.

So far, the reason for the passageway has never been explained satisfactorily. Mrs. LaSalle stated she was under the impression it was built as a place in which to hide or escape from Indians. Other reports were that it was used as a hiding place for runaway slaves prior to the civil war, and that Oakhurst hall was a station on that mysterious underground railway by which slaves were moved to Canada. It is said there were many such stations along the Illinois-Wisconsin state line with at least one, the Methodist church, in Lake Geneva.

With its irregular gabled roofline, many chimneys indicating the innumerable fireplaces, its deeply recessed ornate gothic windows filled with tiny diamond shaped panes of glass, the old house possesses undeniable charm. Not only the house itself but the grounds, once beautifully landscaped with velvety lawns, winding drives and paths bordered with shrubs and flower beds, were the wonder of the countryside in the old days. Farmers of the vicinity still tell of the large stables, the carriage house, the fine horses and the many great, black Newfoundland dogs.

Oakhurst was most famous, however, for its church. A devout Episcopalian, as revealed on almost every page of the diaries, Mr. Whiting set aside a portion of his land for church and churchyard and his dwelling house was scarcely finished before he began the erection of a church. Older summer residents at the lake well remember when on one Sunday of each month the rector of the Geneva church would hold services at Bloom Prairie. It was the proper thing, on those Sundays, to hitch up the large family carry-all and drive with the Fairbanks, the Sturges, Leiters, and Rumseys to services at "Mr. Whiting's church," as it was called, altho it was named "Church of the Holy Communion" after the New York church of the same name. The Rt. Rev. Jackson Kemper, bishop of the Northwest in 1848 and founder of Kemper hall, assisted Mr. Whiting in establishing his church. Bishop Kemper was often a guest at Oakhurst.

The church was an impressive structure in its day and was considered the first Episcopal church building worthy of the name in the county. Cruciform in shape, with chancel, two transepts and tower, it much resembled the Haworth church in England, made famous thru the Brontes. The furnishings were said to be the finest obtainable at that time and included the first pipe organ brought into southern Wisconsin.

Many members of the Whiting family have figured prominently in American history and the rôle played by Oakhurst's admiral was not one of the least. During the civil war while still an ensign he received honorable mention by Admiral Farragut for gallant conduct at the burning of the blockade runner, Ivanhoe, under the very guns of Fort Morgan. When Fort Gaines surrendered he had the honor of hauling down the Confederate flag and hoisting the Stars and Stripes. At the battle of Manila in 1898 he was in command of the monitor Monadnock. These are only a few of his many adventures.

At Honolulu in 1893 he married Miss Etta Ah Fong, one of 11 daughters of a Chinese millionaire. All of these girls, famous for their beauty, were educated at Smith or Vassar and married American or English naval officers. Their mother was Portuguese-Hawaiian. Admiral and Mrs. Whiting, who became the wife of Admiral Ammon Farenhold after the death of Admiral Whiting in 1925, were guests of Mrs. Potter Palmer in Chicago during the World's Fair. Their daughter is the wife of Commander James H. Taylor, U. S. N. Many other descendants of the Oakhurst Whitings now live in Chicago and suburbs, especially Wheaton, the home of Charles Andrew LaSalle, son of Mrs. Charles O. LaSalle.

Luncheons and Parties Occupy Pasadena Set

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL. When she planned a surprise party for her husband to celebrate his 73d birthday, Mrs. G. Russell Leonard did not know that the affair also would mark the natal day of one of her guests, Cecil Roberts, noted English author, who has been their house guest. Two dozen close friends were bidden for cocktails at the Leonards' lovely new home in the foothills Saturday afternoon.

The Leonards, who recently moved here from Chicago, spent last summer in Europe and it was in England that they met Mr. Roberts, who has been here writing the scenario for his book, "They Wanted to Live," a sequel to his "Victoria, 4:30." They visited the author in his Pilgrim cottage at Henley-on-Thames and later, when they embarked for home, who should be aboard but their new found friend! Mr. Roberts left late this week for New York via the Grand Canyon. His plans for returning to England are uncertain.

Mrs. William M. Lake [Meredith Hanley] spread a long buffet table under the trees in her rambling garden the other day and invited a number of friends in for al fresco luncheon in honor of Mrs. Charles Watkins Lewis [Maria Bonzi] of New York, who is the sister of Mrs. Morris Mothershead [Alice Bonzi]. Rhododendrons hiding in shaded corners and subtropical tree ferns fearless of the sun made a pleasant outlook for the guests, who included young Mrs. Mothershead, Mrs. Hallett Thorne, Mrs. William Wilson Jr., Mrs. John Deuel, Mrs. Charles Thorsen, Mrs. Kenneth Simpson, Mrs. William Schmidt, Mrs. Thomas Franck, Mrs. Paul Hill, and Mrs. William Wolfe.

Mrs. Edward Groenendyke [Jane Pond], a bride of last autumn, will also fête Mrs. Lewis.

Pasadena was graced for a few days this week by the presence of the attractive Mrs. Harry Milton Wismer [Mary Elizabeth Bryant] and Mr. Wismer of Dearborn, Mich., who are on their honeymoon. Mrs. Wismer is the niece of Mrs. Henry Ford, and at a large tea given Sunday by another aunt, Mrs. Robert Mellinger of Pasadena, Mrs. Roy Bradley Wheeler, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Robert J. Burdette and niece of Mrs. F. E. Cheeseman of Evanston, assisted.

Miss Helen Hunter and Nat Paschall, son of Mrs. William E. Boeing of Seattle, Wash., were co-hosts recently at a cocktail party at the Hunter residence in South Orange Grove avenue.

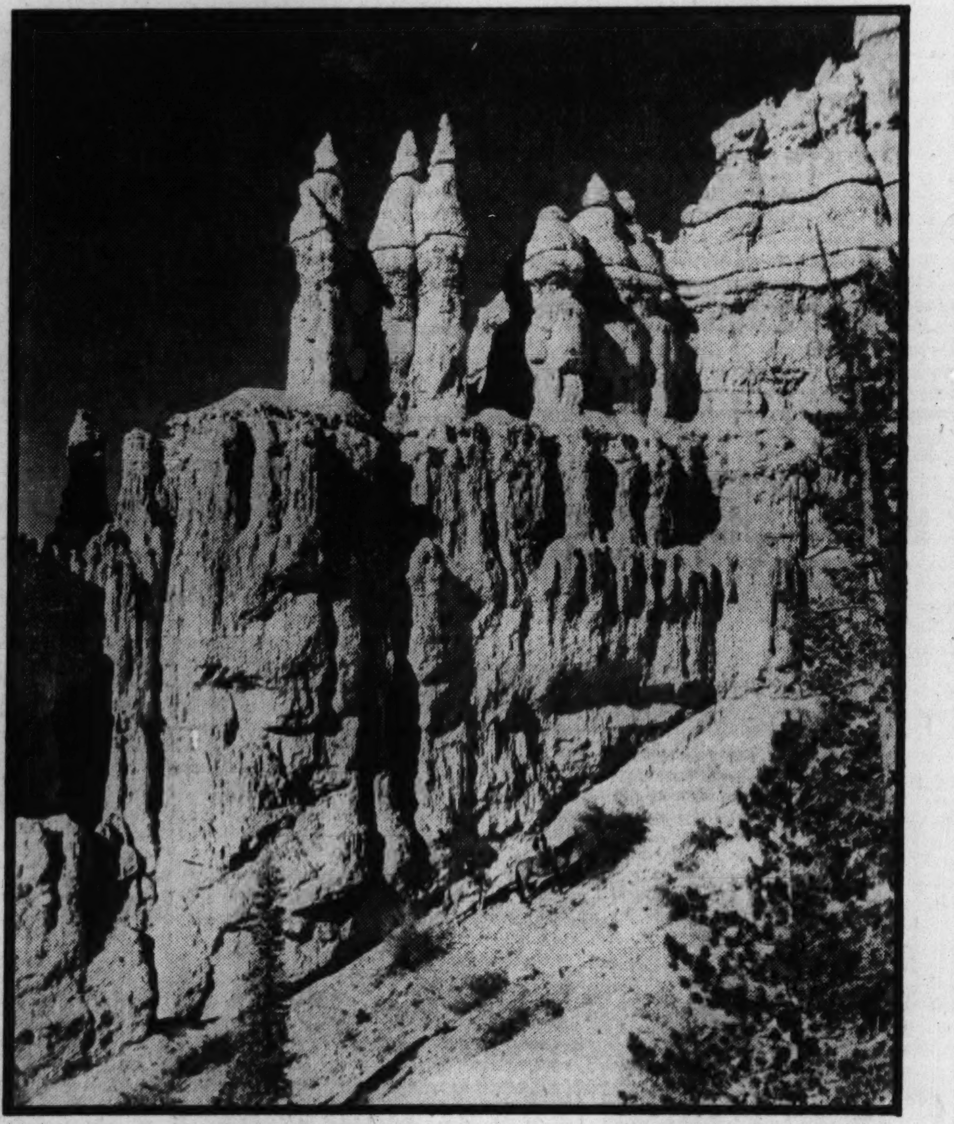
Of wide interest—and of special interest in the winter colony—was the marriage of Dorothy Spence Bacon of Hotel Huntington to Jurgen H. [Pat] Lorentzen. They were married in the bride's bungalow by the Rev. Pardee Erdman. Later a wedding supper for 200 guests was served in the hotel. Jayne Spence was her sister's only attendant and Ellwood Henry was best man. The Lorentzens are honeymooning in Honolulu and will spend the summer at Coronado on their return.

News from the San Diego social front states that Dr. and Mrs. William Leroy Garth will forgo their usual summer trip in favor of open house, for they have received word that their daughter and her husband, the Thomas Dammanns [Harle Garth], and little Tommy Jr. will arrive from Hartford, Conn., in August for an extended visit.



SURREALIST STATUES OUT WEST

The curious formations in the upper center are known as the Three Goblins. Much of the sculpturing in Bryce Canyon National park, in southern Utah, is like art work out of another world.

Miami Planning to Cool Off Its Summer Guests

MIAMI, FLA. With the Gulf Stream trade winds air-conditioning Florida's coastline, Miami is preparing to cool off a throng of summer tourists.

This resort has planned a large number of events for the visitors. There will be sailboating and sailboat races sponsored by the Miami Yacht club, horseback riding and horse shows by the Greater Miami Horsemen's association, deep sea fishing headlined by the $2,500 fishing tournament [June 16 to Aug. 4], and ice skating and ice shows.

Thrown open to the public for the first time this summer will be the new 625 acre Matheson park on Biscayne bay, with a sheltered bathing beach, eight acres of rustic picnic grounds, and miles of jungle foot paths.

Typical evening pastimes here include dancing, beach parties, bowling, tennis, softball and baseball, fishing, shuffleboard, and motoring.

Sightseeing is another diversion. There are trips to the Everglades, coral reefs, and marine gardens, the Gulf Stream, and the Seminole Indian villages.

At the airport visitors watch the Clipper planes fly in from the West Indies and Central and South America. In Coral Gables is the University of Miami, southernmost college in the United States.

Hialeah Park, scene of winter racing, will be thrown open this summer for views of the tropical gardens and of the inland lake nesting hundreds of coral hued flamingoes.

The Voice of the Traveler

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

TRIBUNE SERVICE.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 14.—To the Tribune Travelers' Guide: I have just received the pamphlets, telling about various trips, in answer to my request of several days ago.

It was very kind of you to go to so much trouble. Your generous response quite overwhelmed me. The information will be of great help to me.

I deeply appreciate your kindness, and I thank you sincerely. RUTH CHUDNOW.

MORE ABOUT MEXICO.

Wichita, Kas., May 18.—To the Travel Editor: I want you to know how much I enjoyed your articles on Mexico this winter and spring.

I lived there for six months last year, carrying on an "experiment in education" with my two children, and many of your experiences and opinions paralleled mine. We spent week-ends and holidays traveling over the republic.

We liked all of Michoacan, and especially the train from Patzcuaro to Uruapan and the splendid new highway to Morelia. The Posado de Don Vasco, with its embroidered sheets, quite fascinated us, but we liked the little decorative gadgets at El Lago just as well. And at El Lago there was lots more noise [to which we already had become so accustomed that we missed it elsewhere].

By the way, did you ever make a Charanda highball? Don't! And did you see the butterfly boats?

Write some more about Mexico—or any of your other travels. Your accounts are highly interesting and entertaining. I am sure they have done a great deal to promote travel "south of the border."

HELEN PEPPERS.

TO SUMMER VACATIONISTS.

Chicago, May 22.—To the Travel Editor: I am secretary of the Lena Barr Morse Travel club. Should any of your readers desire to remember the shut-ins with an occasional card while vacationing this summer, they can get in touch with me at 3980 Archer avenue. Please ask them to state the number of shut-ins they would be interested in writing to, and to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when they write me.

To those who wish to hear from your readers, permit me to make this suggestion: Only those who have been invalids for a year or more, and who have an unknown spell of illness still before them, should be considered shut-ins. If you do not come within this classification, please do not ask to be placed on our list. Brief illness, accident, or convalescent cases cannot be taken care of.

One more suggestion: When sending in the name of a friend, please remember the foregoing. Our list is growing beyond us, and only by weeding out the names of the temporarily ill can we keep it under control.

The next meeting and luncheon of our club will be held at the Hotel Graymont, 1032 East 46th street, Chicago, at 1 p. m. Saturday, June 1. Reservations may be made by phoning either Lafayette 6448 or Virginia 1969 up to Friday noon, May 31.

Alamo Good, but Palace Is Even Better

By Frederic Babcock.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

Some one has said that Texas occupies all of North America except the small portions set aside for the United States, Mexico, and Canada. The traveler gets the same idea when he crosses the state's length of 825 miles or its width of 740.

We stopped off here on our way back from Mexico, and the first thing our traveling companion said was: "How pale the people look! What's the matter with them?" It took us some time to realize that they were pale only in comparison with the people south of the border.

About all we knew regarding San Antonio, before our arrival, was that this is the site of the Alamo and that here was written one of O. Henry's finest stories: "The Fog at San Antone." We're going away with many other impressions—nearly all of them favorable.

First of all, there's "the shrine of Texas liberty." Few Americans can visit the Alamo without thrilling to the fact that there, a little more than a century ago, a band of 200 patriots was wiped out in defending the chapel against a force of 5,000 under the Mexican general, Santa Ana, and that this sacrifice so encouraged the rest of the Texans that they eventually battled their way to independence.

Originally the building was the chapel of Mission San Antonio de Valero, established by the Franciscan padres in 1718 to educate and Christianize the Indians. It has been restored to its original state, and its museum is a storehouse of relics of the early days in the southwest.

This is only one of the missions still standing hereabouts. Others are the San Juan, the Espada, the Concepçion, and the San José. The last named, dating back to 1720, has a rose window that would compare with those the traveler could see in the French cathedrals before the outbreak of the present war.

After that, there are the $10,000,000 Randolph field, said to be the largest and most complete army flying field in the world; Fort Sam Houston, with its swans, peacocks, and tame deer; O. Henry's home, a little adobe structure where he did some of his best work; Kelly field, with its memories of the world war; San Fernando cathedral, built in 1749; the Hotel St. Anthony, with its restful atmosphere and its automatic system of opening doors as the guests approach; the Buckthorn shop, full of such curios as a 78 point deer head and the head of a Texas steer whose horns measured 8 feet from tip to tip, and 363 acre Brackenridge park, with its sunken garden, reptile garden, and Alpine drive.

All these are interesting enough, but the prize attraction—as far as this tourist is concerned—is a building not too well known to the tourists. That is the Spanish governors' palace.

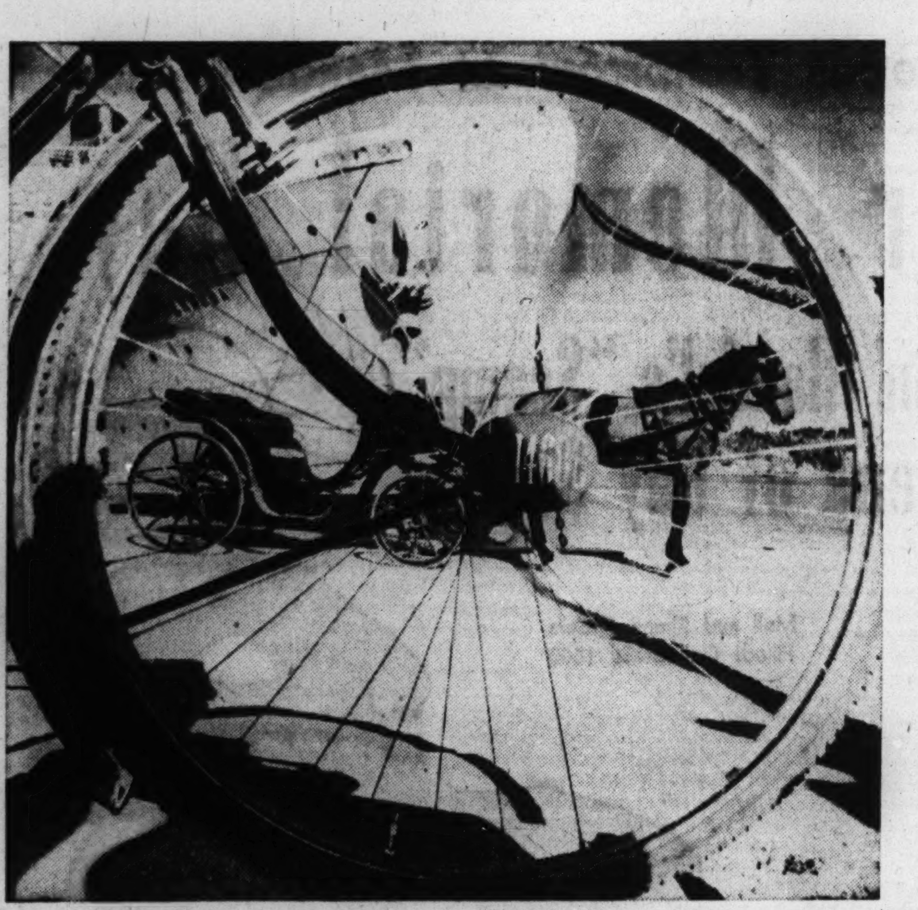
Above the front door of the palace is the Hapsburg coat of arms. In the patio are a wishing well and an outdoor oven. The oven indoors once burned charcoal, fanned to flame by bellows. Old time utensils, such as keys and forks, are still hanging from iron racks. Braziers, used for heat in the old days, are everywhere.

The living room is dark and rather dreary; the real living room was in the patio. In the comedor, or dining room, there is a lavabo, center of a religious ceremony in which every one was called upon to wash his hands before partaking of food.

Built in 1749, the palace was the official residence of the governors of the province of Texas. Restored in 1931, it now boasts of furniture and decorations recapturing the spirit of the pioneers. It's much more beautiful and stately than most of the other governors' residences we've seen elsewhere in America.



THREE MODES OF TRANSPORTATION

The front wheel of Bermuda's favorite vehicle, the bicycle, frames a familiar scene at Hamilton harbor: a cabby waiting for passengers from a newly arrived liner.

American Hotels Back Campaign to "Travel America"

National Hotel week, to be observed June 2 to 8, will call attention to this year's "Travel America" movement, President Leonard Hicks of the Greater Chicago Hotel association said yesterday.

It has been estimated that Americans will spend some six billion dollars for travel and recreation in their own country this year. Surveys have shown that more than a fourth of the annual expenditure goes to the hotels.

Figures announced by Mr. Hicks for 1939 gave: Hotels, 28 per cent; restaurants, 14; retail stores, 32; garages and filling stations, 6; theaters, 10; railroad and local transportation, 10.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Where is Minaki? What does the name mean? What are the sports facilities there? —R. A.

In the Lake of the Woods region of Ontario. The name is an Indian word meaning "beautiful country." Sports facilities include boating, fishing, swimming, tennis, and golf.

I have been told that a new federal park is being created in southern Arizona. Please give details. —F. X. M.

The area lies in the Huachuca mountains, between Bisbee and Nogales, on the international border. It is now a national forest. Plans call for the erection of a monument on the spot where Coronado first set foot in Arizona, and work has been started on a museum, to be filled with relics of both the United States and Mexico. Montezuma pass, thru which Coronado led his band on their way northward from Mexico, has an altitude of about 5,300 feet. It and the surrounding country have a climate of warm days and cool nights.

YOUR CHILDREN by Gladys Huntington Bevans | The WEEKLY CLUB CALENDAR | CAMPUS CLOTHES for the COED

Foot Care Is Important to Child Health

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

They looked like pieces of sculpture as they lay about in the sand on the ocean beach, their firm bodies browned by the sun. The girls, some in swim suits of gleaming white or brilliant color, others in so-called dressmaker suits that looked more like Greek kirtles; the boys, young men rather, clad in trunks, with bodies that suggested modern wood carvings. They were a delight to the eye.

But not all the young feet stretched lazily out matched those bodies in fitness and normalness. In fact, it was one of the crowd who had first remarked the fact. "Mother," she had said, "so many of the girls have toes that are bent under or distorted. Some of them look terrible!" It was her comment that got us started talking.

That day I made a mental note to write an article or two on the care of children's and young people's feet, especially because not a great deal that is authoritative is available to parents. At first I thought I would base it on my own knowledge and experience. Then I decided to wait until I met or heard of a specialist in this field whose work was outstanding, and whose particular slant appealed to me.

"O, Doctor, My Feet!", a small book in popular vein, but based on scientific research and practice, first brought to my attention the work of Dr. Dudley J. Morton. Dr. Morton, eminent orthopedic surgeon, told me that after leaving the army he spent five years studying the evolution of the human foot. But I won't attempt to go into his career more than to say that, besides being associate professor of anatomy at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia university, he has a wide hospital and private practice experience. To Dr. Morton I went with the questions that mothers ask me about their children's feet, and with the questions they don't ask me, but to which they should know the answers!

Let us, then, begin at the beginning, that is, with the baby when he first finds that he can stand up. Delighted with this triumph, he is very likely to grasp the upper bar of his crib or a chair and hang on and hold on while he stands for long periods. Dr. Morton believes that prolonged periods of standing at this stage should be discouraged, because they are a strain on the baby's feet.

When the baby begins to walk he should not be encouraged too much to do so. Also, at this time, your family doctor or pediatrician should look at the baby's feet at the time of his regular physical examination, to see whether or not his foot posture is correct.

Naturally you know that babies vary a great deal in the age at which they begin to walk, as well as to talk. A mother may boast to you that her baby walked at 10 months, yet that is nothing to be especially proud of. A very strong and healthy youth whom I know did not actually walk until the December after his first birthday in August.

The age at which babies learn to walk is an individual matter, like all other skills that children acquire. But where a child is unusually slow there may be other factors. The baby who is definitely overweight often walks late, and the child who has just begun to lurch unsteadily, but triumphantly, from one chair to another may have his actual walking delayed by a serious illness, which is weakening and requires a long convalescence. If, taking all this into consideration, you feel worried because your baby doesn't walk, take him to a physician. However, if you make a practice of a regular health checkup, any real trouble should be discovered by your doctor at those times.

But let's go on with our baby who can really walk.

Shoes are our first thought. What about his footgear? I was delighted to find Dr. Morton expressing himself in line with my own convictions. A soft little foot covering which protects the baby's feet from carpet and wooden floor is all he needs, since the muscles of his feet are meant to be used. [And back to my mind popped the tiny moccasins of chamois that I used to make with my own hands.]

Next, what about the baby's shoes when he is ready to walk in the street or park? Then, of course, they need a sole, but since muscles are made to function, and we should approximate nature as nearly as possible, no stiffly laced-up ankle shoe is needed. The little moccasin oxford, pliable but sturdy, is ideal for normal feet.

You should have no trouble getting the right shoes for your baby and young child. Dr. Morton considers that children's shoes today are well designed, especially those for the normal foot. "When feet are abnormal," he says, "medical supervision and recommendation are indicated rather than placing the full responsibility on the shoe man." That is to say, if you suspect or are sure that your child's feet are abnormal, the person for you to go to is your doctor.

Most mothers in buying shoes know that for growing feet there must be plenty of room for the toes, and enough sole [in width] for the foot to rest on comfortably. The shoe injury to little feet does not come as much thru the original buying of shoes that are too short, as thru the fact that our youngest often outgrow their shoes before they wear them out, and are allowed to continue to put them on when the foot has outgrown them. This stubbing of the bones and tissues of the tender, growing foot is highly injurious.

In fact, when I asked Dr. Morton the broad question, "Would you be able to name any mistake that mothers in general make in regard to their children's feet?" his reply was: "Yes, their greatest mistake lies in not keeping shoes up with growth. Here is where the largest source of toe deformity lies today." Of course, the principle of plenty of room for toes [and ball of foot] holds all thru youth. But we don't need to worry about it quite so much in our children of 8 or 10, because in the active outdoor life they lead, their shoes are likely to be outworn long before they are outgrown.

To my question about walking barefoot, Dr. Morton's reply was that, being quite natural, there was no objection to it in itself. But there always is the possibility of injury to the feet from broken glass, infections, stone bruises, and so on, that is, from the ground itself.

If your child won't eat, write for our leaflet, "Mealtime Habits." Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Patterns by Clotilde

By Clotilde.

For your active sports wardrobe, four indispensable patterns. Make them in spanking white or in pastels. Prints are best for the bathing suit.

Style No. 2929 fashions a halter top, shorts, button-on skirt and a blouse [not illustrated]. Such an ensemble will see you thru a busy day on tennis courts and golf course.

Style No. 2820 is a one piece, sunback dress with unusually beautiful neckline, heart shaped and dainty. The bodice is shirred gently into a high waistline that dips into a flared and molded skirt. There's a bolero to cover the decolletage for public appearances.

Style No. 2097 creates a simply swank bathing suit with tie neckline, princess lines and sash. It allows for all the sun and water bathing you could possibly wish, and in smartness and comfort.

Style No. 3227, a slacks suit with feminine appeal. The blouse has open rever collarline, casual shoulders, soft draping. The trousers have a man-tailored waistline and pockets, and precise, but comfortably full legs.

Style No. 2929 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires ⅝ yard of 39 inch material for halter top; 1½ yards for shorts; 2⅛ yards for skirt.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey

Dear Penny:

Sorry to be late with this, but preparing for examinations has kept me pretty busy. I know Sally wants this dress pattern for her graduation frock, and there should be plenty of time before commencement for her to make it. It's so simple, really. She probably will create it in white sheer, and that'll be heavenly for summer dances back in the old home town. When the moon shines thru the branches of that centuries old oak [or doesn't her home town have one?] she'll look like a vision in the night.

Incidentally, darling, you might borrow the pattern for your own devices, since you say you've talked your mother into financing a summer evening frock for you. I've sketched the sunback version so that you can see what this demure gown's lines will look like without a back. There's always the bolero, of course.

What's more, with a shortened skirt and in fetching cottons or linens, this dress will be simply devastating. I've drawn the idea for you, suggesting a plain color bodice and bolero, and a wildly patterned skirt. It'll slay 'em, honey, and when you come to my home for that promised week this summer, leave this dress out of your luggage! I can't afford any competition from you!

copper pot; brought out a large piece of fat meat, well studded with garlic, and gave it to the young American, who shuddered . . .

It was quite late when Lois and Tom returned to the Hotel Splendide, excited, eager, hopeful. She had told him what Musa Bek had said to her, and they speculated as to how the old Tartar would go to work; would have been surprised had they known that his method of tracing Knox Bradford and Mehmet Khan Ertogrul did not differ essentially from that of Ward Conners, back in New York.

He, too, during the next few days, employed, if not paid operatives, then friends and acquaintances and members of his Moslem freemasonic lodge to filter thru the crowded alleys and bazaars, to ask questions discreet and indiscreet, to clink money into greedy palms so as to loosen tongues. He, too, by telegraph—for all his contempt of the saheb-log's inventions—and, as swiftly and more secretively, from mouth to mouth, sent word from Calcutta toward the north, asking that all men, be they his friends or friends of his friends, should be on the lookout for two men, an Englishman and a Tartar prince, and that any news concerning them should be immediately relayed back to the booth of Musa Bek in the Colootallah bazaar.

And many sent word.

To mention just a few of them:

There was a half-breed headwaiter at the Grand Hotel des Indes et d'Albion in Agra who, for future reference and, by the same token, for future service servile or insolent, kept a detailed card index of guests and what tips they had conferred upon him. There was a Babu high up in the Bengal political intelligence service whose business it was to shadow those travelers who asked for passports into the turbulent north. There was a Tamil brakeman who, as a vocational sideline, had joined the ancient Central Indian guild of thieves and who usually managed to purloin small articles belonging to prosperous passengers; in this case helping himself to a pocketbook that contained no more than 27 rupees, but—valuable to Musa Bek and, eventually, to Lois and Tom—had in it Knox Bradford's visiting card with the scribbled address of a certain Mustaffa Abderrahman, a kaufilabashee or caravan master, far up at Gilgit, near the border of Chinese Turkestan. There was—still more valuable—this Mustaffa Abderrahman himself, sending word thru his lodge that, even now, he was making ready a caravan for the saheb and the Tartar prince, they being anxious to cross the Pamirs before winter filled the Windy Gate pass with snow and ice.

"Pigs in Clover" Is First Night Success

Bit by bit, all this information trickled back to Calcutta where, in the meantime, "Pigs in Clover" was opening to a capacity first night house . . .

A reminiscent musical comedy it was. The sort of Tin Pan alley affair in which everything was stolen—including the tuning of the bass viol and the Irish as well as the Jewish comedian's gags.

But the audience—composed entirely of brown, turbaned and decidedly fragrant low caste—was not of the supercilious Broadway persuasion. They loved it. They cheered everything, from jazzed Verdi to purloined Irving Berlin, from bits of early George Cohan to scraps of late Flo Ziegfeld. They demanded encore after encore. They threw enormous bouquets of marigold and jasmine and pink frangipani. They gladdened the hearts of the American actors—and, thereby, caused the latter to forgive Ben Einstein—with their unstinted applause and warm, generous, whole hearted laughter.

So the final curtain dropped. The company gathered in the wings, elated, happy, congratulating one another.

"A wow!" declared the Grand Old Man. "It's in the bag! I'm proud of you boys and girls!"

Stan Donnelly turned to Lois.

"You had your nerve, babe," he said admiringly. "Doing an oriental dance for a native audience. But, you sure got away with it. They ate it up. It was you," was his unselfish acknowledgment, "who put the whole show across."

She made smiling, happy denial:

"I? No, no. With my three short numbers . . ."

"It ain't the length of the part that counts. It's the way you do it. And believe me—you done it!"

"Sure Michael!" chimed in Phyllis Foster "You," harking back to years earlier when she had really been an ingénue, "were the cat's pajamas—with fringes. Why—compared to you, that bony old sapsucker of a Yvonne Fleury looked like the trey of spades in a heart bobtail . . ."

"Miss Foster!" came a brittle, combative voice.

Yvonne Fleury had stepped from her dressing room, fire in her eyes and a hectic red showing thru her makeup.

Phyllis Foster paled.

"I—" she stammered, thereby making it worse—"I didn't mean for you to hear that . . ."

"Quite evidently not," the older woman replied with deadly calm. "And you, Ben—" addressing her husband—"to allow your wife to be grossly insulted and . . ."

"Keep your shirt on, sweetiepie!" he interrupted. "Keep your shirt on!"

"Do not be coarse, Ben!" Then, suddenly, she stepped up to Lois. "And—" her voice peaking a shrill octave—"as to you . . ."

"Me?"

"I shall not permit it!"

Lois was honestly astonished.

"Permit what?" she faltered.

"Your behavior!"

"What—what have I done?"

"You know what you have done! You hogged every round of applause! You stole every curtain call! You crossed in front of me when I bowed! You giggled when I sang my great love song! You deliberately spoiled my exits! You . . ."

"That isn't true," said Lois, exasperated.

"It is true! A cheap little hoofer—that's what you are! You—and your lover . . ."

"I warn you"—cried Lois, now thoroly indignant—"if you say one more word . . ."

And then, all at once, the Grand Old Man asserted himself.

"Rebecca," he commanded, forgetting her nom de guerre, "you come right avay back mit me to the hotel—dis instant minute—see . . . ? And," as she was about to argue, "shut up your face!"

So Ben Einstein, victorious for once, led his wife from the theater. And Lois laughed. But Stan Donnelly gave warning:

"Look out! That old battle-ax'll do you dirt if she can."

And his prophecy came true the following Saturday . . .

It was after the show, a couple of hours before the company, its Calcutta run most profitably ended, was going to take the night train for Bombay. Tom and Lois were about to leave the theater, when Ben Einstein, who was at the stage entrance smoking a strong smelling cigar, called out to them:

"I wanta talk to you two."

He led the way into the small room in back of the box office.

Tom was in excellent humor. He had rearranged a good deal of the music; had interpolated a couple of original songs. They had been a hit—and he had loved it; had loved, with an artist's rather simple minded egotism, the growing skill and power of his own talent.

"Going to tilt the ante?" he asked, smiling. "Give us each five hundred per?"

"I wish to God I could." The older man seemed embarrassed. He coughed as he pointed at a small heap of rupee banknotes on the table. "Children," he continued haltingly, "I feel damned mean about this business. But . . ."

Tom understood at once.

"I can guess the rest. Given the air, both of us—that it?"

The Grand Old Man sighed heavily. He had a genuine liking for the two young people.

"It ain't me done it," he assured them. "It's the wife."

"Are you telling me?" Tom grew angry. "Say—how does she get that way? Can't break our contracts without a reason."

"She—she says she got a reason."

"Name it!"

"Aw . . ."

"I want to know."

"Don't ask!" implored Ben Einstein.

"I am asking!"

"Well—she's pulling clause seventeen."

"Incompetence," Tom went on grimly, "or immoral conduct?"

"Don't ask!" repeated the other. "It'll only make you mad."

"I'm mad as hell now!"

"No good getting mad when you're the weaker party. That's what you are. And there ain't no actor's equity here—nor no national labor wotyecallit." He shrugged his shoulders. "I did all I could—honest to God I did."

"Of course you did," interrupted Lois.

"Thank you, Miss Winters. But the frau—you see—put her foot down.

"Don't say another word!" begged Lois, as Tom was about to give vent to his temper. "We know how it is."

"You're a red hot sport, Miss Winters. Me—I'm all for you and the boy friend. I'd give you the shirt right off my back. But—gee—the wife owns my shirt, too. I'm a married man. And," to Tom, "you never know what hell a female can raise till you share the same wardrobe trunk with her!"

Tom and Lois Find Themselves Stranded

He shambled out of the theater, looking rather old, rather defeated, while, curiously, Lois and Tom felt more sorry for him than for themselves. But, later on, in the Hotel Splendide, after they had said goodbye to the company, the seriousness of the situation struck them hard.

They sat down in the dingy lobby, with the mosquitoes and bramra beetles and flying cockroaches buzzing about and taking occasional nips at them, the punkah flopping disconsolately overhead, 47 odors—"all different and all bad," commented Tom—drifting in from the littered court yard; while, in his private office, Leopoldo da Sousa d'Andrade was congenitally employed, adding up long rows of figures.

Once in a while he would touch his still swollen nose; would think with satisfaction:

"Oh yes! All things come to him who waits—for love or for revenge."

For, that morning, he had overheard part of the conversation between Yvonne Fleury and Ben Einstein.

"Have a heart, sweetie-pie!" the latter had implored. "To kick 'em out into the street—here in India—'steen thousand miles from home and Broadway—it don't seem right—see . . . ? They're swell kids, Lois and Tom . . ."

"They're not married!"

"Aw—pipe down on that Mayflower stuff! You were born in Hester street, not in Boston. And—coming to think of it—what about your own sister Sarah?"

"Sarah is respectably married to a wealthy merchant in the Bronx."

"Well—she wasn't always neither respectable nor married."

"You forget yourself!"

"But I ain't forgetting your family! I remember how your mother carried on when Sarah . . ."

"Sarah has nothing to do with it. My decision remains unaltered. No, no—" her voice rising shrilly, as he had tried to argue—"I have made up my mind. Ah—you must choose, Benjamin—between them and me!"

He had given in then, suddenly knowing from former experiences when he was beaten. Drama first. Followed by a terrible scene of rage. Violent accusations. Tears. Hysterics. Same old thing. Couldn't do a thing against it . . .

"Anyway," he said, "they're poor, sweetie-pie. They're on their uppers in a strange land. The least we can do is pay their steamship fares back to America."

"Why should we? Didn't I hear Stan Donnelly ask young Ferguson if he's the son of Freeman Ferguson, the millionaire automobile man, and didn't the other admit it?"

"You know what kids are. He was only boasting."

"I don't care. What I said goes. And," threateningly, "don't you dare give them an extra dime out of your pocket! I know exactly how much you have. Fifty-seven rupees."

"Twenty," he had said quickly. For an idea had come to him—he would use the extra thirty-seven—send a cable to Detroit—maybe, if Tom was really the son of . . .

"It should have been fifty-seven," Yvonne Fleury had cut into his thoughts. "What did you do with the rest?"

He had given some sort of lame explanation; and, finally, she had cried:

"Never mind! Quarreling affects my voice—and I have my public to consider."

Such had been the scene which d'Andrade had overheard. He recalled it now; smiled as he put down another fat item on the bill marked Tom Ferguson . . .

The latter and Lois were staring at each other, strong hand seeking and holding slim hand. They felt young and lonely and more than a little frightened.

"Stranded—in India!" His smile was rather forced. "Isn't it silly, darling!"

They were silent. Fear grew; enveloped them.

They looked toward the open door toward the street. A wind blew in that held a sort of hushed, tense heat. A wind—Lois thought morosely—that was dead . . .

She gave a nervous shudder. Somebody walking over her grave.

"What'll we do?" she asked under her breath.

He sat up straight.

"Only one thing to do," he replied. "Take the next ship."

"You—you mean . . . ?"

"Home. Sure—" despondently—"we'll return licked. You without your lilac jade. And I—oh—" bitterly—"the lousy failure I've always been. Can't be helped. Got to face the music."

"We haven't enough money," she reminded him. "Not even for steerage passage, after we've paid our hotel bills."

"I'm going to cable dad. I guess he'll come thru—for your sake if not for mine."

"And," she demanded, no longer nervous, but aroused, indignant, "do you think I'll let you?"

"Nothing else to be done."

"But . . ."

"Do you imagine I'd enjoy giving dad a chance to laugh at my expense, to rub it in as he's bound to do and . . . ?" He interrupted himself; repeated dully: "Nothing else to be done. For—don't you see, honey?—I've you to consider."

"Exactly. You've me to consider. That's why I won't let you cable. Not after the way I boasted about you to your father. Bragged how you'd make good with me as the incentive. Oh a fine incentive I've turned out to be!"

"Not your fault if . . ."

"Who said it was? Neither my fault nor yours."

"Then . . . ?"

"I'll not go home—defeated. I can't take it—even if you can." She paused; went on slowly: "You must not ask your father for money. If you do, I'll never forgive you. Never!"

Then, all at once, Tom laughed, "The Grand Old Man was right," he declared. "You are a red-hot sport. So red-hot you positively sizzle—like one of those steaks back home in New York—and I'll sizzle right along with you. Why"—with that trick of his, that artist's trick of suddenly shifting from black mood to white—"everything'll be hunky-dory. We've a little over six hundred rupees between us. Plenty to settle our hotel bill and last us for another three weeks at least. And something is sure to turn up. You can dance like a house afire. I can play half a dozen instruments. There are sure to be local managers, a local Broadway. One of them'll give us a break. And we'll be the sensation of Calcutta before we're thru. India's going to be our oyster — and," enthusiastically, "we're the kids to add the tabasco and the horseradish!"

"And," chimed in Lois, just as enthusiastically, "by that time Musa Bek will have had news and . . ."

"It's a cinch!"

They Reject Offer of Aid from Home

Tom looked up, as a khaki clad telegraph boy stepped up to him and inquired:

"Ferguson saheb?"

"That's me."

A blue envelope changed hands. Tom opened it; smiled; said to Lois:

"Speaking of coincidences . . ."

"Yes . . . ?"

"Listen!"

He read out the message:

"PERSON CALLING HIMSE[illegible] GRAND OLD MAN WIRES YOU AND LOIS BROKE STRANDED. HOW MUCH MONEY DO YOU WANT LOVE [signed] FATHER."

The telegraph boy had already reached the door.

"Wait!" Tom called. "There's an answer."

While Lois watched, he wrote rapidly:

"GRAND OLD MAN EXAGGERATES WE DOING SWELL LOVE [signed] TOM."

He paid the messenger, who left, and Lois said:

"I've decided that you're a scholar and a gent, darling!"

"So are you—without the gent!"

"Fact is—we're both all right."

"You bet! Anybody all righter than you and me?"

"No, darling!"

"Anybody better troupers?"

"No, darling!"

"Anybody more in love?"

"No, darling!"

He kissed her.

She said:

"Oh, be careful! The office door is open—d'Andrade can see us—"

"What do I care?" He paused. "How nice your hair smells. Like rain in April."

"Sure."

A silence.

"I wish you'd kiss me again, Tom. It's been years and years since you've kissed me."

"Like my kisses?"

"Crazy about them."

"May I kiss your left ear?"

"Just what I was going to suggest. You are so bright!"

"Freeman Ferguson's son!"

Another silence.

"Tom, my right ear is jealous."

"We'll fix it." He kissed her right ear. "How's that?"

"Lovely, darling. You—" she hesitated—"you have—oh—"

"What?"

"It!"

"Don't be a shameless little hussy!"

"All right."

"You're my sweetheart!"

"What a silly, silly fathead you are!"

"Nice way to address your future husband!"

He kissed her again.

"Tom," she cried, "your mouth!"

"What's wrong with it?"

"It's all over lip rouge!"

"I love the taste. Like toasted marshmallows mixed with strawberry jam."

"Silly, silly, silly fathead—"

So they talked. And they would have been less happy and gay and optimistic could they have looked over the shoulder of the hotel proprietor who, just then, was jotting down another fanciful item which, to vary the montony, he was charging to the account of Lois Winters.

"Towels," he wrote, maybe in memory of his nose and what had caused its painful swelling, "ten rupees . . ."

THE TRUTH ABOUT JIMMIE

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

(Copyright: 1940: By Elizabeth Jordan)

FOREWORD This is the poignant story of a boy who wanted a dad so much that he almost lost him, and a dad who nearly gave up the boy he longed to keep.

Clare Driscoll felt her heart pounding hard the next day while she and Jim waited in the asylum's reception room.

CLARE DRISCOLL looked at her husband's face as he settled into his big chair for their talk, and her heart sank. Jim was wearing what she called his "shuttered look." His face was as blank of expression as a closed house. She knew exactly what this meant. He wasn't going to oppose her wishes.

He had another look for that. He was simply going to let her go ahead and take full responsibility for her action, while he washed his hands of the whole affair. He didn't approve her plan, but neither did he like to oppose it. His love for her was the biggest thing in his life. Both he and she knew it.

The basic trouble, she reflected, was that Jim didn't really like children. He was rather selfish and fond of an ordered life. A child in the house might interfere with that. She was convinced that he had never shared nor understood her unhappiness over their failure to have children of their own after 10 years of marriage.

He was vitally interested in his law practice, intensely ambitious, and rapidly forging ahead. He was not smug, but she was sure he was content. From his viewpoint, which he had expressed in their two previous interviews on the subject they were taking up again this evening, the introduction of a third member into their home was a big risk—even when that third member was an adopted child.

"Mind, I'm not opposing you, Clare," he said. "I'm just advising you to be sure you're right before you go ahead. Once you've taken the kid it won't be easy to get rid of him, if you've made a mistake. Think that over."

"I've been thinking it over for two years," his wife said quietly, "and I've been watching the child all that time. If he were our own, Jim, he could hardly be more exactly what I want. He's lovely to look at but that isn't it—tho I adore beauty, as you know. It's his nature I love. He's so sweet, so affectionate, and so manly, if one can say that about a 6 year old. He's got good blood in him, I'm sure of that, and good brains back of him, and he's fearless.

"If he came into this room this minute he'd walk up to you, put his hands on your knees, and look at you with a smile that would show every tooth in his head. He'd take it for granted you were his friend. He thinks everybody is his friend. They all are, too, at the Foundling hospital. That is why they have kept him so long—since he was a baby. They've had dozens and dozens of offers to adopt him, but the whole staff is determined not to make a mistake about him. They won't let him go, they say, till exactly the right couple offers him exactly the right home."

"All right," he agreed—"if you're so determined to have him. Go to it—and luck be with you."

His wife shook her charming head.

"That won't do, Jim," she said quietly. "Much as I want Jimmie—I'm glad that's the name they gave him—I won't take him in unless you will share the responsibility. I can't offer him merely a home and a mother. I've got to offer him a father, too."

"O, Lord!" The ejaculation was almost a groan. Then meeting his wife's eyes, Jim Driscoll surrendered. "All right," he said again. "I can't fuss over him as you will, and I can't pretend what I don't feel. But I'll do my best."

"You'll have to come with me to get him, too," she reminded her husband.

Clare Driscoll felt her heart pounding hard the next day while she and Jim waited in the asylum's reception room. The youngster knew her so well that he would be at ease with her. But he had never met—had never even seen—her husband. She hoped, she almost prayed, that he would be on his best behavior. Jim must be on his best behavior, too. It would never do for Mother Angeline to get the idea that Mrs. Driscoll's husband was not keen on the adoption.

That adoption, however, was still in the future. Jimmie was to follow the usual procedure in foundling adoption. He was to come to the Driscolls for a visit. During this visit they could study him and he them, while the investigators from the asylum studied them both, Clare ironically told her husband. Jim, too, seemed suddenly conscious of an element of uncertainty in the situation.

Steps and a voice were heard in the hall, a child's steps and a child's voice. The next minute Jimmie entered the room, holding Mother Angeline's hand, hopping and skipping as he came. He was looking up at the superior's face, evidently waiting for an answer to a question he had just asked; but as he crossed the threshold and caught sight of the two silent figures his small face grew sober.

Clare and her husband rose to greet the superior. In response to her invitation they sat down again. The boy left the nun's side and went to Clare, standing directly in front of her, but looking past her at her husband with big solemn eyes. She put her hands on his shoulders, drew him closer to her, and kissed him.

"Hello, darling," she said cheerfully. "But what's the matter? Why are you so serious today?"

Incredibly, the small boy did not reply. He turned partly away from her, rested against her knees, and kept a long unwinking stare on Driscoll's face. Jim stared back. The boy was a beautiful little creature, large for his age, perfectly formed, and with short, bobbing, yellow curls that seemed to catch all the light in the big, bare room. He stood absolutely motionless, hardly seeming to breathe; but now he was looking the big man over from the top of his crisp, reddish hair to the tips of his shining shoes.

"I don't know what's the matter with him today," Mother Angeline said comfortably. "He's lost his tongue. But it's nothing serious. Perhaps the other children have been talking to him and frightening him. You would hardly believe the stuff our children get into their heads when they're going on 'visits.' We never know where it comes from."

Jimmie Proves to Be Unlike Himself

Clare had brought some toys with her—a brilliant singing top, a colored ball. Her hope had been that Jimmie would sit down and play with them for a few moments, and that she and Jim could watch him while they talked to the superior. But that hope died now. Jimmie seemed paralyzed—struck dumb. Clare turned to Mother Angeline.

"He's so unlike himself," she said anxiously. "Hadn't we better take him right away? He'll enjoy the ride thru the streets, and perhaps my husband can get acquainted with him in the automobile."

"He's all ready to go," the superior agreed. "You see he's wearing the new clothes you sent him."

Driscoll spoke for the first time. He was vaguely uneasy under the boy's continued stare.

"Well, old chap," he said with forced heartiness. "What do you think of us? Ready to come along and visit us?"

The boy merely nodded. He was shaking a little, as if with a slight chill. Clare was discussing some last minute details with the superior. Her husband shrugged and turned away. He could make nothing of the youngster. That shaking looked like fright, but it was probably excessive shyness. Clare turned and looked at the small boy. There was a definite tension in the little group.

"Come and get your hat and coat on, Jimmie," she said affectionately. But she was half sick with disappointment. What would Jim think of this little automaton? Still the boy did not speak, but he walked slowly to her and took her hand.

"The streets will interest him," Clare predicted, and added with appeal in her voice, "Won't they, Jimmie? You will like to ride thru the streets in an automobile and see the crowds of people, won't you?"

Jimmie did not even turn to look at her. He still stared silently at the man, who grinned helplessly under the inspection. Mother Angeline was briskly explaining that Jimmie had said all his farewells to his small friends, who knew he was going away "for a visit." There was nothing to do but put on his cap and coat and get him into the car. Clare spoke with sudden relief.

"That's it," she cried. "He's homesick, or he may think he's going to be. But you won't be, Jimmie," she added eagerly. "We don't live right in the city. We're outside of it, and we have a big garden to play in, and an orchard with a brook in it to sail boats on, and chickens and a cow. And there are two jolly little boy neighbors for you to play with. I'm sure you will like it very much."

Jimmie did not seem to hear her. His eyes were following Driscoll, who was now stepping back to let Mother Angeline and his wife precede him out of the room.

"Come along, old man," Jim said, and held out a friendly hand. Jimmie did not touch it. He took his place beside the man, however, and walked silently down the corridor to the room that held his cap and coat. His eyes had a strange look—brilliant and excited. He kissed Mother Angeline but did not cling to her or even seem to realize that this was a parting.

At the curb Driscoll helped his wife into the rear seat of the big seven passenger sedan and swung Jimmie in beside her. For a moment he hesitated, as if tempted to take a seat beside the chauffeur. Then he jumped into the tonneau and sat down beside the little boy, who was now staring speechlessly before him.

The drive home seemed a failure. Jimmie hardly glanced out of the window. Even when Jim said kindly, "You'll be driving a big car like this yourself some day," he did not respond. Clare laughed, but there was a lump in her throat.

"The poor little tadpole is cooking his goose as fast as he can," she told herself. "And it's tragic. First impressions mean so much, especially with Jim."

There was no doubt about Jim's impressions. Almost as soon as they were in the house he slipped away to his study and smoke room and buried himself there with the evening newspapers. As the door of the living room closed behind him Jimmie reverted to the child Clare had known and had learned to love. He ran over to her, caught her hand and tried to pull her toward the door.

"Want to see the brook," he firmly announced. "Want to see the chickens an' the cow!"

Driscoll Wonders What's the Matter with Him

Clare was both relieved and exasperated. Here he was, all smiles, dimples and dancing feet, pulling her toward the door, pouring out a torrent of excited words, asking questions faster than she could answer them, even making some belated comments on the drive.

"I saw a bridge," he remarked. "I saw a river with boats on it. Where's the brook?"

Looking thru his study window a little later Jim saw the absorbed pair headed first for the chicken-run and then for the brook. Jimmie ran, skipped, jumped. Driscoll watched the boy with a puzzled frown. The youngster certainly showed now the pep Clare had always found in him. He raced between chicken-run and barn, and barn and orchard and brook, returning at intervals, incoherent with excitement, to ask questions or make comments. His cap had fallen off, and every yellow curl on his head seemed standing on end. His eyes blazed and his cheeks were scarlet in the cool October air.

Watching him, Jim Driscoll dazedly shook his head. Then, on a sudden impulse, he got up and strolled out of the house to join the two. Perhaps Jimmie had got over his shyness. But his arrival silenced the small guest. The child retired into himself and took refuge with Clare, clinging to her hand but lurking behind her skirts. At first the man ignored the change in him and strolled along beside his wife, chatting casually.

"I think we'll put Jimmie in charge of the chickens," he told her. "He can help John to feed them, and find the eggs." He turned and spoke directly to the boy.

"You'll be surprised to see how clever chickens are about hiding their eggs," he told Jimmie. "You'll have to hunt all over the place. They'll play hide-and-seek with you."

But tho the chickens had plainly fascinated Jimmie from the first, the subject of them failed to interest him now.

"He's uncanny," Jim Driscoll told his wife that night when the child was sound asleep at last in the combined bedroom and playroom Clare had planned for him so lovingly. "He makes me feel queer," Jim went on. "He's merry as a grig when he's alone with you. The trouble is with me. The minute I appear he shuts up like a clam. He watches me with fascinated interest, as if he expected me to turn into an ogre the next minute. And yet—well, I don't know what to make of him."

"Give him time," Clare said comfortably. She was more optimistic since the boy had at least accepted her again. "He has known me two years. He has never even seen you before, and you're so big and powerful looking you're very impressive. Let him get used to you. In a few days he will be as much at home with you as he is with me."

But he wasn't, and Clare had to admit it as time passed. In every other respect young Jimmie was all she had been sure he would be. When he was alone, or with her, he was utterly happy. From the first he had shown no home sickness or loneliness. In a week he was as familiar with the Driscoll house and grounds as if he had always lived there. He took to the brook like a duck. He knew and loved every chicken in the poultry yard. He became the faithful shadow of John, the Driscolls' man of all work. He was devoted to John, was wholly at his ease with John, talked as freely with John as with Clare. He showed himself an ideal "mixer" in his association with his two small neighbors. He responded with enthusiasm to the advances of the cook, of the delivery boys who came to the house, and of his grownup neighbors. There seemed only one person from whom he shut himself away. That was Driscoll.

The effect on the man was what Clare had feared. Jim had played fair. She could not deny that from the first he had given the boy every chance to know and like him. He had been patient, considerate, and kind.

But from the moment Jim was in his presence until he left it the child became a stranger. He accepted Jim's toys. He was enchanted with them. He played with them all day. He breathlessly mumbled "Yes, sir," or "No, sir" when Driscoll directly addressed him. He said nothing else. At the breakfast table he ate his cereal and eggs and drank his milk in silence, staring at his host. And the moment Driscoll left the house and the front door slammed after his exit Jimmie reverted to a high spirited, lively, enchanting little boy, and remained so till Driscoll returned at night.

Clare was at her wits' end. For days she held staunchly to her theory that the boy would become used to the big, kind, cheerful man. But as time passed Jim ceased to be cheerful in the child's presence. Clare followed with deep foreboding a slow but definite change in him. He made no explanation to her, but he began to avoid the boy. Clare ignored this, but her heart grew heavier with each day.

Clare Determines to Make New Effort

The experiment was a failure. It would break her heart to return Jimmie to the asylum, but his presence was becoming an obvious irritation to her husband, was actually destroying for Driscoll the happiness of his home. That could not be allowed. Jimmie must go. Clare forced herself to admit as much to her husband. Jim swung away from her with the impatience even a reference to the child now caused him.

"I don't want the kid to lose his home," he muttered, but added in a rougher tone than he had ever used to his wife before, "just keep him out of my way. That's all I ask. The truth is that I'm beginning to dislike him as much as he dislikes me. Sorry, but there it is!"

Clare's heart sank like a swiftly dropping elevator.

"But, Jim, he doesn't," she almost wailed. "He can't. Nobody could dislike you." She was almost in tears. "But—he can't be allowed to annoy you," she went on. "This was just a visit. I'll see Mother Angeline and tell her we'll bring him back the end of the month."

Driscoll looked at her in silence for a long moment, knowing what the words had cost her.

"Don't do that," he said at last. "Give him another month—but for God's sake," he added fiercely, "keep us apart. I can't stand the way he watches me!"

Clare arranged to have Jimmie's breakfast served before Jim came downstairs in the morning. Then she sent the boy out of the house on small errands, such as egg hunting and the like. Before this he had always obeyed her instantly and implicitly. Now he hesitated, and hung around the house. When she sent him out he lurked in the shadow of a clump of lilac bushes near the entrance till Jim left, and watched him go. Twice Clare saw Jimmie outside of the dining room window, staring in as she and her husband ate their breakfast together. The child always had his supper at 5 o'clock. No complication there! But whenever Jim was in the house the boy hovered in the halls, where he could watch him as he came and went. That, too, made Driscoll nervous and irritable. The situation became unbearable.

Clare accepted it as hopeless at last, and nerved herself for the visit to Mother Angeline. She put the case before the superior simply but fully, and Mother Angeline nodded.

"He has some sort of inhibition about fathers," she said regretfully at the end of the story. "I didn't tell you about it, for I didn't think it would last. I was sure Mr. Driscoll could win him over. But this condition seems to be serious. Perhaps it's prenatal or perhaps he has some childish, fearsome memories of his own father. Whatever it is," the nun added sadly, "he never would stay in the room with any child whose father came to see him. He'd go off and hide! He always did that. He even runs away every visitors' day. Sometimes it takes hours to find him."

Clare Driscoll sighed wretchedly.

"That makes it seem utterly hopeless," she summed up. "There's just one more plan I've thought of. I'm going to ask my husband to let me try it. Jim may feel less strongly when he knows that it's ALL fathers Jimmie objects to. It's not personal. My idea is to take little Willie Desmond back with me for a visit. He was Jimmie's best pal here, wasn't he?"

"He was, even tho he has a father that comes to see him every Sunday," Mother Angeline confessed. "The father and son are devoted. We've had Willie ever since his mother died, for the father had no one else to take care of him. He's taking Willie home in another year or so, as soon as he's old enough. But Jimmie won't stand Mr. Desmond, either," she added with a sigh. "We couldn't get him inside the visitors' wing on Sundays when Willie's father was here, or any other father."

"That's all right," Clare decided briskly. "He won't have to see Willie's father. What I want him to see is Willie and my husband together. They'll surely hit it off, and perhaps Jimmie may be influenced by that. Anyway, it's the only plan I've thought of that I haven't tried. May I take Willie home with me now for the week-end? Thank you. But don't let Mr. Desmond come to see us Sunday," she added with a choked laugh.

Willie Desmond was an excited and thrilled little leader of what Clare drearily felt was a lost cause. But she could not send Jimmie back to the asylum without giving him and herself one more chance. She watched with sympathy the rapturous reunion of the two small boys.

Jimmie was so proudly proprietary as he gave Willie an idea of the wonders of the Driscoll place! Now, as she stood in the lower hall, the transom over his bedroom door was open, and her heart lightened as she listened to the laughter and the excited voices of the children.

"If Jim heard Jimmie now he wouldn't think the child was a little wooden image," she told herself. Even as the thought crossed her mind she heard Jim's step on the veranda, followed by the sound of his latch key in the front door. The next moment he was in the hall. Impulsively she caught him by the hand and drew him up the staircase.

"Jimmie has a guest today," she whispered as they went, "a little boy from the asylum. The two are wonderful together. I want you to stand outside the door and listen to them a minute, just for fun."

Jim didn't think much of the idea. She saw that. But he humored her as he usually did, tho his expression was unresponsive. On the second floor they tiptoed along the hall to the door of Jimmie's room and stood silent, listening. Willie's excited voice rose first.

"Gee," he shouted, "you got an engine with a track! Does it go?"

"Course it goes. My daddy gave it to me. He wouldn't give me any engine that wouldn't go!"

Willie seemed to be examining something else.

"Some top," he breathed.

"It plays music when you spin it," Jimmie explained. "My daddy gave me that, too. My daddy gives me everything I want. He gave me my velocipede. Some day he's going to give me a puppy!"

In the dim hallway Clare and Jim Driscoll exchanged looks of amazement. Clare's face brightened, Jim's was almost grotesquely puzzled. It was not so much the words that astonished them. It was the pride and delight with which Jimmie brought out those words. He had never called Driscoll "daddy." He had never called him anything at all. But his voice had held the triumph of a young rooster's crow on that reiterated "my daddy."

Jim didn't wait to hear any more. He started downstairs, and Clare reluctantly followed him.

"It isn't fair to stay there and listen," Jim pointed out. He added with a grin, "We might hear something we didn't like!" The amazement on his face had been succeeded by a look of deep thought. He seemed trying to figure something out. Willie's voice was following them downstairs.

"Can I see your daddy, Jimmie?"

Jimmie's reply was lofty.

"P'raps, if I let you!"

"What do you make of it?" Clare asked the question when they were in the downstairs hall again, and added impulsively, "Let's go out in the garden. I want to talk this over."

While they were strolling up and down the paths, with red and yellow autumn leaves drifting down on them in the light October breeze, Clare repeated her question. "Jim, what do you make of what Jimmie said? It certainly doesn't sound as if he had an inhibition against fathers!"

But Jim was no longer impressed. He had thought out the answer.

"He's just showing off," he said indifferently. "All kids do that. He's making Willie's eyes stick out."

He stopped. He had discovered that the two little boys were also in the garden. They must have slipped down the back staircase, for they were standing beside the big swing Clare had ordered put up for Jimmie near the kitchen door. It was a fine swing, suspended from the branches of a splendid evergreen, but Willie was not looking at it.

"Here comes your daddy!" he excitedly announced. He turned to Jimmie, plainly expecting him to run to meet the big man walking toward them, but the boy hung back. Driscoll and Clare swung along the path, reached the youngsters, and stood smiling down at them.

"Hello," said Driscoll hospitably. "Is this the visitor?"

An Onslaught Hits the Little Visitor

As Jimmie was again tongue tied, Driscoll held out his hand. The small guest grasped it quickly, looking up with every tooth revealed in an ecstatic grin.

"Hello, Mr. Driscoll," Willie said. "I like this place! I'm having a dandy time!"

"Glad of that, old man. Make yourself at home."

Jim returned the youngster's grin. Here was a boy that was a boy. It wouldn't be hard to have him around—so cheerful, so friendly.

"It's an awful nice place," Willie testified.

It was a pretty tableau, that of the smiling man and the happy small boy, but it did not last. Something came thru the air like a thunderbolt and hurled itself on Willie. The onslaught was so violent and so unexpected that the visitor went down under it, Jimmie on top of him. There was a mass of flying legs and arms, from the midst of which Jimmie's voice cried out frantically.

"You let my daddy alone," he roared. "He's my daddy! He isn't your daddy. You've got your own daddy. You go right straight home!"

The childish voice was actually frenzied. What they could see of Jimmie's small face was crimson and distorted. This tableau, too, lasted only a few seconds. As he howled Jimmie had been pommeling his prostrate chum with all the strength of his small fists, but now Driscoll came to the rescue. He separated the boys, jerked them to their feet, and holding them apart by their collars started to speak. But Jimmie was still shouting. All his remoteness was gone. He put both his arms around Driscoll's left leg, and held on with desperation.

"You are my daddy," he wailed. "Ain't you my daddy? I never had a daddy before, and he had. His daddy comes every Sunday and takes him to the park. He can't have my daddy, too. He can't! He can't!"

Very gently Jim Driscoll released his leg from those frantic little arms.

"Of course I'm your daddy," he said cheerfully. "Of course he can't have me. He doesn't want to, either. Do you, Willie? He was just being polite because he's visiting you. That's right, isn't it?"

Willie said it was. He, too, was crying now, from fright and pain and excitement. There was blood on his nose. Jim took out his handkerchief and wiped it off.

"You'd better take them into the washroom and give them both a polish," he told his wife while Willie bent to rub the gravel out of his bare knees. "After they're clean again I'll have a little chat with 'em in my study and see if we can get to the bottom of this."

"I could have explained all this to you before Jimmie left the asylum if I'd been asked," Dr. Clark said in a long talk with Driscoll later that night when both boys were in bed and asleep. "All his life Jimmie has wanted a daddy. Perhaps there were too many women around him, but the thing goes a whole lot deeper than that. He longed for a daddy as some kids long for a puppy or a pony. When he was three he began to pray for one. Then he stopped. He was afraid to ask for one for fear he wouldn't get it. He wouldn't speak of daddies after that or be talked to about them.

"A lot of the other boys had fathers who came to see them. From the time Jimmie was three no inducement could get him within hailing distance of any of those daddies. On guest days he simply disappeared. It wasn't because he hated men, as Mother Angeline thought. It was because he could not endure the misery of seeing other boys happy with their daddies when he had none. He had a hiding place at the asylum on guest days. No one could ever find him till visiting hours were over and all the daddies were gone."

"But——" Driscoll was still confused. "I don't understand yet. If he wanted a daddy so much, you'd think he would have been tickled to have one."

Dr. Clark nodded.

"So he was," he agreed. "That's just the trouble. He was tickled, far too much so. It simply paralyzed him. He couldn't believe it was true—he didn't dare to. He was afraid you'd vanish into thin air. The experience threw him into a nervous condition that made it impossible for him to be himself with you. That doesn't mean there's anything wrong with the boy. He's perfectly normal and brighter than most. He would have straightened out in time—probably in a few weeks more. Willie's visit brought things to a head. Jimmie got the idea that Willie might be coming to you to live, that he himself might lose you or have to divide you with the other boy. He went down under it. He's had a big nervous shock. I thought I'd never get him quieted. But he's all right now. You'll find there are no walls up between you hereafter."

The Puzzled Boy's Attitude Is Solved

Driscoll stared at him thoughtfully.

"I suppose all this is some new psychology stuff," he said slowly. "But what does it boil down to? Does it mean that the kid really likes me?"

Dr. Clark laughed.

"Boiled down," he said, "it means that the youngster simply worships you. You are his dream come true. You're what he has been begging and hoping and praying for all his little life. Probably that won't last. In time he may take you as a matter of course. But he will always love you. And just now if you sent him back to the asylum I wouldn't answer for the consequences."

"Good Lord, man, who said anything about sending him back to the asylum?" Driscoll jerked out the question in amazed disgust. "He's here to stay. I wouldn't take a million for him," he added on a quick breath. "You see," he went on more slowly, "I'm in something of young Jimmie's position myself. My wife thinks I don't like kids. As a matter of fact I've always liked 'em a whole lot. As we didn't have any I put up a bluff and pretended not to. I wasn't sure an adopted one would do, and when one came it was a bit of a facer to think a kid hated me! But now that young Jimmie and I understand each other——"

The doctor gave him a deep look.

"Then see that you do understand each other. Tell him again tomorrow that you're his daddy. Tell him in a cheerful, off-hand way, but see that he gets it. Tell him to call you 'daddy!'"

"He'll understand, all right," said Jim Driscoll. He grinned at Clare, who had followed the talk with shining eyes.

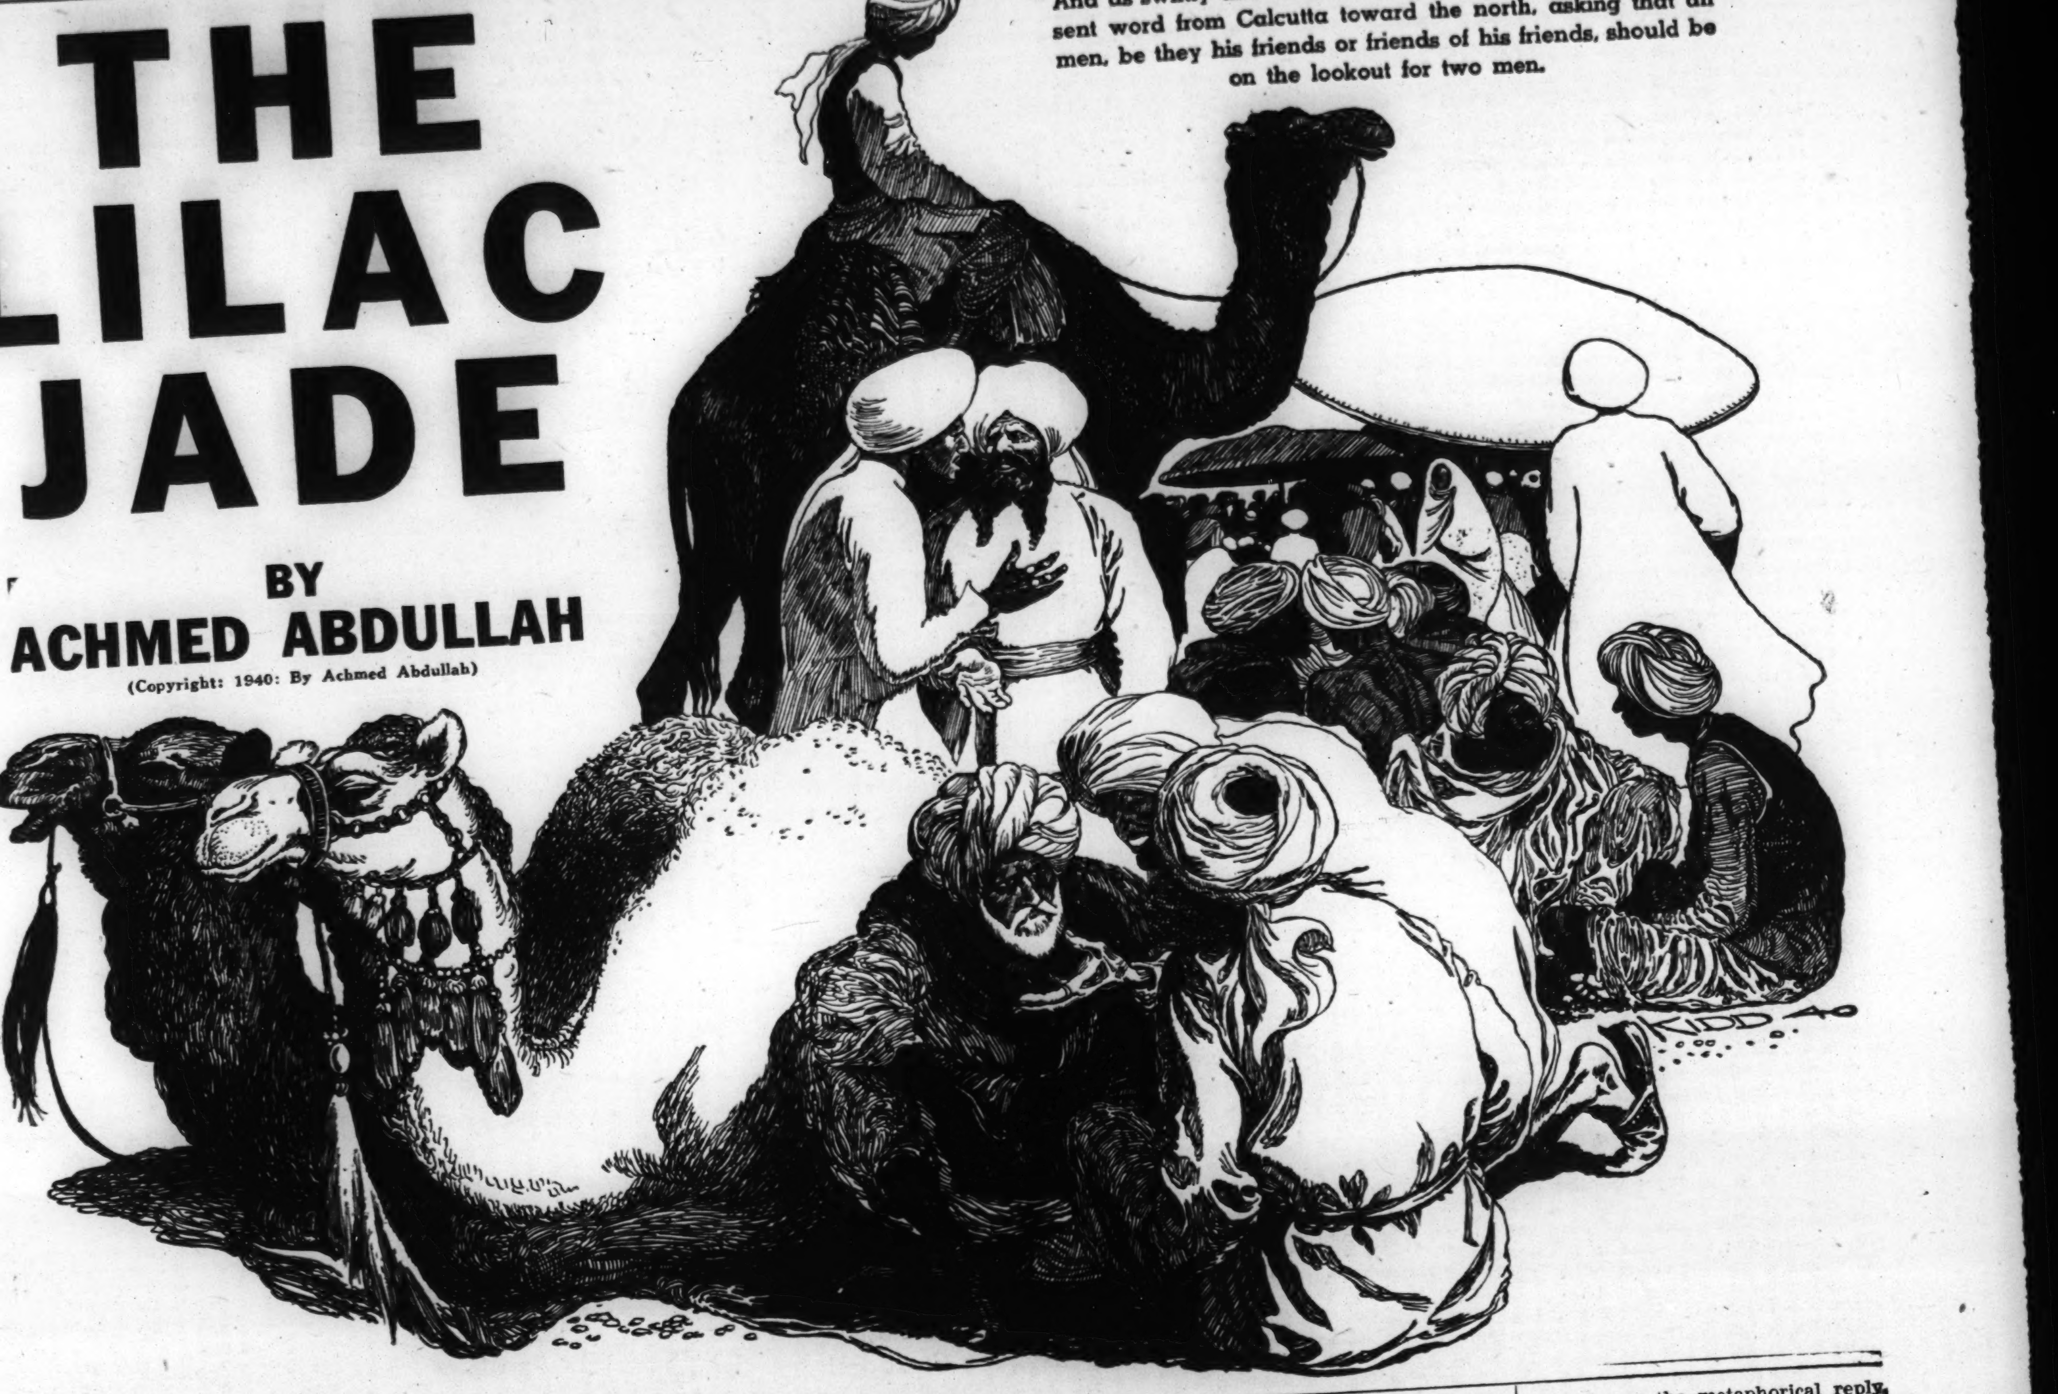
"Now, if you don't get jealous," he teased, "we'll be a happy family!"

Something came thru the air like a thunderbolt and hurled itself on Willie. The onslaught was so violent and so unexpected that the visitor went down under it.

THE LILAC JADE

BY ACHMED ABDULLAH

(Copyright: 1940: By Achmed Abdullah)



And as swiftly and more secretively, from mouth to mouth, sent word from Calcutta toward the north, asking that all men, be they his friends or friends of his friends, should be on the lookout for two men.

What Has Gone Before

Lois Winters is a dancer in the Bombay Club in New York and does a specialty number of a dance she learned as a child in Chinese Turkestan. Bradford, an Englishman, who was her father's partner, has been trailing her for some time in search of the lilac jade which her father gave her when he was dying, saying it meant untold riches. He learns she is at the Bombay Club, and he, accompanied by Mehmet, an Asiatic, goes there to be sure she is the same girl. That same night Freeman D. Ferguson, automobile magnate, goes to the club intent on making his son Tom give up his job as violinist at the club and return home to the automobile business. He learns that Tom is in love with Lois and tries in vain to break up the romance and Tom's musical career. Lois wins him over, tho, and promises not to marry Tom until he makes good on his own. By faking a telephone message, preventing Tom from accompanying Lois home, Bradford and Mehmet succeed in getting into Lois' apartment and, after they drug her, steal the lilac jade. Tom puts a detective on them, only to find they have fled to Calcutta. Lois and Tom see an advertisment for an actress and a musician wanted for a traveling show going to India. They decide that is a good way to trail Bradford, so they sign up with the show. Ben Einstein owns the company, but Yvonne Fleury, his dominating wife, supplies the capital. She resents the youth and romance of Lois and Tom. They arrive in Calcutta, and while Lois and Tom are taking in the sights they run into a merchant who seems overjoyed to see Lois, and she recognizes him as Musa Bek, an old family servant.

INSTALMENT V.

THEY talked in Tartar; in the language which, as a baby, Lois had heard from the lips of this man who, for many years, had been her father's confidential servant and whose wife, Habeebah, had been her nurse. He told her that he, too, had left Chinese Turkestan when the revolution had swept over the border; had drifted here and there and everywhere and had finally settled in India.

"Wah——" Musa Bek went on—"a devil's devising of a land where the unclean Hindus—bless them not the Lord Allah!—worship a monkey and a flower." He spat vastly, contemptuously. "And still—better than home was in those days, with the Bolshevists, the enemies of God, riding with steel and flame across city and country, across the fallow and the sown." He paused. "And you, little star," he asked, "what are you doing here? I thought you had returned to your own country?"

"O, yes, I had. But——"

Lois hesitated.

Should she tell him?

Lois Decides to Trust Her Tartar Friend

She turned to Tom who stood there feeling rather out of it, and explained to him in a few words what had happened.

"Shall I tell him?"

"Think he's trustworthy?"

"O"—indignantly—"I'd stake my life on him!"

"Then why not tell him? He may know something about Knox Bradford and the other chap."

"Yes. Besides—I guess it's because I spent most of my life among Moslems—I believe in fate. Fate—as the Tartars say—like a blind camel that comes out of the dark, with no warning, no jingling of bells. Such a queer fate which brought us together here, in this bazaar—us and Musa Bek——" She addressed the latter: "Some day," she said, pointing at Tom, "I shall marry this young saheb."

"Where can we talk quietly?" she demanded, glancing at the Hindus who crowded about curiously, whispering, speculating, gossiping, asking questions.

"Come to my house. It is just around the corner," he replied. He closed his bazaar booth with heavy wooden shutters; led the way to a small, neat dwelling, a few blocks away. "By the crimson pig's bristles," he exclaimed as he dropped the door knocker, "but my wife will be the happy, happy woman when she beholds your shining face!"

Indeed when they had crossed the threshold, Habeebah's welcome was exuberant. She hugged Lois to her breast with all the strength of her withered old arms, hot tears streaming down her haggard, furrowed cheeks and her language becoming more and more extravagant the harder she wept.

"Ullah karim!" she cried. "Long, long has my old heart mourned for the coming of your narrow, white feet, oh, moon of deliciousness! Wah, wah, wah—Allah's heaven is fulfilled in your sweet body, child, in your sweet soul!" Here a rapid succession of tiny, birdlike kisses. "And your voice—" tho, so far, Lois had had no chance of opening her mouth—"is like the summer mirth of ripening rice!"

"What's the old girl saying?" asked Tom, enjoying every last second of the exotic scene—and, just then, Habeebah turned to him and addressed him with words which once more, as with Musa Bek's a while earlier, Lois had to interpret.

"Tartars," she explained, when Tom insisted on knowing, "are rather indiscreet in their praise. And they don't exactly suffer from shame—false or otherwise—"

"Food!" interrupted Habeebah. "You must have food, O soul of my soul!"

"I'm not hungry."

"You look starved—" severely—"as starved as a yearling dromedary in famine time! Men—real men—" with a look at Tom—"do not like bones. Sound, round flesh they like. Therefore—you must eat."

She rushed out, and, a few moments later, could be heard in the kitchen, dragooning the servant in a mixture of Hindustani and Tartar.

"Away!" she yelled. "Away with you to the cook pots, the stew pots, the sauce pots! The turmeric—where is the turmeric, in the name of eleven thousand first class devils? Nak na kan, bali ke arman—even such a fool you are, oh creature of unthinkable begetting—like the noseless and earless one who yet desires nose and earrings! Ah—subhan Ullah!"—the exclamation mark being supplied by the sound of her hand coming into violent contact with a solid posterior.

There was a whining, sniffling, indistinct reply, and once more Habeebah's shrill admonitions:

"The Persian sweetmeats—the pink ones and the blue ones, not to forget the green ones—unless you've gobbled them yourself, oh perfectly useless! And the red Lahore chutney! And a bottle of brandy for the foreign lord who walks by my lady's side as a lance rides next to a sword! And spare not the spices, O shameless daughter of a skillet!"

A Prodigal's Return Feted with a Meal

Musa Bek winked at Lois, who laughed.

"That's her way of welcoming those she loves," she said to Tom. "With food."

"The prodigal's return," he replied. "Have a heart and ask her to soft pedal on the garlic when it comes to the stuffing of the fatted calf."

While they were waiting for their impromptu supper, Lois related to Musa Bek what had happened to her since she had left Chinese Turkestan.

The other listened closely. He remembered the old Buddhist priest whom her father had nursed back to health.

"Ugyen Garyo was his name," he said. "A most saintly man, tho a Buddhist—Allah's curse on all unbelievers!—and, later on, he returned to his monastery, in Tibet, at Yai Doebe, where he was ruling abbot."

But—a piece of lilac jade which Ugyen Garyo had given to Lois' father?

No. Musa Bek had never heard of it.

On the other hand, he knew a great deal of Knox Bradford and expressed his views about the Englishman in picaresque and vitriolic language:

"He and your father—on whose soul peace and the many blessings!—were partners. Partners until your father caught him cheating. Ah—the thief! The leprous dog! May Shaitan, the devil, the justly stoned, cut out his stinking, treacherous heart and feed it to seven mangy pigs—thereby causing them to die of poisoning!"

"What about Mehmet Ertrogrul?"

"Him, too, I knew."

Unfavorably, it appeared.

For if his language had been unflattering as to the Englishman's character, ancestry, morals and personal habits, it reached epic heights in regard to Musa Bek's princely countryman.

"The uncouth nephew of a camel he is!" he wound up magnificently. "The grandson of an obscene wart on a red necked carrion culture's beak! Ah—may dogs and Armenians defile his mother's grave! May his soul, in the hereafter, sizzle in the lowest hall of perdition!" He paused for breath. "He and the English pig," he went on, "they stole this jade from you? Came here to Calcutta?"

"Weeks ago. That much we know. That's why we followed. But—where did they go from here?"

"The snake back to the cactus hedge," was the metaphorical reply, "the cur back to the dung heap."

"Oh—you think that—?"

"Indeed. His own country, Turkestan. Where else would Mehmet go—and with him the Englishman?"

"That's what we feared. And," despondently, "Turkestan is so large. We'll never be able to find them."

Musa Bek smiled.

"The Lord," he said, "does not close one door without opening another."

"How can we find this other?"

"I'll show you the way."

"O . . . ?"

"Gheel ke ghut, mas ke dher," the Tartar quoted the ancient proverb—"there is always meat in the kite's nest."

"Meaning . . . ?"

"Meaning that we Tartars always get what we are after, as the kite always gets meat."

"I am not a Tartar," laughed Lois.

By Word of Mouth a Message Goes Out

"Don't let my wife hear that—she, who nourished you with her own milk!" He laughed, too; went on: "Have the sahebs their telephone, their telegraph, their railroads and airplanes and all their other devil machines? Allah—" triumphantly—"we, also, have means, as fast and as sure, to conquer space and time, to send messages and receive messages. For there is always gossip, eh . . . ? Gossip in the bazaars, the mosques, the caravanserais, the coffee houses, the open road. Gossip that, belike, flies more swiftly than words along the saheb-log's copper wires. There is, furthermore," he coughed discreetly, lowered his voice, "a certain lodge of the true faith to which I belong. And so I shall ask questions here and there—and whatever I find out, I shall let you know. Where do you live, child?"

She told him; and as, just then, Habeebah brought in the smoking supper, he stroked his beard and smacked his lips.

"Ullah bismillah!" he exclaimed piously. "Now let us praise the Lord God the One for His manifold bounties—chiefly mutton richly seasoned and served with eggplant!" He squatted down before the low tabouret; indicated places for his guests. "Come! Stretch out your hands and eat your fill!"

And, to show the other great honor after the manner of the Tartars, he plunged his arm wrist-deep into the

Clotilde Children's Patterns

There are certain styles that always are flattering to, and appropriate for, the undeveloped figures of growing girls, and the princess frock is one of the most important of them. This pattern fashions two versions, one strictly tailored and the other quite dressy, altho simple. Sketched at the left is a model that makes up superbly in printed silks and cottons. Buttons are used in trios all the way down the front, and the short kimono sleeves are edged with lace, plaiting or ruffling, whichever you choose. There's a sash to extend from side seams around the back, if you wish.

Sketched at the right, a tailored model with girlish collar and cuffs to match. The plump pockets, too, are contrastingly adorned. The buttons are in a single row and there's no sash or belt unless you especially desire one. This model makes up well in all types of inexpensive cottons.

Style No. 3309 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for cape-sleeved, collarless version; 2¼ yards and ⅜ yard of contrasting for dress with puffed sleeves and collar.

Address orders for Clotilde Children's Fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Sheers Provide Fortification Against Heat

By Rea Seeger.

Cool black sheers are the comfort fortifications against a sultry summer season. Such flattering blacks are the summer daytime uniform for those of us who stay in town, as well as the necessary outfits for the out-of-towners in for a day or week. Tailored or frilled in a beguilingly feminine manner, smart black sheers have earned their firm regard in the affections of the appreciative clothes collector, because they always look fresh and smart. Despite heat waves, sticky humidity, and hours of wear, the high fashion black sheers are the triumphs of understanding designers.

Many transparent materials are used, tucked and plain chiffons, slightly stiffened organdies, and their snootier relations, marganza, organza, and the like. These fashion the more feminized versions of what to wear for afternoon, late dinner, and dancing or cocktail hours. Tailored affairs of the same stuff make telling costumes of short jacket and smoothly cut underdress.

The long coat and companion dress idea is another winner in thin, cool black. Thin summer silks such as shantung, China silk, plumskin thin crêpe, and even the extremely thin homespun weaves are used for office dresses, street suits, and the inevitable daytime dress in sleek, long outlines. Simplicity with great distinction is emphasized in all these numerous models for general purposes. Georgette, ninon, coarse cable net, marquisette, fine net, and novelty mixtures, as well as lace in simple, allover designs, are 1940 materials you'll welcome.

Self-ribbed sheers that give the finished effect of being tucked also are prize winning finds. Drop stitch effects, machine fagoting in wide bands, black lace insertions of either handsome, coarse lace or the many delicate patterns, are still other buying possibilities. Two combines of materials, such as net with organdy, plain sheer with tucked sheer, silk with net, or silk with organdy, make for abundant choice. Gold and silver buttons, contrasting white, and the delicacy of pastel tinted pearl ball buttons play a big part in the decoration schemes, whether such buttons are moored to tailored models for daytime, or are on the fragile looking, effective afternoon or dress parade dresses and costumes.

While most of the sheers are in black, plenty of navy blue, dark brown, cypress green and subtle shades of Quaker gray also are obtainable in similar models. All are ready for the cooling accents of dull white in hat, gloves, bag, and belt. Black linen or gabardine footgear, matched to capacious bags of the same material, completes such city costumes for a torrid day. Big, floppy cartwheels of straw or linen, small flowered turbans, and sophisticated turbans of white wound in intricate swirls are the summer top frosting for such successful costumes, if they are of striking white.

Airy linens used for tailored dresses have been specially processed to avoid wrinkling, undue wilting, and the chore of too much pressing. All the summer sheers are here, and there's not a dull, stodgy model in any showing. Sketched are five new arrivals showing the way of sheer black for flattery and impeccable grooming, all for a summer day.

X-Ray Inspection.

An X-ray machine can inspect products such as cereals, bakery goods, dried fruits, meats, frozen fruits, coffee, and candies that have been packaged in cardboard, cellophane, or thin wooden containers.

HARPER METHOD

Thru the Looking Glass

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

In the manner of a summer blessing a fine French perfume house offers some toilet waters in a smaller size bottle. It's a skillful way to use a lighter version of your favorite scent without being overperfumed.

In an undefinable, almost magical way, the subtle use of the right perfume can endow a woman with a distinction that sets her apart from other women.

To find the right perfume, the woman who studies the details of grooming uses her own personality as her guide. She selects a perfume and experiments with it. She finds out how it blends with her skin and tests its wearing qualities. She searches for the kind that pleases her from the time it is put on until it has evaporated. If it suits her, she cultivates it until it becomes identified with her. The fragrance becomes as much a part of her as her eyes or her hair. She may discover she has a dual personality, in which case she chooses a couple of scents, one for daytime wear and another for the evening hours. Above all, she uses it with discretion.

One of the skillful ways to do this is to use a lighter version of a favorite scent, a toilet water.

In the guise of a summer blessing, a fine French perfume house has brought out a smaller size bottle of its excellent toilet water. We say summer blessing, because this is the time that toilet water becomes most popular. The heat of the body heightens the scent of a perfume, and toilet water, being less concentrated, is preferred by many women who want to use a more delicate interpretation of their favorite perfume. They feel there is less risk of being overperfumed.

This toilet water is offered in eight fragrances, all fine perfumes with established reputations. They include one long famous as a glamor scent, and one for your "prettiest" hours. There are a couple of bouquets, one a modern floral, and one that's sophisticated and provocative. An elusive, oriental blend competes with a mysterious scent, and an airy, romantic fragrance with one of balmy freshness.

The thin, graceful flacon is a copy of the larger bottle, and an atomizer top is included in the package.

FLORENCE MURDOCH.

For information about this toilet water, telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0200. Please inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply by mail.

Women thrilled to LOSE WEIGHT without following strict diet lists, or taking exercises or drugs.

FROM coast-to-coast, you now hear women singing the praises of a surprisingly easy, pleasant method to reduce. A method which Dr. Damrau of New York demonstrated in tests among a group of intelligent and cooperative people who followed directions implicitly, was responsible for an average loss in weight of 7 pounds per month. Most important, this method does NOT call for special diet lists. You never suffer a hungry moment. Nor is it necessary for you to take strenuous exercises, or drugs.

All you have to do is eat sensibly, which means that you avoid overeating, and drink ¾ of a glass of Welch's Grape Juice, mixed with ¼ of a glass of water, before meals and at bedtime. Thus reducing caloric intake considerably.

How This Pleasant Way Takes Off Excess Fat!

Nothing could be easier, or more pleasant. Yet!—this is what happens. First, this delicious drink satisfies your craving for rich, sweet foods. You have less desire to overeat fattening foods—but you do feel comfortably full. Second, the grape sugar in Welch's is quickly consumed, and by this process helps nature to consume excess fat.

Thus weight is lost naturally and safely. And this proved method is just as beneficial and effective for overweight men, as it is for overweight women.

Watch One Thing Carefully

Follow this proved way to take off excess fat. Eat sensibly, which means that you avoid overeating—and be sure to use Welch's pure, aged, full-strength grape juice before meals. Always made from the pick of the grape crop. No water added; no artificial coloring. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. Insist upon genuine Welch's Grape Juice for the results you want. For economy's sake—buy Welch's by the case.

Irene Rich, past 40, still has her lovely slenderness of 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

NEW TYPE TOMATO JUICE THRILLS THE NATION

If you think all tomato juice is alike, try Welch's new vitamin-rich tomato juice for the thrill of your life. A noted chemist tested five brands and found Welch's Tomato Juice superior—larger Vitamin C content; as much Vitamin A as milk—and rich in Vitamin B. Welch's is so rich and thick, you can add ⅓ water, or ice, and still have a most delicious tomato juice. So it's economical to serve. Get Welch's Tomato Juice from your dealer today. It's pure, pasteurized, laboratory controlled and tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. Double your money back if you don't say it's the finest tomato juice you ever tasted.

Simple Tailored Frock Has a Definite Couturier Stamp

By Bettina Bedwell.

If you want a frock with a definite couturier stamp, one with tailored simplicity and flattering lines, this dress is grade A. The only concession to frills is the rippling collar, which is contrasting and is matched by the rather narrow sleeve cuffs. The pocket flaps are of self material, and the pockets themselves are just as impeccably tailored as is the frock itself, with the fly front from neckline to hem. There are no plaits to cause laundry and neatness problems, and for that reason busy French women, who must be feminine altho tailored, are enthusiastic about this model, according to one of my Paris scouts.

The original is a masterpiece of chic in pale blue poplin, with the trimming in pink piqué All types of washable materials will make up well except, of course, the sheers. I wouldn't recommend prints, either. The natural simplicity of plain colors is better suited.

Style No. 5349 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of contrasting.

Address orders to Chicago Tribune Paris Patterns, 119 West 19th street, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

As the seasons change, so do the needs of the poor of the community. In late summer, the first cool day marks the onset of appeals for help against the coming winter. In spring, people become conscious of shabby clothing and shabby homes and, with returning courage, ask for help in improving their situations.

There is one type of request which we have at all times, pleas which always are pitiful, but which increase in number and in wistfulness as the grass grows green and the trees begin to bud. These are the appeals from the truly helpless, from those who have lost the use of limbs thru illness or injury, and are completely dependent upon the care and kindness of others. Such invalids are cut off from most of the pleasures of life and, when they are without means, are chained by their own helplessness to dingy homes and a drab existence.

Miss S., a medical case worker, has asked our aid for a girl of 19 who is so handicapped. She has had more than 20 operations in an effort to regain health, and has suffered mentally because of a completely indifferent stepmother. Since the death of her father when she was quite young, this invalid has seldom had a home but has been in the care of various hospitals and foster homes. Deeply despondent, she recently attempted suicide but now is recovering, and the worker is anxious to give her an interest in life and, if possible, an occupation of some kind. Can any reader provide either a radio or a typewriter for this invalid? The worker will be glad to call for offers.

Miss S. sends an appeal on behalf of another needy invalid.

"Dear Miss Brown: We are interested in a family which now is totally dependent on relief because the wage earner is incapacitated. He has been suffering with a severe form of arthritis which has progressed so rapidly that for the last three years he has been unable to get up or even move to a window to look out. His helplessness and lack of diversion are depressing him mentally, and he feels that with the aid of a wheel chair he would be able to move about a great deal more. His only recreation, at present, is reading, which he does enjoy, but due to the paralysis of his arms he cannot hold the material. A reading stand for bed use would solve this problem for him, and we wondered if you, in any way, would be able to help us with these articles for him, since we cannot provide them."

After three long years in one room a change of scenery certainly would bring great happiness to this man, and we do hope that our readers can supply either or both of the requested articles.

There are four in the S. family, two children, an invalid mother, and a father who is earning a meagre salary on WPA. Mrs. S. recently had her left leg amputated at the knee because of a bone infection. She has lost a great deal of weight and is discouraged at her present helplessness. The family income will not provide for even the rental of a wheel chair, and so they have turned to this department. If some reader can supply a chair, transportation can be arranged. The address is on the south side of the city.

"FOR WHITER, BRIGHTER WASHES TRY OXYDOL"

MAKERS OF FAMOUS APEX WASHERS NOW URGE

WHETHER your washer is old or new—here's news! Now there's a "new-type" soap so remarkable that a number of leading washer makers now recommend it exclusively—as the soap to use in their machines!

For example, makers of famous Apex washers now say: "For whiter washes with SAFETY, we officially recommend new High-Test OXYDOL."

These leading washer makers recommend High-Test Oxydol only after seeing convincing scientific proof that it does these amazing things:

(1) Gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter! Actual Tintometer shades, proved by our laboratory tests against a large number of popular bar and package soaps. (2) Cup for cup, gives up to 3 times the suds! Rich, energetic suds that stand up as much as 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet is so SAFE that cotton prints given the equivalent of more than a full year's washing in our laboratory, stayed looking bright as new! And Oxydol's safer for hands than many popular washday bar and package soaps.

High-Test Oxydol can be money-saving, too! Penny for penny, it goes so much farther than less economical soaps, it can actually cut laundry soap bills as much as one-fourth.

So why not do as a number of leading washer makers advise—try new High-Test OXYDOL? Procter & Gamble.

Exciting New Adventure Serial

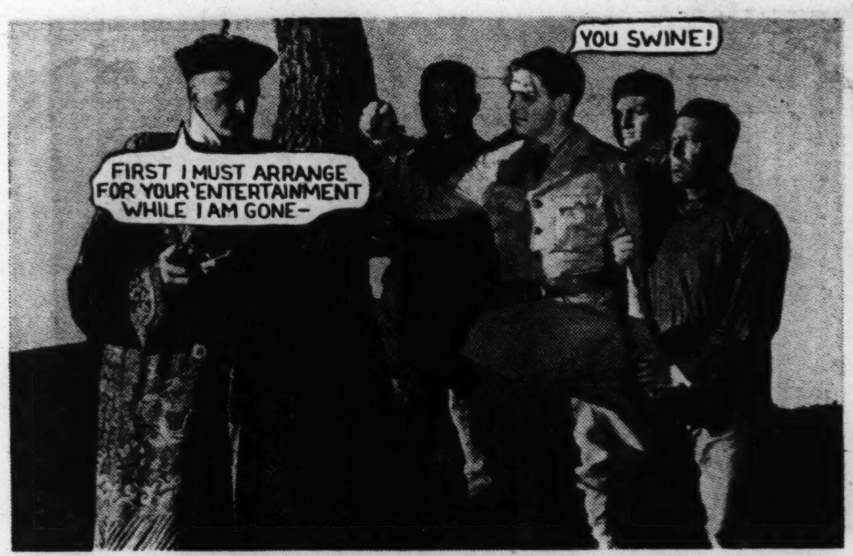
THIS WEEK: THE CRYSTAL OF DEATH

1. As the speeding car is about to topple over the cliff, Allan and Sir Nayland Smith jump to safety.

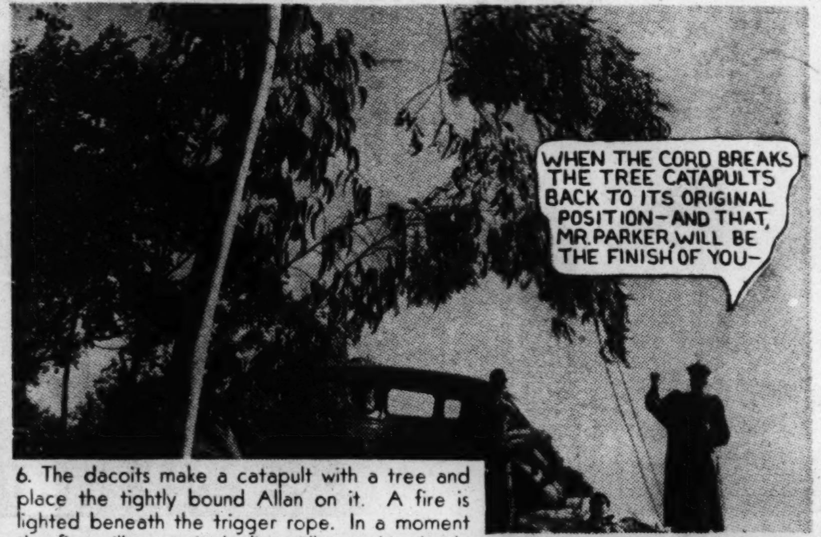
2. Walking back for help they come upon the rest of the party. Smith suggests Allan remain with Mary while the others scout around for some sign of Fu Manchu.

3. While making camp Mary volunteers to go to the spring for water.

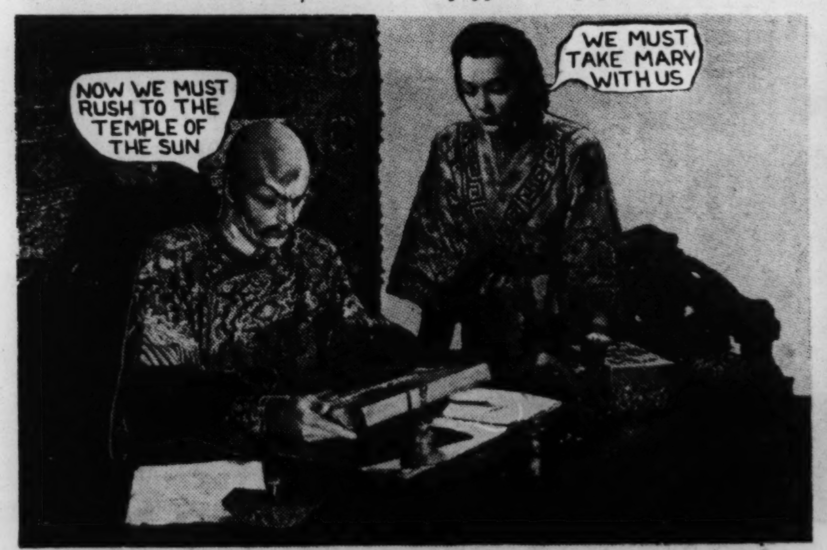
4. Glancing at his watch Allan becomes alarmed at Mary's long absence and starts out to look for her.



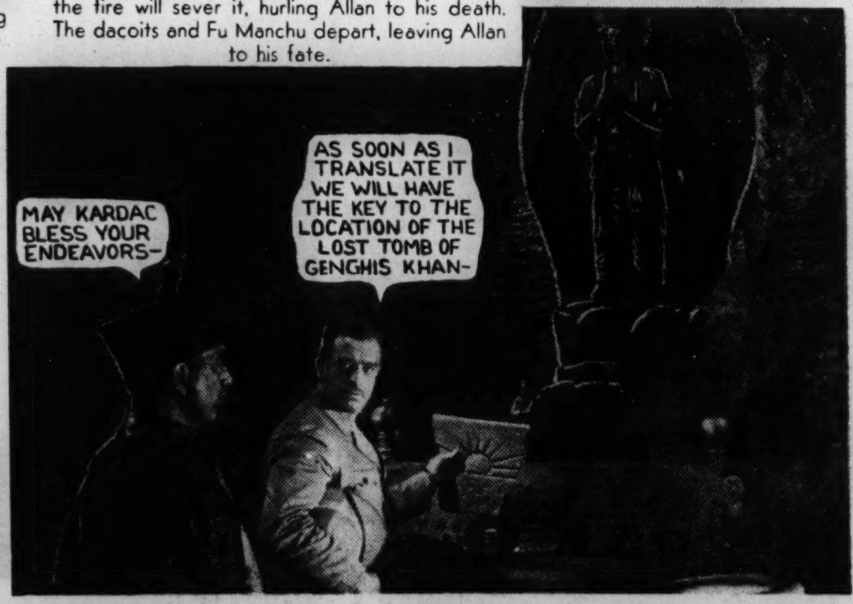
5. As he gets to the spring he is ambushed by Fu Manchu and his dacoits. Looking around him Allan sees Mary, bound and gagged, being guarded by Fah Lo Suee.



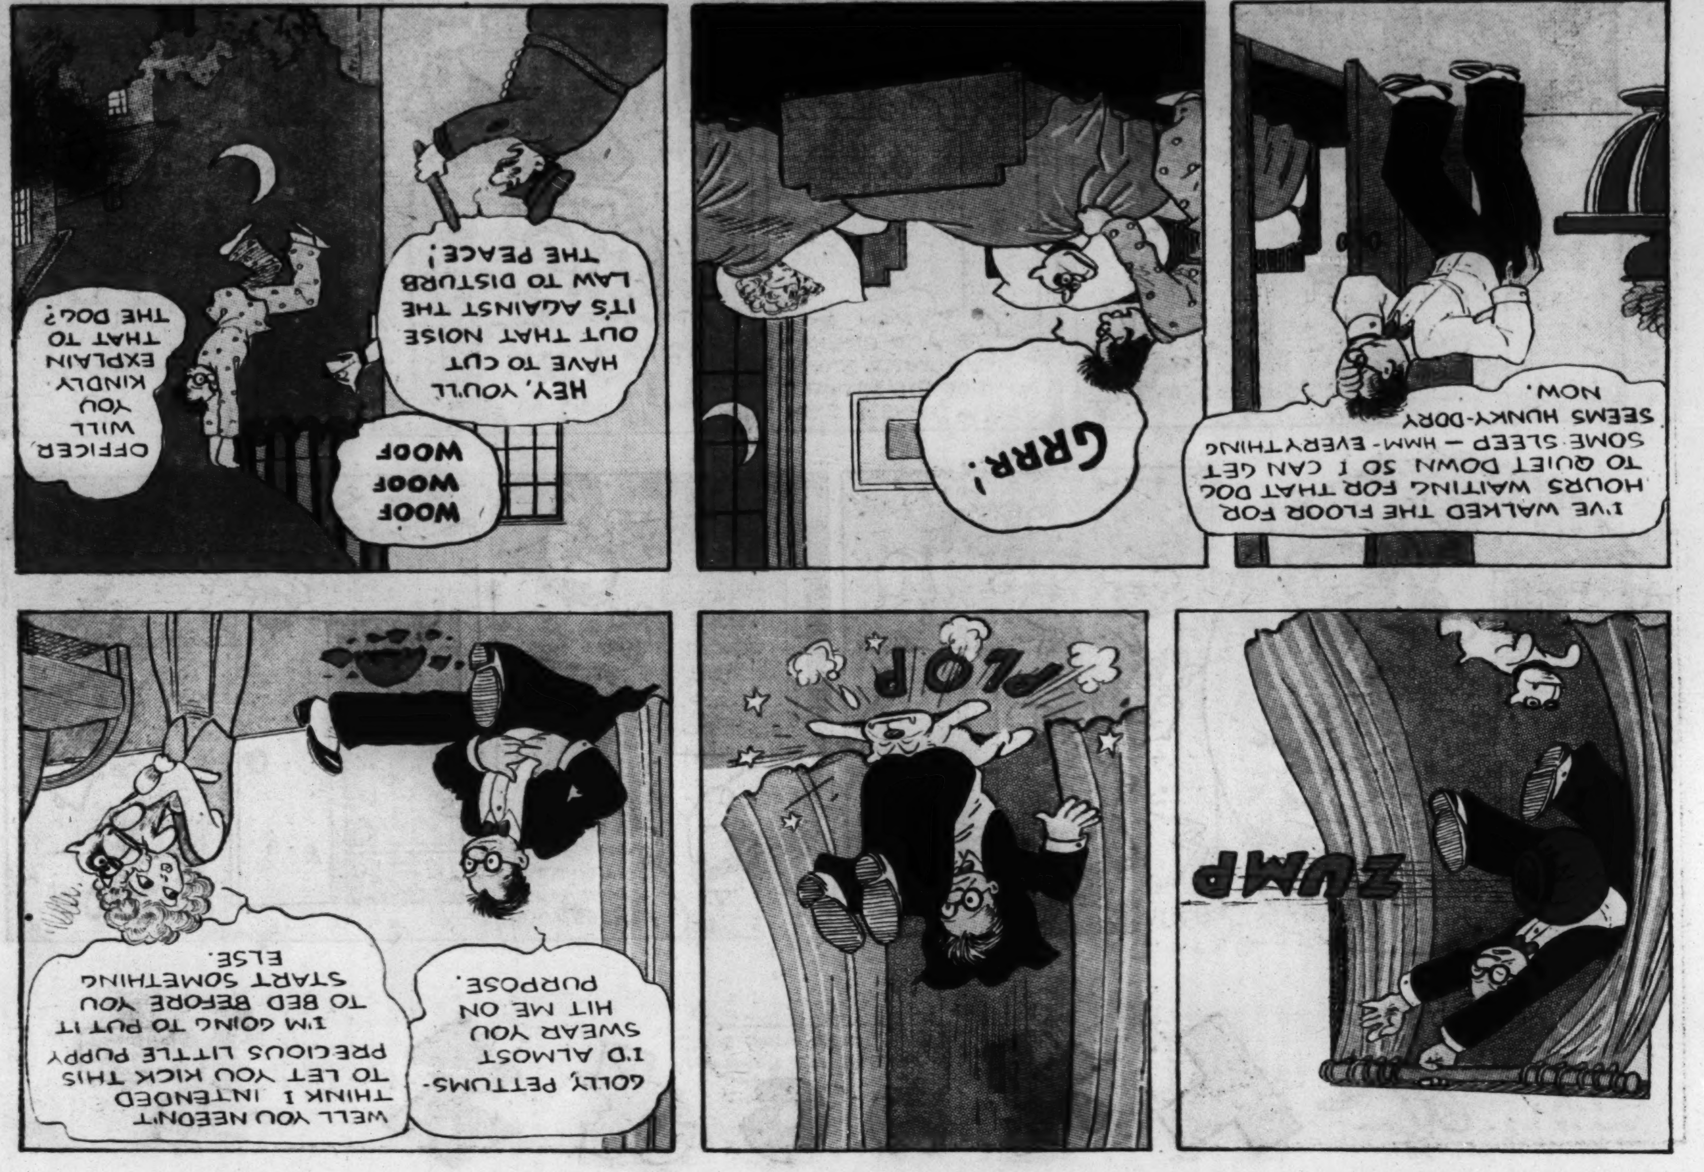
6. The dacoits make a catapult with a tree and place the tightly bound Allan on it. A fire is lighted beneath the trigger rope. In a moment the fire will sever it, hurling Allan to his death. The dacoits and Fu Manchu depart, leaving Allan to his fate.

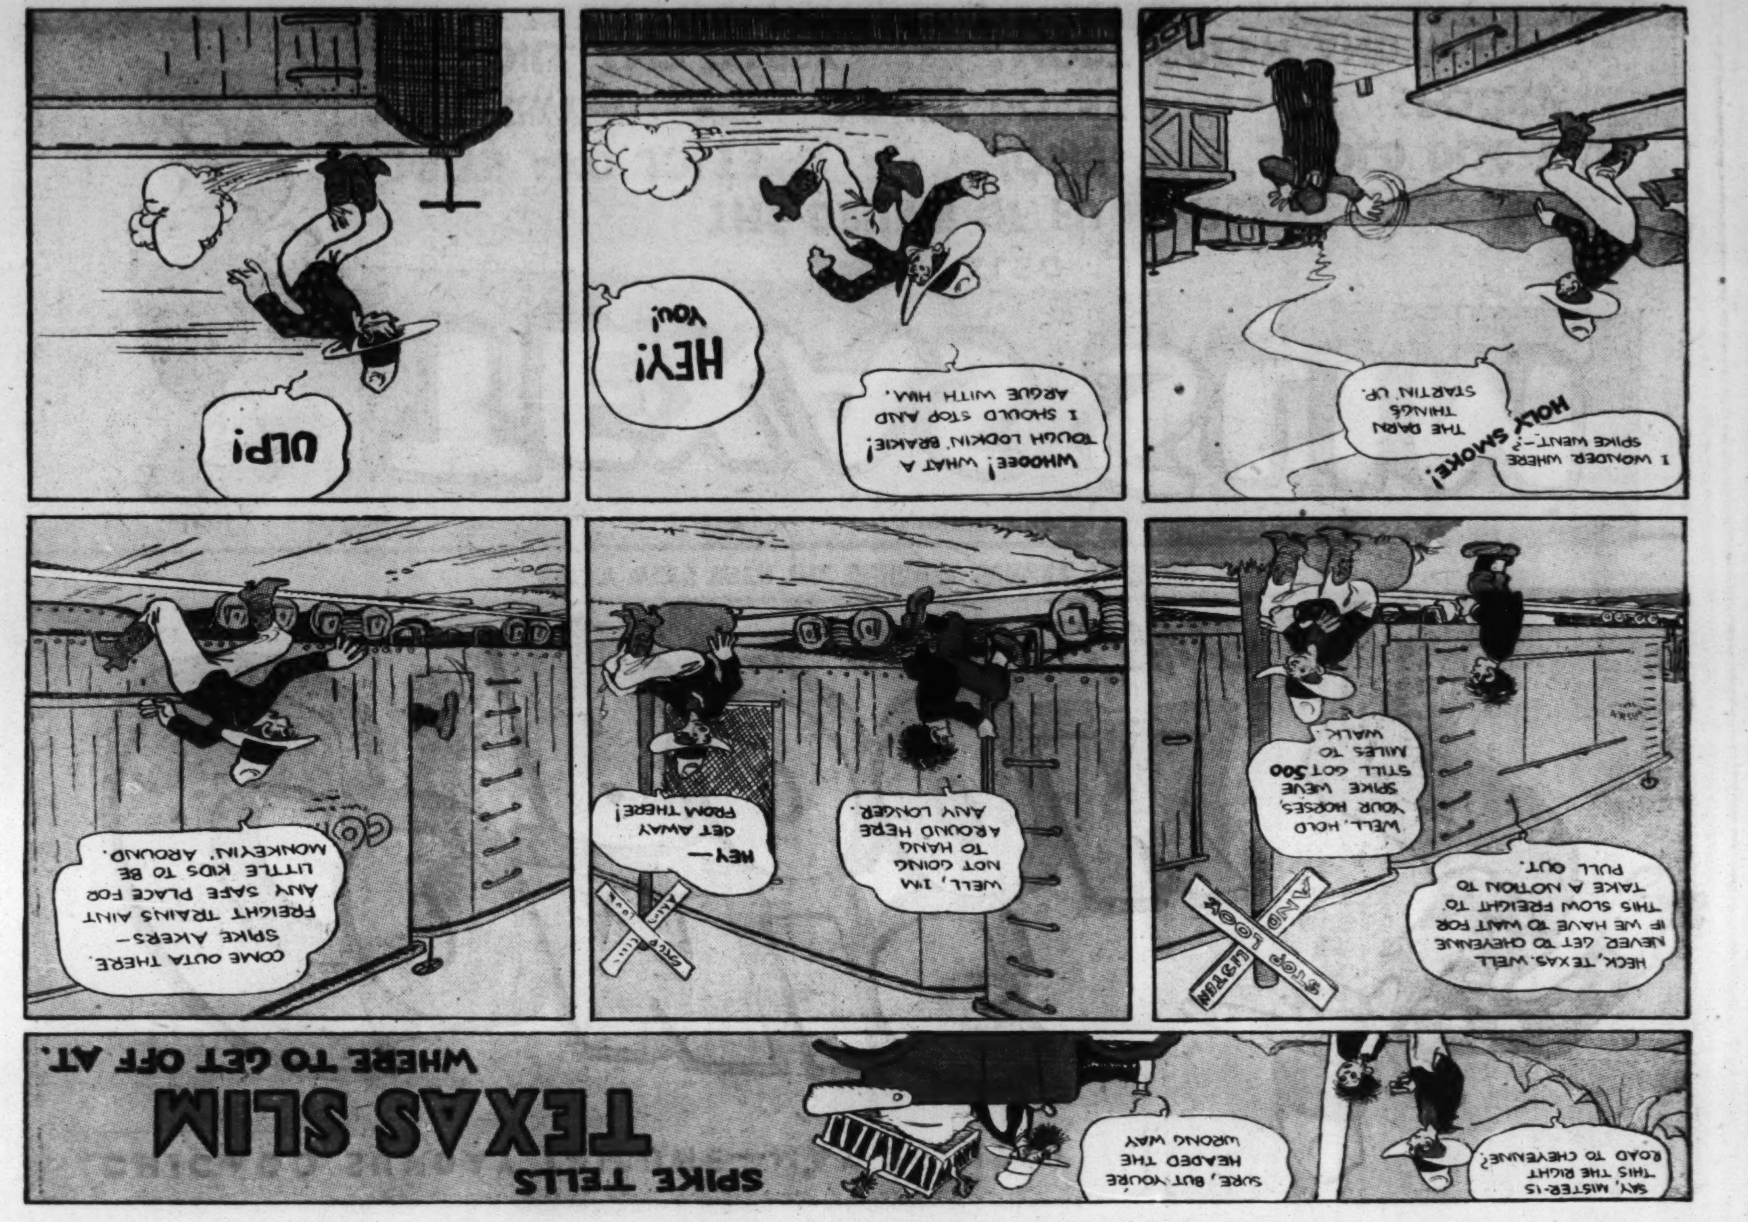


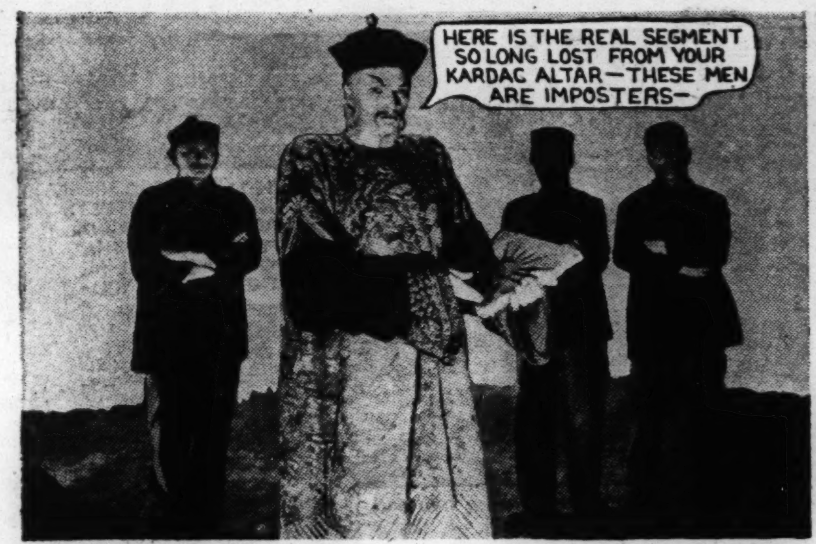
7. Fu Manchu examines a copy of the segment of the sacred altar which he made while the original was still in his possession.



8. At the Temple of the Sun Sir Nayland Smith matches his segment with the original plaque. It fits perfectly.







9. Arriving at the temple Fu Manchu by clever lying convinces the priest that his is the authentic segment.

10. Suddenly a voice from the altar speaks. It is the voice of Fah Lo Suee who has concealed herself in the idol. The superstitious natives start to comply with her demand, believing it is the voice of their sacred idol, Kardac.

11. Mary is placed on a marble slab. An opening thru the ceiling admits the sun's rays, which are magnified hundreds of times by a huge crystal. Anything in front of them will be burned to a crisp. Slowly Fu Manchu turns the crystal so the rays will fall directly upon Mary.

12. While her friends look on helplessly, the deadly ray comes closer and closer to Mary's head.

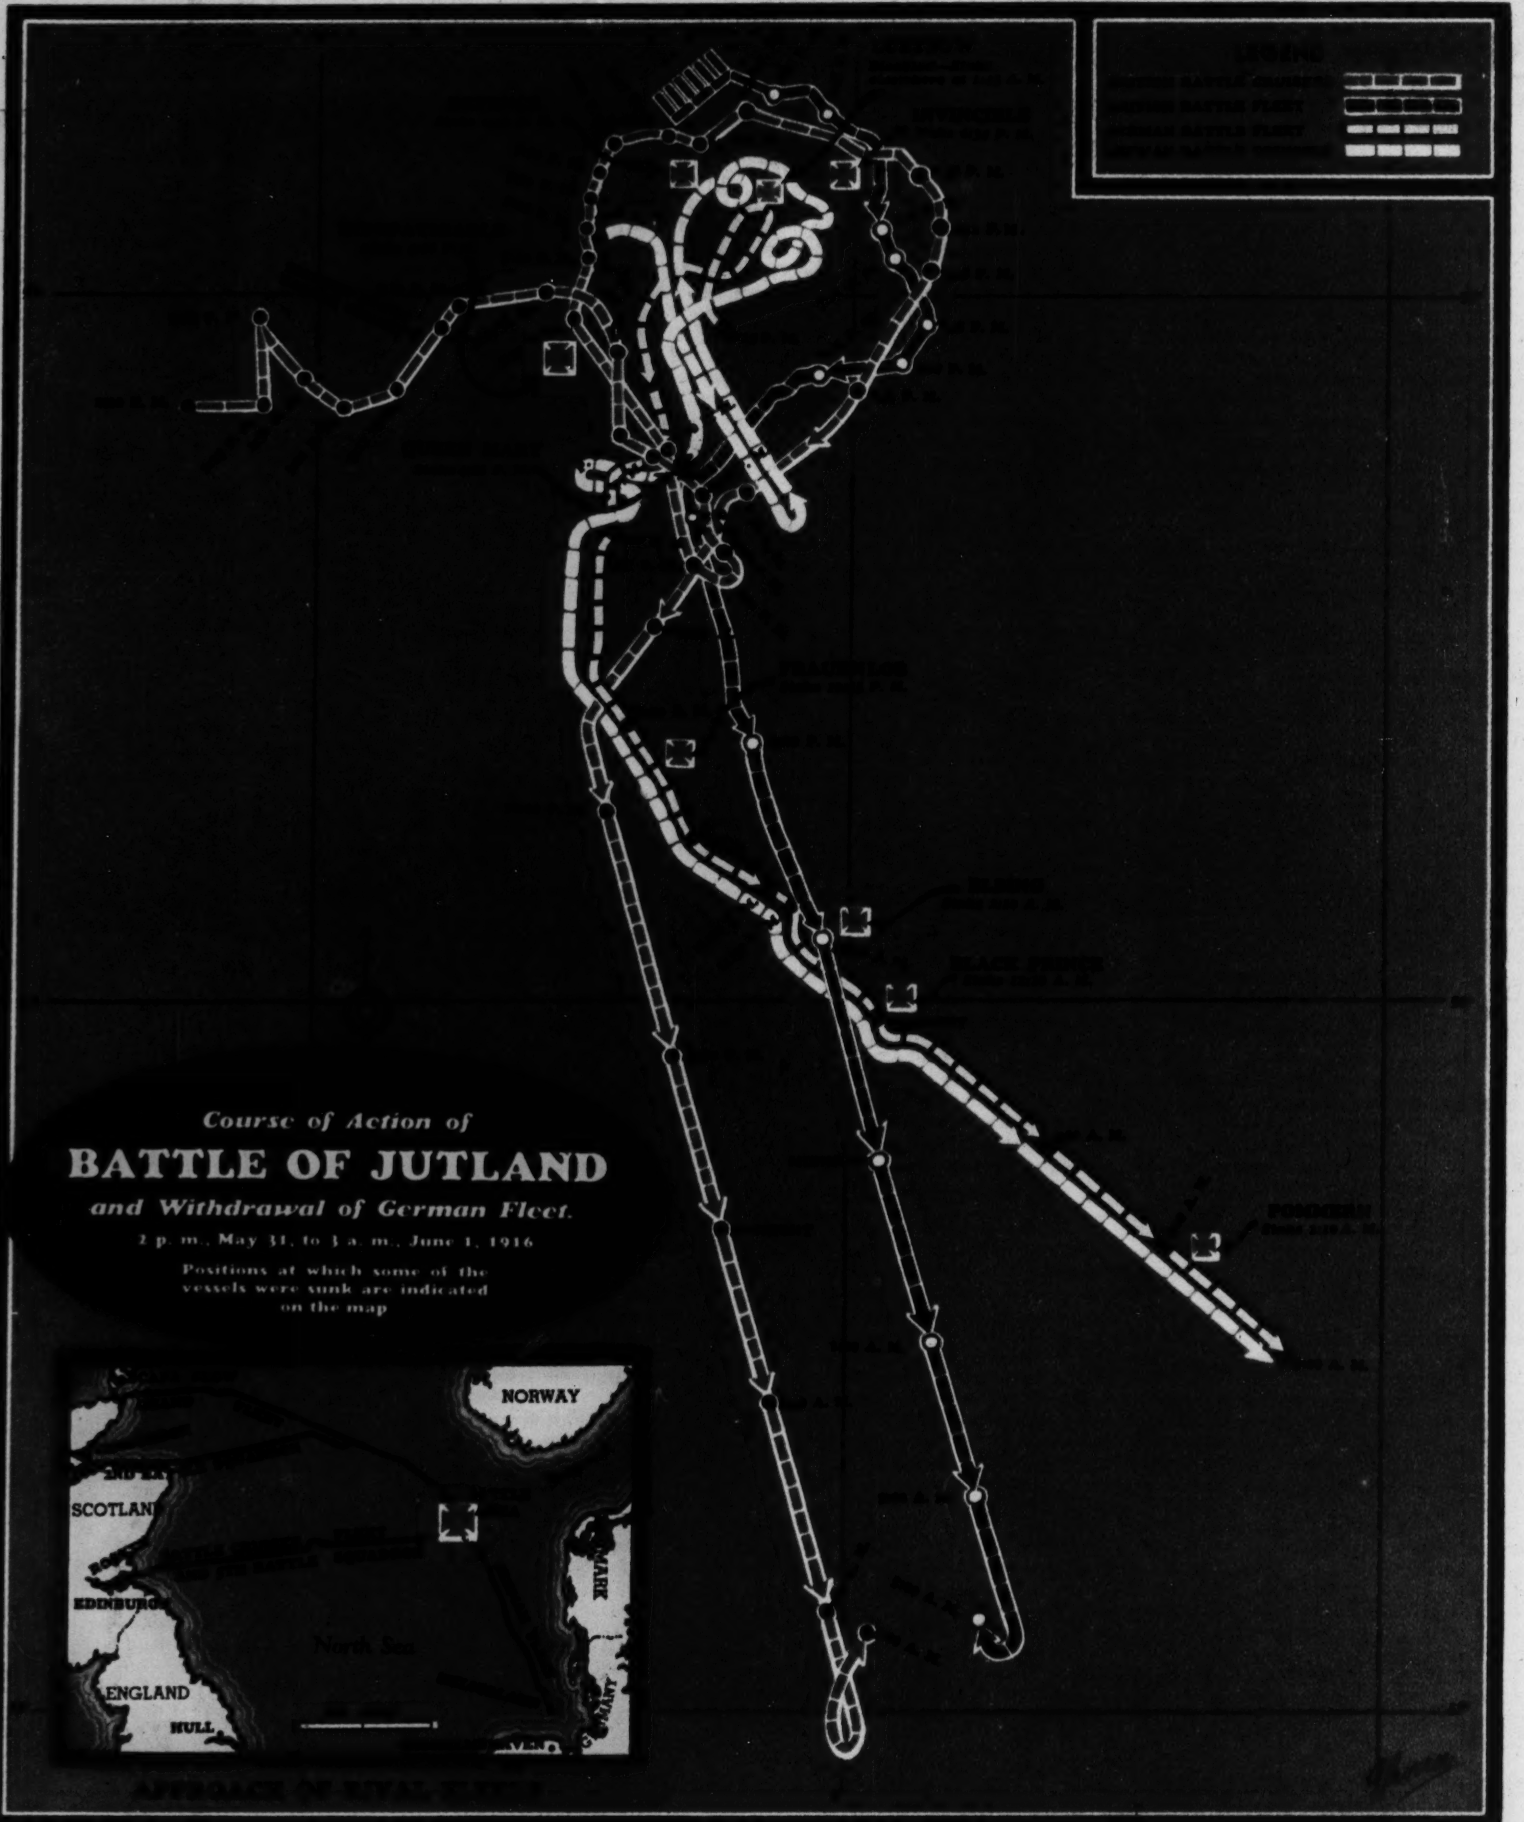
The sinking of the Queen Mary, after a painting by E. L. Bloomster. The Queen Mary is shown on the extreme right. Vessels in the line on the left are, left to right, the New Zealand, Tiger, and Princess Royal.



Jutland—Drama of the Sea!

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

NINE inches of armor plate—the toughest steel yet devised by man—cannot stop the great shells that come hurtling thru the air from the German battle cruisers.

Shell after shell rises from the Seydlitz and the Derfflinger to plunge down upon this target and to rip gaping holes in the armor plate.

And still the Queen Mary forges ahead at a speed of 25 knots, the guns of its four turrets answering the fire of the enemy. A German projectile crashes into the foremost of its after turrets, putting one of its guns out of action, but the great Queen Mary, one of the largest and most formidable of the British battle cruisers, keeps on firing, twice registering hits on the Derfflinger.

JELLICOE

SCHEER

At 4:24 p. m. three 12-inch shells from the Derfflinger strike the Queen Mary slightly aft the mainmast. Less than two minutes later two more shells hit at the same spot. There is a stab of flame as a terrific explosion occurs, and the Queen Mary slowly turns over to port. Survivors from the two after turrets pour out on deck, some of them clambering or sliding down the starboard side to reach the water.

The stern of the ship rises high above the sea, with the propellers still turning. So rapidly does disaster overtake the vessel that it requires quick decision and skilful handling on the part of the officers of the ships following closely astern to avoid crashing into it. The Tiger manages to steer sufficiently wide to clear the wreck. Just as the New Zealand comes abreast to the starboard a second explosion occurs on the Queen Mary, and it sinks under a huge pall of smoke which rises to a height of several hundred feet.

The 26,350-ton Queen Mary goes down with the loss of 1,266 lives—the largest of the British ships sunk by the Germans at the battle of Jutland.

Greatest of all naval engagements of modern times was the battle of Jutland, fought in the North sea just west of Denmark on May 31 and June 1, 1916—24 years ago next Friday and Saturday. The Germans call it the battle of the Skagerrak and contend that it was a German victory, inasmuch as British losses in ships and men were greater than were German losses. But the British call it a British victory and base their claim upon the fact that the German fleet engaged was routed and forced to retreat to its base to save itself.

Unbiased opinion would put the battle of Jutland down as a draw, mainly because the losses in ships were almost exactly in proportion to the forces engaged on each side.

Great credit goes to both sides—to the British for bringing into action a predominance of power, (Continued on page two.)

Next Sunday—Nathan Hale, the story of a great patriot

Drama at Battle of Jutland!

which they maintained to the end of the battle, and to the Germans, who, after twice blundering into positions which by every principle of tactics meant the destruction of their fleet, were able to extricate themselves by clever maneuvers.

Vice Admiral Reinhard Scheer, commander in chief of the German high sea fleet, was in readiness to raid the English coast at Sunderland on May 29, but the foul weather of that day prevented airship scouting and the raid was called off. The following day also was unfavorable, so Scheer reluctantly substituted a movement into the Skagerrak.

At 2 a. m. on May 31 Vice Admiral Franz Hipper put to sea from the Jade basin at Wilhelmshaven with the scouting division of Scheer's fleet. He was followed at a distance of 50 miles by the German battle fleet under the direct command of Scheer himself. Hipper's force consisted of 5 battle cruisers, 5 light cruisers, and 30 destroyers. In Scheer's battle fleet were 22 battleships, 6 light cruisers, and 31 destroyers. In all the German forces consisted of 99 vessels.

The British, thru the efforts of their espionage system, had been apprised in advance of the plans of the enemy. The grand fleet had been ordered to concentrate in the approaches to the Skaggerak to await eventualities. By 10:30 on the night of the 30th the three sections of the grand fleet had left their respective bases at Scapa Flow, Invergordon, and Rosyth and were heading out to sea.

The main battle fleet, under Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, made a rendezvous at latitude 57 degrees 45 minutes north and longitude 4 degrees 15 minutes east, where the 2d battle squadron from Invergordon, under Vice Admiral Sir M. Jerram, was to meet it at 2 p. m. next day. Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty, with the battle cruiser fleet, and the 5th battle squadron of four battleships under Rear Admiral Evan-Thomas, was making for a point at sea about 70 miles southeast of the battle fleet's intended position.

Jellicoe's Scapa Flow force, with that of Jerram from Invergordon, consisted of 24 battleships, 3 battle cruisers, 8 heavy cruisers, 12 light cruisers, 5 destroyer leaders, 46 destroyers, and 1 mine layer. Beatty's fleet, including Evan-Thomas' 5th battle squadron, contained 6 battle cruisers, 4 battleships, 14 light cruisers, 27 destroyers, and 1 aircraft tender. The British had 151 vessels in all. Against Great Britain's 37 capital ships the Germans had 27, and against the 344 big guns of more than 11-inch bore which the British possessed the Germans had 244 guns of 11-inch bore or greater.

Beatty, on arriving at 2 p. m. on the 31st at the point at sea designated in his orders, prepared to swing to the north in accordance with instructions. But right here popped into the train of events an apparently insignificant incident that led directly to the battle. A Danish merchant ship attracted the attention of Commodore Alexander-Sinclair of the 1st light cruiser squadron. In his flagship, the Galatea, he stood to the south-southeast to examine the strange vessel.

"Enemy in sight!"

This was the meaning of the flags which flew at the Galatea's signal yard at 2:20 p. m.

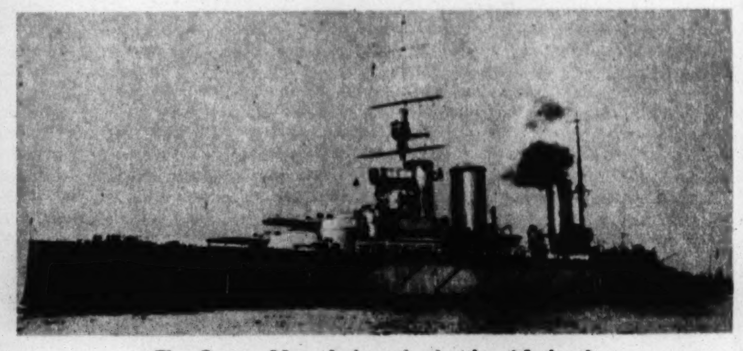
Seven minutes later the searchlight of the German light cruiser Elbing of the 2d scouting group under Rear Admiral Boedicker was flashing out the dashes and dots that spelled:

"Enemy battle cruisers in sight west by north!"

The Galatea and the British light cruiser Phaeton were the first vessels to open fire. Their targets were the German destroyers B-109 and B-110. The Elbing steamed to the aid of the small vessels, and its first shots landed squarely on the Galatea from a range of 14,000 yards. Quickly the Galatea and Phaeton sped out of range.

Beatty, on his flagship, the Lion, and Hipper, on his flagship, the Luetzow, were notified as to what had occurred. Each turned toward the other. The first phase of the fight—the battle cruiser action—was under way. At this time Jellicoe's battle fleet was some distance away to the north and Scheer's battle fleet had not yet arrived on the scene from the south. Beatty's capital ships were separated into three main divisions, and he was leading one of the divisions, the 1st battle cruiser squadron, in his flagship, the Lion.

The British and German battle cruisers sighted each other at 3:25. Beatty's big ships closed in on those of Hipper at 3:30, forcing the Germans to turn and steam southward in order to parallel the course of the enemy. At 3:48 Beatty united the ships of the 2d battle cruiser squadron with those of his 1st squadron, giving him a battle line of six huge vessels. It was then that the German battle cruisers opened fire at a range of 16,500 yards (9¾ miles).



The Queen Mary before the battle of Jutland.

Here was presented a stirring spectacle—two lines of grim battle cruisers steaming parallel to each other and banging away with giant guns. Clouds of smoke hung low over the sea, and geysers rose where shells plunged into the churned-up waters. On the British side there were, in this order, the Lion, Princess Royal, Queen Mary, Tiger, New Zealand, and Indefatigable. Slowest of all, with the possible exception of the New Zealand, the Indefatigable strained to the utmost under forced draft to keep up with its sister ships as it charged into the fray. The flagship Luetzow led the line of German battle cruisers, followed in order by the Derfflinger, Seydlitz, Moltke, and Von der Tann.

Beatty wirelessed Jellicoe that he had begun the battle and gave his superior officer his position at the time. Altho, as Beatty later pointed out, the visibility was good at this stage of the fight, the British marksmanship proved exceedingly poor. The marksmanship of the Germans also was erratic at the beginning. Once they found their targets, however, their fire began to register with telling effect. The Lion and the Tiger were the first battle cruisers struck by shells.

. . . a second explosion occurs on the Queen Mary, and it sinks under a huge pall of smoke which rises to a height of several hundred feet."

At 4:10 Evan-Thomas' 5th battle squadron — the battleships Barham, Valiant, Warspite, and Malaya—joined the action, falling into line behind Beatty's battle cruisers. (It was one of these four battleships, the Warspite, which played such an important part in the naval action at Narvik, Norway, last April 13. Rebuilt, and flying the flag of Vice Admiral William Jock Whitworth, it led a British fleet into the Narvik fjord and helped sink seven German destroyers.) But before these ships could get close enough to engage the enemy disaster had overtaken one of the great British battle cruisers. Three 11-inch shells from the Von der Tann crashed into the vitals of the 18,800-ton Indefatigable. The British vessel fell out of line and began to sink by the stern. Almost immediately another salvo found it. There was a rending explosion, and at 4:06 the Indefatigable turned over and slid beneath the waves, carrying with it all but two of its crew of 1,019.

During this time the two rival fleets of capital ships had been engaging on parallel courses, moving in a general southerly direction, with each vessel firing at the opposite ship in the enemy line. When the Lion, wrapped in a heavy cloud of smoke from a fire in one of its turrets, was left in peace for a while, the Luetzow centered its fire on the Princess Royal, and the Seydlitz and Derfflinger concentrated on the Queen Mary, the third vessel in the British line.

The Queen Mary was battling valiantly when a salvo from the Derfflinger crashed into it close to the mainmast. Then two more shells struck it, causing an explosion—either of ammunition or oil. Before it sank at 4:26 there was another explosion aboard the Queen Mary.

Already Beatty had lost two of his six battle cruisers—one-third of his two splendid squadrons. Brought out clearly by this double tragedy was the fact that up to this time the Germans had been superior at gunnery. Also brought out was the fact that battle cruisers, with their relatively light armor, were highly vulnerable to the fire of big guns.

Secondary actions were being fought all the while, involving light cruisers and destroyers. In the rain of shells from various types of craft those from the 15-inch guns of the Barham, Valiant, Warspite, and Malaya began to make their weight felt against the Germans.

Hipper was sorely pressed both ahead and astern when at 4:3? Scheer's battle fleet hove ight far to the south. t 4:40 wheeled his battle cruisers and started on a course toward the north. Assuming the rôle of the pursued, he determined to lure the Germans within range of the guns of Jellicoe's approaching fleet. On his northerly course Beatty reëngaged Hipper, but Evan-Thomas, who had not yet turned his 5th battle squadron to the north, soon found his ships under fire of Scheer's fleet. The Barham and the Malaya were badly damaged by shellfire before Evan-Thomas finally swung around to the north. The whole battle action now was moving in the direction of the British battle fleet under Jellicoe, which was racing toward the scene.

Evan-Thomas' four big battleships, possessed of superior speed, soon slipped away from the danger of Scheer's guns and for the first time since the beginning of the battle were able, at 5:35, by bringing a heavy fire against Hipper's battle cruisers, to turn the tide in favor of the British.

Jellicoe in the meantime was drawing closer and closer to the scene of action. His 24 battleships, formed in six parallel columns of four ships each, were pushing in fast from the northwest, screened against submarines by three destroyer flotillas. Three miles ahead of the battleships was a line of five vessels of the 4th light cruiser squadron, and seven miles ahead of the light cruisers was a line composed of the 1st and 2d cruiser squadrons. Ten miles still farther ahead steamed the 3d battle cruiser squadron of Rear Admiral H. L. A. Hood—the Invincible, Indomitable, and Inflexible.

"The Indefatigable strained to the utmost under forced draft to keep up with its sister ships as it charged into the fray."

Jellicoe at one minute after 6 sent a wireless message to Beatty asking:

"Where is the enemy battle fleet?"

It was from 10 to 15 minutes later that he received what he thought was a satisfactory reply, altho the location of the enemy as given to him was considerably in error. It was not until 6:25 that his deployed battle fleet began to enter the action.

In the meantime (at 6:19) the 14,600-ton British cruiser Defence had been sunk by German gunfire and the British cruiser Warrior had been badly damaged. Nine hundred three lives, including that of Rear Admiral Sir R. Arbuthnot, were lost with the destruction of the Defence.

Scheer met the full force of the British with his scouting force under Hipper, which was moving two miles in advance of him to bear the brunt of the shock. The three battle cruisers of Jellicoe's battle fleet—Invincible, Indomitable, and Inflexible—at this stage of the action performed marvels of gunnery. Four 12-inch shells from these vessels struck Hipper's flagship, the battle cruiser Luetzow, two piercing the forward torpedo room and two putting one of the forward turrets out of action. The ship gave a tremendous lurch, shivered from stem to stern and from keel to mast tops, and began settling in the water, its entire forward section flooding. The Luetzow had received its death blow—but it was not to sink until about 1:45 the next morning, after the removal of its crew.

Crippled tho the Luetzow was as a result of the punishment it had taken from Hood's three battle cruisers, it joined the Derfflinger in a terrific bombardment of the Invincible at a range of 9,000 yards. The Luetzow's third salvo smashed the Invincible's midship turret. Quickly followed a deep-sounding explosion that literally broke the 17,250-ton British battle cruiser in two. It sank at 6:34 with 1,026 of its crew, including Rear Admiral Hood.

This was the third and last of the British battle cruisers to be sunk at Jutland. It should be pointed out here that the Invincible and the Indefatigable, sunk earlier in the day, were provided with armor plate only six inches thick, altho each carried eight 12-inch guns. Neither of them was as formidable as the Queen Mary, the other of the British battle cruiser casualties. Valuable as had been the work of the British battle cruisers in bringing about the main action, they clearly were unsuited for close-range fighting. From this point on those of them that remained confined themselves to harassing the enemy's van, leaving the more sturdy battleships to take the shock of the close contact.

"But close contact was the last thing that Scheer was seeking," according to Capt. Edward Altham, a British naval officer. "He was in a trap and needed all his wits to escape impending disaster."

The German admiral, however, had up his sleeve a maneuver for just such a tight place. It was known to the Germans as the Gefechtskehrtwendung (emergency retirement) and had been rehearsed by them. In this maneuver the German destroyers rushed in at the enemy, discharged their torpedoes, and quickly threw up a dense smoke screen, behind which the big ships simultaneously did a right-about turn or pivot and retreated at full speed. The maneuver was executed at 6:35, and within a few minutes the German capital ships were out of sight. Scheer had managed to slip out of the trap!

Altho the German destroyers did not press their attack, one of their torpedoes exploded against Vice Admiral Sir C. Burney's flagship, the big battleship Marlborough.

Looking at Hollywood with ED SULLIVAN

The Star System Is Dead— Long Live the Actors!

Vivien Leigh and Clark Gable in "Gone with the Wind," her great starring chance.

Ann Sothern—victim of a poor play.

Hollywood.

ANY WAY you look at it, the cinema year 1940 will go down in movie history because of two new screen personalities, Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier. If this pair didn't turn the year into a personal triumphal procession of days and weeks, your correspondent admits that his powers of observation have started to falter. They are the hottest things this town has seen since the country discovered Greta Garbo and John Gilbert.

In three pictures, "Wuthering Heights," "Gone with the Wind," and "Rebecca," Olivier and Miss Leigh scored individual bulls-eyes, and the odds against that happening are about 50,000 to 1. As a result Olivier and his Vivien have been lifted overnight from the ranks of competent performers to take their place with the greatest stars of this business, and probably the two of them are more bewildered by it than any one else involved.

The answer lies not only in their acting, which is better than average; it also stems from the fact that movie audiences are getting so tired of Hollywood's standard faces and characterizations that any new face, supported by talent, can hit the jackpot of popular favor. The stars of Hollywood have been in the public eye for at least 10 years, and the public eye is on the alert for the new and the novel and the interesting. Olivier and Miss Leigh couldn't have timed their entrances at a better time.

Just how acute is the necessity for new faces was proved when producers took three of their top stories of the year and entrusted the leads in them to players who were unknown comparatively. Five years ago the movies hardly would have placed Vivien Leigh in "Gone with the Wind." Neither would the movie tycoons have teamed Olivier, Joan Fontaine, and Judith Anderson in "Rebecca." The importance of this new daring on the part of the producers is that the star system is dead as a door nail. It died when the fans refused to honor it any longer, and the handwriting on the wall was evident so long ago as "Parnell," when Clark Gable and Myrna Loy failed to triumph over a bad picture. If the star system had meant anything the presence of these two, Gable and Loy, in the cast would have redeemed the picture; but the picture laid an egg. At that moment the star system rolled over on its back, kicked up its toes, and expired, altho that fact wasn't instantly recognized.

The tremendous popularity of Mickey Rooney was an indication of the fans' eagerness for something new and something different. Rooney took all of the established favorites and dwarfed their box office receipts. Ingrid Bergman was given a tumultuous welcome in her first American flicker. Ilona Massey, even in a picture that only was fair, was greeted enthusiastically. Ann Sothern, away from the screen for a year and consequently a stranger, created a furor. The fans greeted Hedy Lamarr hotly in "Algiers" and then shied away as a result of bad pictures.

It seems to this sentinel that audiences never have been so restless for something new, in faces or ideas; correspondingly, audiences never have been so impatient. The quick fall from popular favor of players who click in one picture and then draw a bad picture in their second assignment has no parallel in Hollywood. In that setting, then, the popularity of Mickey Rooney is amazing, because his studio has worked him like a juvenile drayhorse in order to cash in before age sacrifices the impertinent charm of youth. Personally I doubt that the "awkward age" ever will trouble Rooney, but his studio is not disposed to take a chance.

Solid favorite of the better known stars continues to be Spencer Tracy. The public has a very deep respect and a very warm affection for Tracy. He is the one star who seems to be untroubled by frequent bad pictures. "I Take This Woman" hurt Hedy Lamarr tremendously, but it left Tracy completely untouched. A few weeks later, in "Northwest Passage," he was jamming them in all over the country, altho it seemed to me that the picture fell far below the book. The chief advantage the movies have over the stage is that in moving pictures you can see the things that a stage play can only suggest. "Northwest Passage," however, did not capitalize on this greater scope. Continuously actors came into scenes to say, "The Indians just captured the entire detachment." That is a stage device and a stage limitation, and it weakened "Northwest Passage," but, regardless, Tracy broke box office records. The studio feared that the expensive technicolor picture would be a gigantic loss; instead it will make a lot of money. Tracy alone is responsible.

Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine in "Rebecca," one of the films that catapulted him to fame.

Of the United States stars Tracy occupies an enviable position. The rest are finding the challenge of new faces and new personalities to be too tough. The Laurence Oliviers and the Vivien Leighs have turned the old order upside down.

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Persons learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the fifty-first of the series.

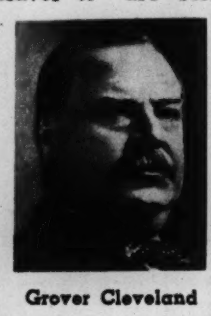
NOT notably an eloquent public speaker was Grover Cleveland, 23d President of the United States, yet his addresses were characterized by thoro good sense and a perfect understanding of the matter in hand. In 1881 he was elected mayor of Buffalo and in the following year governor of New York. He served two terms as President, the first from 1885 to 1889 and the second from 1893 to 1897. Following is an excerpt from his first inaugural address, delivered March 4, 1885:



Grover Cleveland

"In the discharge of my official duty I shall endeavor to be guided by a just and unstrained construction of the constitution, a careful observance of the distinction between the powers granted to the federal government and those reserved to the states or to the people, and by a cautious appreciation of those functions which by the constitution and laws have been especially assigned to the executive branch of the government.

"But he who takes the oath today to preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States only assumes the solemn obligation which every patriotic citizen—on the farm, in the workshop, in the busy marts of trade, and everywhere—should share with him. The constitution which prescribes his oath, my countrymen, is yours; the government you have chosen him to administer for a time is yours; the suffrage which executes the will of freemen is yours; the laws and the entire scheme of our civil rule, from the town meeting to the state capitals and the national capital, is yours. Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, under the same high sanction, tho in a different sphere, exercises a public trust. Nor is this all. Every citizen owes to the country a vigilant watch and close scrutiny of its public servants and a fair and reasonable estimate of their fidelity and usefulness. Thus is the people's will impressed upon the whole framework of our civil polity—municipal, state, and federal; and this is the price of our liberty and the inspiration of our faith in the republic.

"It is the duty of those serving the people in public place to closely limit public expenditures to the actual needs of the government economically administered, because this bounds the rights of the government to exact tribute from the earnings of labor or the property of the citizen, and because public extravagance begets extravagance among the people. We should never be ashamed of the simplicity and prudential economies which are best suited to the operation of a republican form of government and most compatible with the mission of the American people. Those who are selected for a limited time to manage public affairs are still of the people and may do much by their example to encourage, consistently with the dignity of their official functions, that plain way of life which among their fellow citizens aids integrity and promotes thrift and prosperity.

"The genius of our institutions, the needs of our people in their home life, and the attention which is demanded for the settlement and development of the resources of our vast territory, dictate the scrupulous avoidance of any departure from that foreign policy commended by the history, the traditions, and the prosperity of our republic. It is the policy of independence, favored by our position and defended by our known love of justice and by our own power. It is the policy of peace suitable to our interests. It is the policy of neutrality, rejecting any share in foreign broils and ambitions upon other continents and repelling their intrusion here. It is the policy of Monroe, and of Washington, and of Jefferson—'Peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations; entangling alliances with none.'"

No high-sounding phrases here; no beautiful figures of speech! Cleveland was not a man for these. But a careful reading of the foregoing lines will disclose that they are charged with truths and full of sound advice. This is an address that would be quite appropriate today, since it urges economy in public expenditures and avoidance of interests that might involve the country in war.

Reprints of the first 25 "Gems of Eloquence" may be obtained at Tribune Public Service Offices, Tribune Tower or 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. Price, 25 cents for portfolio of 25, or 2 cents each for individual selections.

THOUSANDS ADOPT AMAZING NEW TEEL LIQUID WAY TO BEAUTIFY TEETH

Discovery of Revolutionary New Dentifrice Cleansing Agent Hailed Marvel of Modern Science

Proper dental care can make a lot of difference in the beauty and "clean feel" of your teeth. See for yourself!

Works Utterly Without Abrasives. Can't Scratch Tooth Enamel

ALREADY, millions have quit tooth pastes, powders for this amazing new liquid dentifrice—Teel. So utterly different in what it is. The way it cleans; thus beautifies teeth.

The four-year development of the scientists of the famous Procter & Gamble Research Laboratories, Teel came as a revolutionary new idea. Not a powder. Not a paste. Teel is utterly free from pumice, grit. No abrasives of any kind. No acid. No bleach. Teel is entirely new.

A Revolutionary New Idea

Teel is the result of a remarkable discovery. A patented, new super-cleansing, foam-charged agent. Not soap—yet multiplies over 30 times in the mouth! In all but certain exceptional cases, dingy, film-dulled teeth brushed daily the Teel way appear whiter, brighter, more beautiful.

Wholly non-abrasive, Teel is not only safe for enamel, but marvelously smooth for gum massage. Many claim for it extra advantages of a mouthwash—teeth "feel" so amazingly clean; mouth gloriously refreshed.

To Help Avoid Bad Breath

Teel's super-charged tiny bubbles sweep, surge, foam over enamel—between teeth. To help brush get out decaying food particles, cause of much bad breath. Thus, Teel helps avoid this offense. Your breath sweeter. Safer.

Then, too, the Teel way is so economical. Only a few drops required. Thickened, will not roll off brush. No mess. No waste. Often a month's brushings in the 10¢ size.

Get Teel Today from drug, department or 10¢ stores. Brush your teeth morning and night. Visit your dentist regularly for check-up. With this proper care, see how much more beautiful your teeth look.

NEW Wonder-Liquid Takes Place of TOOTH PASTE and POWDER

IF SAXIE DOWELL, only vocalist with the Carolina Club orchestra, had not fallen down a flight of stairs, Skinnay Ennis would never have become a sensational vocalist. Saxie's injuries were minor, but kept him from performing immediately after the accident. Hal Kemp, maestro of the organization, needed a vocalist for a dance that night and told the frightened Skinnay he'd have to sing. Skinnay's voice sort of left him and he half sang, half spoke the lyrics in a husky whisper. It was, in the vernacular, terrific. That's how the intimate, "breathless" Ennis style of vocal delivery was born.

Skinnay was born in Salisbury, N. C., Edgar Clyde Ennis. When he went up to the University of North Carolina his lack of avoirdupois was immediately noticed and he was obviously labeled. He was assigned to a room with Hal Kemp, and he and Hal planned the Carolina Club orchestra. Skinnay played drums.

He continued to sing and drum with the Kemp band until the fall of 1937, when Paramount offered him a contract to make "College Swing." With the Kemp blessing, Skinnay made the picture. He organized his own band the next year and made his debut at the Victor Hugo in Beverly Hills, Cal., where he clicked immediately with the film folk.

Skinnay himself is about average height, with light hair and blue eyes and a big personality. He no longer is "Skinnay" physically, as he has put on weight and now tips the scales at 170 pounds.

Swing is his living—and his recreation—the smooth swing of his music being paralleled by the equally smooth swing of his golf.

HERE ARE OTHER VERSES OF "SILVER THREADS AMONG THE GOLD"

2—When your hair is silver white
And your cheeks no longer bright
With the roses of the May,
I will kiss your lips and say:
O, my darling, mine alone, alone,
You have never older grown;
Yes! my darling, mine alone,
You have never older grown.

3—You can nevermore grow old;
Locks may lose their brown and gold,
Cheeks may fade and hollow grow,
But the hearts that love will know
Never, never winter's frost and chill,
Summer warmth is in them still;
Never winter's frost and chill,
Summer's warmth is in them still.

4—Love is always young and fair;
What to us is silver hair,
Faded cheeks, or steps grown slow,
To the hearts that beat below?
Since I kissed you, mine alone, alone,
You have never older grown;
Since I kissed you, mine alone,
You have never older grown.

CHORUS—Darling, I am growing, growing old,
Silver threads among the gold
Shine upon my brow today;
Life is fading fast away.

1 Accurate firing at sea means split-second determination of the correct range of a fast-moving target. Superstructures of such warships as England's Hood are designed for that purpose.

of the engagement was the only German vessel in sight. Under a destructive fire it sank with 570 of its crew.

The German battle cruisers, all more or less severely damaged, followed Scheer's battleships in retirement. The Seydlitz's steering gear was out of order and the vessel had to be kept on its course by emergency gear in the engine room. The Luetzow, hit about two dozen times and its speed reduced to 15 knots, was forced to leave the formation. Hipper shifted from the Luetzow to the destroyer G-39 and Captain Hartog of the Derfflinger assumed command of the German battle cruisers.

Scheer, having disengaged his fleet, now boldly ordered it back into action, altho had he chosen to continue his retreat at this time it is doubtful, according to British naval experts, whether Jellicoe could have caught him before nightfall, as the British fleet was only slightly superior in speed.

Scheer, however, preferred fighting to running, believing that if he continued retreating he would have been overtaken before dark. His official dispatch reads:

"It was as yet too early to assume night cruising order. The enemy could have compelled us to fight before dark, he could have prevented our exercising our initiative, and finally he could have cut off our return to the German bight. There was only one way of avoiding this: to deal the enemy a second blow by again advancing regardless of consequences, and to bring all the destroyers to the attack."

It was 7:12 when the action was renewed, the Germans being bombarded first at a range of about 9,000 yards by Burney's 1st British battle squadron. Within a minute or two Jellicoe's flagship, the Iron Duke, swung into the thick of the fighting.

Again the British fleet was in a position of overwhelming tactical advantage, and Scheer realized almost immediately that he was in another trap. He made a signal to the ships of his fleet to "charge the enemy; ram; the ships are to attack without regard of consequences." His destroyers swarmed forward to the attack.

Hipper still was on the destroyer to which he had transferred from the Luetzow, so Hartog in the Derfflinger led the German battle cruisers, minus the Luetzow, in what appeared to be a forlorn hope. The four battle cruisers were struck by shells a number of times and still further damaged. They accomplished little, but the attack by the destroyers under Commodore Heinrich saved the Germans. The destroyers, 13 in number, pressed forward, firing no fewer than 20 torpedoes and throwing the British into utter confusion. The British battle fleet actually fled before the attack of the little German wasps. Jellicoe by his flight here lost the opportunity to make the battle decisive. In giving way before the German destroyers he presented Scheer with the opportunity to escape from the second trap.

After the war Jellicoe wrote in explanation of his action that "present in my mind was the necessity of not leaving anything to chance in a fleet action, because our fleet was the one and only factor that was vital to the existence of the British empire."

Many have been the words of criticism directed at the British admiral for his extreme caution at this development of the battle of Jutland.

In the destroyer attack that apparently caused Jellicoe to lose his nerve temporarily the Germans lost the S-35 and two other of their vessels were badly damaged.

The distance between the British and the German battle fleets at 7:35 was 16 miles, and 10 minutes later the Germans, moving in a direction west of south behind their smoke screens, were out of sight of Beatty's ships, which were seven miles in advance of the British battle fleet.

Despite the fact that Scheer twice had found himself in a trap and twice had extricated himself, he refused to be forced farther to the west. At 7:53 he changed his course to the southward and at 8:20 Beatty caught up with his battle cruisers. The British battle cruisers again engaged the squadron of similar German vessels, inflicting still more damage on the Seydlitz and the Derfflinger. Here the six old battleships of the German 2d squadron—the Deutschland, Pommern, Schesien, Hanover, Schleswig-Holstein, and Hessen—covered the retirement of the German battle cruisers.

The battle moved southward. At 9 o'clock the two hostile fleets again were in contact, about six miles apart. It was about this time that Scheer altered his course slightly to the east, intending to fight his way thru to Horn reef regardless of the cost. The high sea fleet in crossing the British line of movement was compelled to break thru the enemy light cruisers. The action of the night was under way.

The German 7th destroyer flotilla at 9:58 had a brush with the 4th British flotilla, and soon after that the German cruisers Hamburg and Elbing engaged the British 11th flotilla. At 10:45 the German light cruiser Frauenlob was sunk with a loss of 319 lives, and the cruisers Muenchen, Hamburg, Stettin, and Elbing were damaged by gunfire.

Jellicoe's flagship, Iron Duke, as it appeared during recent maneuvers.

In the darkness the battle degenerated into a confusion of individual actions in which the British destroyers Sparrowhawk, Tipperary, Turbulent, Ardent, and Fortune were destroyed. The 4,900-ton German light cruiser Rostock was hit by a torpedo and sunk. Several collisions occurred in the darkness. The German 4,400-ton light cruiser Elbing, in trying to pass thru its own battle line, was rammed by the battleship Posen. It did not sink, however, until 2:10 a. m., after its crew had been taken off.

One of the strangest incidents of the night was the head-on crash of the British destroyer Spitfire and the German battleship Nassau. Neither vessel, however, was sunk. The British 15,350-ton cruiser Black Prince blew up under the fire of the German battleships and sank at ten minutes past midnight, its entire crew of 857 going down with the ship.

Just as the first gray streaks of dawn were noticeable in the east the British 12th destroyer flotilla pressed forward to within 1,500 yards of the German battle line to deliver a torpedo attack. The German 13,200-ton battleship Pommern, a third line ship, and the destroyer V-4 were sunk as a result of this attack. The Pommern, with its crew of 840, went down at 2:10 a. m.

It was only shortly before this tragedy that the captain of the crippled Luetzow transferred his crew to four destroyers and sunk his own vessel, knowing that he could not get back to Germany with it.

In the fighting of the night Jellicoe reached the decision to close in to Horn reef at daylight to cut off the retreat of the enemy, but when the time arrived for this he found the vessels of his fleet too widely scattered to carry out his plans. Thus his last chance vanished at 3 o'clock in the morning when Scheer, with all of his fleet except the 2d destroyer flotilla, arrived off Horn reef and found the line of retreat to Germany open.

In broad daylight the battered Germans steamed into the Jade basin, well satisfied with what they had accomplished against the British.

As the British vessels worked their way homeward German submarines hung upon their flanks like wolves on the edge of a flock of sheep, but the U-boats were unable to register a hit with their torpedoes.

The British in the battle of Jutland lost 14 vessels with a total tonnage of 112,730. The Germans lost 11 vessels with a total tonnage of 61,180. The British lost 6,945 men, the Germans 2,921.

Of the five capital ships sunk in the action all but one were battle cruisers, and the one exception was the outdated German battleship Pommern.

Like all battle cruisers of that day, the four which were destroyed at Jutland—the Queen Mary, Indefatigable, Invincible, and Luetzow—were in the main more vulnerable than contemporary battleships. Superior in speed to the latter, they were not so well protected with armor except in the case of the Luetzow, which possessed 12-inch side armor.

The fight at Jutland brought to light a fundamental weakness in the design of the British battle cruisers. This weakness, according to a recent book, "The Riddle of Jutland," by Langhorne Gibson and Vice Admiral J. E. T. Harper of the British navy, permitted the flash of shell detonation and powder fires to penetrate the magazines of two of the vessels (Queen Mary and Indefatigable), resulting in their loss. This weakness, according to the same book, should have been corrected after the battle of Dogger Bank in January, 1915, when the battle cruiser Lion had all but suffered an identical fate.

Winston Churchill in his work "The World Crisis" points out that "The Queen Mary and the Indefatigable most likely were destroyed by flashes down the turret ammunition hoists. Had these two vessels been constructed so that the shell flashes could not reach down to their vitals it is possible that they would have survived Jutland.

After the battle Admiral Jellicoe commented upon "the indifferent armor protection of our battle cruisers, particularly as regards turret armor and deck plating."

Much has been made of the alleged poor visibility at the battle of Jutland, and frequently British naval experts have seized upon it as an excuse for Jellicoe's inability to decisively defeat the Germans. A thoro study of weather conditions of that day discloses, however, that on the whole they were normal for that area at that season. As Lieutenant Commander Arnold E. True of the United States navy points out in a recent article in the United States Naval Institute Proceedings, "the visibility on the afternoon of the battle was better than normal until tremendous volumes of smoke were poured into the atmosphere."

It will be recalled that 250 war vessels, all pouring smoke into the air from their funnels, were moving about rapidly in a relatively small area of the sea on the fateful day of May 24 years ago next Friday. It was mostly the smoke, therefore, rather than haze or fog that cut down visibility—a condition that might have arisen on almost any sea on a calm day.

Altho the visibility was normal for that part of the North sea, Jutland was the first battle in history in which the range of the guns equaled and sometimes exceeded the range of visibility.

The Germans, with their superior meteorological service, were in better position than the British that day to know what kind of weather conditions to expect.

New York—City of Rackets

How Gang High Life Boosts High Cost of Living

● This is another chapter in the amazing story of "Gang Rule in New York." Earlier instalments have revealed the careers of men such as Jimmy Hines, fallen political leader; Arnold Rothstein, banker for the underworld; Legs Diamond and Dutch Schultz and other powerful hoodlums.

By CRAIG THOMPSON and ALLEN RAYMOND

(Copyright: 1940: By Craig Thompson and Allen Raymond.)

THE WORD RACKET, used among hoodlum gangsters before prohibition to designate a dance or other entertainment to which tickets were sold, often by force, to small merchants of a neighborhood, was brought by them during the 1920s into the field of big business.

"What's your racket?" became the accepted way of asking a new acquaintance what business he followed. It might be peddling narcotics, driving a beer truck, or hijacking aspirin trucks. It might be door-to-door selling of vacuum cleaners. But if it was a source of income it was a racket.

In New York, as time progressed, a specific kind of criminal enterprise was developed. It was a system whereby, thru the creation of a so-called trade association, by the connivance, coöperation, or control of a labor union, and the use of a strong arm squad, a process of shaking down merchants or other industrialists was smoothed out to machine efficiency.

This type of racket became fastened to a wide variety of industries in New York. The period between 1925, when these industrial rackets began to multiply, and 1933, when prohibition was repealed, saw a condition in which extortion was piled on extortion until the average family budget was under a severe strain.

It is idle to suppose that any one alone pays the burden of such a toll—but the consumer in most cases pays most of it. The merchant, whether he is a willing or a reluctant victim, does not always pay the racketeer; he simply advances sums which are in turn collected from his customers in advanced prices. If his customers are not the ultimate consumers, the added price is passed on until the consumer pays it. And in some industries, a levy was paid at each succeeding step.

The effect of all these extortions upon an average New York family became considerable before the 1930s. Consider, for instance, a man named Jones, a hypothetical fellow, a man of temperate habits, with a wife and two children, living in a 16 family apartment house where he rents four rooms at $50 a month, or about $5 per month more than he would have to pay in a racket free community.

A part of his rental charge is traceable to the unnecessarily high original cost of the building. The builder who put up the building had been forced by racketeers to use the materials of certain manufacturers. Otherwise, under a secondary boycott, the union artisans in building trades would not have worked, and the structure housing the Jones family would have never been finished. It seems hardly necessary to report that these materials which had to be used were higher in price than similar products of other manufacturers.

Another part of John Jones' rental toll to the rackets is traceable to taxes, for, where the additional costs in private construction are drained off to destinations that are never clear, in public buildings the same additional costs are imposed and the general tax rate to support those buildings and the politicians in them becomes higher.

Thru his rent John Jones contributes his share of the real estate tax for judges who aid the racketeers and do not judge, prosecutors who aid the racketeers and do not prosecute, detectives who do not catch criminals, and patrolmen who do not police their beats any too well, all in order that the racketeer may continue free to impose his other taxes.

In his apartment John Jones arises on a workday morning and puts on a clean shirt for the laundering of which he has been charged an extra price to enable Owney Madden to buy baubles for an extra blonde. He puts on a fresh suit for the cleaning and pressing of which the tailor tacked on an extra dime or so as tribute to Lepke Buchalter (New York's racketeer No. 1, now awaiting sentence under the habitual criminal law) and indirectly to help keep inexhaustible the hundreds of thousands of dollars in Tammany District Leader Thomas M. Farley's "wonderful tin box," and goes in to breakfast.

The toast he eats was sliced from a loaf that Mrs. Jones paid a penny more for than she might have. Here again is tribute to Lepke and his partner, Gurrah Shapiro, helping them to live in a style to which Jones does not even aspire and to maintain a company of 250 thugs on their pay roll. This tax on the Joneses' toast was collected in two instalments. First the trucking union, local 138 of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Stablemen's Helpers International, taken over by murder, had been used as an instrument to make the flour jobber keep up his membership in the Flour Truckmen's association, thereby raising the price he charged the baker. Then, by means of the same union, the baker had been forced to buy membership in another association, the cost of which he quite naturally adds to the price of the loaf.

Into his coffee John Jones pours cream that Mrs. Jones bought the day before at the corner grocery. She may have complained that milk had gone up a cent a quart recently, or she may not—what matter? She paid, and that was that. She didn't know, and neither did Jones, that Larry Fay had perfected his New York Milk Chain association with 94 wholesalers as members who had agreed to fix prices.

Jones goes to his office. Walking from his apartment house to the subway, he stops in at the customary cigar store to buy his favorite newspaper. Ordinarily he lays down his change and picks up his paper and goes on. This morning he hasn't change, and he steps inside to pay. There are two boys there, school children, one of them about the age of his own John Jr., standing in front of a slot machine. One puts in a coin and pulls down the arm of that machine. Both stare with fascination at the spinning drums, and the boy who makes them twirl turns away with rueful face as a lemon, a bar, and a bell slap into line.

"Yah—no lunch for you today!" his companion jeers as he steps up to the machine to make a play on his own.

Frankie Costello, in the comfortable bed from which he had not yet risen, and Dandy Phil Kastel in his Stamford, Connecticut, home naturally do not see what John Jones sees, and even if they do it is doubtful they would feel the same indignation that Jones feels as he continues toward his subway. Because a portion of the nickels, dimes, and quarters that more than 5,000 such machines may collect any day in New York City keep Costello and Kastel well supplied with folding money.

After Mary Jones, John's wife, has seen the children off to school, she dresses and goes downtown for some shopping. Mrs. Jones needs a new winter coat. She hopes to get a cloth coat with a nice piece of fur for a collar and a good satin lining and heavy interlining. She looks in several Fifth avenue stores, but her experience is a little depressing. The coats that Mary Jones would like to own are too expensive, and the coats that she can afford all seem to her to be too sleazy, not the right style, not well made, or with fur too obviously shoddy. For Mary Jones a winter coat is an event.

Mary Jones doesn't know, of course, that a part of her difficulty is traceable to Lepke and Gurrah, or their successors, nor does she know that no matter what coat she buys, there will be a part of its price that goes for tribute to this pair of ex-killers, or others like them. The big racketeers, of course, come to the point where they no longer commit the murders on which their enterprises are in part based. It is at once undignified and unsafe for the boss to do jobs that are better left to hirelings. But of that coat for Mrs. Jones, the fur was trimmed and sewed in a shop that paid tribute to the racketeers. The cloth was cut to pattern and sewed in a shop the owner of which had been severely beaten before he agreed to join an association dominated by racketeers, and the lining and interlining had been manufactured in plants similarly under subjection. And whether Mary Jones were seeking a dress or a hat, or even some new underwear, she would have to pay tribute on any of them. And to the same pair of hoodlums in the early 1930s!

At lunch time Mary Jones calls her husband and they go to a restaurant near his office. It is pleasant to meet John like this and have a meal away from home occasionally. Mary Jones orders some fish. Her family doesn't care much for fish, so she seldom has it at home, and she wants it now. The price of that fish was a little higher in the 1920s and 1930s than it might have been had not Joseph Socks Lanza, thru his two instruments of control in the Fulton Fish Market, the Seafood Workers' union, local 594, and his Fulton Market Watchmen's and Protective association, levied a private tax on every pound of fish that went thru the market. And the total check in the restaurant was a little more than it needed to be because the restaurant owner had recently settled a strike with local 16, of the Waiters' union, and paid Dutch Schultz $4,000 for the privilege of making the settlement.

Certainly the restaurant keeper couldn't be expected to

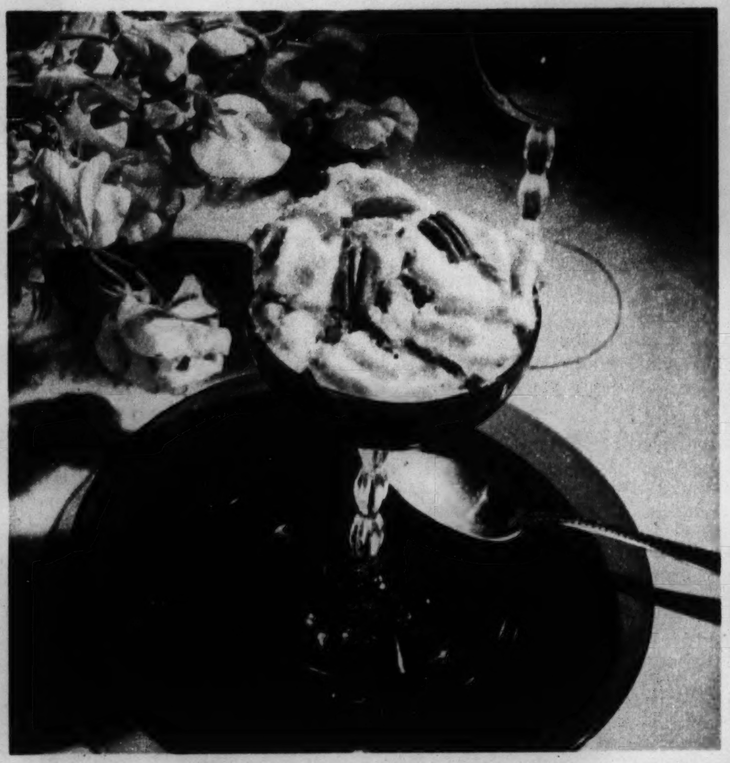
Cool Refreshments for Hot June Days

By MARY MEADE

HOT REFRESHMENTS for unwarm weather have occupied the minds of hostesses for so many months that the approach of June and cold refreshments is most welcome.

Caramel pecan ice cream made with marshmallows is going to be a party favorite the rest of spring and during summer, I think. It's rich and creamy in texture, and the caramelly flavor is delightful.

To make caramel sirup for flavoring the ice cream and other desserts, melt 1 cup granulated sugar in a heavy skillet over slow heat, stirring constantly until the sirup is golden brown. Add a cup of hot water gradually. The sirup will harden into lumps. Continue to stir until lumps dissolve and you have a golden caramel sirup. This will keep well in a covered jar.



Caramel sirup and marshmallows make this home-frozen ice cream smooth in texture and delicious in flavor.

CARAMEL PECAN ICE CREAM
(Serves six)

32 marshmallows
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons caramel sirup
½ pint whipping cream, whipped
½ cup broken pecan meats

Place marshmallows and 2 tablespoons of milk in a saucepan and heat slowly, folding over and over until marshmallows are about half melted. It may be safer to use a double boiler for this procedure. Remove from heat and continue folding process until marshmallows are smooth and fluffy. Cool. Add rest of milk and caramel sirup. Blend thoroly and fold in whipped cream. Pour into freezing tray. Freeze at coldest temperature, stirring twice during freezing. Fold in nut meats when stirring for the second time. Serve in sherbet glasses and top with whole pecan meats.

Frosty tea punch with little cherry cookies will be welcomed at any party. The tea drink may be served in tall frosted glasses, or, as shown in the picture, from a punch bowl, with punch cups for the women and pottery mugs for the men.

FROSTY TEA PUNCH
(Serves six)

1 quart hot freshly brewed tea
12 sprigs mint
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
6 whole cloves
6 tablespoons lemon ice
1 bottle carbonated water

Pour the hot tea over the mint leaves crushed in the sugar. Add the cloves and pour over crushed ice. Add carbonated water. Place a tablespoonful of lemon ice in each punch cup before filling with the beverage. If tall glasses are used for the drink, fill them three-fourths full of the iced tea mixture, add the spoonful of lemon ice to each glass, and fill with carbonated water.

Fresh cherries or the maraschino ones may be used to decorate these cherry tea cookies.

CHERRY TEA COOKIES

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon orange juice
Grated rind of 1 orange
Yolks of 3 eggs
Flour to make a stiff dough

Cream together butter and sugar until light. Add orange juice and rind. Beat in egg yolks one at a time. Work in enough flour to hold the mixture in shape. Chill, roll thin, and cut into tiny cookies. Brush each cookie with slightly beaten egg and decorate with a cherry. Bake at 350 degrees from 10 to 15 minutes.

The tiny cakes in the picture were cut from a sponge layer, iced with confectioners' sugar icing, and decorated with cherries.

Frosty tea punch may be served in tall frosted glasses or from a punch bowl in cups and mugs

From Nature's Palette

HORSE CHESTNUT blossoms are among the most beautiful and spectacular of all tree flowers. The horse chestnut is widely planted along city streets, especially in Europe. A single tree may have hundreds of blooms at one time, and the flower clusters sometimes are a foot long. Surrounding each flower are four leaves with much the same coloring as the flowers and each bearing seven slender leaflets that droop like half-folded umbrellas at the ends of the leaf stems. The delicate flowers and leaves become rugged individualists as the season advances, the flowers forming hard fruit, or buckeyes, with prickly shells. The leaves often hang on in the fall after other trees are bare. The blooms usually open in the Chicago area early in May. The trees reach a maximum height of 100 feet.

● The Austrian pine is a beautiful evergreen tree, growing much in the shape of a pyramid and often reaching a height of 90 feet. A native of southern and central Europe and Asia Minor, it is one of the most widely cultivated pines in the United States because it does well under city conditions. The cones are egg-shaped and about three inches long. The dark green needles, borne two in a sheath, are four to six inches long. There are many horticultural varieties, and they thrive well in most any well drained soil. It is best planted on a north slope.

● The European larch, closely related to and often called tamarack, is notable among evergreen trees for the beauty of its flowers. The blooms occur at the tips of leafy shoots and later develop seed cones about twice as large as the flowers. Botanists have no clear explanation for the brightly colored flowers of this tree, since they are strictly wind-pollinated and the color can have nothing to do with attracting insects. The trees reach a height of 100 feet or more and are valuable for timber in northern and central Europe.

● One of the most beautiful and fragrant of all our native middle western trees is the wild crab, which blooms each May in the Chicagoland area. When the delicately pink flowers of this small species take command of a woodlot the result is a mass of pastel coloring which provides one of the most beautiful scenes of the year. The small, bitter tasting fruit of the wild crab is prized by farm housewives as a source of a tasty jelly.

The correct way to make a bed, at right, as compared with the wrong posture on the left.

The correct sewing posture—feet flat on the floor, back fully braced by the chair.

Daily Tasks Can Help Posture

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Inc.)

MOTHERS, you are always telling your youngsters to do a thing right the first time; that doing it so saves time; that a thing done well, as all can tell, is the very best way.

Now they're getting after you with the handy maxims and homely training phrases. "They" are posture exponents.

"They" are putting on drives to make you realize that right in the confines of your own charming abode you have the equipment, the time, the money, everything to produce and sustain health and looks long after your first grandchild's wails announce his presence.

There's your daily bedmaking, say one bed, two, three, a half dozen, maybe, to be made up daily. Here's a stretching exercise of special value in body beautifying. Do you hump your back and strain your legs? If so, that explains your easy tiring. Study the technique of bending the knee, putting weight on the forward foot, and keeping the back straight. This prevents back strain and early fatigue and offers opportunity for a good beauty stretch for the diaphragm.

Then there's the daily running over of rugs and carpets. The right way to sweeep under a chair or to vacuum the rugs may not be such a drag on the spirits if you take it as a figure-beautifying exercise. Study the right way, bending at the knees in place of keeping them stiff. Keep a straight back and a contracted abdomen. You conserve energy sweeping the right way.

Then there's the too familiar sewing attitude, and wrong. It brings on premature fatigue, the posture authorities guarantee, by stretching the muscles of the back and legs. And it invites the ugly rounded shoulder and double chin. The right way is the way to sew and preserve figure and energy. Keep feet flat on floor, one ahead of the other. Keep the back of the body straight and supported by the back of the chair, and sew to your heart's and body's content.

The right way to pick up an object from the floor preserves good posture. Knees are well bent, back straight, abdomen contracted, shoulders and back level.

Picking up something can be graceful and not harmful to posture if done this way.

pocket the loss without making some effort to get it back from his customers.

After the lunch, Mary Jones goes back to her shopping for an hour or so and then returns home in time to meet the children coming home from school. They want to go to a movie, and she gives them the price of the tickets.

Those admissions, to invert the picture, provide the operator of that motion picture house with a somewhat larger profit than he might otherwise have had. He has made an arrangement with a gangster dominated trade union—Lepke's and Gurrah's—that has made it possible to hire an operator for his projection room at less than the previous union scale, and made it possible, also, to cut out an extra operator and thus save his salary.

When Jones went home he had a dinner which included more bread and more milk, and finally went to bed with Mary Jones, whose rayon pajamas had been cut and sewed in a shop that had been shaken down by Lepke and Gurrah.

Now John Jones has always been a sap as distinguished from a sucker. He does not frequent night clubs — for one thing, he could not afford it, and for another his tastes do not run that way. So, of course, he makes no contributions to the host of big and small fellows who helped fatten the racketeer owners thru these enterprises. He does not make bets on the horses, so that the bookmakers were not profited by his existence. He does not use narcotics, and therefore Arnold Rothstein or his successors, including Lepke and Gurrah, Luciano and others who were remote bosses of the several narcotic peddling bands at work in the city, also did not profit from his living. Jones, being a happily married man, naturally does not patronize the call flats, which is another loss for Luciano and those of his henchmen who preyed on the prostitutes after Luciano was jailed.

Jones does not make bets on the lotteries, either the numbers game which Schultz owned, or the Italian lottery which was under the control of Luciano, and so he again escaped them. But still his part of the toll was large—because he was alive and ate to live. He was not an Italian and paid nothing to Ciro Terranova or those who succeeded him in command of a racket on artichokes—a vegetable favored by Italians—nor was he an orthodox Jew whose poultry must be killed by a schochet in the rabbinical manner and this let him out of the large group who made their contributions to Joey Weiner and Charles and Arthur Herbert.

But then, John Jones is only one resident in a city of 7,000,000 and among so large a number there are always enough to keep all such enterprises going, and others as well.

The various methods of laying a tax on the citizenry at home, at work, and at play did not all flourish at one time; some lasted only a short time and some thru the years. In the years from 1930 to 1935 they reached the highest peak of their operations and the maximum of their toll—during the very time when Roosevelt was grooming himself for the presidency and taking it; when Tammany was fighting for the mayoralty and losing; and the city and nation were sinking into the gloom of a deep depression.

There is not now, and there will never be, any exact computation of what the racket tolls have aggregated. Crime has paid off in the millions. While the money barons of Wall street were sinking down almost to the level of common folk, this motley mob of Jake the Mocks, Cocaine Mannies, Dandy Phils, and Willie-Willies became, so far as money makes upper classes, a part of the upper class of its time. The gangsters bought big hotels and opened opulent night clubs; they purchased state legislatures and opened race tracks. They bought Follies girls for evening companions and came reasonably close to making every third well formed woman a blonde. For these were the gentlemen who really preferred the blondes.

Hints About Caring for Puppies

EACH spring and summer thousands of American families invest in friendly, playful puppies which soon become faithful, lovable members of the household.

It is natural that many families favor this time of the year for buying a puppy. When the weather is pleasant the puppy can be kept outdoors much of the time (in a kennel yard) and thus get the beneficial sun vitamins which are so necessary for the healthy growth of a young puppy. Secondly, it is easier to teach a puppy its house manners during pleasant weather. Puppies need to be taken outdoors many times a day when they are being house-broken, and the members of the family are more apt to do this job willingly during the warm months.

Keeping the new pup outdoors in a small yard is excellent training for it. The lesson which the pup learns is that it must not expect human company all the time and demand attention every minute of the day. If it doesn't get this training the owner may have trouble with it later. As a rule the dogs that whine and bark and destroy furniture when left alone are the ones that never were taught to stay by themselves part of each day.

If you buy your puppy from a reliable breeder he will give you tips about the proper feed for your pet. The important foods for the young puppy from six to twelve weeks old are milk, meat (beef or lamb), prepared dog foods, and small amounts of vegetables. Puppies should be fed at least four times a day until they are 10 weeks old, with meat (either fresh, from the table, or as it comes in a high-grade canned food) making up about 50 per cent of its diet.

It's a good idea to decide early where the pup should sleep and train him to use that place always. Some owners, especially apartment dwellers, who must house-break their dogs with papers, place the puppy's bed in a bathroom. But wherever the new arrival sleeps, by all means give him a comfortable box or basket. Some dog owners like the idea of a large, deep box bed for the pup so he can't climb out of it at night. Others believe a low box or basket with papers around it is better. The puppy will be quite apt to use these papers and thus get started on his lessons in house manners. A piece of old carpet or similar bedding should be placed in the box or basket. The pup's bed may be placed in a clean, dry basement, but no dog should be forced to sleep in a damp cellar, subject to dangerous drafts.

One question that commonly puzzles the owner of a new puppy is when and how to administer worm medicine. Almost all pups must be treated for the common round worm. Reliable breeders usually worm their dogs before selling them, so it is wise to ask the breeder about this subject when you take the pet from the kennel. After you have had the puppy in the home for several weeks it may need to be wormed again. This may be done safely and easily if the owner buys a reliable vermifuge and follows directions. There are safe worm remedies which one may buy in drug stores or pet shops. The important thing for the owner to keep in mind is this: Don't give the pup worm medicine unless he needs it.

When a cute pup is brought into the home it's only natural that the children will want to play with him at once. Very often this gay reception is overdone, with the result that the pup is exhausted. This condition, plus his natural nervousness at being surrounded by so many strange sights and noises, may make him ill. So it's a good idea not to subject the new member of the family to a great deal of roughhouse play at first.

A mistake made by many dog owners is that of placing a collar or harness on the new puppy and dragging the scared pet around the yard or down the sidewalk. There is no better way to make a dog leash-shy for life.

Over they go on command. A German shepherd and a Rottweiler show how they can take a hurdle such as is used in obedience trials.

Don't be in a hurry to put a collar and leash on your puppy. Let him get acquainted with his home and develop confidence in you and himself. Then he'll be ready for a lesson with the leash. Some day when you are playing with your puppy snap a small leash on his collar, but don't touch it for some time afterward. Let the pup run around with it as he pleases. The point is to get him used to the trailing leash. When he doesn't mind it you may pick it up. The first time you take hold of it, tighten up a little on it when he is coming toward you. Repeat this several times. Then you may tighten up a little more while running around with him and gradually begin to guide his movements. Never drag him on a leash. If you have your pup outside on the lawn or on the sidewalk, and he should plunk himself down during these leash lessons and not want to move, get ahead of him and call him. When he comes to you again, exert a little pressure on the leash.

You Cannot Worm Your Dog WRONG

—if you follow the sound, "no-guess," commonsense Pulvex Worming Method.

The Pulvex Worming Method (embodied in every package of Pulvex Combination Treatment Worm Capsules) insures your worming your dog properly for those worms . . . even though you've had no worming experience. It is so sure that many breeders of champion dogs say the Pulvex Worming Method is the method the average dog owner should use.

Your dog can have Tape, Round (ascarid), Hook or any combination of those worms at the same time. Your dog should, therefore, always be wormed for all those worms whenever you worm him.

Contrary to common belief, no single-type capsule made can expel all those three worms. Two types of capsules must be used. Each package of Pulvex Capsules contains two types of capsules which, given a few days apart, expel Tape, Round (ascarid) or Hook Worms—not just one or two kinds of worms.

Avoid worming your pet wrong for those worms. Worm only with Pulvex Capsules. Packaged two ways: for puppies; for dogs. Either type 50c. At Drug, Pet, Department stores.

Prehistoric Lake Chicago—Its Records in the Sands

● This is the second of two articles on the subject of the geology of the Chicago area. The first article, which appeared in this section last Sunday, discussed the formation of moraines in this area during the glacial periods.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

VIRTUALLY all of the city of Chicago proper rests upon a low, level plain that once, many thousands of years ago, was the bed of a lake. Lake Chicago, geologists call this lake that vanished years ago. They associate it with the final phases of the last glacial period, explaining that it was formed when the continental ice sheet retreated northward, leaving trapped between the ice sheet itself and the higher lands to the south and west of this region a body of water whose maximum level was approximately 55 feet higher than that of present-day Lake Michigan.

The shores of Lake Chicago at its highest stage were, as was disclosed in a geological map of the Chicago area printed in this department last Sunday, the ridges of earth, termed moraines, that had been built up at the edge of the ice sheet as it slowly receded under the gradually warming rays of the sun. These moraines, which are conspicuous in the region around Chicago but which rise within the city limits at only two places, form concentric loops around the lower end of Lake Michigan and appears as a series of ridges parallel to the lake shore here. These moraines in the vicinity of Chicago all were formed while an ice cap or glacier overlay what is now Lake Michigan and before it receded, and were instrumental in the formation of Lake Chicago.

Geologists generally agree that there were three marked stages, determined by three different levels, of this ancient lake, according to the bulletin "Geology of the Chicago Region" by Dr. J Harlen Bretz, professor of geology of the University of Chicago. It was Dr. Bretz's bulletin that provided material for this article. During all stages Lake Chicago discharged westward to the Mississippi by way of the lower Des Plaines and the Illinois rivers.

At the highest stage the water level was about 55 feet higher than that of the lake that now washes the shores of Chicago. This was the earliest stage of Lake Chicago, as geologists have determined from reading the records left by nature. At the intermediate stage the waters of the ancient glacial lake were 35 feet higher and at the final stage about 20 feet higher than Lake Michigan today. The surface of Lake Chicago is usually thought of by scientists as having been lowered rather rapidly from one stage to the next. The cause of the lowering, according to Dr. Bretz, is commonly considered to have been downcutting of the outlet channel, altho geologists are not all agreed on it.

In the layman's mind there may be some wonder as to how geologists know of the existence of the ancient glacial lake and how also they have figured out that it had three distinct stages. The explanation is fairly simple. Each stage of the old lake naturally had a separate shore line where the action of the waves against the shore over countless years formed a beach. The location of these shores is determined today by the presence of beach deposits—in other words, by the finding of ridges of beach sand.

It requires a long time (perhaps not geologically speaking, but at least as history measures time) for nature to construct a beach such as the one that now stretches along the shore line of Chicago. Therefore each of Lake Chicago's three water levels must have existed over a considerable span of time in order to allow for the tedious task of collecting the sand to form a beach. Moreover, the periods in between must have been relatively short, since beach deposits cannot be found today between the beach lines of the three distinct stages.

The three stages of Lake Chicago have been given names to distinguish them more easily each from the others. The earliest and highest stage—that in which the water was about 55 feet higher than the present lake level—is termed the Glenwood stage, after the village of Glenwood, which lies about four and a half miles south of Harvey and about the same distance west of the Indiana state line. Beach deposits near this village indicate where Lake Chicago's shore line was in this part of the area during the time of highest waters. Only the Glenwood shore has moraine topography on one side and lake bottom on the other, the shores of later stages having been made on what had been lake bottom during the earlier stages.

East of Glenwood, along the Glenwood-Dyer road, is a ridge which during the time of Lake Chicago's maximum stage was a small island. Actually this ridge is what remains of an especially high level of one of the moraines formed by the glacier, the so-called Tinley ground moraine. The north side of this elevation that thousands of years ago was an island is sheer and straight, its base 630 feet above sea level. At the beginning of the Glenwood stage no cliff existed here and the island extended for some distance to the north. Waves washing in from the lake on the north, however, cut the steep bluff, while the shallow waters south and behind the island were relatively free from attack by the waves. The earth cut away from the cliff built up a spit in the direction of where Dyer now is located.

Evidences of beach formation during the Glenwood stage are found at various other places—at Oak Park, Forest Park, Blue Island, between Morton Grove and Winnetka, and elsewhere. Waves from the open lake during the Glenwood stage undercut the Highland Park moraine, washing the débris southward and creating an expanse of beach sand now termed the Wilmette spit. Upon this spit is a tract of dunes that were formed after the spit was built up by the action of the water. The Chicago area, it might be mentioned here, however, is comparatively free of dunes, which, as most folk know, are sand hills created by the action of onshore winds. Chicago and the rest of the west shore of Lake Michigan have few dunes because their onshore winds are east winds, and east winds are usually accompanied by rains, which make the sand too wet to drift before the winds.

The intermediate stage of Lake Chicago, at which time the water level was 35 feet higher than today, is known as the Calumet stage. Beach deposits of this stage are in considerably greater volume than those of the previous stage. The 20-foot drop of the water level between the Glenwood and the Calumet stages drained all of the bays of the earlier stage and exposed vast areas of the former lake bottom.

Mount Forest Island, a triangular island at the outlet of the great stream that drained Lake Chicago toward the southwest, by the lowering of the water was joined to the relatively small island to the east known as Blue Island. Wilmette spit became part of the shore line, and a new spit, the Rose Hill, was formed to the east. Deposits of this spit are a mile wide at the line of Howard street, the boundary between Chicago and Evanston, and extend southward into Chicago a distance of three and half miles. Northward from Howard street the spit follows the line of Ridge boulevard and is barely two blocks wide at the intersection of Ridge and Sheridan road.

The third stage of Lake Chicago goes by the name of the Toleston stage, after a village that was swallowed up in the growth of Gary, Ind. When the 15-foot drop in the level of the water between the Calumet and the Toleston stages occurred the lake was left just about 20 feet higher than Lake Michigan is today. Once more large areas of lake bottom were exposed, and the two arms of the stream that drained the lake were greatly extended. These are identified today as the Des Plaines and the Sag channels. Rose Hill spit became a shore line, and a new spit—the Graceland spit—was formed still farther to the east. Most of the stream courses of the Chicago plain were established at this time, and before the stage came to an end an abundant molluscan fauna appeared in the lake and driftwood came to be buried in the lake sediments. The Toleston shore is most pronounced in the area south of the Chicago river. To the north of that it is indefinite over many miles. This is because the lengthy Graceland spit protected the shore in behind it and reduced movement of the waves there. It requires wave action, as has been mentioned, to construct a beach. The Graceland spit is about 12 miles long and about one and a half miles wide at the widest part. It today is dry land, named after the cemetery that stands upon it. It is a considerable distance from the present lake shore line.

The Toleston stage was the last stage of Lake Chicago. Retreat of the ice front now opened a new and lower escapeway to the east, and more recent lake level changes, far less pronounced than those herein described, are associated with the lake as we know it today—Lake Michigan.

Glacial river deposits in the Chicago area indicate where once Lake Chicago drained to the south and west thru what was a great river. This river, according to geologists, was a part of the Mississippi system. It was only when the final stage of Lake Chicago terminated that the drainage to the southwest ceased and the relatively small rivers, the Chicago and the Calumet, were left to drain into the lake.

Forty years ago the sanitary district of Chicago completed a 28-mile canal extending from the Chicago river down the glacial outlet of Lake Chicago as far as Lockport. Upon the opening of this canal the flow of the water in the Chicago river and its south branch was reversed, and then for the first time in about 25,000 years water again flowed from the Lake Michigan basin into the Mississippi river.

The New Diesel Engine for Planes

American Motor Performs Remarkably in Tests

By WAYNE THOMIS

THE recorded history of aircraft Diesel motors in the United States has been a sad one up to this time. The only American engine that enjoyed even a brief fame was the Packard radial monovalve Diesel developed between 1926 and 1930 at a cost of several millions of dollars. The motor was extremely promising, but its production was halted following the death in an air crash of its designer, Maj. Lionel M. Woolson, chief aeronautical engineer of the Packard Motor Car company.

In Germany the Diesel development has been more successful. The great Junkers company brought out a line of successful Diesels intended for both commercial and military uses about 1933, and since that date large numbers of these engines have been in service. The German Diesels have received world acclaim. They are in the higher horsepower brackets, delivering 750 horsepower for takeoff, as compared to the Packard company's 220-horsepower rating for takeoff.

Altho German developments have received the greater publicity, they have been paralleled closely here during the last 10 years by experts of the Guiberson Diesel Engine company of Dallas, Tex., and within the last month their experimental work has been rewarded with a large military contract from the United States government for one of their newest types of Diesels. These engines will be built at the Buda company plant, Harvey, Ill.

The Guiberson engine is the third of its kind in the United States to hold an approved type certificate—an acknowledgment by the Civil Aeronautics authority that the motor has passed rigid tests for power and reliability. This new engine is a nine-cylinder radial type resembling in exterior appearance the Pratt & Whitney Hornet and the Wright Cyclone motors, that have electric ignition. The engine is a four-cycle type with two valves, one inlet and one exhaust, like electric-ignition motors.

The resemblance is carried over even to weight—notoriously the weakest point of Diesels in general. In the past aero Diesels have weighed as much as 3.5 pounds for each horsepower developed, while electric-ignition motors for the last two or three years have been down in the 1.25-pounds-per-horsepower class. The German Diesels weigh just over the 2-pound mark, and the Packard Diesels of 10 years ago weighed 2.26 pounds per horsepower. The Guiberson Diesel weighs only 2.1 pounds per horsepower.

S. A. Guiberson, right, and his son, Allen, examine the Diesel engine they manufactured and demonstrated for army officials.

This may not sound impressive, but an actual comparison made with this engine is more graphic. The Guiberson company purchased a Stinson Reliant airplane with a 320-horsepower Wright electric-ignition engine in it for a test ship. With the Wright the plane weighed 2,705 pounds without the disposable load. When the Wright was removed and the plane equipped with the 310-horsepower Guiberson Diesel engine, which has almost identical measurements, the weight of the ship, again without disposable load, was Front view of the Guiberson Diesel, showing similarity to conventional radial gasoline motors.

Rear view—indicating clearly the dual valve construction devised to give greater efficiency.

2,711 pounds, or only six pounds more.

Admittedly the Wright motor is lighter than the Guiberson. But the Guiberson needs no heavy, complicated carburetor heater (the Diesel has direct injection of fuel), nor does it require a heavy and complicated ignition harness to prevent interference with radio reception, because the Diesel motor has no electric ignition. Elimination of these gadgets brings down the practical weight of the motor to the point where for all intents and purposes it is comparable to that of the electric engine of similar power.

Carrying on their tests, the Guiberson engineers flew the Stinson before the Wright engine was removed. With the original motor the indicated maximum air speed was 155 miles an hour at 5,000 feet. And the absolute ceiling of the plane—the highest point to which it could climb—was 14,500 feet above sea level, as indicated by the plane's instruments.

With the Diesel installed the ship's indicated maximum air speed was 160 miles an hour at 2,000 feet, and the ship reached 16,500 feet while still climbing at an indicated rate of 500 feet a minute.

Fuel consumption in the Diesel was considerably less than in the Wright engine. Cruising at 240 horsepower, the motor burned 13 gallons an hour as an average during a 10-hour flight from Dallas to Birmingham, Ala., and Washington, D. C., recently. This is roughly four to five gallons an hour less than the average gasoline consumption of the Wright. And instead of paying from 22 to 25 cents a gallon for fuel the pilot used typical Diesel furnace fuel that cost him 5.5 cents a gallon. Total fuel costs for the flight amounted to $6.85 for roughly 1,500 miles. The oil burned as lubricant cost $1.40 a gallon, of which three gallons were consumed.

The Guiberson Diesel is virtually the same as the motor that is being ordered for U. S. army tanks. The aero engine has a slightly lighter propeller shaft and is equipped to operate a constant-speed propeller. Such a propeller has been installed on the engine that is now flying.

This motor represents nearly $1,500,000 spent by S. A. Guiberson and his son Allen, president and vice president of the company bearing their name. It is the third major type of motor they have built during their decade of experimenting. The first one had a rating of 185 horsepower, the second 240 horsepower. This present motor is rated to give 310 horsepower at a continuous crankshaft speed of 2,150 revolutions per minute. It is hoped that a takeoff rating of 340 horsepower can be obtained soon with 2,250 revolutions.

The earlier Guiberson Diesels followed Packard trends and were monovalve engines. In these motors the single valve served both for intake and exhaust. This was changed in the later motor, with more satisfactory results. The valves are not subject to special wear and give no indication that the problems which beset electric-ignition motors at the exhaust valve are present in the Diesel. The cylinders are forged steel barrels with aluminum alloy heads. Cooling fins much smaller in area than on electric engines keep the head temperatures on the average below 250 degrees while running.

This average temperature is surprisingly low. Head temperatures on electric-ignition engines run around 400 degrees on the average and sometimes approach 500 degrees in takeoff. This was explained by S. A. Guiberson as the result of relatively low maximum effective pressures in his engines. These are never more than 950 to 1,050 pounds per square inch in the cylinders. Electric-ignition engines of larger powers already are approaching these pressures. The Guiberson motor, however, has a compression ratio of 14:1, as compared to 7:1 for electric motors. The Guiberson packs in more air and consequently runs cooler.

The Guiberson fuel injection system is comprised of nine individual injection pumps of the vacuum type that have been developed to do away with the necessity for a governor. The pump plungers meter the fuel automatically and there is no leaning out of mixture in the Diesel with the gaining of altitude. Only at idling do the plungers take a smaller shot of fuel. The result of the constant shot of metered fuel to each cylinder is that the engine is extremely rapid in its acceleration from idling to full throttle.

Triple-orifice nozzles in the fuel injectors at the point where the solid fuel enters the combustion chamber assures the spraying of the fuel in minute droplets. This assists in slow, even burning and full efficiency in combustion. The fuel is injected under pressures of from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds per square inch. This contrasts with the German Diesel practice of injecting fuel at pressures of 10,000 pounds per square inch.

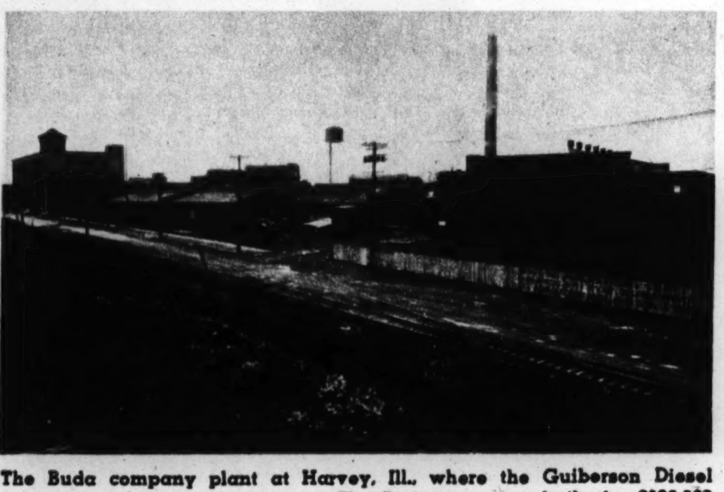
At this time the company is experimenting with motors of both higher and lower horsepower. It is no secret that experiments are under way to supercharge the A-1020 motor. In its supercharged condition it should deliver about 550 horsepower. A two-row motor of this type would develop over the 1,000-h.p. mark and be an ideal unit for commercial operations. Diesel fuel, it should be remembered, is inherently safe in case of accidents. A lighted match thrown into this oil merely sputters out. Only the terrific heat generated by the 14:1 compression ignites it.

By cutting the nine cylinders of the present motor down to seven or five it would be possible to reduce the power from the engine to the training type class of motor—170 to 220 horsepower. At this time not too much information is available about the overhaul periods required, but the company now guarantees 200 hours of trouble-free operation. Later this probably will be lengthened to the 400 to 600 hours of electric motors. An experimental supercharged A-1020 model recently was run at wide-open throttle continuously for 600 hours and then torn down for examination. No part showed any wear.

The Guiberson Diesel is a smooth, quiet engine in the air, and it is different from electric-ignition motors only in that it sometimes trails a slight smoky exhaust. The German pilots who flew Diesels said the German two-stroke engines ran "like sewing machines." The Guiberson engine apparently is in the same class, and this removes one theory that Diesels for aircraft would be rough and likely to give vibration trouble.

The arrangement with the Buda company calls for the Guiberson company to retain all its rights to the engine. Buda engineers will coöperate with the Guiberson personnel in future developments, but here again all rights will remain with Guiberson. The Buda company has built an entirely new air-conditioned foundry and assembly shop where the Guiberson motors are already in production.



The Buda company plant at Harvey, Ill., where the Guiberson Diesel engines are now in production. The Buda company built the $300,000 air-conditioned structure specifically for the rapid production of the engine.

Know Your Camera

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.
(Managing Editor, Popular Photography Magazine)

Zoo Photos Are Easy to Take

ALTHO intrepid men have brought back splendid photographs of wild animals in their natural habitat, it is to the zoos that we must turn for the majority of our good animal portraits.

If you have never tried your hand at taking pictures in the zoo, or if you had little luck on previous occasions, here are a few time-proven hints to follow. First of all, look around in the zoo and make up your mind which of the animals you want to photograph. The location of the cages, prevailing lighting conditions, and also the behavior of the particular animals in question should determine your choice.

You need good light for making effective pictures. It is simplest to concentrate on outdoor shots, as the interior of the animal house is usually dark. Your best bet is to take your pictures early in the morning. You will get interesting side-lighting at that time of the day which will add depth to your pictures, and you will also have more leisure to get the desired angle.

When calculating your exposures always remember that the coloring of most animals is dark. Don't be misled by the light color of the surrounding rocks or sand. If you want your pictures to show full details in the faces of the animals and the rich texture of their skins you must expose for just these details, disregarding the backgrounds.

This is particularly true if you plan to make animal "portraits." In pictures of this kind you will eliminate practically all the background and concentrate on the head of the subject. Whether you can successfully make such portraits will depend on how near you can get to the animals and how big an image your lens projects on your negative. If a wide moat separates you from the animals, and if your camera has a lens of normal focal length, the animals will fill only a small part of your negative. To make a "portrait" from such a negative means preparing a tremendous enlargement from a small section of the film. While this is entirely possible, it will work out only if you have a perfect negative—one that is needle sharp and correctly exposed.

If you can afford a telephoto lens or an inexpensive supplementary lens which, slipped over your present lens, enlarges the image, you will have far better luck in making animal portraits.

Where animals are kept in cages you can step up to within a few feet of your subjects. Don't let the wire netting between your lens and your subjects worry you. By holding the camera close to the netting and focusing on the animals the picture of the netting is thrown out of focus and does not show at all on the finished picture.

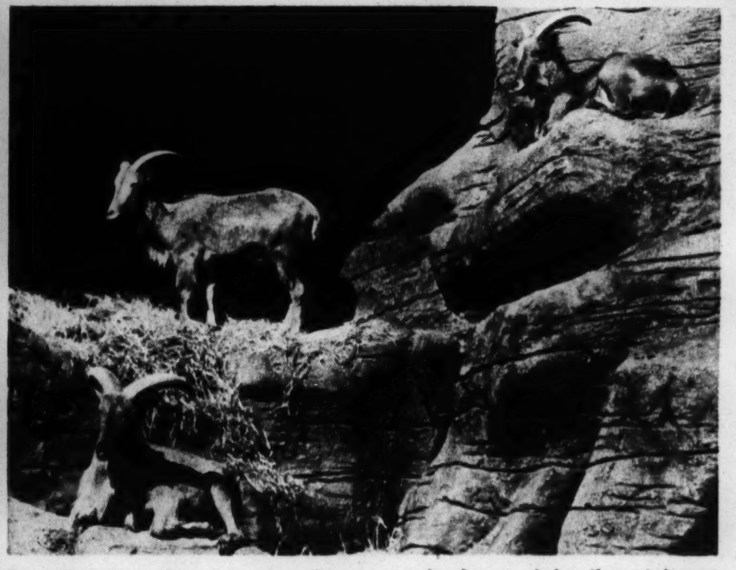
Don't ever stick your camera between the bars of a cage. You are dealing with unpredictable wild animals. They can pounce on you at any minute and either maul you or smash your camera. Always keep at a safe distance from the cages and follow the instructions of the keepers. You will do well to consult them, for they can tell you a lot about the habits of the animals and about how to get the best pictures.

If you want to snap animals in action, take your pictures shortly before feeding time, when most animals pace impatiently up and down in their cages, awaiting their food. The feeding itself also offers excellent picture possibilities.

However, most animals are fed indoors, and there you run up against problems of space and lighting. Take up a position in the front row before the crowd arrives to watch the feeding. Load the camera with the fastest film, put it on a tripod, or rest it on the bar that separates the spectators from the cages. Thus equipped, you may be able to get good pictures at exposures of 1/25 or 1/10 sec. Flash shots are prohibited in most zoos. Don't attempt to take them without permission. Wherever you are allowed to use flash you should guard against reflections from plate glass windows with which some of the cages are equipped.

The zoo is a good place to get not only pictures of animals but also amusing candid shots of people More often than not the people watching the animals are just as interesting camera subjects as the animals themselves.

(Tribune photos by Pavlin.)
This "portrait" of two lions was taken with a lens of normal focal length. By getting a sharp negative, full of detail, a section could be enlarged to give the effect of a close-up.



Try to eliminate from your zoo pictures any background detail reminiscent of captivity. The straw on the rocks is about the only detail that "gives away" this picture.

TROPI-TEX

"A Regular Business Suit That Weighs Only 43 Ounces"

$27.50
COAT AND TROUSERS

FOUR STAR TROPI-TEX $29.50

There is only one essential point of difference between the famous Tropi-tex Suit and your regular year-'round business suits. Tropi-tex is lighter in weight — a mere 43 ounces. This is due to the special Tropi-tex cloth — a pure worsted fabric loomed entirely of Naphthalated Worsted Wool which is virgin fleece cleansed in Naphtha baths to preserve all the strength and resiliency of the fibres. Tropi-tex cloth is thin, porous and cool, and holds its shape and crease like your year-'round clothes.

The patterns and colorings are the kind you are accustomed to wearing in your regular business suits — correct in fashion and tasteful in character. The tailoring and finish of Tropi-tex Suits is precisely like that in your best year-'round suits. Two or three Tropi-tex Suits in your wardrobe will carry you through in style and comfort from May to late September. And they will provide you with a new pleasure in your clothes.

Trousers tailored with Waldes Kover-Zip, the new invisible slide fastener

The British Lounge* Model

Tropi-tex Suits are available in the British Lounge* Model both single and double breasted. This is the modern type of suit which creates an illusion of added height, slimmer hips and more athletic chest and shoulders.

"Furious is the word for me . . . struggling with a stopped-up drain the afternoon I had a date to go for a swim with Sally. But miracles do happen . . .

"For smart little Sally skipped out and got a can of Drāno! We just poured a little Drāno into the drain and let Drāno dig it out, while we went off to have our fun. For Drāno, I learned, really does get right down to the stoppage and digs right through the clogging grease and muck—cleans the drain thoroughly. And, blessing of blessings!, you can use Drāno to avoid clogged drains. Just put a teaspoonful of Drāno down the drain each night, after the dishes!"

83,066 Letters

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of the Chicago Tribune, received last year a total of 83,066 letters commenting on his articles, asking advice and expressing gratitude for information he had given on individual problems of health.

Reader mail to his "How to Keep Well" column, appearing in the Tribune and other newspapers, exceeded the previous high year by more than 3,000 letters. It was also nearly double the number of letters received during Dr. Cutter's first year as the health editor of the Tribune.

The increasing reader response to Dr. Cutter's column indicates the growing appreciation of a service which typifies the practical way in which the Tribune advances the interest of the individual and the community.

Now they're six..

THE QUINS ARE LOVELIER THAN EVER!

And Palmolive, made with Olive Oil, is the only soap they've ever used!

Six years old, on May 28th! These five little darlings, with their lovely Palmolive Complexions, have left their baby years behind them and started gaily on their way toward glorious womanhood!

And what a wonderful start they have, with their exquisite skin kept so soft and smooth by Palmolive's gentle care!

Palmolive, you know, is the only soap the Dionne Quins have ever used. From the time of their first soap and water bath no other soap has touched their tender skin. A beauty lesson that you, dear Lady, might well take to heart—particularly if your skin is sensitive, the kind so likely to be too dry!

For if this soothing soap made with Olive and Palm Oils is best for guarding the delicate skin of the precious little Quins, don't you think you'd be wise to use it for your complexion, too? Why don't you use Palmolive, for both your face and bath?

THE QUINS USE ONLY PALMOLIVE THE SOAP MADE WITH OLIVE OIL!

"In your case, Mrs. Barry, I would not advise more insurance on little Ellen!"

1. MRS. BARRY: But, Mr. Williams, why not? We can afford some more life insurance now.

PRUDENTIAL AGENT: I know. And life insurance on Ellen is important, but she already has a policy. And remember, the most important purpose of your family's life insurance is to provide protection against the loss of your husband's income. He is the family provider.

2. PRUDENTIAL AGENT: You see—if anything happens to Ellen, her insurance policy will take care of the final expenses, and your husband's salary will still continue. But at your husband's death there will not only be final expenses, but you will no longer have his salary. Naturally, that will make it difficult for you and Ellen.

MRS. BARRY: That's perfectly true, Mr. Williams.

3. PRUDENTIAL AGENT: That's why, Mrs. Barry, if you can afford another policy, I would advise additional insurance on your husband's life, not on little Ellen's.

MRS. BARRY: I see just what you mean, Mr. Williams. And I want to thank you and The Prudential for showing me how important it is to use our additional premium money for life insurance on my husband.

Senior Class Presidents, coast-to-coast, announce—

"WE WANT PARKER"

by Voting nearly 3 to 1 for this Graduation Gift

Parker's BLUE DIAMOND means Guaranteed for Life

The No. 1 "Must" for Young Careers

as revealed when 136 College Newspapers questioned all these Student Leaders

GUARANTEED for LIFE ♦

Please do not think this is overstated, for these are the absolute figures—

Parker was voted the favorite by nearly 3 to 1 when 136 college newspapers from coast-to-coast recently asked the presidents of their graduating classes:

1st—Would you like a fountain pen as a Graduation Gift?

2nd—Which pen do you prefer?

The college papers interviewed all these class leaders so that friends and relatives might know accurately what students want. Almost to a man (and woman) they uttered a resounding "yes!" to question No. 1; and 72.06% of them named the Parker Pen their first choice!

Do be careful, however, to get the genuine Parker Vacumatic—not some so-called "vacumatic type" made to share its sweeping popularity. Then no one will be disappointed.

For in all the world there is no other pen like it! No other style like this smart, laminated Pearl—as shimmering as velvet. No other has this patented "One-Hand" Filler—a simple Diaphragm sealed in the top. It leaves nearly twice as much room for ink because it has no rubber sac or other old-time parts inside.

Hold this streamlined Beauty to the light and its patented Television barrel lets you SEE the level of ink. Hence it can't run dry unless you let it.

Its point, now termed "the lubricated writer," is super-refined 14 K Gold, skillfully tempered for resiliency—vastly better than ordinary 14 K gold. And it's tipped with selected, high-polished Osmiridium—as smooth as oil!

Parker's Blue Diamond Mark on the smart ARROW Clip means Guaranteed for Life—makes this classic pen cost even less than the poorest, for the owner will not have to buy another. All good pen counters have these gorgeous new Parker Graduation styles. See them today.

The EASIEST pen to fill—and the most convenient, as verified by tests made by Deavitt Laboratories, using 24 models of best-known brands.

Get the new laminated Pearl Parker Writefine Pencil to match the Vacumatic Pen $3.50 to $6.00

Another Parker scoop—Long Eraser can be turned UP, as used—obtainable only in Parker's surprising new

Writefine Pencil

Writes hair-line figures and letters—200, 300, 400 words, or more, on an ordinary postal card—39% thinner lead—double length and amazing strength

Now you can really write tiny, or you can write large, and either way your figures and letters line up as sharp and clear and orderly as a company of U. S. Marines. You can pack whole regiments of numerals and words in little pocket diaries, notebooks, order blanks, on columnar sheets and index cards—hair-line writing that will make the boss sing out, "Nice work!"

That's why so many concerns are furnishing these surprising new Parker Writefine Pencils, bearing their company imprint, to employees and customers—why so many thousands of individuals are tossing down a dollar at pencil counters, saying, "I'll take one."

They call the new Parker Dollar Writefine "The Post-graduate of pencils," because it begins where ALL other pencils leave off. For all-round utility there's nothing like it—not another one with this long Automatic Propel Eraser. Stop at the nearest pencil counter today and try it. And be sure it's a Parker Writefine.

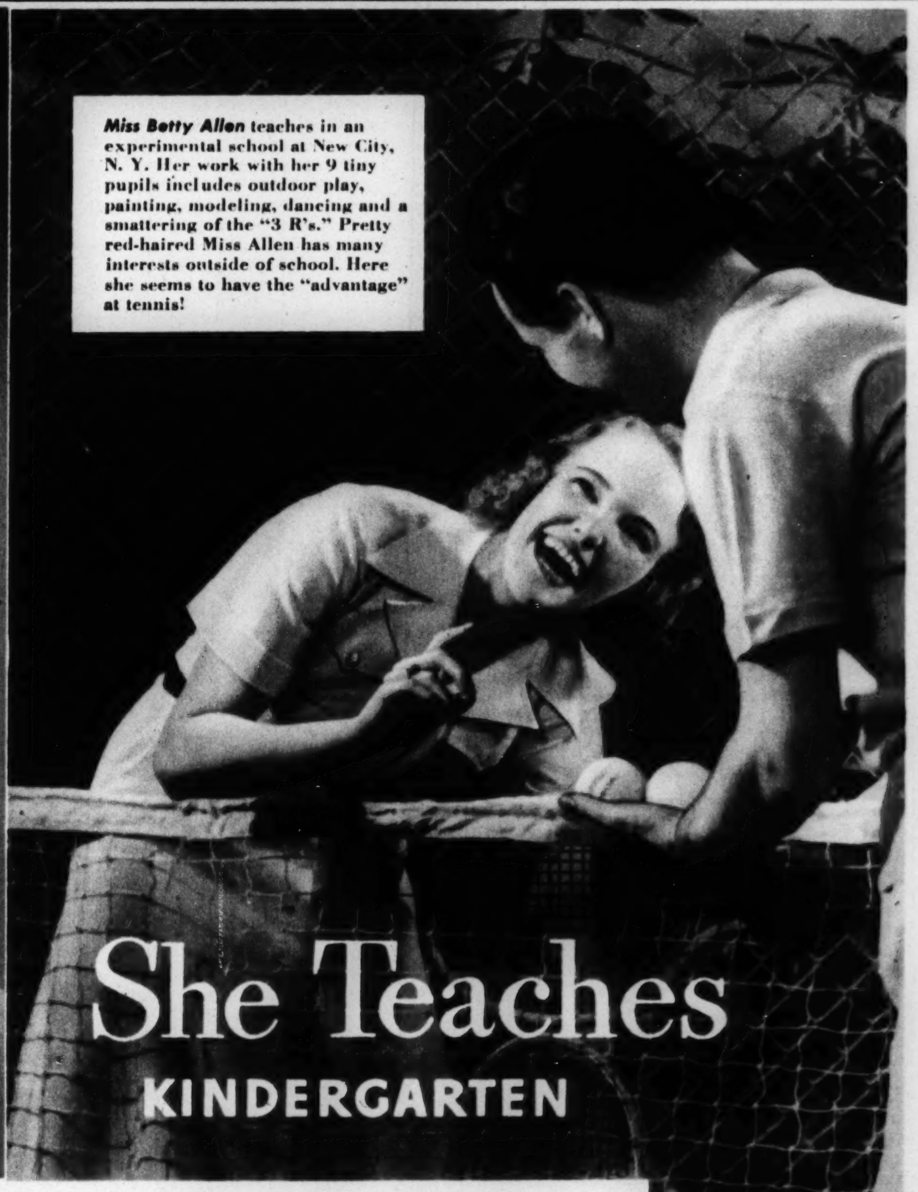
A CHILD OF SWEDEN.

Miss Beatrice Straight is a granddaughter of the late William C. Whitney, famous financier and diplomat. At the family's 14th-century castle, Dartington Hall, in Devonshire, England, was originated the drama group which is her consuming interest. This season, Society is welcoming Miss Straight to her native America.

She Sponsors THEATRE GROUP



Miss Betty Allen teaches in an experimental school at New City, N. Y. Her work with her 9 tiny pupils includes outdoor play, painting, modeling, dancing and a smattering of the "3 R's." Pretty red-haired Miss Allen has many interests outside of school. Here she seems to have the "advantage" at tennis!

She Teaches KINDERGARTEN

—but EACH guards her lovely complexion the very SAME WAY

"PERFECT FOR MY SKIN"

QUESTION TO MISS STRAIGHT: Miss Straight, is the English complexion really as radiant and lovely as we hear that it is?

ANSWER: "Yes—a good English complexion is lovely . . . just as lovely as a good American complexion! I think the charm of a girl's skin depends more on the care she gives it than where she lives. So whether I'm in England, America or in a far corner of the world—I always use Pond's 2 Creams. They're perfect for my skin."

QUESTION: Your complexion shows that, Miss Straight—but just how do you use your Pond's Creams?

ANSWER: "Every night, every morning and always before make-up, I cleanse my face with Pond's Cold Cream. These regular cleansings help keep my skin soft and supple, too. To smooth my skin for subtle, flattering make-up, I use Pond's Vanishing Cream. I adore Pond's Vanishing Cream—it's not a bit greasy . . . and so fragrant and fluffy."

"SMOOTHS IN A MINUTE"

QUESTION TO MISS ALLEN: Doesn't managing a lively group of youngsters keep a young teacher right up on her toes, Miss Allen?

ANSWER: "It surely does—and in more ways than one! My classroom 'public' is very observing and brutally frank. That's one reason why I'm so particular about my complexion. I use both Pond's Creams every day. No matter how busy I am—or how tired—I always cleanse and soften my skin with Pond's Cold Cream before going to bed at night, first thing in the morning, and often at noon, too. This care seems to give my skin just the fresh, soft look I want."

QUESTION: What do you do when sun and wind roughen and chap your skin?

ANSWER: "That's easy! Little roughnesses are smoothed away in a minute with Pond's Vanishing Cream. Just a light film of it and presto! My skin feels marvelous and has the ideal base for soft, faithful make-up."

Miss Straight is warmly received by members of the American Ballet when she goes backstage during intermission.

Clay-modeling class—Miss Allen knows that it takes a 4-year-old to be really serious about his "art."

NURSE TELLS facts about HARSH LAXATIVES

M.E.K., Registered Nurse, from Saráka World's Fair Exhibit answers typical questions asked about constipation by 218,000 visitors.

Q. IS SARÁKA INJURIOUS IF TAKEN REGULARLY?

A. No, that is one of its big advantages. Saráka does not have the violent, purging action of so many pills, salts, and liquid cathartics that contain harsh drugs. It does not irritate the delicate membrane as coarse roughage so often does. Saráka is as safe as it is effective.

Q. HOW DOES SARÁKA DIFFER FROM MANY OTHER BULK LAXATIVES?

A. It is not roughage but "softage." Saráka is free from the sharp seeds and scratchy particles that sometimes cause serious rectal irritation. Thousands are delighted with Saráka's gentle, satisfying, natural type of bowel movement.

Q. DO "REDUCING DIETS" CAUSE CONSTIPATION?

A. If your diet fails to provide sufficient bulk to help activate intestinal muscles—you may expect trouble. For this lack of bulk is one of the main causes of constipation. In such cases, you'll find Saráka a wonderful help—for it provides the bulk, that diets so often lack, in the form of moist, lubricating, jelly-like "softage" that stimulates intestinal muscles to action.

1 No griping pains
2 No sharp seeds or scratchy particles
3 No dangerous drugs
4 Pleasant to take
5 Economical

NEAR NORTH SIDE

In summer, it's great to get away for week-ends, but when you come back on Monday it helps to know that you have a studio apartment with a porch or balcony overlooking a fountain in the court yard below, or a roof to climb up to where you can still be out in the fresh air and still be near enough to the lake to walk down for a plunge; add to this, a living room, 2 stories high or one 37 ft. long with a fireplace and dining nook or a chance to live in a little French Peasant house in an open court at the second floor level [only one left]. Add to this, that these are all down here near the Loop where there are so many interesting things which you can enjoy and still have time for a good night's sleep. And also time to walk to and from your office and you've got something, have you not? Also a special summer price on a 5 room apt. with beautiful living room and large combination bed and dressing room, and a charming little 1 room and alcove, furnished; and a marvelous studio with 2 story ceiling, also furnished.

Day by Day on the Farm by BOB BECKER

'Purple Week' on Farm.

May 25, 1940.

IT IS doubtful if there will be another week on the farm to equal the one just ended. That is, with respect to the countless number of beautiful wild flowers, the breathless beauty of wild crab trees and hawthorns in bloom, and the continuous concerts by songbirds. Some parts of the woodlots have become outdoor gardens in every sense of the word. This is especially true of the woods north of the pond where the flowering haws and the lovely wild crab trees present a picture of matchless beauty.

Because of the many flowering trees now decorated with thousands of blossoms, the wild purple phlox and violets that carpet the woods and the lilacs with their gorgeous coloring, this might be called "purple week" on the farm.

Birds Pour Out Song.

Against this impressive flower display by nature, a backdrop of color and fragrance that all of us await each season, the birds are pouring out their courting songs. Catbirds, towhees, brown thrashers, woodthrushes, field sparrows, and last, but not least, the bobolinks, are participating in a "music festival" that makes a hike thru the fields and woods an unforgettable experience.

The bobolinks are especially numerous in the open field north of the woods where the bird banding traps are located. You expect them there because these birds do not live in the woods. The bobolink is a field bird and those on the farm soon will be looking for nesting sites in heavy grass where they skilfully hide their eggs and young.

Stork Brings Goslings.

Two of the Canada geese have hatched goslings. One family is proudly exhibiting five fuzzy little youngsters and the other has three. All are on the Half Moon pond. The old birds complain loudly and bitterly if we come near them and they guard their young carefully.

The nine mallard ducklings which were hatched in the new incubator are growing up in scientific style. They are being raised in one of the new brooder houses. This house is equipped with an electrical hover unit, which provides heat for the little birds at night. During the day they can run around as they please. The ducklings are getting a ground feed mixture of wheat and oats, some ground fish and cod liver oil. When we looked at them a few days ago they were growing fast and doing well in their quarters. As soon as they are old enough to paddle around on water and find food, they will be placed on one of the ponds with the other aquatic birds.

Barn Swallows Return.

When the barn swallows left the sheep barn due to the noise and confusion resulting from the sheep shearing operations, the workers on the farm were worried about the possibility of losing the birds. The boys were afraid that the useful swallows might have left to look up another nesting site. But this week they didn't have to worry about this problem any more.

The swallows came back to their old nesting site and immediately started to build their nests. So spring on the farm may be said to be normal again. The barn swallow is one of the most helpful species of birds because it consumes such large numbers of flies and other insectivorous food.

The facts: Mr. K., young, ambitious, had only $700 and needed a full loan for a real "buy." We financed the deal with a brimful loan for 15 years and easy payments.

We grant top loans on homes up to 30 years old, 2 to 4 apartments, large apartment, store, and factory buildings. Also place FHA loans up to 90% of value. We advance funds to settle back taxes, liens, to redeem property, and to close estates.
